Dukakis Would Transfer 75 Acres

Shipbuilding May Return To GD Site

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A bill filed by Gov. Michael Dukakis could pave the way for the return of shipbuilding at the former General Dynamics shipyard.

Senator Paul Harold reports that Dukakis has filed legislation that would allow the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority to transfer 75 acres at the site to a group of former General Dynamics employees who want the land for shipbuilding purposes.

The provision, filed in the governor's supplemental budget, would allow the MWRA to transfer approximately 75 acres of its 182 acres at the former shipyard to Massachusetts Shipbuilders, Inc. If approved, it would let a transfer occur whether or not the legislature is in session, Harold said.

The legislature will not be in session after Friday, July 15. The earliest it will return is November or perhaps January, Harold said.

"Time is of the essence," Harold said. "This is a mechanism for the MWRA to take action while the state legislature is not in session."

"Losing six months could be fatal to the return of shipbuilding at Fore River. This is a vital piece of legislation," Harold said, adding "The workers have to get in there to maintain the equipment."

As a state agency, the MWRA has limited control, including the power to sell its own land. Without the provision, the authority would be required to return to the legislature to sell any of its property, Harold said.

"We're giving the power to the MWRA to sell their own land," he said.

Negotiations between the MWRA and Massachusetts

Shipbuilders Inc., have been underway for about nine months. A bid to buy or lease a section of the shipyard could come within the next few weeks, Harold said.

Revenue to fund a purchase or lease agreement with an option to buy is being funded by the Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency and State Street Bank.

Details of a possible sale or lease are uncertain at this time, said Harold, who has worked with the state and the shipbuilding group the past nine months.

The Massachusetts Shipbuilding Inc. is comprised of members of the former Local 5 Shipbuilding Union.

Harold said the legislation is expected to be approved before the end of the current session, July 15.

"I'm confident the House and Senate will approve it," he said.

McCauley Supports:

One-Hour Meters, Parking West Side Hancock St.

Mayor Francis McCauley has asked the Traffic Commission to consider one-hour parking meters and allowing parking on the westerly side of Hancock St. in the downtown area.

The recommendations were made by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association following a survey of its membership.

Under the proposals, meters would be installed on the westerly side of Hancock St. to allow legal parking there.

The meters in the downtown area would be increased from the present 30 minutes to an hour.

"This is for the benefit of the consuming public and the residents of Quincy," said Robert Colman, president of the QCBPA.

"It will take the fear out of the $5 parking ticket," Colman said.

"The half-hour meter puts a lot of pressure on the shopper," added George Riley, the association's executive director.

In a letter to Traffic Engineer David Kinnecom, McCauley wrote "These proposals have my support."

On the recommendation of the QCBPA, the mayor requested that the city's Traffic Commission review the proposals.

The recommendations were made after a questionnaire survey of QCBPA members was taken concerning the parking meters on the easterly side of Hancock St. and the parking ban on the westerly side of Hancock St.

Eighty written, signed responses were received overwhelmingly supporting an increase from 30 minutes to one hour the parking meters on Hancock St. and to change the present "No Parking" on the westerly side of Hancock St. to metered one-hour parking.

Concerning the increase in parking meters, 63 recommended to increase the time allowed to one hour; 14 said keep the meters at the existing 30 minutes, while three said remove the meters.

Regarding the parking ban on the westerly side of Hancock St., 48 recommended installing meters and allowing parking up to one hour; 21 recommended installing meters and allowing parking up to 30 minutes while 11 said keep the parking ban.

Presently, parking meters in downtown Quincy are divided into two 15 minute periods. If approved, the new meters would consist of two, 30 minute periods.

Several Blue Hills Roads Closed

Several roads will be closed at the MDC Blue Hill Reservation on weekends and during nights to ensure safety for people walking on the grounds and to cut down on vandalism beginning July 8.

The following roads will be closed Mondays through Fridays from dusk to dawn:

Wompatuck at Bunker Hill Lane, Chickatawbut Rd. at Granite St., and Chickatawbut Rd. at Rte. 28.

These closings will be in effect from July 8 until Oct. 10.

In addition, some roads will be closed year round starting July 8 in an effort to prevent vandalism.

Power Outage Affects 100 Businesses

About 100 businesses had an early lunch last Friday when maintenance work on Mayor McGrath Highway caused a brief power outage.

Buildings in the area from McGrath Highway to the Adam's Building in Quincy Sq. were without power for approximately half an hour when two conductors at the worksite accidentally made contact at 11:40 p.m., according to Mass. Electric.

No accidents from the outage were reported.

Awards Presented At Adams Shore Flag-Raising

Awards to a "Good Neighbor," Quincy's Centennial Baby, and a college student followed the Adams Shore July 4th flag-raising ceremony at John R. O'Hara Circle.

Peter Kolson, retiring president, presented a "Good Neighbor" plaque to John J. "Jack" Munn, 80-plus resident of Riverside Ave., whom, he said, had performed a "lot of good deeds for the community."

Organizer of the first Boy Scout troop, among the volunteer builders who constructed the Adams Shore Community Church in 1918, he now delivers meals-on-wheels, drives for the blind, and recently completed building a ramp for a handicapped neighbor.

A bond presented to Caitlin Marie Kelly, Quincy's "Centennial Baby," was accepted by her parents, Frank and Susan Kelly. Her Adams Shore grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bouffard of Delano Ave., were given Centennial Caps by Thomas Hurlebaus of the Quincy Centennial Committee.

Hurlebaus presented caps also to John Munn, and to Robert Carty of 25 Poplar Ave., a student at Boston College, who received a $250 scholarship presented by Kolson.

Introduced by Kolson were newly-elected 1988-89 officers of the Adams Shore Community Association: Syd Queripel, president; Donald Uvanitte, vice president; Patricia Baszkiewicz, secretary; Donald Austin, treasurer; and board members Deborah Nigro, Carrie Steven; Paul Flynn and William Austin.

Young students from the Christian Day Learning Center at Adams Shore marched in the short parade, and also sang.

Public officials who marched and spoke included Mayor Francis McCauley, State Senator Paul Harold, City Council President Patricia Toland, and Councillors Michael Cheney and Timothy Cahill.

The flag raising ceremony was performed by a color guard from Houghs Neck Legion Post led by Commander Stanley Younie.

Chamber Initiates Summer Hours

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce, 36 Miller Stile Rd., Quincy, is now open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. for the summer.

The chamber represents its 2000 business membership in legislative and community issues.

Eighty-seven years old, the chamber is the largest suburban Chamber of Commerce in the nation and refers about 50 callers per day regarding tourism, real estate inquiries and general information.

Activity-Meeting Room Planned At QHS Vo-Tech

A classroom converted into an activity-meeting place is just one of the plans of improvement of a group called Friends for a Better Quincy High School and Quincy Vocational Technical School.

By September, the classroom will be converted into a Presidents' Pride Room displaying awards, trophies, and memorabilia. The room will be used for Student Council meetings and other student parent and community meetings.

The executive committee consists of Chris Barrett, parent; Roseann Flavin, parent; Mary Lou Petrelli, teacher and parent; John Franceschini, coach; Peter Chella, teacher; and Robert Sylvia, teacher and coach.

The group, which consists of parents, faculty, students, and administration, met during the school year to support the Parent Advisory council, which discusses issues and provides a partnership with school administration and faculty.

Other plans for the school include improvement of the main lobby and new ceiling lights to be installed on the first floor corridor. Shades will also be renewed.

Door-To-Door Sewer Inspections To Start July 11 In South Quincy

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The city's sewer consulting firm will begin door-to-door inspections of homes and businesses in South Quincy and the Faxon Park area July 11 to identify possible sources of rain water inflow into Quincy's sewer system.

The extensive inspections, the first of its kind in the city's history, is part of a $224,700 study being conducted by Weston and Sampson Inc., an environmental engineering firm located in Wakefield, said David Colton, deputy commissioner of Public Works.

The inspection team, comprised of one male and one female representative from Weston and Sampson, will be entering buildings to identify and locate infiltration-inflow sources, said William Blais, an environmental engineer with the firm. Blais said he and other inspectors will be looking for sump pumps, floor drains and downspouts and where they lead.

For safety reasons, inspectors will present identification cards and a letter from Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson explaining the inspections.

About 1,300 homes will be inspected. Inspections will run approximately one month from 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Blais said.

Both Blais and Colton agreed the cooperation of residents and business owners is essential for the inspection's success.

"The cooperation of the people is the key," said Colton. "We need to know what is going on with the sewer system."

"It is important that people cooperate," Blais said. "This is for their benefit."

Colton said rain and storm water flowing into the sewer system overburdens the treatment plants, leading to overflow and pollution. He said locating and correcting drainage problems lead to lower operating costs at the plants.

"It will improve the environment since it will cut down on the amount of pollution and save the city and taxpayers money down the road," Colton said.

Blais said, "This might save the life of the treatment plant."

Colton said the city's sewer rates are presently assessed by population by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority. He said the MWRA will begin charging taxpayers by flow rates within the next five years.

The inspection is in conjunction with the Sewer System Evaluation Survey (SSES) program administered and partially funded by the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Quality Engineering.

Colton said the state is funding $202,000 of the study, while Quincy is paying $22,700.

After the inspections are completed, a report will be filed stating the problems and corrective measures that should be taken. The city will then apply for another grant to fund the work, Colton said.

Construction work could include rebuilding pipes and manholes that are found leaking in the sewer, he said.

One sewer project slated for next spring is replacing the sewer pipes leading to the Quincy Point Pumping Station, Colton said.

The deputy commissioner also said he expects similar inspections to take place throughout the city sometime during the next 10 years.

The South Quincy-Faxon Park inspection is a follow up to a questionnaire sent out by Weston and Sampson. The questionnaire was filled out and returned by 30 percent of the occupants of the 1,300 buildings in that area. It was designed to obtain data about the structures' sewer systems. Included were questions about flooding, sump pumps, floor drains and downspouts.

White House Wreath To Honor John Quincy Adams

A ceremony and wreath from the White House will commemorate President John Quincy Adams' 221st birthday anniversary Monday, July 11, at 10 a.m. at United First Parish Church, "Church of the Presidents," in Quincy Sq.

A wreath from President Reagan will be presented by Capt. Michael Holty, commanding officer, Naval Reserve Center, Quincy. A Navy Color Guard will present the colors and Capt. Holty will lead the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mayor Francis McCauley will accept the wreath on behalf of the City of Quincy. State Senator Paul Harold and Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will deliver remarks.

The wreath will then be taken to the crypt within the church and placed on the tomb of President Adams. Rev. Bennett will close with a prayer. The public is invited.

John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States, was born in Quincy (then the North precinct of Braintree) July 11, 1767. He was the oldest son of John Adams, the second President. Like his father, John Quincy Adams devoted his life to public service. He served as senator, as minister to Russia, then England, and as secretary of state under President Monroe before serving as President from 1825 to 1829.

After his term as president, he served 16 years in the House of Representatives, where he died in 1848.

His granite tomb rests in the crypt within United First Parish Church, along with that of his father John Adams, his mother Abigail, and his wife Louisa Catherine.

That Sidewalk

I'm not an M.I.T. graduate so maybe that's why that sidewalk on Chestnut St. has me baffled.

The sidewalk from near Maple St. to Foster St. is wide and long enough to land a fleet of helicopters on.

A half dozen people could easily walk it abreast with room for a skateboard to zip by. Why is it that wide?

If it were narrowed to half its width Chestnut St. could be widened and there would be plenty of room to allow parking on both sides of the street. One side for sure.

Right now anyone parking there is in a restricted place and risking a ticket and at least a $5 fine.

Seems like such a waste of space. By narrowing that section of the sidewalk, some 25 to 30 legal off-street parking spaces could be picked up.

A few years ago, the sidewalk was repaired and at that time everyone figured it was going to be narrowed.

But it was only repaired

Maybe there's some unseen or unknown reason why it can't be done. Maybe there's some kind of a civil engineering problem that only an M.I.T. graduate could understand.

But maybe it could be narrowed easily.

Twenty-five or 30 legitimate off-street parking spaces would certainly be a boost to the downtown retail district.

But if the city insists there is some good reason it can't be done then maybe some of the sidewalk could be rented or leased to a developer for "over the sidewalk rights."

Or maybe for a helicopter pad for Quincy-to-Boston commuters who are tired of the Expressway, get sick on commuter boats, or are apprehensive about crossing the Neponset River in a Red Line 1 car.

Ridiculous?

So is that sidewalk.

Petition Urges Congressional Probe Of Psychiatric Drugs

By CHRIS MAHONEY

Quincy was the first stop of a petition circulated by the Citizen's Commission on Human Rights urging congressional investigation into the increased use of the psychiatric drug Ritalin and related drugs Cylert and Dexedrine.

Seventy signatures were obtained in Quincy Center Saturday in an hour and a half from people concerned about the important side effects of the drugs which are prescribed to combat attention deficit hyperactivity disorder.

The petition, according to the Boston office of CGHR, will go to other cities and towns in Massachusetts and then be sent to Washington.

According to Peter M. Dockx of the Boston office, 70 signatures is not a small amount as it appears.

"At times," he said, "there were lines of people waiting to sign the petition."

Not many people walked by the petition, probably because of the holiday weekend.

Public interest in Ritalin grew with the publicity of the Rod Matthews murder trial. Matthews, the 15 year old youth from Canton, had been on Ritalin for five years up until he murdered Shaun Oullette with a baseball bat.

However, public interest didn't start and stop there, according to Dockx.

"It's a combination of various things," he said. "I think the Rod Matthews case pointed something out to parents. It became apparent that the use of Ritalin is not as safe as the medical community says it is."

Public concern also stemmed from the Casey Jenson case in Derry, N.H., where the board of education required Jenson be prescribed either Ritalin or Cylert in order to be admitted to the Derry public schools.

According to Maryanne

Lee of the Governor's Alliance against Drugs, the cases might have shed light on the issue, but it has also been going on for much longer.

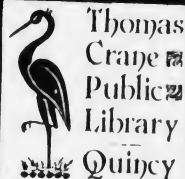

"During discussions, the subject of Ritalin has always come up," she says. "Recently it has come up more and more. Parents have begun to feel duped by blind administration of the drug to their children."

The Alliance's main concern is educating and cautioning the public about the effects of drugs through discussions between doctors and the public.

The CCHR is offering free brochures on Ritalin. For more information write the Citizens Commission on Human Rights, 89 Massachusetts Ave., Suite 213, Boston 02115.

According to a spokesperson for the Massachusetts Department of Health, there is no study going on right now on a government level regarding the use and side effects of Ritalin.

Quincy's Yesterdays

10 In Race For Wigglesworth Seat

The impending retirement of Cong. Richard Wigglesworth (R-Milton) from the 13th Congressional District drew a field of at least six Democrats and four Republicans in the race to succeed him as the deadline for filing in the primaries approached.

The Democrats included: Rep. William A. Connell Jr. of Weymouth, Richard E. McCormack of Braintree, Michael A. DeSimone of Boston and Hollis Mosher, Peter G. Fallon and James A. Burke, all of Milton.

Republicans were: Rep. William V. Jenness and Joseph B. Grossman of Quincy, former Mayor Hjalmar Peterson of Brockton, and Asst. Atty. Gen. Harold Putnam of Needham.

State Sen. Charles W. Hedges, City Councillor Thomas S. Burgin and Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa, all of Quincy, all took themselves out of the running for the Republican nomination.

'LEGALIZED LARCENY'?

The City Council appropriated $13,530 for the purchase of the McCausland property to enhance the grounds of the Adams homes following out of court settlement of an eminent domain suit.

Owners of the property originally were awarded $8,250 and their suit for more was settled out of court for $21,400 by City Solicitor Douglas A. Randall, a move that drew the ire of City Councillor Carl W. Anderson.

"I'll not be party to legalized larceny," vowed Anderson as he cast the sole dissenting vote on the appropriation.

'What If Amos Came To Quincy?' Bethany Sermon Topic

There will be one worship service Sunday at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The Rev. Joel Huntington, associate minister, will conduct the liturgy and preach the sermon. The sermon is entitled "What if Amos Came To Quincy?" The sermon and worship will focus upon the Biblical prophets and their call for justice in the world. Louise B. Forsyth will be the lay scripture reader.

Peter E. Krasinski will be at the organ console and will play two pieces by J.S. Bach for the prelude and postlude. In addition Archie Sanchez and Sylvia Byorkman—father and daughter—will join together for two duets: "Lead Me, Lord, In Thy Righteousness" by Sebastian Wesley and "Give Ear Unto Me" by Benedetto Marsello.

A fellowship hour follows the worship service.

The service is broadcast live at 10 a.m. over WJDA. A cassette tape of the worship is also available for $2 for contacting the church office at 479-7300.

For any other questions regarding Bethany's worship or work contact the church office between 8:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Louise Forsyth Named Coordinator For AACD 1989 Convention

Louise B. Forsyth of Quincy has been appointed convention coordinator of the American Association for Counseling and Development (AACD) 1989 convention in Boston, March 15-18.

Forsyth is past president of AACD as well as the American and Massachusetts School Counselor Associations.

She retired six years ago as coordinator of Testing for the Quincy Public Schools and has continued to be active in state, regional, national and Canadian counseling associations and has been an invited speaker in many states.

Locally, she is a moderator at Bethany Congregational Church in Quincy.

The theme for the 1989 AACD convention is "Transformation of the Profession: From lanterns to Lavers and Beyond." More than 8,000 of the association's 60,000 members are expected to participate.

The last time the convention was held in Boston was 25 years ago. At that time it was the 50th anniversary of the founding of the National Vocational Guidance Association by Boston's Frank Parsons.

Squantum Pastor Preaches Against Aid To Contras

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached against any further aid to the contras Sunday during a sermon that celebrated American freedom at First Church of Squantum.

Dr. Langevin said:

"Some of you wonder why I, like so many other church leaders in the mainline Protestant churches of this country, am so critical of our country's official policy of support for the contras in Nicaragua. It is because I believe that that support is causing great harm to the civilian population in Nicaragua and that we are to blame.

"In the last eight years, that little country has suffered as many casualties among its people—including men, women, and children—as our country did in the whole Viet Nam war. Furthermore, in a recent independent public opinion poll in Nicaragua conducted by Jesuits at a large university there, it was discovered that the overwhelming majority of the Nicaragua citizens believe that the casualties in war are the fault of the United States which is seeking to invade their country by means of the contras. Now if the very people whom we are supposed to be defending believe that we are the enemy, what are we fighting for?"

Dr. Langevin's comments on the contras were an aside in a sermon that was devoted to celebrating American freedoms, such as the freedom to speak out against official government policy. Dr. Langevin called the congregation to support the ideals of American democracy in every way they could.

Speaking of the American freedom to dissent, Dr. Langevin said, "...that is the glory of our system, that is the greatness of having free speech, that we can stand up and say "in this we are wrong" without having to fear official retribution."

The morning began with an Independence Day breakfast behind the church, and American flags of all sizes, with patriotic music playing. Ruth Swenson, Laurel Mayne, and Miss Barnum were in charge of the food which included a special "Fourth-of-July" egg ham and-cheese dish.

Inside, Joan and Katherine Hansen were the greeters and Steve Williams gave the altar worship. The congregation sang "Not Alone for Mighty Empire," "My Country 'Tis of Thee," and "O Beautiful Spacious Skies." Harri Holmes and Lore Wallin were the ushers. Mary Ruth Scott was the organist and Jane Williamson, the pianist.

This Sunday the worship service will begin at 9:30 a.m. Visitors are welcome.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Some people have great thoughts but dismiss them for the simple reason that the thoughts are theirs. They are ashamed because these ideas initiated in their own minds. What these people do not realize is that the genuine thoughts which their minds represent need to be uttered to the world. People need to trust themselves and their thoughts, or they may see someone else say tomorrow what they should have declared today.

Trust in and honesty with oneself is the foundation of self-reliance. The old familiar adage, "To thine own self be true" is just as true today as it was in times past... If one can be true and honest with himself, then he can better lead and direct others in the correct manner.

Of great necessity is the discovering of one's place in the world around him. Sadly, today, it seems too many people simply fall upon the wheel of chance and do not deal with their situations.

Yes, in these times of great conformity there is a need for non-conforming, self-relying people who can take the lead and guide others out of stagnant water and into the fresh water of discovery...

Director Of Library Services Appointed At QJC

The Quincy School Committee has appointed Sandra Neal to the position of director of library services at Quincy Junior College effective Aug. 15.

Neal is currently serving as the Government Documents Librarian at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. Her job entails serving as a reference librarian for United States Government publications as well as other government documents. She also works at Hofstra University in their School of Law Library. She has extensive background as a librarian and has also worked as a coordinator of Academic Skills. She has experience in teaching as well as individual counseling in addition.

Neal earned her Master of Library Science from the University of Kentucky, in Lexington, Ky. Her bachelor degree in sociology was granted from Barber-Scotia College in Concord, North Carolina.

Robert H. Downey, Jr., dean of academic affairs at Quincy Junior College said:

"We are glad to have Sandra join our team. Under her direction the library should be able to improve their services to students and offer even more help to the faculty."

Joseph P. Rowan Receives Law Degree

Joseph P. Rowan of Dorchester, district chief of staff for Congressman Brian Donnelly, was awarded a juris doctor degree during commencement exercises at Suffolk University.

Rowan received a bachelor of arts degree from Boston College in 1976. He is the son of Mary K. Rowan of Chestnut Hill and the late Boston Police Deputy Superintendent Joseph P. Rowan.

Fifty-four students recently graduated from the Quincy Junior College Practical Nursing program.

They are now eligible to take the Massachusetts Licensed Practical Nurse examination.

The graduates were greeted by Mayor Francis McCauley, Quincy School Superintendent Dr. Robert Ricci and Dr. O. Clayton Johnson, president of Quincy Junior College.

Mrs. Sheila McIntyre, R.N., B.S.N., presented the commencement address and discussed the meaning of practical nursing and how the students would fit into their profession. She particularly stressed the most important aspect of nursing was caring for others.

Mrs. McIntyre has long been a friend and supporter of Quincy Junior College and serves on the Community College Association of Quincy and the South Shore, one of Q.J.C.'s advisory boards. She was also a member of the Board of Directors of the New England Organ Bank and the second vice president of the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition.

Michael Chenette

Michael W. Chenette has graduated from the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y., with a bachelor of science degree and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army.

He is the son of Robert L. and Elizabeth A. Chenette of 29 Homer Rd., Quincy, and is a graduate of Quincy High School.

The Academy is a four-year educational institution charged with the task of training young Americans to become professional Army officers.

Lt. Chenette is scheduled to

DeBoer Tosses 3-Hitter For Morrisette

By TOM SULLIVAN

Eric DeBoer continued his outstanding pitching for the Morrisette Legion baseball team as he pitched a three-hitter in a 6-2 win over Wollaston last week, improving his record to 3-0 and the team's record to 5-0.

Morrisette will play Mass. Truck of Weymouth Sunday night at 8:15 at Adams Field, will play at Canton Monday and will play at Randolph next Wednesday at 6.

The 16-year-old DeBoer, in his first year of Legion ball, struck out seven, walked two and gave up only one earned run.

DeBoer looked as though he might get into early trouble as Billy Bellew led off Wollaston's first with a triple to right and scored on Dave Hutchings' single. After a walk to Shawn Thompson, DeBoer settled down, got an inning-ending double play and retired the next 11 batters in a row before giving up a walk to Brian Keddy. Wollaston scored its second run in the sixth on another hit by Bellew and a throwing error.

Morrisette scored an unearned run in the third when DeBoer beat out an infield hit, took second on a foul fly and scored when Eddie Flavin's ground ball was thrown away.

In the fourth Morrisette got to losing pitcher T.J. Steen as Dan Biagini singled, moved up on a wild pitch, Jeff Calvert walked, Ron Fletcher bunted the runners along. Biagini scored the go-ahead run on a wild pitch, Wayne Chambers reached on a fielder's choice, DeBoer laid down a perfect squeeze bunt that went for a hit, Mike Mullancy, who had gone 4-for-6, drove in three runs and scored four in the previous win over Holbrook, singled and Eddie Flavin singled.

Morrisette scored another run in the seventh as Rob McDonald walked, went to third on Calvert's single and scored on a wild pitch.

Fletcher had a triple and double for Morrisette.

The defensive play of the game was made by second baseman Jay Lespasio of Wollaston, who made a spectacular diving catch of Calvert's line drive.

Chris Higgins pitched three strong innings of relief for Wollaston, giving up two hits and an unearned run, while striking out four.

Boating, Sailing Registration Underway

The Quincy Recreation Department's William F. Ryan Boating and Sailing Facility is holding registration for its annual program of rowing, sailing, windsurfing and canoeing instruction at the facility adjacent to Black's Creek in Merrymount Park. Registration will continue weekdays throughout the summer.

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch said that the program is open to all Quincy residents on a fee basis. The instructional program is divided into age and skill classes from beginning to advanced levels. The program is being offered daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Youths aged 8 to 16 who have passed a qualifying swim test are offered classes in rowing, sailing, canoeing and windsurfing from beginner to advanced levels.

The program is being offered daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and interested applicants can take the swim test at any swim station or at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool.

Adults can participate in all programs daily from 4 to 8 p.m. Adult and family sailing is conducted on weekends.

Saturday hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday hours are noon to 6 p.m. On a limited basis, special adult instruction can be arranged during the day for adults who work evenings.

The entrance to the boathouse is the road adjacent to Adams Field that proceeds through Pageant Field to the boathouse parking lot.

Quincy Pulls Off Triple Play

The Quincy Legion baseball team won one and lost one last week making its record 4-4 and pulled off a rare triple play against Holbrook in a game which saw Quincy leading, 3-1, when a thunderstorm ended the game in the third inning.

The game will be played over at a later date.

In the Holbrook game with runners on first and second and no outs, Holbrook's cleanup hitter lined a shot to first baseman Sean Gately, who stepped on first to double up the runner and threw to Tim Baker at second who stepped on a second to complete the triple play.

Jim Dennis pitched one-hit ball for three innings, Quincy scored its three runs in the first on singles by Paul McLellan and Dennis, followed by a ground rule double by Nick Dragone. He scored on a wild pitch after taking third on a fielder's choice. Dennis also had another single.

Quincy defeated Randolph, 5-1, with Dennis pitching a two-hitter, striking out 14 and walking three.

Quincy scored four runs in the second on singles by Jim Kearns and Dennis, two errors and a 385-foot double by Robbie Higgins over the center fielder's head. Quincy added its other run in the fifth on two walks and an infield hit by Peter Tufts. Kearns and Dennis each had another hit and Gately also had a hit.

Quincy lost to Milton, 3-2, when a wind-blown double fell in left field in the top of the seventh inning and a triple drove the runner in with the winning run.

Higgins pitched a five-hitter, struck out 13 and didn't issue a walk. He struck out the side in the second and third innings.

Quincy had six hits, three by Bill Mulkern, a double and two singles, Dennis had two singles and Kearns a single.

Quincy scored its first run in the third on three straight singles and added a run in the sixth on an error and Mulkern's double.

"Our pitching has been outstanding but our hitting must come around if we hope to make the playoffs," said Quincy coach Dick Laracy.

"With a little hitting, we could be 6-2 instead of 4-4. Our pitchers have struck out 77 batters in eight games, but our team batting average is only about .225."

Mulkern is batting .458 and Dennis .320. The rest of the players are struggling, particularly with men on base.

Quincy played Wollaston last night (Wednesday), will play Canton in back-to-back games tonight and Friday at 8:30 at Adams Field (one is a makeup game) and will host Mass. Truck next Monday at Adams at 8:30.

--TOM SULLIVAN

Wollaston Breaks Even

The Wollaston Legion baseball team broke even in two games last week to make its record 5-5.

Wollaston will play at Braintree Monday night at 7:30 and will host Milton next Wednesday night at 8:30 at Adams Field.

Wollaston defeated Randolph, 9-5, with Jay Lespasio the winning pitcher. T.J. Steen pitched two-thirds of an inning to get the save.

Steve Kohler had a double and two RBI and Scott Logan had a double and three RBI.

Wollaston lost to Morrisette, 6-2, as it was held to three hits by 16-year-old Eric DeBoer, who is having an outstanding year for Morrisette.

Bill Bellew had two of Wollaston's hits and Dave Hutchings had the other.

HN Center Plans Trip To Red Sox Game

A July 21 bus trip to the Red Sox-Chicago game is being planned at the Houghs Neck Community Center.

The bus will leave at 5:30 p.m., returning about 11:30 p.m.

The trip is open to youngsters aged 10-16 years, and five adults. Fee for bus and game is $5.

Call Mrs. Pat Ridlen at 471-8251 to sign up. Payment for the game is due before July 20.

O'Toole Hurls No-Hitter For HN In First Start

Thirteen-year-old Matt O'Toole, making his first Babe Ruth League pitching start, pitched a five-inning no-hitter for Houghs Neck but was removed after five innings because of his age and Houghs Neck pulled out an eight-inning 3-2 victory over Morrisette Post.

Morrisette tied the game at 2-2 with a run in the seventh and Chad McMahon was the winning pitcher with three innings of one-hit relief. Matt Smith was the hard-luck loser, pitching two-hit ball.

In the eighth inning Bill Campbell walked, stole second and scored the winning run on Jeff Jones' single.

Bryan Post improved its record to 12-5 with a 5-4 win over the Police Club and a 9-6 decision over Morrisette, for its seventh and eighth straight wins.

Against the Police Bryan fell behind, 4-1, after two innings, but Pat McDonough, with the help of some outstanding work in the outfield, pitched shutout ball over the last five innings as Bryan rallied for the win.

The Police started off with three runs in the first inning on key singles by Brian Doherty (three hits) and Ralph Bevilacqua. Bryan scored once in the bottom half on Mark Kelleher's RBI single. He had three hits.

In the second singles by Doherty and Michael Geddes increased the Police lead to 4-1. Bryan avoided further damage on a fine inning-ending double play as left fielder Rob Kane made a fine catch and threw out the runner trying to score from third base, with catcher Kelleher making a nice tag.

Bryan closed the gap to 4-3 in the third on successive doubles by Kelleher with Steven Waas and Joe Marnikovic's RBI single.

In the top of the fifth Bryan center fielder Michael Malvesti made a spectacular catch on the dead run to Rob Chris Cunio of an extra base hit. Bryan tied it at 4-4 in the bottom of the fifth as Kelleher singled, stole second and third and scored on Was' sacrifice fly. Bryan scored the winning run in the sixth on hits by Malvesti and Kane.

The Police had the tying run on third in the seventh as Bevilacqua singled, was bunted to second and went to third on an infield out. Rightfielder Kevin Mullay made a nice diving catch on Bob O'Connor's line drive to end the game.

Waas and Steven Loud pitched in Bryan's win over Morrisette, while Tom Ridge and Michael Kavanagh pitched well for Morrisette.

Morrisette scored three runs in the second on hits by Sean Connelly, Ridge, Michael Burke and Cuno. Brian rallied for five runs in the bottom half by Marnikovic, Loud (three hits) and a long double by Kelleher.

Morrisette regained the lead, 6-5, in the third on hits by Stephen Keddy and John Kelly.

Bryan took an 8-6 lead with three in the fourth on hits by Loud, Malvesti, Mullay and another double by Kelleher. Fine base running by Mullay produced an insurance run in the sixth.

Loud was effective in three innings of relief and received excellent support from infielders Waas and Paul Murphy. Catcher Kelleher had another outstanding defensive game, nailing two runners trying to steal and picking another off first base. Chris Stenmon, Tom Nutley, Philip Bell, Todd Portesi and Terry Sheehan also contributed to the victories.

Seamans Finishes Gruelling 100-Mile Race

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

He did it. Quincy's Bob Seamans, 59, a veteran marathon runner, finished the grueling 100-mile Same Day Western States Endurance Run in 29 hours, 36 minutes.

"I've never been happier about anything else in my life," said an elated Seamans. "It's a real tough course. It never stops coming at you."

Sponsored by South Boston Savings Bank it was Seamans' third attempt. In 1986, he ran 56 miles and last year he went 48 miles before a blazing sun and sizzling heat forced him out.

A runner has 30 hours to complete the race. Seamans finished with a 24-minute cushion.

The race, which began in Squaw Valley, Calif and ends in Auburn, Calif., is considered the "ultimate challenge" for long distance runners. It covers treacherous terrain and spans great extremes of altitude and temperature in the Sierra Nevada Mountains. Temperatures have been recorded as low as 20 degrees and exceed 110 degrees in the shade. Much of the course is narrow and uneven as well as rutted, rocky, wet, muddy, dusty and slippery.

Many sections of the course are along the edges of very steep or vertical dropoffs, extending in some cases for hundreds of feet.

Much or even all of the first 15 to 30 miles may be run on snow in the higher elevations.

"It's a relentless trail. It beats you up," Seamans said. "Just when you think it's going to be easy, you have to run up another mountain."

"It's terrible." Besides the jagged and rocky terrain, rattlesnakes, bears and other potentially harmful wildlife have been known to startle runners, especially at night, when one third of the race is run.

"I didn't see any rattlesnakes or bears but you hear noises in the wild, especially at night," said Seamans, who ran 25 miles in eight and a half hours in the dark with only a flashlight.

"I have no idea of where I went," he added.

Seamans attributed his success, as well as the high number of runners who completed the course, to the unusually cool weather. He said the temperature ranged from the 80s during the day to between 40 and 50 at night. Last year, the mercury climbed to 114 in the day.

This year, 60 percent of the 385 runners who started out crossed the finish line compared to 40 percent (150 out of 375) in 1987.

To run the race, Seamans said you have to be mentally and physically prepared.

"You have to psych yourself up," he said, adding he doesn't think about the race being 100 miles long but rather a series of "mini-marathons."

"I'll go from check point to check point, trying to break the race down."

Physically, Seamans must run a 50-mile marathon in under 10 hours to qualify. He said he can run that distance in about seven hours.

Once a runner is qualified, his or her name is placed in a drawing which will determine the starting field for the race.

If you qualify, but you're not selected, you can't compete, said Seamans, adding he was fortunate to be selected from the approximately 900 names entered in the drawing.

For those "lucky" enough to have their name drawn, they'll surely encounter an experience they'll never forget.

"All you think about is survival. I did some praying at night. I'll tell you," Seamans admitted.

Although he caught a break with the cool weather, Seamans had some trouble with his water supply. He started out with three 20-ounce water bottles, two on his trail belt and the other in his hand. But early in the race, a strap broke on his belt forcing him to carry a bottle in each hand for 91 miles.

Furthermore, for the 25 miles at night, he had to "double up" water bottles in one hand so that he could carry a flashlight with the other.

Seamans also ran all but five of the 100 miles alone.

Seamans said a fresh supply of water is vital to run and complete the race. It is not uncommon for some runners to lose up to 50 pounds of water weight during the race, said Seamans, who lost seven pounds.

To stay refreshed and energized, Seamans refilled his water bottles and ate bananas, raisins and cookies at check-points.

He said he "felt great" for most of the race, except at the 30-mile mark.

"I took too much fluid and food and when I started out, I felt a little gassy. But after a few miles, I felt good again." He was also tempted to quit at least once.

"At the 70-mile point, I saw four or five people who had quit (the race) sleeping in cots by the side of the trail. I thought to myself, 'God wouldn't it be nice to be able to just sleep' but I took my fluid and got back to the darkness of the trail."

The fact that he completed but fell short of his goal of finishing served as an incentive this time around.

"I quit two times and both times I felt I was strong enough to finish the race. This year, I knew I might not have had another chance."

"The things that keeps you going is the thought of completing the race. To complete it is really an accomplishment," said Seamans, adding that all entrants are hailed as heroes by the spectators.

In addition, he said the feeling of crossing the finish line is indescribable. "The only way to get the feeling is to run it yourself."

By virtue of his finish, Seamans is qualified to run again next year but for now, he says he won't.

"At this point, I have no intention of running it again. But my mind might change."

His run benefitted the Sunset Point Vacation Camp, of Hull, a summer camp for needy children of all races operated by the Catholic Charitable Bureau of Boston.

People were urged to pledge money for every mile Seamans ran.

Checks should be made payable to Sunset Point Vacation Camp Run, and sent to the camp in Hull, 02045.

Youth Soccer Under 10 Team Competes In Tourney

The Quincy Youth Soccer League's boys under 10 traveling team took part in the recent Wellesley invitational tournament against teams from Mass., Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Hampshire.

Although not winning a game, the Quincy team made excellent showings in four games, tying one and losing three by one goal.

John Marinelli scored Quincy's goal in a 2-1 loss to Wellesley. Scott Starsiak had an assist and fullbacks Danny Hughes and Matt Jarnis were outstanding on defense.

Quincy tied Portsmouth, 1-1, with midfielders Chris Frier, Dan Stone, Neil Costa and Mike Doyle keeping the middle of the field clogged and getting the ball up the outside lines.

Goalie Timmy Sullivan was outstanding in a 2-1 loss to finalist Simsbury, Conn., with his leaping, diving and rolling saves. Fullbacks Jeremy Riley and Joe McCarthy provided key defensive plays. Quincy's goal came from Jeff Verlicco, who dribbled through a maze of Simsbury players for a low corner shot.

Basketball Camp, TV Workshop Set

Recreation Director Barry Welch announces that the Quincy Recreation Department is accepting registrations for its basketball camp which will be held July 11-15, and its television production workshop which will be held 12 weekdays July 12, 19, 26, Aug. 2, 9.

Registration will be taken on a first come first serve basis at the Quincy Recreation Department, 190 Southern Artery, Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. as long as openings still exist.

The basketball camp is an instructional program geared to young people with an interest in the sport. A complete series of drills will emphasize fundamentals of passing, shooting, rebounding, and individual defense as well as some team concepts such as the fast break. Scrimmage games will be conducted with instructors pointing out proper techniques.

The camp will be held at the North Quincy High School gym for 9-15 years, co-recreational, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Cost is $20.

The television production workshop is a five week program on how to produce television programming. Participants will be taught the basic techniques of portable television production. Instruction will include parts and operation of the camera, editing, and scripting. Some studio instruction will also be covered. Participants will also produce VHS programs to be cablecast over Quincy Community Television Ch. 3. Director is Nancy Santry, outreach coordinator for Quincy Community Television. The workshop will be held at Continental Cablevision, 81 School St. for boys and girls entering grades 6, 7, 8 and 9 from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon. Cost is $20.

For further information call 773-1380 ext. 204.

Cheerleader Clinic At St. Joseph's School

St. Joseph's School will host a cheerleader clinic July 14-15-16 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the school gym, 22 Pray St.

The three-day clinic will include specialized instruction by the National Cheerleaders Association of Dallas, Tex. It is open to all students, ages 7-16. All potential cheerleaders are encouraged to register.

Instruction will include cheers, chants, pom-pom dance and jumps for beginners as well as intermediate-level cheerleaders. Classes are conducted according to age skill level.

This is the first clinic of its kind in New England geared toward the younger cheerleader, focusing on fundamental skills. Safety techniques and sportsmanship.

Cost is $40 per person for 20 hours of instruction. All participants receive a certificate as well as a chance for daily prizes in individual achievement.

Registration forms are available at the St. Joseph's Church rectory, 556

Washington St., Quincy, or call Carolyn Shumker at 1-800-527-4422 days to register by phone.

Storyteller In Concert At Main Library July 12

Storyteller George Capaccio will appear in concert at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Center Tuesday, July 12, at 7 p.m.

His appearance opens a six week series of storytelling concerts funded by the Quincy Arts Council. These programs are offered to families with children age five and older.

Capaccio participated in last summer's storytelling series. His fanciful imagination and warmth immediately involved his audience and drew both children and adults into his stories. More recently Capaccio conducted a workshop on story writing and telling at North Quincy High School.

Capaccio hosts the Reading Balloon, sponsored and held at the Boston University Bookstore. It is a children's television series cablecast in Boston. In addition Capaccio has performed at fairs and festivals, at theaters, in films and commercials.

Jazz Very Much Alive And Playing In Quincy Point

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

In case you haven't heard, jazz music is alive and well and playing in Quincy Point.

The four-piece Scott Reichardt Band, a group specializing in original, distinctive jazz selections, performs regularly on Sunday nights at 8 p.m. at Pete's Grill, Washington St., Quincy Point.

The band, formed seven months ago, is comprised of Scott Reichardt, 21, of Quincy, guitar; Stephen Mattox, 22, of Brighton, keyboards; Mark Nigro, 20, of Quincy, bass; and Shawn Mullen, 21, also of Quincy, drums.

According to Reichardt, the band's spokesman, the group plays a wide range of jazz tunes, from traditional swing to heavy rock. Describing their sound as "modern electric jazz," Reichardt says, "We have a rock sound but the music we play is instrumental jazz."

The reason why the band performs jazz is simple.

"Everyone in the band likes jazz. Rock and roll is a little redundant. Jazz is a form of expression - it has more personal messages," he explains.

"Playing a cover song gives me zero satisfaction," Reichardt adds. "Being a jazz performer is like being an artist: you just want to create."

Although jazz is not as prominent as other types of music in this area, Reichardt believes this is a blessing in disguise to his budding band. "Boston is known as a rock and roll city. We're going to try to target the jazz audience around here," he points out.

He also believes more people would like jazz if only they listened to it.

"Most of the music people listen to today is not stimulating to the ear. The ear is the most underdeveloped human sense."

"We try to play music that is stimulating to listen to. I wish more people would come out and experience our type of music and be stimulated by it," Reichardt says.

In addition to playing regular engagements at Pete's Grill, the band performs Saturday nights at the Silhouette night club in Brighton and occasionally at the Berklee School of Music in Boston.

The band, which has also been featured at The Ranch House in Marshfield, will begin performing in July at the Ryles in Cambridge, one of the more renowned jazz clubs in Boston.

Each performance lasts three to four hours, covering 20 to 30 selections, Reichardt says.

Even though they have been together just seven months, the band members have decided to make a career of it.

"We're looking at this band as professionals - this is what we want to do. It'll be an uphill battle in a primarily rock and roll area but we can use that to our advantage," Reichardt explains.

"People will be looking for jazz talent."

And there's plenty of talent in this band.

Mattox has a bachelor of fine arts degree in classical piano from the University of Georgia. He is now enrolled in a graduate program at Berklee.

Mullen is presently studying with Dick D'Onofrio at his well-known drum shop in Quincy Center while Nigro is a self-taught bass player with a lot of years of experience.

Furthermore, Reichardt graduated this spring from Berklee with a bachelor of arts degree in progressive music. Remarkably, he completed the four-year program in two years. He has also studied with Mike Metheny, a professional trumpet player.

"You tend to raise your standards when you're playing with a great musician. We're constantly trying to raise our standards and the goals of the band," Reichardt says.

One of those goals is releasing a record, due out later this summer or early fall.

"We plan to record and sell it ourselves. We're trying to work out a distribution deal which will allow us to license the record ourselves," he says.

"Financially and artistically, we'll be better off."

And what has been the response to the band's performances?

"Everyone seems to like our music a lot. The hardest part," Reichardt says, "is getting the people to come out and listen to us."

Elks Treat Hospital Veterans To Boat Trip

A 25-year old tradition was carried out recently when the veterans committee of the Quincy Lodge of Elks treated 25 hospitalized veterans from the Veterans' Administration Hospital in Jamaica Plain to a boat trip and cookout on George's Island.
Capt. Dick Sutherland Jr. of the Ship "Irene" took the group out. His father, Dick Sutherland Sr., took the first group out on an excursion in 1963.

Capt. Sutherland was assisted by First Mate Harry Coolen.
Arrangements were made by Tom Garrity, state chairman of the Veterans' Service Commission. He was assisted by Elk brothers Bill Dugan, Ed McLaughlin, Pat Gibbons, Bruce Wheeler, and Quincy VA Chairman Tom Shepherd.
Leo Nunnari, Elks exalted ruler, provided the refreshments.

WEEK OF: July 7

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're conservative and sentimental, and have an instinctive urge to protect others. You enjoy change, often for its own sake. You're a born collector, and the year ahead accents not only hobbies, but significant artistic accomplishments.

AQUARIUS — January 21 - February 19

Remembering advice you've been giving others can be the best remedy for a current dilemma. Cooperative endeavors bring outstanding results at the workplace, you may earn high praise.

PISCES — February 20 - March 20

Your own standards, already high, exceed themselves and lead to a significant community-related accomplishment. Be careful of tempting offers that look too easy to be true.

ARIES — March 21 - April 20

Modest windfall may arrive before the weekend. Shopping and educational travel are highlights from Saturday on. This is a splendid week for tracking your roots and designing a family tree.

TAURUS — April 21 - May 22

Generally good week for entering into joint ventures... but be sure to iron out even the slightest of details. Recreation is highlighted. You may be returning to a once-favored sport.

GEMINI — May 23 - June 21

A week that finds neighbors becoming more congenial and relatives more eager to help you fight for a cause. Appreciation from a supervisor comes in an unconventional, but genuine, way.

CANCER — June 22 - July 22

Good week for reviewing finances and planning budgets. New interests capture your imagination and may lead to an unexpected friendship. Family member responds positively to your guidance.

LEO — July 23 - August 22

Positive friendship news may arrive this week. Some surprise expenses may greet you on the weekend. You make major strides with a pet project, but don't rush it to completion.

VIRGO — August 23 - September 22

This period finds you lending a sympathetic ear... again and again. Romance is on the upswing, but a combination of good humor and common sense are crucial. Travel idea requires refinement.

LIBRA — September 23 - October 22

Plan a positive strategy if friction persists in career setting. Week has an international flavor as you meet individuals of diverse backgrounds. Salesmanship skills shine.

SCORPIO — October 23 - November 21

Delays may be inevitable through the weekend, but you may enjoy an adventure along the way. You are uncommonly perceptive through this period, able to read the minds of those you love.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22 - December 22

Insurance and other such matters require careful attention through this period. A recent romantic setback may be happily reversed. Travel companion is more energetic than you realized.

CAPRICORN — December 23 - January 20

New fields of interest appeal to you, you may be learning about modern art, mechanics, or medieval history. Be careful if planning surprises. Relationship becomes more harmonious.

Toland Endorsed By Three Labor Organizations

Councillor Patricia Toland, a candidate for the Second Norfolk state representative seat, recently met with three labor leaders who endorsed her candidacy. Arthur Osborn, president of the Massachusetts AFL-CIO, said his organization is endorsing Toland because of her efforts on behalf of the shipyard workers at General Dynamics.

"Organized labor looks forward to campaigning and winning with Pat Toland," Osborn said.

"She has been targeted as a special friend of labor," said Jerry Cardinal, president of the Norfolk County Labor Council.

Caroline D'Olympio, president of the Quincy Building and Construction Trades Council AFL-CIO, said Toland has always been a friend to working men and women in Quincy.

"She has worked hard to support us and has helped with our problems," he said.

"The Massachusetts Prevailing Wage Law deserves to be preserved and strengthened," Toland said. "It is a quality of life issue."

"Why is this law important? Because this law provides crucial benefits to many constituencies--our communities, workers, taxpayers and contractors," she said.

"Well trained experienced workers producing high-quality workmanship deserve a reasonable wage as guaranteed by this law," Toland said.

"The quality of life in every community throughout the Commonwealth is enhanced by the presence of these workers and their families living, working, spending and contributing to their local economy," she said.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS THE TRIAL COURT THE PROBATE AND FAMILY COURT

Norfolk Division
Docket No. 88P1980C1
NOTICE OF FIDUCIARYS ACCOUNT

To the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health and to all persons interested in the estate of ROSE HULIN late of QUINCY in said County, a person under conservatorship her heirs apparent and presumptive.

You are hereby notified pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 72 that the 4th through 7th and final accounts of Robert I. Johnson as Conservator (the fiduciary) of the property of said Rose Hulin have been presented to said Court for allowance.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said accounts, you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before the third day of August, 1988, the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney for the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said accounts. If you desire to object to any item of said accounts, you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each such item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 5.

Witness, Robert M. Ford, Esquire, First Justice of said Court at Dedham, the twenty-eighth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and eighty eight.

Committee Commended For Assistance In Quincy Bay Study

The Quincy Bay Study Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC) was recently commended and recognized by the Quincy City Council for their enthusiasm, support and assistance with all aspects of the federal government's recently published report on marine life in Quincy Bay.

The commendations were presented to the eight-member committee by Councilor Stephen McGrath. The eight members, appointed by Mayor Francis McCauley, are: Leo Kelly, chairman, Rosemary Colley, a representative of Congressman Brian Donnelly's office, Walter Hurley, Maureen Mazzmas, Raymond Connelly, Paul Donnelly, Donald Ruley and Jane Gallahue, the Quincy Public Health Commissioner.

The committee assisted in the design of the study, selection of sampling sites, review of reports, and by providing valuable local insight and knowledge.

McGrath said Kelly was "very instrumental" along with Mayor McCauley, in initiating the study. McGrath called Kelly an "outstanding champion of a clean bay." Kelly was commended for "his foresight and concern in initiating the Quincy Bay Study and chairing the advisory committee, giving willingly of his time and energy, showing concern for the well-being of this generation and working diligently toward the reality of preserving this vital natural resource for future generations."

The seven other members were recognized for their outstanding service and concern.

Kelly, who filed legislation through Congressman Brian Donnelly's office to start the study, summarized the report.

"Not only is the marine life polluted and dying, but in the case of the clam, it is not reproducing anymore. In a very short few years, there'll be no clams in the bay because it won't be able to reproduce."

"That's what this study is telling us," Kelly said.

He also called attention to diseased lobsters found in Quincy Bay. "That liver is so loaded with PCBs and so damaged that lobsters, if not studied and examined, may go the way of the clam."

"That's a warning that it's not true, it should be studied to find if it's not true. But if it is damaged," Kelly warned, "let's get going with the study and find out what's happening to that animal."

Kelly continued, "If the marine life goes, we're not too far behind. That may sound a little corny to some people, but it's the dead honest truth. If that's gone, we are too," he said.

Kelly also said the report is not a consumer study.

"This is the forerunner for all studies to be done from Cape Cod to Boston."

"Thank God the studies are starting," he said.

Historic Quincy

A Tourist Guide

City of Quincy, Massachusetts

Office of the Mayor

Welcome to Historic Quincy

As the Mayor of the City of Quincy, it is with great pride and pleasure that I welcome you to the City of Presidents.

Quincy's Historic Trail is not a road by which one follows history, but rather a way by which one may experience contact with a rich and diverse history.

Quincy, Massachusetts conjures up a wealth of images in many people. The rich history, the abundance of important historical sites, the source of granite for famous structures, the building place of many ships, the home town of famous people; all of these are distinctions that belong to Quincy alone.

We continue to acknowledge our history and our heritage. Quincy recently celebrated the 250th anniversary of President John Adams' birth. In the words of President Adams, "I made a Constitution for Massachusetts which finally made the Constitution of the United States." Thus, as the nation approaches the 200th anniversary of the United States Constitution, it will be with special pride that Quincy will watch the celebration of the Constitution, whose origins are traced to Adams' law office right here in Quincy.

It has been over 350 years since the first Europeans settled in what is now Quincy and we have been a city for 100 of those years. From being a small trading post to a city of over 88,000, Quincy has kept pace with the changing world around it, but has retained a distinctive identity that is based in its proud past.

In the pages ahead, you will read about places and men and women that have played significant roles in the history of our city and our nation. I think you will agree with me that Quincy is indeed rich in historic heritage. I urge you to visit the "Church of the Presidents" (First Parish Church) and our City Hall, and while you are in Quincy Center, take time to visit the Adams Academy (site of the birthplace of John Hancock) and a U.S. Landmark, the Hancock Cemetery. All of these historic sites are within a short walking distance of one another and are excellent examples of Quincy's heritage preserved for her visitors and citizens of today.

I hope your visit to Quincy will be a rewarding and memorable learning experience and that you will return again.

Sincerely yours,

Francis X. McCauley

After Six-Year Renewal Project

John Adams Birthplace Now Like It Was

The birthplace of John Adams, second president of the United States, now looks like it did when he and his parents, Deacon John and Susanna lived there.

It took on that "as it was" look after a painstaking six-year reconstruction project.

Visitors to the John Adams Birthplace, which peers over the shoulder of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace on Franklin St., South Quincy, can now see more completely how the house looked.

It is open to the public this year for the third time since restoration began.

The only furnishings in the house when it opened to the public two years ago were a table, bench and two chairs in the kitchen and a chest of drawers on another room.

"The house is nicely furnished now and looks like it did when they lived in it. We have had made every piece of furniture that was in the house. It was a giant task," said Wilhelmina Harris, retired superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site.

The final renovation touches were to the room where Deacon John Adams made shoes.

The rooms are furnished from the period of Deacon John and his wife and probably reflect her taste, said Mrs. Harris. "They are furnished not elaborately, but sufficiently to have a lived-in look," she said.

The birthplace was probably built in the late 17th or early 18th Century for less than $1,000 in the pounds of the day and the clapboards were hand-hewn from trees that grew in its fields.

The pine clapboards of the John Adams Birthplace are unpainted and the U.S. National Park Service, which restored the house, insists that based on research the house will remain that way, despite the fact that John Adams was known to have preferred it white.

For more than 80 years they were the little red farmhouses at the foot of Penn's Hill. But research turned up the fact that Abigail Adams, the wife of the second president, wanted them "stone" and white in color.

Since what Abigail wanted, Abigail usually got, in the summer of 1880, the John Quincy Adams Birthplace was repainted to Abigail's taste, the "stone" color determined to be a sort of off-white mixed especially for the occasion from a late 18th Century formula.

The John Adams Birthplace was painted white so that both houses would look as they did in 1807, the year the last Adams lived in them, but later research indicated it was unpainted. Mrs. Harris, an authority on the Adams family, hopes the USNPS will change its mind again.

The birthplaces, parts of which date back to the 17th Century, were taken over by the National Park Service on May 1, 1979, after years of semi-neglect due to lack of restoration and maintenance funds.

The John Quincy Adams

JOHN ADAMS BIRTHPLACE

Birthplace re-opened in 1982 for the first time in three years after undergoing a $175,000 rehabilitation faithful to the lives of the prominent family that lived there.

If you close your eyes and give your imagination full rein you can see them now as they were more than 200 years ago.

There is Abigail Adams in the new pink gingham dress. There is the curly-haired infant, Thomas Boylston Adams, bouncing on his father's knee. And there is John Adams, home from the Continental Congress in Philadelphia for the first time in a year, sitting at the table drinking a cup of tea.

The setting, right down to the pewter plates and candlesticks, is reproduced faithfully in the corner room of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace.

The furnishings of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace are precise reproductions of those that were in the house when the second president lived there. The originals are at the Old House, the Adams National Historic Site, from which they cannot be removed under the ownership agreement with the Adams family.

The most interesting room in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace is John Adams' old law office, in which the elder Adams, James Bowdoin and Samuel Adams drafted the Massachusetts State Constitution, the model on which the U.S. Constitution was based.

"The law office is furnished pretty much as John Adams had it," says Mrs. Harris, once secretary to Brooks Adams, the last member of the family to live in the Old House. Adams, the last member of the family to live in the Old House.

There is the hutch table on which he wrote the State Constitution; the bookcase filled with books that probably were there in John Adams' day, judging by an inventory of his law library; his old writing desk and two chairs that were copies from those in his second law office in Boston.

Pastels of Abigail and John, originally done in Salem, were photographically reproduced by photographer George Dow and now hang in Abigail's sitting room. The originals are in the possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

Abigail's old kitchen cabinet was discovered serving as a bookcase in the Old House.

"Brooks Adams always thought that books could go anywhere," explains Mrs. Harris.

The cabinet was reproduced and installed in the kitchen of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace along with copies of the blue china that John purchased when he was emissary to Holland.

Our Only Father - Son Presidents Born Here

It was the North Precinct of Braintree then, a sprawling tract of woods and farmlands on the gently rolling hills some 10 miles south of the Boston Stone along the winding Coast Road to Plymouth.

Something less than 1,500 people lived in the North, Middle and South Precincts of Braintree in the year 1735 and two of them were Deacon John Adams, 44, farmer and cordwainer, and his wife, Susanna, 26.

Their home was a weathered gray farmhouse with a high peaked roof and attached lean-to kitchen set on seven acres of farmland at roughly Milepost 11 of the Coast Road, just where it turned up the wooded slopes of Penn's Hill toward the Monaquot River ford.

He was a pillar of his rural community. Mr. Adams was, a deacon in the First Parish Church, a lieutenant in the Braintree militia and a town constable with a forceful personality and tact that enabled him to collect taxes from his neighbors.

He was a hard-working farmer whose cider was acknowledged best in town, he worked in leather during the winter months, and he had an eye on an adjoining piece of farmland, 9½ acres owned by the Billings brothers, complete with a farmhouse similar to his own.

Susanna Adams was a Boylston of

Brookline, socially a cut above her husband, and perhaps there were moments in the simple house at the foot of Penn's Hill when she thought of the home of her uncle, the noted Dr. Zabdiel Boylston of Brookline, whose furniture came all the way from London.

Their first child, a son who was named John for his father, was born in the southeast bedroom of the farmhouse on Oct. 19, 1735 (Old Style). He would become the second president of the United States.

Deacon John purchased the house next door for 500 pounds in 1744 and it was ready 20 years later when young John moved in with his brand new bride, the former Abigail Smith, the preacher's sparkling daughter from the next town of Weymouth.

Their second child, a son who was named John Quincy Adams after his great grandfather, Col. John Quincy, was born there on July 11, 1767. He would become the sixth president of the United States.

The junction of Franklin St., Independence Ave., and President Ave. in South Quincy is the only place in the country where the birthplaces of two presidents who are father and son stand side by side in the same city.

The precise age of the two cottages at the foot of Penn's Hill is not known.

When the John Adams Birthplace was retored by the Daughters of Revolution in 1897, a brick bearing the date 1681 was discovered under the southeast corner, and the house was known to have been occupied by one Joseph Penniman in that year.

And a man named Samuel Belcher was living in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace as early as 1663, when it was little more than a one-room shack with fireplace. It was built to its present size in 1716, as evidenced by a date brick found in the new fireplace.

According to Henry Adams, a grandson of President John Quincy Adams, no member of the family lived in the cottages after 1818, although ownership remained in the Adams family until 1940.

Both houses were restored by the Adams Realty Trust, the John Quincy Adams Birthplace in 1896 at a cost of $1,650 and the John Adams Birthplace a year later at an expense of $515.49.

They were presented to the city of Quincy in 1940 and supervised by the Quincy Historical Society until they were turned over to the U.S. National Park Service in 1979.

The Adams Birthplaces are at 133 and 141 Franklin St. They are open daily, including Sundays and holidays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. from April 19 through Nov. 10, with guided tours. Admission is $2 for adults and children over age 16, which also includes admission to the Adams Mansion within seven days.

The Quincy Presidential Trail

The Adams Birthplaces are an important stop on the newly designated Quincy Presidential Trail, a 10.5 mile route that takes the visitor through the 17th and 18th Century locales associated with the lives of the Adams family.

Historic sites along the trail include the Adams Mansion, Dorothy Quincy Homestead, Adams Academy, First Parish Church, Adams Crypt, City Hall, Hancock Cemetery, the Birthplaces, Abigail Adams Cairn, First Commercial Railroad, First Ironworks, Col. Josiah Quincy House and Moswetuset Hummock, most of which are described in this magazine.

The Quincy Presidential Trail is a National Recreation Trail, the seventh in the state of Massachusetts and the 625th in the nation.

ADAMS MANSION NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE

The Adams Mansion

Summer White House And Home Of 2 Presidents

Josiah Quincy, the one who built railroads around New England and founded the cooperative bank movement in Massachusetts, was in his boyhood a frequent visitor to the mansion where John Adams, the second president of the United States, lived in retirement.

Later, he wrote with wry amusement about Sunday dinner with the aging patriarch of the Adams clan and his wife, Abigail, a dinner that inevitably began with a thick pudding made from boiled corn meal.

"...it being thought desirable to take the edge off one's hunger before reaching the joint," wrote Quincy.

"Indeed, it was considered wise to stimulate the young to fill themselves with pudding, by the assurance that the boy who managed to eat the most of it should be helped most abundantly to the meat, which was to follow.

"It need not be said that neither the winner nor his competitors found much room for meat at the close of their contest; and so the domestic economy of the arrangement was very apparent."

Quincy, as a young Harvard law student, stopped by several times a week in summer to talk and read to the former President. He found the visits delightful. Indeed, the Adams of the cold and austere public mien was never more relaxed and warm than he was at his country home in Quincy.

The original house, a small part of the present building, was built probably in 1731 by Major Leonard Vassall, a wealthy West Indian sugar planter who lived in Cambridge and apparently used it for a summer place.

His daughter, Mrs. Anna Borland, who was a Loyalist during the Revolution, abandoned the house to leave with the British forces when they evacuated Boston in 1776. For a while it was used as a haven for rebel refugees fleeing the war zones.

Mrs. Borland returned to reclaim the house after the Revolution and John Adams, then in Europe as the first American ambassador to London, purchased it for 600 pounds through the good offices of the Cotton Tufts of Weymouth, his wife Abigail's cousin.

The Adamses were about to return to the United States after seven years abroad and Abigail was concerned that John's books and papers and the furnishings they had acquired in Europe would not fit into their old farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill where they lived before.

The deal was closed on Sept. 26, 1787, and the deed is still on file in the Suffolk County Registry of Deeds in which the Adams purchase is specified as a house, barn and other buildings on seven acres of land with some 76 acres more scattered around the North Precinct of Braintree.

There are indications that Abigail was at first disappointed with her purchase. It was a lot smaller than she remembered it.

"In height and breadth it feels like a wren's house," she wrote to her daughter, Abigail, the wife of Col. William S. Smith, "Let Col. Smith come without heels to his shoes or he will not be able to walk upright."

Abigail and John Adams moved into the house, which they named "Peacefield" after his retirement from the presidency in 1801 and lived there until they died.

It was from the "Old House," as the family called it, that John Adams carried on his long and increasingly warm correspondence with his old rival, Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, who had succeeded him in the presidency. In retirement, they became firm friends as they outlasted their contemporaries.

"Thomas Jefferson lives," whispered John Adams as he lay dying in the Old House. He was wrong. Jefferson, in far away Monticello, Va., had preceded him in death by a few hours on the same day.

It was July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

The Old House which served as summer White House for two presidents, was home to four generations of the Adams family, the last, Brooks Adams, dying in February, 1927. It was taken over by the U.S. National Park Service in 1946 to become the Adams Mansion National Historic Site.

The site at 135 Adams St. is open to the public from April 19 to Nov. 10 daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults and children over 16, and includes admission to the Adams Birthplaces within seven days.

The Adams Family

HENRY ADAMS (1583-1646) emigrated from England in 1638 and was granted 40 acres in Mount Wollaston (later Quincy).

2. JOSEPH ADAMS (1626-1694), son of Henry, farmer and maltster of Old Braintree.

3. JOSEPH ADAMS (1654-1737), son of Joseph, who married Hannah Bass, a granddaughter of John Alden and Priscilla Mullins.

4. JOHN ADAMS (1691-1761), son of Joseph, farmer and selectman of Old Braintree, known as Deacon John.

5. JOHN ADAMS (1735-1826), son of Deacon John and second President of the United States.

5a. SAMUEL ADAMS (1722-1803), revolutionary firebrand, great, great grandson of Henry and cousin of President John.

6. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS (1767-1848), son of John, sixth President of the United States.

7. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS (1807-1886), son of John Quincy, minister to Great Britain during the Civil War.

8. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS II (1833-1894), son of Charles Francis, state legislator and thrice candidate for governor of Massachusetts.

8a. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS II (1835-1915), son of Charles Francis, historian and founder of the Quincy school system.

8b. HENRY ADAMS (1838-1918), son of Charles Francis, author of "The Education of Henry Adams."

8c. BROOKS ADAMS (1848-1927), son of Charles Francis, the last Adams to live in the Old House in Quincy.

9. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS III (1866-1954), son of John Quincy II, mayor of Quincy and Secretary of the Navy under President Hoover.

10. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS IV (1910-), chairman of the board of Raytheon Co.

John Adams 'Father'

U.S., State Constitution Both Born Here

Last year, 1987, was the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution and while many people think the convention in Philadelphia 201 years ago, the fact is the precious document was born in Quincy. At least the seed was planted here.

The U.S. Constitution was modeled after the Massachusetts Constitution which was written by John Adams, Samuel Adams and James Bowdoin in the law office of the John Quincy Adams birthplace in Quincy.

There is every reason to believe that John Adams did not want to go to the Massachusetts Constitution Convention in Cambridge in 1779.

He had arrived home only seven days before on the French frigate La Sensible after nearly 18 months in Paris helping to negotiate a commercial and military alliance with France. He was in such a rush to get home that he apparently landed the day before La Sensible reached Boston by rowing ashore from Nantasket Roads.

He missed his wife, Abigail, terribly, and she him.

"One was angry, another was full of Greif, and the third with Melancholy, so that I burnt them all," he wrote to her from Passy on Dec. 18, 1778, listing his complaints with her most recent letters "If you write me in this style I shall leave of writing intirely, it kills me.

"Am I not wretched Enough, in this Banishment, without this? What Course shall I take to convince you that my Heart is warm? I beg you would never more write to me in such a strain for it really makes me unhappy."

"How lonely are my days?" she wrote on a Sunday evening, Dec. 27, "How solitary are my Nights? How insupportable the Idea that 3000 leagues, and the vast ocean now divide us -- but divide only our persons for the Heart of my Friend is in the Bosom of his partner."

Somewhere on the vast ocean the two letters passed each other.

Paris and the dissolute court of Louis XVI held small appeal to the Puritan in John Adams, even when his closest everyday companions were Dr. Benjamin Franklin, still with an eye for the ladies at age 73, and the swashbuckling Capt. John Paul Jones, half patriot, half pirate, who had just taken command of the leaky old East Indiaman he had renamed Bon Homme Richard.

The American colonies, newly reborn as the United States of America, were going through the most dismal period of the War for Independence. Inflation was rampant; butcher's meat, a dollar to eight shillings a pound, flour, fifty dollars a hundredweight. The news from the fighting front was of defeat, privation and horror.

Like many Braintree wives whose husbands were away at war, Abigail Adams was forced into the unaccustomed role of head of the household, a function she filled with determination.

"I cannot avoid sometimes repining that the gifts of fortune were not bestowed upon us, that I might have enjoyed the happiness of spending my days with my partner," she wrote, "but as it is, I think it my duty to attend with frugality and economy to our own private affairs; and if I cannot add to our little substance, yet see to it that it is not diminished."

She abstained from drinking black market tea, allowing herself one tiny complaint: "I should like a little green (tea), but they say there is none to be had here. I only wish it for a medicine, as a relief to a nervous pain in my head to which I am sometimes subject."

John Adams attended the opening session of the Constitutional Convention in Cambridge on Wednesday, Sept. 1, 1779. On Saturday, he was named to a committee of 30 to prepare the declaration of rights and the constitution. On Monday, the committee delegated the task to a subcommittee of three, John and Samuel Adams; and James Bowdoin.

Thus it was that John Adams wound up in the law office of his home at the foot of Penn's Hill, paired with his firebrand cousin, Sam, and his ailing friend, James Bowdoin, to write a Constitution for the state of Massachusetts, which in turn became the model for the Constitution of the United States.

The patient, hard working John Adams, of course, did most of the work.

"I was by the Convention put upon the Committee -- by the Committee upon the subcommittee -- and by the subcommittee appointed a sub subcommittee -- so that I had the honor to be principal Engineer," he wrote to his friend, Edmund Jennings. Payroll records indicate that he was paid 90 pounds for his work.

The so-called "Adams draft" of the Massachusetts Constitution was accepted by the Convention with a few alterations but by that time John Adams was long gone back to Europe, this time to help negotiate a treaty of peace with Britain and serve as America's first minister to London. He did not see the farm at the foot of Penn's Hill again for another eight years.

But he was immensely heartened by these words from the pen of his ever-loving Abigail, written on Oct. 15, 1780:

"Our Massachusetts Constitution is read with admiration in New York and pronounced by the Royal Governor as the best republican form he ever saw."

Dorothy Quincy Homestead

John Hancock's Declaration Of Love

An aura of romance surrounds the stately old house that is set back in the trees from the corner of Hancock St. and Butler Rd., on the banks of Furnace Brook.

There is the wallpaper with its blue cupids and pink flowers that was imported from France for the wedding of Dorothy Quincy, the vivacious daughter of the house, to Quincy-born John Hancock, a patriot on the run with a price on his head.

There are the words "You I Love and You alone," addressed by Hancock to his beloved Dorothy and scratched on a window pane with his diamond ring just before he fled to Lexington on the eve of the Revolution.

And there are the secret chambers and passageways, used, it was said, to hide fugitive patriots during the Revolution and, at an earlier date, even certain Englishmen fleeing a charge of regicide in the death of King Charles I.

Parts of the house were built in 1685 by Col. Edmund Quincy, the second of the name, on land that was granted to an earlier Edmund in 1638. The major part was built in 1706 by Edmund the third. (There were six Edmunds in all, four in a direct line; two nephews.)

The house was the social center of old Braintree during the regime of the fourth Edmund, largely because he sired five beautiful daughters around whom swirled a whole future generation of judges, generals and merchant kings.

The undisputed belle of the household was Dorothy, the coquettish youngest of the eight Quincy children, whose troth was soon plighted to John Hancock, the wealthy young businessman from Boston who was already becoming known as a leader of the rebels.

Tradition has it that they were to have been married in the north parlor of the Quincy homestead with its French cupid wallpaper when Revolution intervened and John had to flee with the British on his heels.

Eventually, they were wed Aug. 28, 1775, at the home of Thaddeus Burr, uncle of Aaron Burr (later vice president of the United States) in Fairfield, Conn.

After the Revolution and the death of Edmund the fourth in 1788 the old house passed from the Quincy family. The Hancocks wanted nothing to do with it. Their only son, John George Washington Hancock, was killed in a skating accident at age 9 while on a visit in 1787.

The house was acquired in 1904 by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames, who restored it with vintage furniture, utensils and clothing, and gave it to the state with the proviso that the Dames continue to run it.

The Dorothy Quincy Homestead is open to the public May through October, Wednesday through Sunday, from noon to 5 p.m. (last tour at 4 p.m.). It is also open by appointment only Wednesday through Sunday from 10 a.m. to noon for groups. There is a $1.50 admission charge for adults and 50 cents charge for children age 12 and under.

THE FIRST PARISH CHURCH

First Parish Church

Where 2 Presidents, Their Wives Are Entombed

In 1949, when the present First Parish Church building, the Old Stone Temple, was 121 years old, it was ruled officially that the church is older than the city itself and the town before it.

It was then that the late historian William Churchill Edwards was called upon to resolve a minor dispute that involved the rounding of the corners of the church lot in downtown Quincy.

"Almost the first subject to which the minds of the early settlers of our country were turned after they landed here was the formation of a church," said Edwards.

The first church in these parts was established as a branch of the Church of Boston in 1636. It became a church in its own right in 1639. The Mount Wollaston section of Boston was incorporated as the town of Braintree on May 23, 1640. Ergo, the church came first!

Quincy's first house of worship, the branch of the Church of Boston, was called the "Chappel of Ease," and if it was neglected by early historians it was because its first pastor, the Rev. John Wheelwright, his sister-in-law, Anne Hutchinson, and others were banished from the Massachusetts Bay Colony for heresy.

The new church, the one that lasted, was gathered by covenant on Sept. 26, 1639, and it was holding services in its third meeting house in 1732 when its pastor was the Rev. John Hancock, father of the bold first signer of the Declaration of Independence. Son John also was a member.

The affairs of the church and the town of Quincy were one and the same until 1824 when church and state were separated in Massachusetts and the Congregational Society was established to handle parochial matters.

The old Hancock meeting house was still standing, although a little run down, on the south lawn of the present church lot in 1822 when former President John Adams deeded the interest from certain of his lands and granite from his pastures to build a stone temple.

It was completed in Greek revival style at a cost of $30,488.56 which was some $3,000 less than architect Alexander Parrish's estimate and dedicated Nov. 12, 1828, with John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States holding Pew No. 1.

Even before the church was dedicated, the mortal remains of its benefactors, John and Abigail Adams, were transferred to tombs in the crypt of the church and, in 1852, the bodies of John Quincy Adams and his wife, Louisa, joined them.

It is the only church in the United States in which two Presidents are buried. The only other church in which a President is buried is the Episcopal Cathedral in Washington D.C., where President Woodrow Wilson is entombed.

Still an active Unitarian church, it is open to the public for tours from May 15 through Labor Day, Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Donations are accepted. There is a charge of 50 cents per adult for organized tour groups, which should make an appointment at least one week in advance. Tours of the church at other times during the year, including Saturdays, may also be made by appointment.

Why We Pronounce It 'Quin-zee'

Why do we pronounce Quincy "Quin-zee" when just about everyone else in the country refers to it as "Quin-see?"

There are 19 other Quincys in the U.S., but they pronounce it "Quin-see."

Can they be right and we be wrong?

Not according to Quincy's late city historian, William C. Edwards who never budged an inch whenever the argument ever came up. And it still comes up.

The reason we pronounce it "Quin-zee" is very simple.

"That's the way the Quincy family pronounced it," he used to explain.

"The original Quincy family which settled here at Mount Wollaston pronounced it 'Quin-zee,' including Col. John Quincy after whom Quincy, Mass., the first Quincy—was named in 1792."

Colonel Quincy was the great grandfather of sixth president John Quincy Adams.

Apparently all 19 other Quincys in the U.S. were named after John Quincy Adams.

And, apparently the early settlers of those communities thought John Quincy pronounced it John "Quin-see."

Anyway, that is how Edwards explained it. Seems like a sound argument.

Abigail Adams Cairn

The Smoke Could Be Seen Over Bunker Hill

Abigail Adams was awakened at dawn in the farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill by the sound of far off guns. All through the sweltering morning of June 17, 1775, as she hustled about with the chores, the dull boom of cannon intruded on her consciousness.

Riders on the Coast Road to Plymouth, stopping at the farmhouse for a drink of water, told her of a great battle underway on Breed's Hill in Charlestown.

One of them brought word that Dr. Joseph Warren had been killed in the fighting and little Abby, age 10, burst into tears, and John Quincy, nearly 8, felt bewildered and sad, for Dr. Warren was the Adams family doctor in Boston.

In the afternoon, Abigail could stand it no longer. Taking Abby and John Quincy by the hand, she walked up the Coast Road to the top of Penn's Hill and climbed up on the rocks for a better view.

The panorama of the Bay, a shimmering blue in the sunshine, spread out before them, the tiny houses on the three hills of Boston and, beyond, the black smoke rising in billows.

"Good God," exclaimed Abigail, "they are burning Charlestown!"

The scene etched itself forever in John Quincy's memory.

The early days of the Revolution were times of turmoil in Old Braintree and its North Precinct, which was later called Quincy.

Abigail's husband, John, was away most of the time at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, leaving 31-year old Abigail to manage the farm and look to the needs of four small children, Abigail, John Quincy, Charles, 5, and Thomas Boylston, 3.

There were days of alarm as the British, penned up in Boston by the brand new Continental Army, foraged up and down the coast for supplies. Refugees from occupied Boston and the inner towns of Dorchester and Roxbury sometimes slept in the kitchen and in the fields.

As the wife of a member of Congress, Abigail was a center of attention. The house on the Coast Road was a favorite stopping place for travelers to Plymouth. Politicians up from Philadelphia made it a point to stop by for a visit with John Adams' wife.

Abigail was invited to visit Gen. George Washington's headquarters at Winter Hill. The aristocratic Washington was suspect among New Englanders. He was a Virginian; he was an Anglican; and, it was said, he held slaves. But John Adams liked him and Abigail was soon charmed.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN

One day, young John Quincy came home to find his Uncle Elihu melting down Abigail's pewter spoons in the kitchen to make bullet molds. He looked at his mother and she looked back at him and something indefinable passed between them.

"Do you wonder," wrote the sixth president of the United States some 68 years later, "that a boy of 7 who witnessed this scene should be a patriot."

In 1896, where the old Coast Road (now Franklin St.) meets Viden Rd. atop Penn's Hill a stone cairn was built to mark the spot where Abigail and young John Quincy watched the Battle of Bunker Hill. It is open to the public free of charge.

A fitting memorial . . .

John Quincy Adams occupied the White House in 1828 when United First Parish Church, the Stone Temple, was built of Quincy granite, a fitting memorial to the enduring work of the men who founded the state and the nation.

Two presidents of the United States, John Adams and John Quincy Adams, and their wives, are buried side by side in vaults in the grotto of the Church.

The cornerstone of the Stone Temple was laid on June 11, 1827, and in it was placed a silver plate with the inscription: 'A temple for the worship of God, and for public instruction in the doctrines and duties of the Christian religion.'

Historic Hancock Cemetery in the foreground is the final resting place of early Quincy settlers and patriots among them Col. John Quincy for whom Quincy was named and Rev. John Hancock, a minister of First Parish Church and father of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Abigail Adams Wife, Mother Of Presidents

Mrs. John Adams, the former Abigail Smith of Weymouth, is the only woman to be wife of one president and mother of another ... and she could have been grandmother of a vice president.

Husband John was chief executive from 1797 to 1801; son of John Quincy occupied the White House from 1825 to 1829; and grandson Charles Francis Adams ran for vice president on the Free Soil ticket in 1848.

An early advocate of women's rights, Abigail Adams once wrote to her husband, John:

"In the new code of laws which I suppose it will be necessary for you to make, I desire you would remember the ladies and be more generous and favorable to them than your ancestors.

"Do not put such unlimited power into the hands of the husbands. Remember, all men would be tyrants if they could."

CENTENNIALS . . .

This year, Quincy is celebrating its centennial as a city. That's a proud milestone. We know, because we marked our own centennial with pride last year and we are now a year into our second century.

We have been here in Quincy Center for 101 years. We were the first insurance agency "in town" when Quincy was still a town. Down through a century we have met the changing insurance needs of the community with dependable, friendly service.

We are proud of our name and reputation both of which go back to 1887. That's a long time. But it's a good combination. One hundred and one years experience and a young spirit to go with it to better serve you today and in the century ahead.

THE GRANITE RAILWAY

The Granite Railway

First Commercial Railroad In U.S.

It was the darndest looking contraption that many among the distinguished gathering had ever seen.

Each of the three wagons had four wheels, 6 and one-half feet in diameter, surmounted by a smaller gear wheel which was used to raise and lower the cargo platform that was slung low between the wheels.

It rode on foot-high wooden rails, topped by iron plate, which rested on stone sleepers or cross ties, placed eight feet apart and firmly supported on crushed granite to a depth beyond the frost line.

On Saturday, Oct. 7, 1826, the wagons were laden with 16 tons of the finest Quincy granite, and the opening day guests were properly amazed when a single horse moved the whole thing with ease more than fit to enable a special wharf on the Neponset River.

The granite blocks, a particularly hard and weather-resistant stone capable of taking a brilliant polish, were en route to Charlestown, where they were building a monument to the Battle of Bunker Hill.

The Granite Railway, the first such commercial venture in the United States, was built specifically to transport stone for the Bunker Hill Monument.

That it became successful, and a model for others around the country, is a tribute to three vastly dissimilar men: the engineer Gridley Bryant, the architect Solomon Willard and the financier, Col. Thomas Handasyd Perkins.

Bryant was 27 at the time but already an engineer of note. He invented the eight-wheeled railroad car and, when a fellow named Ross Wiman of Baltimore sued to establish a patent on it, Bryant was able to prove his claim to the satisfaction of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Willard, then 43, was a great bear of a man, gentle, obliging, industrious. Frivolity, it was said, was alien to him and he was never known to run. He could be crutchy, too. He was a carpenter, turned wood carver, turned stone carver and finally architect.

Perkins was the same rate, 52, year old merchant king of Boston who was said to have been offered the post of Secretary of the Navy by President Washington and turned it down with the observation that he owned more ships than the Navy.

It was Perkins who lobbied the Railway's charter through a puzzled and obstinate State Legislature, which had never even dared to incorporate a commercial railroad before. It was Perkins who financed it, too, largely with his own money.

Even its name flares the Granite Railway was a tourist attraction of some magnitude.

Daniel Webster, who used to stop off for a picnic up in Quincy en route from Boston and Washington to his home in Marshfield, vaunted and declared that it could never succeed because of the frost that would form on the rails at the winter.

The President of the United States, in 1827, graciously left Quincy. A fine weathered August, 1827, brought a heavy storm, and took shelter in a cave where Willard's "granite" were backing away from crushed granite.

A group of visitors were riding up the Railway's incline in an empty car on July 25, 1832, when the chain broke and catapulted them over a 40 foot cliff. One was killed in what may have been the first railroad fatality in the United States.

The Granite Railway Co. survived until 1870, some 27 years after the Bunker Hill Monument was finished, when most of its track was taken over by the Old Colony Railroad, which in turn became a division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford.

Today much of the roadbed, over which freight moved commercially on rails for the first time in America, is buried under the macadam of the Southeast Express way.

The incline of the old Railway has been restored and is located at the dead end of Mullin Ave. in West Quincy. It is open to the public year round, 24 hours a day. There is no admission charge.

The Thomas Crane Library

A Romanesque Architectural Beauty

He came to Quincy as a boy of 7, grew to young manhood on a farm in Quincy Point, learned the granite-cutters' trade, and left at the age of 26 to win fame and fortune in stone in New York City.

That was the last Quincy saw of Thomas Crane for half a century until one February day in 1880, five years after his death, when his son, Albert, appeared with $20,000 with which to build a memorial -- preferably a library -- to his father.

"My father always retained a strong feeling for the town of Quincy," was his only explanation.

Albert Crane himself chose the man to design the building, Henry Hobson Richardson, grandson of the English scientist Dr. Joseph Priestly and the foremost architect of the day.

His reputation was so formidable that he was able to tell Crane, "I can not guarantee that the building, when completed, shall conform to (your) ideas of beauty and taste," and still get the job.

Richardson's Romanesque building, which now houses the reference section of the library, was dedicated on May 30, 1882, with the principal oration delivered by Charles Francis Adams, Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees. It was Adams who gave the library its name. Albert Crane wanted it to be "The Quincy Free Public Library." Adams insisted on "The Thomas Crane Public Library."

"Who's giving the building?" asked Albert Crane.

"You are, but you wouldn't have it if hadn't been for me," said Adams, who was used to having his way around Quincy, and that was that.

President John Adams' modest collection of books was housed in the library until 1893, when it was discovered that in 11 years only two persons, one of them Charles Francis Adams, Jr., had asked to see them. They were then transferred to the Boston Public Library.

At the start, Richardson's magnificent building was all but hidden behind a grain store, a hotel, an office building and four homes that lined Washington St.

Albert Crane, however, was a persistent man and, by the time he died in 1917, he had purchased and torn down all the buildings, leaving a broad expanse of open space to enhance the library.

But before the lawn could be seeded, World War I intervened and, in a burst of patriotism -- "Food will win the war," they said -- the area was planted with potatoes, tended by an expert brought in from Maine. The experiment failed.

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY

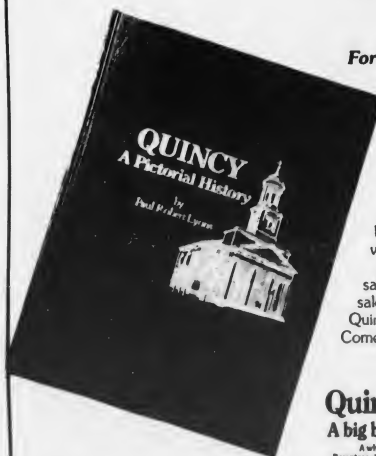

"There wasn't a potato in the lot that was anywhere near as large as a golf ball," said Mayor Joseph L. Whiton. The harvest was donated to the poor farm.

Albert Crane also put up $64,000 to build the Spear St. wing of the library in 1907-08 and the Crane family gave yet another $164,000 for the free standing addition, built in 1936, that now houses the stacks and the children's section.

The Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., is open to the public, free of charge, Monday to Thursday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Friday and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is closed on Saturdays during July and August.

Stormy Debate

Quincy Was Almost Hancock

If some of the early settlers had their way, you would be living in the city of Hancock today instead of the city of Quincy.

Quincy, like George Washington, was born on Feb. 22.

On Feb. 22, 1792, the General Court of Massachusetts passed an act incorporating the North Precinct of Old Braintree as the separate town of Quincy.

But, just before that, quite a few of the residents wanted the new town named after native son John Hancock instead of Boston-born Col. John Quincy.

Colonel Quincy, who had represented Old Braintree in the General Court, was the great grandfather of President John Quincy Adams.

Many people today think Quincy was named after the sixth President but the honor actually goes to his great grandfather.

John Hancock who was born in the North Precinct, was governor of Massachusetts when the General Court passed the act incorporating the new town as Quincy. He signed the act the following day.

But at the first town meeting of the new town in May, a petition was presented to change the name from Quincy to Hancock in honor of the patriot and first signer of the Declaration of Independence. The move was finally defeated after a stormy verbal battle.

Opponents argued that Hancock was still alive and that the honor should go to a distinguished-but deceased person.

JOHN HANCOCK

Colonel Quincy met those requirements. He was both distinguished and deceased.

He had represented Old Braintree in the General Court from 1717 to 1741 - 12 of those years as Speaker of the House. He died in 1767 at age 77 - two days after John Quincy Adams was born.

Quincy became a city June 11, 1888.

Thus, on Feb. 22, 1986 Quincy will mark its 194th birthday as the community of Quincy.

But a lot of people - residents and tourists alike - will go right on thinking that Quincy was named after John Quincy Adams.

Seat Of Government For 144 Years

Daniel and Hannah French deeded the land to the town of Quincy for $1,000 with the stipulation that it "shall not be used for any other purpose than as a place for a Town House for the said Inhabitants."

And, with a few minor transgressions of that vow, the solid structure of Quincy granite in Quincy Square has been just that for the past 144 years, the nerve center of government for first the town and then the city.

It was the great hall on the second floor that the popular John Quincy Adams II, grandson of a president of the United States, held forth as town moderator for many years and, with his brother, Charles Francis Adams Jr., gave informal direction to town affairs.

One of the earliest ordinances passed by the first City Council on March 8, 1889 was the adoption of the City Seal emblazoned with the four most significant dates in Quincy's history:

1625, for the first settlement on Mount Wollaston; 1640, for its separation from Boston as the town of Braintree; 1792, for its separation from Braintree as the town of Quincy; and 1888, for its incorporation as a city.

CITY HALL

Designed by the architect Solomon Willard - who received $280 for drawing up the plans and superintending construction for five months - the City Hall was completed and occupied for the first time on Nov. 1, 1844.

It cost exactly $19,115.93 to build, including 88 cents to John Briesler for lead to seal the chimney.

In 1979, when a 3 and one half story reflective glass addition was built behind the old City Hall, the cost was $1.9 million.

Josiah Quincy Homestead

Lookout For Spying On British Ships

Abigail Adams stood with her great uncle, Col. Josiah Quincy, in a window of his mansion overlooking Wollaston Beach and watched the tall masts of 170 ships stand slowly out to sea. It was March 17, 1776. The British were evacuating Boston.

But even in triumph there was tragedy.

Aboard the departing ships were more than 1,000 Loyalists, Americans who had chosen King above country, and one of them was Abigail's cousin, Samuel Quincy, the Colonel's only remaining son, an avowed Tory.

"I take a long farewell," his sister, Hannah, wrote to him for one last time. "Let it not be published that a brother of such brothers fled from his country. Can you expect to walk uprightly now? Can you take fire in your bosom and not be burned?"

Two of Col. Josiah Quincy's sons had died young. Now he had no more.

But there was no time for regrets. The work of revolution had begun. The second floor of the house at what is now 20 Muirhead St., Wollaston, was a lookout from which the 66-year-old Colonel spied on British ship movements for his friend, Gen. George Washington.

A few months before, Col. Quincy watched the Royal Governor, Gen. Thomas Gage depart and he scratched on a pane of window glass the reminder: "Oct. 10, 1775, General Gage sailed for England with a fair wind."

This time he remained in the window for three days as the British tall ships moved restlessly about the Harbor as if reluctant to leave. Finally, on March 20, the last of them passed through the roadstead and out to sea.

The mansion in Wollaston reached full social flower under the aegis of the Colonel's grandson, the third Josiah, the "Great Mayor" of Boston, president of Harvard and Congressman, who called it "Tranquilla" and used it as his summer home.

It was there that the Marquis de Lafayette visited one Sunday afternoon after dinner with his friend, ex-President John Adams at the Adams Mansion. He carried flowers from the Adams garden for Mrs. Eliza Susan Quincy and her five attractive daughters.

The house was built in 1770 by the old Colonel himself, the first in a line of six Josiahs. It was said that, while most families passed their line from sire to son, the Quincys went from 'Siah to 'Siah.

But, while there were six Josiahs and innumerable Edmunds, the city was named for yet another member of the prolific family -- Col. John Quincy, the great grandfather of John Quincy Adams sixth president of the United States.

The Josiah Quincy Homestead is open to the public from June 1 to Oct. 15, Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. Visits may be made at other times by appointment. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children age 12 and under. Residents of Quincy are admitted free.

How Many Miles From Boston?

Stone mile markers across Hancock Street from each other indicate that the traveler is both $7\frac{1}{4}$ and 10 miles from Boston. And both are correct.

The 10-mile marker was placed on the Old Coast Road, one of the oldest highways in the United States still in existence, which went from Boston to Plymouth in 1639 by way of inland Milton.

The $7\frac{1}{4}$ -mile marker was raised after the first bridge over the Neponset River was built in 1803, creating the Neponset Turnpike, which is today Hancock St. in North Quincy and Wollaston.

John Winthrop, Jr. Blast Furnace

First Productive Iron Works In U.S.

It failed after nine years of effort and, since failure was anathema in a growing America, perhaps that is why the site and even the memory of the first commercial iron blast furnace in the United States was lost for so long.

It flourished, if that is the word, from 1644 to 1653 on the banks of the Mount Wollaston River (now Furnace Brook) in a section of Old Braintree called "the Woods."

Iron was an important commodity in Colonial Massachusetts, particularly for nails and pots and pans. Iron utensils had to be imported from England, a costly process for the penny-wise colonists.

With this in mind, John Winthrop Jr., son of the governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, went to London and formed the "Company of Undertakers for the Ironworks in New England."

The first iron was turned out in 1644 but young Winthrop was fired from his 100 pounds a year job the next year, to be succeeded by Richard Leader. The Ironworks itself didn't last much longer.

The ore from which the iron was blasted on the banks of Furnace Brook was not a high quality product. It was bog iron from the nearby swamps. Making it proved to be more expensive than the imported kind.

The Company of Undertakers appealed for fresh money in 1646 and apparently there were enough investors ready to send good money after bad because the furnace was still in operation in 1650 when the Scotch Prisoners arrived.

The Scots were rugged Highlanders, soldiers in the army of the future King Charles II who were captured by Oliver Cromwell at the Battle of Dunbar. Cromwell shipped 272 of them to New England as cheap labor in an effort to make the Quincy ironworks a paying proposition. It didn't work.

The Company of Undertakers went bankrupt in 1653 and "the Woods" went back to the bear and the deer.

Meanwhile, with the same Richard Leader as agent, construction began on a second iron works north of Boston in Saugus in 1646. When it was completed in 1650, it was recognized as the first integrated iron industry in America.

On Site Of John Hancock's Birthplace

By modern standards, the boarding house at the corner of Hancock and Depot Sts. had all the aspects of a genteel prison.

Residents were forbidden to leave between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. They could not enter or leave at any time except by the hall door. They were banned from pool halls and bars. Smoking materials also were forbidden to them.

In exchange for good behavior, plus tuition ranging from $75 to $150 a year, they were given the best prep school education of the day for they were students at Adams Academy, which flourished from 1872 to 1907 in Quincy.

The academy was a gift of John Adams, the second President of the United States, who always had his checkbook ready to fill the spiritual and educational needs of the citizens of his beloved Quincy.

The trust fund, nourished by "rents, profits and emoluments" from certain Adams-owned properties, was set up in the Adams will of 1822, but it was not until 1869 that the fund was deemed large enough to start construction.

The location was specified by Adams himself as the corner of Adams and Hancock Sts., site of the birthplace of his childhood friend, John Hancock, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

The doors opened to the first students, 24 of them, on Sept. 4, 1872. Five years later, the academy reached a peak enrollment of 154 with an international student body ---25 from Quincy, four from Washington, D.C., 125 and 14 states, two from England and one from Chile.

It had one of the earliest prep school football teams, too, recording a tie with the Resolutes of Boston on Oct. 21, 1876, a scant seven years after Princeton and Rutgers played the first college game. It whipped Andover three times from 1877-79.

The admissions catalogue specified that applicants be "well prepared in the usual studies of good grammar schools" and warned that "no pupils are desired to give them a collegiate education."

The best known headmaster was Dr. William Everett, once acclaimed as one of the seven smartest men in the world. He ran the academy with a firm hand from 1878 to 1893 and again from 1897 to 1907. From 1893 to 1897, he was a U.S. congressman from Lynn.

Dr. Leverett, an aimable if sometimes waspish eccentric, was widely known as the man who hated Abraham Lincoln. He had reason. His father was Edward Everett, whose masterful oration at Gettysburg was over-shadowed by Lincoln's notes scribbled on the back of an envelope.

It was Dr. Everett who signaled the passing of Adams Academy --- and many other 19th Century classical prep schools --- at graduation exercises in 1907 when he said that "unless someone comes forward and planks down $50,000, the academy will be closed."

Nobody did and on June 22, 1907, the Adams Academy officially closed its doors.

The building today is occupied by the Quincy Historical Society, which maintains a museum and research library in the old classrooms as well as an expanded gift shop. The museum and gift shop are open all year, Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and Saturday from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. The library is open Monday and Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and Saturday from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. or by appointment. It is closed Sundays and holidays. There is no admission charge.

Q: What's up and coming in health care?

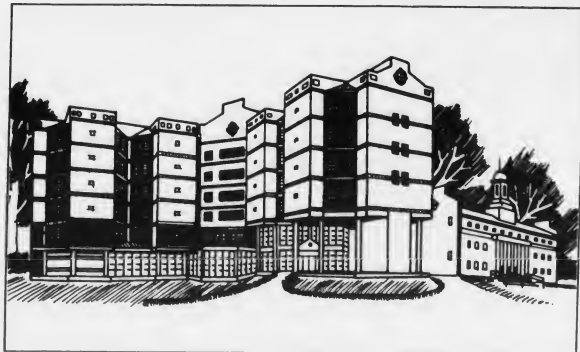

A: The New QCH!

Quincy City Hospital has begun an impressive $57 million renovation. Almost two-thirds of the buildings and other facilities will be replaced—all part of a dramatic plan to better serve the growing and changing health care needs of the South Shore.

The focal point of the new hospital complex will be a brand new six story building that will contain 234 patient beds as well as all of the necessary patient care support services.

Since its founding in 1890, Quincy City Hospital has been in the forefront of health care on the South Shore. With our new facilities we'll continue to deliver the highest quality health care services with warm, personal attention.

At QCH—we're building for the future on a proud past.

Hancock Cemetery

Patriots, Early Settlers, Intrigue Buried Here

Henry, the first Adams in Quincy, is buried there. So is the Rev. John Hancock, father of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence. And Col. John Quincy, for whom the city is named.

But of all the 800 graves in the Hancock Cemetery, the Old Burying Ground of Colonial Quincy, most intriguing is one marked by a tombstone bearing this cryptic epitaph:

"Erected to the memory of John R. Grieve: Died Nov. 12, 1850, age 22 years, and Hannah Banks, his wife, died Nov. 12, 1850, age 15 years. Both of Zanesville, Ohio. Deluded by the writings of A.J. Davis."

The mystery of John and Hannah has never been fully solved.

They came to Quincy in 1850, not as man and wife, but as male cousins, John Green and George Sands. They obtained work in a shoe factory but rarely left their lodgings on Elm St., spending long hours reading books on spiritualism.

Co-workers thought that George Sands looked frail, almost effeminate. It was widely suspected that "he" was a girl. A scheme was devised to test the theory.

One day at lunch one of the shoe workers tossed George an apple. A man would catch it by closing his legs; a woman by spreading her skirt. Guess what "George" did!

Humiliated, John and Hannah never went back to the factory. Nor did they ever return to the house on Elm St. Their frozen bodies were found next spring by rabbit hunters on Penn's Hill, locked in a loving embrace.

Several months later, the father of John Grieve arrived from Ohio to bury the young couple. It was he who directed the words to be chiselled on the headstone. He explained no further.

A.J. Davis was never identified for sure. But Andrew Jackson Davis, a spiritualist, hypnotist and faith healer, was then practicing in Boston.

Among the belongings found in the Elm St. lodging house were these words, written by 15-year-old Hannah Banks:

"To the oppressed and down-trodden, to the suffering and afflicted, I would cry out...Death is only an event, only a circumstance in the eternal life experience of the human soul. Death is simply a birth into a new and perfect state of existence."

Not far from the grave of John and Hannah is a tomb bearing words that cry out of an earlier injustice:

"Three precious friends under this tombstone lie

"Patterns to aged, youth and infancy.

HANCOCK CEMETERY

"A great mother, her learned son, with child.

"The first and least went free. He was exiled.

"In love to Christ, this country, and dear friends

"He left his own, cross'd seas and for amends

"Was here extoll'd, and envy'd all in a breath,

"His noble consort leaves, is drawn to death,

"Stranger changes may befall us ere we die,

"Blest they who will arrive eternity.

"God grant some names, O thou New England's friend.

"Don't sooner fade than thine, if times don't mend."

The tomb with its hidden message contains the family of the Rev. Leonard Hoar, third president of Harvard College, a man too liberal for his times.

He was forced by the General Court of the Massachusetts Bay Colony to resign at the instigation of religious opponents and jealous colleagues for permitting Harvard to "languish and decay." Eight months later in November 1675, he was dead at 45.

In 1975, the same General Court, now of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, righted the 300-year-old wrong done to the Rev. Mr. Hoar by "proclaiming and confirming his innocence of any misdeeds while president of Harvard College."

The cemetery, on Hancock St., Quincy Sq., next to City Hall, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Moswetuset Hummock

'Birthplace Of Massachusetts'

The Indians saw it as a hill (moswetuset) shaped like an arrowhead (mos) so they called it "Moswetuset" and when English tongues got through mangling the word it came out "Massachusetts," which became the name of the bay and then the state.

The little wooded hillock near the junction of East Squantum St. and Quincy Shore Drive was once the seat of the sachem Chickatabot, who comes down through the pages of Quincy history as a rather pathetic figure.

He was the chief of the Moswetuset Indians, a once great tribe that occupied the coast north of Plymouth.

A few years before, under the great sachem Nanepashemet, the Moswetuset had been able to field some 3,000 warriors for a war with the Nanepashemet was killed.

Then came the plague.

In two years the mighty Moswetuset were all but wiped out. No more than 60 of them were left to till their fields on the banks of the Neponset River. Sachem Chickatabot fled his home on the hill in Wollaston and took refuge on Moswetuset Hummock.

That was the situation in 1621 when Capt. Miles Standish landed from a shallop with an exploring party of Plymouth Pilgrims that included the Indian guide Squanto (or Tsquantum), whose name was given to the peninsula that stuck out in the bay.

The tragic Chickatabot died not long after the Pilgrims' visit and he was succeeded as sachem by his son, Josiah Wampatuck, a boy who knew a good deal when he saw one.

Wampatuck sold what was left of his virtually deserted tribal lands to a group of whites for 12 pounds, 10 shillings. The lands included most of what is today the city of Quincy and the towns of Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook.

Moswetuset Hummock, identified by a marker stone and maintained in its natural state, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Sludge Agreement Signed

City To Get $2.8M A Year From MWRA

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A multi-million dollar agreement has been reached between the city and the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority concerning interim sludge processing at the former General Dynamics Shipyard, Mayor Francis McCauley announces.

The 14-page agreement, or memorandum of understanding, was signed by McCauley and MWRA executive director Paul Levy.

Under the terms of the agreement, the MWRA will pay Quincy $2,250,000 a year plus additional payments of up to $610,000 annually for municipal services in connection with MWRA activities at the shipyard, McCauley said.

"I think it is an excellent agreement for the city," the mayor said. "It gives the city about $2.8 million dollars a year. In addition, we get annual adjustments due to any increases in inflation," he said.

The agreement will be terminated when the long-term sludge processing program is fully operational.

The interim plant at the shipyard is expected to begin in 1989 and operate through 1995.

"The interim plant will probably operate five or six years," McCauley said. "In the long run, it will provide the city with much needed revenue," he said.

Other main points of the agreement include:

- No incineration on site.
- No processing or storage of sludge in the open.
- Sludge and sludge products will be moved in and out of the shipyard by rail or barge.

McCauley also announced he has appointed David Standley, a consultant to the city, to represent Quincy in all discussions and negotiations regarding the agreement.

McCauley said the agreement would not interfere with any land purchase or lease proposal put forth by Shipbuilders Inc., a group of shipbuilders who want to use a portion of the former General Dynamics shipyard for shipbuilding purposes.

The interim sludge processing program will begin when sludge is first transferred to the Fore River staging area. The MWRA will begin payment at the initiation of the interim sludge processing program.

The interim sludge processing program will end when the long-term sludge processing program is fully operational. One long-term plant will be located at Deer Island; the other has not been determined.

According to the agreement, during any period in which the start-up of the long-term sludge plant requires continued operation of the interim sludge processing program, the quarterly payment due to Quincy will be prorated on the basis of percentage of the total amount of sludge processed by the interim program.

Furthermore, when the long-term program is fully operational, the final payment due to the city under the interim program will be the time-prorated portion of the quarterly payment applicable to the period of the preceding calendar quarter prior to the completion of the interim sludge processing

3 Days Of Fun, Buys

Downtown Sidewalk Bazaar Opens Thursday

More than 50 colorful, selling and activity booths will be featured at this year's Downtown Quincy Sidewalk bazaar which begins today (Thursday) and continues through Saturday.

The familiar multi-colored pennants are up over Hancock, Granite and School Sts. and merchants are ready for the three-day event that includes plenty of bargains, entertainment and other special activities.

The annual bazaar is sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

This year's bazaar will feature many returning favorites as well as some new attractions. Among those making their bazaar debut will be the Billy Blanks Karate Demonstration Team and Roller Racer, a type of amusement park ride.

The karate demonstration, featuring Blanks as well as 20 other karate experts from ages 6 to 45, will be held near the intersection of Hancock and Granite Sts. Blanks is a fifth-degree black belt and a five-time world champion.

Among the returning attractions are the Moonwalk, the M.D.C. Zoomobile, Ronald McDonald and Jimmy Jay's celebrity look-alikes such as Bruce Springsteen, Madonna, Michael Jackson and Johnny Cash.

Other scheduled entertainment includes a performance by county music award-winners Yankee Jack and Marie and Company, square dancing and round dancing, as well as concerts by the Milton Post Band and the Baron Hugo Orchestra.

The bazaar's highlight is the Miss Quincy Bay Pageant to be staged Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Quincy Center Plaza.

Twenty-five contestants will vie for the prestigious crown and the honor of reigning over the 51st Quincy Bay Race Week Aug. 10-14.

More than $2,500 in prizes will be shared by the five finalists. The winner will receive the largest share.

The pageant attracts several thousand people annually.

The bazaar will officially open with a ribbon cutting ceremony today (Thursday) at 10 a.m.

City Council President Patricia Toland will have the honor of cutting the ribbon at Granite and Hancock Sts. She will be joined by QCBPA president Robert Colman, executive director George Riley, pageant chairwoman Beth Anne Streng, assistant pageant chairwoman Eileen Cohen and last year's Miss Quincy Bay, Renee Vardaro.

Also on hand will be officers, directors and members of the QCBPA as well as this year's pageant contestants.

Hancock St. between School and Granite Sts. will be turned into a pedestrian mall as the street is closed to motor traffic.

Radio Station WJDA,

1300, will cover bazaar activities live throughout the three days. Another station, WUMB from the University of Massachusetts at Boston, will also broadcast.

The Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant and other activities will be telecast live by Continental Cablevision on Channel 3. The pageant telecast will begin Friday at 6 p.m. with highlights of the bazaar.

Quincy Sun Channel 26 will also show highlights of the bazaar as well as a preview and highlights of the pageant

Stolen Car Latest In Vendetta, Says Reikard

A car owned by Lloyd and Jane Reikard, the executive secretary of the city's Rent Grievance Board, was stolen Sunday in what she said is another incident related to her job.

Reikard, an advocate of tenant's rights, said she called Quincy police at 9:15 a.m. Sunday to report the 1979 Fleetwood Cadillac stolen from her apartment building's parking lot on Burgin Parkway.

After reporting the robbery, the Reikards cruised the city in a police car searching for the car to no avail.

A short time after, Quincy police called Reikard to report the car had been found on Washington St. in Dorchester.

"The damage to the car was extensive," Reikard said.

Mrs. Reikard said the car's four wheels and tires with hub caps were missing; the steering wheel was broken; the steering column broken; front bumper smashed in; side light on driver's side smashed and the battery stolen.

She also said the "glove compartment and trunk were completely ransacked of tools, luggage, two toiletry leather cases filled with toilet articles, and the registration was removed from the glove compartment."

"Since the vendetta against Jane Reikard has persisted, I have no alternative but start naming names and let the public know what's happening to Jane Reikard in Quincy simply because I champion the interests of justice for myself, my family and my constituents," she said.

"The goal of these sleazes is for forcing Jane Reikard out of the city and out of the state so they can manipulate the little people as they choose."

"Again, I repeat, I am not going anywhere and I will continue to speak out on issues and operate in the best interests of my people," Reikard said.

According to Reikard, the Cadillac is the same car that vandals dumped sugar into the gas tank last August.

"This robbery, after sugar in the gas tank in August of 1987 and a deliberate rear-end collision by a hit-and-run operator in September of 1987 is now proof positive that the conspiracy against and harassment of Jane Reikard still continues," she said.

"We had just picked up our car from the shop where extensive repairs were made May 4, after which we had other work done to the car including four brand new tires."

"I know these conspirators' actions so well that I told my husband as we drove our car out of the repair shop that the car would be stolen now that it was repaired. I told him to keep an eye on it at all times," Reikard said.

"But good people have to sleep sometime," she added.

"The 'dregs' of society operate best at night, while the 'demented souls' stand guard for them," she said.

Reikard's office in the basement of the John F. Kennedy Health Center on Hancock St., has been vandalized several times, she added.

FIREFIGHTERS BATTLE a two-alarm fire that heavily damaged a three-family home at 17 Ring Ave., Quincy Point, early Sunday morning. Two firefighters were treated for heat exhaustion. The fire, which caused an estimated $30,000 in damage, was probably caused by an overload in electrical wiring, officials said. All occupants escaped unhurt.

Heat, Lightning Cause Power Outages

Between 600 and 700 customers of Mass. Electric lost power last night between 8 and 11:30 p.m. during power outages in several areas of the city from causes ranging from the heat to lightning according to a Mass. Electric spokesman.

At 11:30 p.m., high temperatures caused an underground feeder in downtown Quincy to go out, affecting Mass. Electric customers on Hancock St. to Temple St. and Washington St.

Individual units were overloaded between 8 and 9 p.m., the spokesman said, because of an excess of air conditioners and fans in use.

Lightning during last night's thunderstorms caused nearly 300 Wollaston customers to go without electricity between 1:17 and 4:20 a.m.

McCauley Calls For Firefighter Civil Service List

Mayor Francis McCauley has requested the Civil Service to send a list of eligible candidates for appointment as firefighter in Quincy's Fire Department.

At present, there are seven vacancies for firefighter in the department. Once the list is received, candidates will undergo background checks and psychological and physical examinations.

Successful candidates will undergo seven weeks of training before being assigned to area fire stations.

McCauley said he would call for both a regular list, comprised of Quincy residents, as well as a list of minority candidates.

He said both lists should be received in about six weeks.

Planning Board Hearing On Zoning Amendment

The Quincy Planning Board will hold a public hearing Wednesday, July 20 at 7 p.m. in the second floor conference room, City Hall annex, 1305 Hancock St.

The hearing's purpose is to consider a proposed amendment to the city's zoning ordinance regarding environmental controls and earth removal.

Our Man In Atlanta

Mayor Francis McCauley will be off to Atlanta and the Democratic National Convention next week.

Not as a delegate, of course, he's a Republican.

McCauley will join the Fourth Estate as a correspondent for The Quincy Sun. He has his press card and his convention credentials are waiting for him in Atlanta.

McCauley, a history buff says:

"I'm looking forward to it, I've never been to a National Convention before. This is like having a front row seat to history."

McCauley won't just be sitting, though.

His credentials will take him onto the convention floor where he will have the opportunity to mix with newspaper, television and radio reporters from around the world. He will also get a chance to talk with delegates and political dignitaries.

McCauley plans to plane into Atlanta early Wednesday (July 20) and be in reportorial action that afternoon.

McCauley will concentrate primarily on the balloting for President that night, Rev. Jesse Jackson's convention clout, and the acceptance speeches Thursday night.

"Even though I am a Republican," he says, "I think it will be a bit of a thrill to see Michael Dukakis from our own home state be nominated for President of the United States."

And, he adds:

"I think it will be fun to see Democrats in action. You can never tell what will happen when Democrats get together. There's usually some fireworks."

He thinks Jackson might light the fuse this year even though Senator Lloyd Bentsen has already been tapped by Dukakis as his vice presidential running mate.

"There's a possible explosion there," he says.

He'll be there and ready with pencil and notepad. Should make for interesting reading. A politician covering politicians.

McCAULEY

St. Louis Cardinals (1914).

He ran his court in a quiet, efficient manner and was never known to lose his cool. On the baseball diamond he was a peppercorn who often tangled with umpires when he thought he was right.

Nash was the youngest appointed to the bench and the oldest to serve.

He was appointed an associate justice of Quincy District Court at the age of 30 in 1918 by Gov. Samuel McCall.

In 1963 he was named presiding justice of the 72 Massachusetts district courts by Gov. Endicott Peabody.

His judicial career spanned 52 years.

He retired Sept. 1, 1970 at age 82.

Fifty-two years on the bench. It is unlikely anyone will ever match that longevity record. Mandatory retirement age now is 70. Someone would have to be appointed at age 18 and serve to 70 to tie him.

Judge Nash died Feb. 16, 1977 at age 88.

Judge Nash won a number of awards and accolades in his day but if he was especially proud of one it probably was the national John Augustus Award given by the Massachusetts Probation Association.

The award, given in memory of a humble bootmaker, was presented to Nash in 1966 by U.S. District Court Judge Luther Youngdahl.

Who was John Augustus?

Well, thousands of persons owe a new start in life to him but probably never heard of him.

A Boston bootmaker, he was the "Father of Probation."

He started the probation movement that has spared countless men, women -- and children -- from prison or jail and restored them to lives of usefulness.

It began in 1841 when a drunkard was ushered into Boston Police Court. The judge was about to have him whisked off to the House of Correction when Augustus stood up and said:

"Your Honor, if this man be given another chance, I will take him under my care and answer to the court for his conduct. Jail will ruin him."

The judge was impressed and agreed.

Augustus reformed the drunk.

From then until his death in 1859 at age 74, he similarly aided 2000 defendants only 10 of whom reportedly became failures.

The award in his name is given "for distinguished service in the field of delinquency and crime prevention and control."

Judge Nash was a deserving recipient.

His toughness when required helped deter crime. But like Augustus, he also gave many the break in life they needed.

TODAY (THURSDAY) WOULD have been the 100th birthday of the late Judge Kenneth L. Nash, one of this state's all-time most esteemed jurists.

NASH

He was long-time presiding justice of Quincy District Court and was the first chief justice of the Massachusetts district courts.

He was also a professional baseball player in his younger days when he was an infielder with both the Cleveland Indians (1912) and the

McCauley Covering Convention For Sun

No Incumbent Vice President Elected President Over 150 Years

(Mayor Francis McCauley will be covering the Democratic National Convention in Atlanta for The Quincy Sun. Today he looks back on past elections.)

By FRANCIS X. McCAULEY
Mayor of Quincy

On Tuesday, Nov. 8, 1888, the citizens of the United States will participate in the 22nd Presidential Election of the 20th century.

Since 1901, 16 men have held the office of President, 10 Republicans and six Democrats.

Seven of our 20th century presidents served in the office of governor prior to becoming president, including William McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Calvin Coolidge and Ronald Reagan, all Republicans. Democratic presidents who served as governor include Woodrow Wilson, Franklin Roosevelt and Jimmy Carter.

Seven occupants of the White House served in Congress, McKinley and Gerald Ford served in the U.S. House of Representatives, Warren G. Harding and Harry S. Truman served in the U.S. Senate, while Richard Nixon, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B.

FRANCIS X. McCAULEY

Johnson served in both branches of Congress. Two Republican presidents, Herbert Hoover and Dwight D. Eisenhower, never held elective office before becoming president.

It is interesting to note, no incumbent vice president has been elected to the presidency in over 150 years. The last vice president to turn the trick was Martin Van Buren, in 1836. Van Buren, vice president during Andrew Jackson's second term, defeated William Henry Harrison. Harrison returned the compliment by defeating Van Buren in his attempt for a second term in 1840. In this century, the two incumbent vice presidents who sought the presidency lost in close elections. Richard Nixon to John F. Kennedy in 1960 and Hubert Humphrey to Richard Nixon in 1968.

The power of incumbency reflects in the fact that nine incumbent presidents seeking re-election won additional terms while only four presidents were defeated for re-election: William Howard Taft, Hoover, Ford and Carter.

Four presidents died in office, McKinley in 1901, Kennedy in 1963 by assassination, Harding in 1923 and Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1945 of natural causes.

The Democratic and Republican National Conventions will be cut and dried affairs in 1988. Both Governor Michael Dukakis and Vice President George Bush have more than enough pledged delegates necessary to secure their parties' nomination.

The main interest at the Democratic National Convention will be the role that Jesse Jackson will play.

Jackson is keeping his candidacy alive to extract as many concessions as possible from the Dukakis camp. While Jackson knows that a Dukakis-Jackson ticket would not prevail in the general election, he will stay in the race until the convention, to be sure that he and his followers will play a substantial role in a Dukakis Administration.

However, I look for Michael Dukakis to lead a united Democratic party out of Atlanta next week.

During the 21 presidential elections held in the 20th century, there have been three elections where the popular vote has been close, 1960, 1968 and 1976. In these elections, however, the margin of victory in the Electoral College (where the election is determined) was much greater.

The only close presidential election in this century was the election of 1916. Woodrow Wilson carried California by only 3800 votes and the election, winning 277 electoral votes to 254 for the Republican nominee Charles Evans Hughes.

This election at the present time is shaping up as one of the closest elections in U.S. history. We may well have to wait for California or even Hawaii to know for sure who will serve as our 41st president.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Largest Passenger Ship Launched Here

The 631-foot, 25,000-ton Matson liner Mariposa, built at a cost of $8½ million, slid down the ways at Bethlehem's Fore River Shipyard, the largest passenger liner ever launched in New England.

Mrs. Wallace S. Alexander, wife of a Matson vice president, christened the glistening white vessel with a bottle of water from Sidney Harb, Australia, which was to be one of her ports as she plied the Pacific tourist routes.

Mariposa was designed to accommodate 1,000 passengers, treating them to such luxuries as two swimming pools and a night club. For those passengers who could not bear to leave business behind, she was equipped with brokerage offices.

The Fore River from the bridge to the Cities Service oil refinery was closed to boats at 10:30 a.m. and bathers were urged to stay 50 to 100 feet from the water at launch time, 1 p.m. for fear of eight-foot waves that never materialized.

SECOND SHUTOUT FOR CALLAGHAN

Frank Callaghan pitched his second shutout in a row, a two-hitter, and Joe Pettiti slammed a home run and a double as the Squantum AC belted Granite trust, 5-0, in a South Shore League baseball game.

The lineup for Squantum: Eddie Norton 2b, Larry Reardon ss, Freddie Comparato lf, Joe Pettiti cf, Bo Douglass lb, Frank Courtney rf, Chet Furbush 3b, Wally O'Brien c, Frank Callaghan p.

The lineup for Granite Trust: Walter Furbush 2b, Chet McCarthy 3b, Bob Greenhalgh cf, George Owen lb, Donie Russell rf, Jerry Hughes lf, Dick Dennison ss, Higgins c, Paul Hughes p.

Dennison had to leave the game during the early innings after he suffered spike wounds in the face in a play at second base. Fran Haynes went in to play center field with McCarthy moving to short and Greenhalgh to third base.

VACATIONERS ABROAD

Quincy folks were trotting all over the globe on vacation.

Sen. John D. Mackay and his wife left on the SS Yarmouth for his native Nova Scotia on a month's holiday. They took with them their automobile so that they could motor around the Maritimes and drive home through Maine.

Robert E. Foy, president of the Quincy Rotary Club, and his daughter, Mary, returned from six months in Europe during which time Foy attended the 22nd annual convention of Rotary International in Vienna.

Orlando Pace, noted Quincy Square tailor, left New York on the liner Conte Biancamano for Naples and a month's vacation in his native Italy.

City To Get $2.8M A Year

program.

The agreement also calls for the MWRA to compensate Quincy approximately $260,000 annually from 1989 to 1995 for its costs in monitoring and managing motor vehicle traffic associated or affected by the MWRA's programs.

The MWRA will also compensate the city annually for engineering, consulting and legal advice concerning MWRA projects. This obligation began March 1, 1988 and will continue until the conclusion of the interim sludge program.

Services for which Quincy will be entitled to compensation will include but not be limited by are:

- Review, evaluation and comment upon any plans, programs, or other proposals of the MWRA affecting the city or its interests.

- Oversight, investigation, monitoring and evaluation of MWRA activities or facilities within or affecting the city or its interests.

- Preparation of recommendations to the MWRA concerning its programs.

- Monitoring and evaluation of water quality and the quality of fish or shellfish potentially affected by activities of the MWRA within Quincy.

- Legal and technical costs incurred by the city due to the implementation of the MWRA's activities affecting Quincy (excluding any such costs directly attributable to litigation against the MWRA.)

Regarding environmental provisions, no processing and storage of sludge or sludge products will take place in the open. Conveyance will be by means of pipes, ducts, or fully-enclosed conveyors whether belt or screw type.

Storage will be in fully enclosed tanks or bins, vented to the atmosphere only through odor control systems.

All processing will be within fully enclosed buildings, accessible only through fully-closable and securable openings, and maintained under negative pressure by exhaust ventilation provided with an odor control system.

Minor residuals will not be processed at the Fore River Staging Area. Also, sludge digestion will not be undertaken at the interim plant.

The MWRA has agreed to consultation and review by Quincy over matter pertaining to the design, operation and maintenance of odor control measure for MWRA facilities at the staging area.

The MWRA will also keep Quincy, as well as Braintree and Weymouth, advised of the process and results of hazardous waste investigations at the interim plant. In addition, the authority will consult with and consider the views and concerns regarding remediation of any hazards and will assure consistency between redevelopment objectives and criteria and the nature and extent of hazard remediation activities, the agreement states.

Asparagus And Crabmeat Chowder

We had invited our friends Keith and Connie over to the pool during this latest heat wave. When Connie called to see if she could bring anything over, I said we were "all set" since I was planning to make some homemade pizzas.

However, when they arrived, Keith surprised us with one of his favorite chowders. So naturally, I asked him for the recipe which is shared with all of you today.

KEITH'S ASPARAGUS AND CRABMEAT CHOWDER

1 Package King crabmeat (6-8 oz.)
1/4 Cup chopped scallions
1/2 tsp. curry powder
1 Tbsp. butter
2 cans cream of asparagus soup

1 Pint light cream
1/4 cup dry white wine

Drain and slice the crabmeat. Sauté the scallions in the butter and add the curry powder. Stir in the soup, the cream and the crabmeat, and heat thoroughly. Blend in the wine. It went great with the pizza!

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point; Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Students Honored At Central Science Fair Awards Assembly

Thirteen students were recently honored for outstanding science projects at an awards ceremony at Central Middle School.

Mayor Francis McCauley congratulated the students as Principal Louis DiMartino presented each with an engraved desk pen set.

Students in grades six, seven and eight were singled out for their outstanding efforts of collecting data, organizing statistics and overall presentation.

Grade six students honored were Michael Santoro for his project "How Do Walkmen Affect Hearing?" and Erin Sullivan for her project "The Effect of Colored Lights on Photosynthesis."

Grade seven students and their projects are Patricia Meighan, "Who Reads More-Boys or Girls?"; Regina Murphy, "Does Diet Affect Exercise?"; Sarah Nelson, "Male Female-Right Brain, Left Brain Predominance," Joshua O'Donnell, "The Ozone Layer Hole: How Will This Affect Plants?"; Heather Powell, Heather Rendle and Jennifer Reynolds, "Does Diet Affect Exercise?"; Mark Scott, "Effect of Light on Fish," and Jennifer Walker, "Is Sludge Safe to Use as a Compost?"

Eight graders who earned this special recognition were Jennifer George with her experiment "Radiation on Plants" and Erin Maness with "Further into the Study of Genetic ESP Reversal."

The awards for the 10th Science Fair since Central became a middle school have been named for two former science teachers, Hallem Haddad who died in 1976 and Robert Lips who retired this past year. Their enthusiasm for their subject and their students generated interest and commitment which have earned them respect for their professionalism in education.

The awards have been named "The Louis and Haddad Special Awards in Science."

William McWeeny, a teacher in Central's science department, was the coordinator of the Science Fair which involved 212 students directly with experiments and exhibits.

Forty-three judges evaluated the student projects, sharing their expertise with each student he or she evaluated.

Emphasis was placed on contribution, not competition. All students received certificates for participation.

Former students who returned as evaluators included Mary Costa, Linda DesRocher, Mark Harlow, Edward Ramsden, Marge Ridout, Elaine Sagarin and Linda Walker.

At QJC Saturday

Over 50 Exhibits At Environmental Fair

More than 50 exhibits to view and for participation will be featured at the first annual Quincy Junior College Environmental Fair on Saturday, July 16 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Saville Hall, 24 Saville Ave., Quincy Center.

Leo J. Kelly, environmental fair chairman, said this will be Quincy's as well as the South Shore's, biggest environmental fair ever.

Kelly said the fair is an excellent opportunity for adults and children to become aware of the numerous and often complex environmental issues of today in a pleasurable atmosphere.

"Families will be able to learn about the environment while enjoying the fair," he said.

Admission is free. Refreshments will be served.

There will be many demonstrations, films and lectures on the region's environmental concerns by 50 federal and state agencies and local organizations.

The opening ceremony will be at 10 a.m. and include introductions and greetings by Mayor Francis McCauley, Dr. O. Clayton Johnson, president of QJC, and Kelly.

The Environmental Protection Agency will present its study on Quincy Bay at 10:30 a.m.

Other exhibitors include the Massachusetts Audubon Society, Boston Harbor Monitoring Program, Boston Gas, Energy Conservation, and the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority which will demonstrate water conservation and household hazardous wastes.

Residents are invited to bring water samples for an analysis.

A contest will also be conducted where the winner could receive a $100 savings bond by remembering the anniversaries of two events of this century with major environmental impact: the 50th of the 1938 Hurricane and the 10th of the Blizzard of 1978.

Anyone wishing to donate or lend pictures of these two storms, to be used to create a display for the fair, is asked to bring them to the office of Robert Downey, dean of academic affairs, Quincy Junior College.

Other special events planned for the fair include: MDC bus trips to Black's Creek Salt Marshes and Quincy quarries; a fully operating weather station with meteorologist Rob Gilman and live animal exhibits by the Trilside Museum and Stoneham Zoo. Gilman will distribute a 1988 Blue Hills Observatory hurricane chart free.

There will also be face painting and windsock making.

Fall registration for QJC's day and evening classes will also be available.

Other booth exhibitors will include:

Federal agencies: U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, U.S. Coast Guard-Auxiliary, U.S. Commerce-National Marine Fisheries, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the U.S. Interior-National Park Service.

State agencies: Environmental Affairs, Coastal Zone Management, Environmental Management, Boston Harbor Islands State Park, Environmental Office of Engineering, Executive Office of Environmental Affairs, Fisheries, Wildlife and Law Enforcement, Food and Agriculture, Marine Fisheries, and these divisions of the MDC: MetroParks, Wollaston Beach Reservation, Reservation and Historic Sites, Quincy Quarries, Water Shed-Quabbin Reservoir and Zoo Mobile.

Environmental organizations: AAG Edwards, Alliance for Boston Harbor Action, Boston Gas, City of Quincy Public Health Department, City of Quincy Recycling Committee, Central Middle School of Quincy, Clean Water Action Project, East Braintree Civic Association, Friends of the Blue Hills, Friends of Boston Harbor Islands, Herring Run Association, Massachusetts Association of Conservation Commissions, Massachusetts Bay Marine Studies, MIT Sea Grant, Massachusetts Respiratory Hospital, NAHAD-International, Inc., New England Aquarium, New England Wildlife Center, Quincy Conservation Commission, Quincy Junior College-Environmental Class, Save Our Shores and Save The Harbor, Save The Bay.

Beaches 'Swimmable'

Quincy's 15 beach areas were considered swimmable according to water quality samples taken July 5.

The Quincy Health Department considers beach water samples of fecal coliform counts of less than 200 swimmable.

Counts of over 200 are unacceptable and unhealthy for swimming, according to the health department.

The results are:
Avalon Beach: Total coliform, 50; fecal coliform, 0.
Mound Beach: 20, 5.
Broady Beach: 40, 0.
Germantown Fire Station: 100, 5.
Rhoda Beach: 80, 10.
Edgewater Dr.: 70, 10.
Parkhurst St.: 140, 0.
Post Island Rd.: 20, 0.

Chickatawbut Rd.: 100, 5.
Wollaston-Rice Rd.: 10, 0.
Wollaston-Sachem St.: 10, 6.

Wollaston-Channing St.: 60, 20.
Wollaston-Milton St.: 900, 70.

Nickerson Beach: 280, 50.
Orchard Beach: 80, 0.
The next tests were scheduled for July 12.

ARTHUR STEPHEN TOBIN

THE RESPONSIVE STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Tobin will fight to make Mass. Water Resources Authority responsive to needs and concerns of Quincy Citizens.

Tobin has the courage and conviction to speak out on your behalf!

On Beacon Hill:

- Tobin was the only candidate to appear and speak on your behalf before a legislative committee urging the state to take over the water sewer costs.

Quincy Public Hearing:

- Tobin opposed water sewer lines through Germantown and Adams Shore neighborhoods.
- Tobin demanded that the Mass. Water Resources Authority do what is right for the people.

THAT IS WHY ARTHUR STEPHEN TOBIN SHOULD BE OUR NEXT STATE REPRESENTATIVE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Anger is the wind that blows out the light of reason." "It is easier to swallow angry words than to have to eat them." "An angry man is always full of poison," Confucius said. (And modern medicine confirms his observation.) Common sense should tell us how important it is to conquer anger. What good does it do to blow off steam, if it disrupts blood circulation and either aggravates or brings on ailments in body and spirit? And anger does just that! Ask your doctor!

Anger can provide a very tricky personal problem to many people. We like what Norman Vincent Peale says of this problem: "An angry, irritable disposition can operate to rob a person of success and happiness. You cannot overcome anger by merely telling yourself that you won't be angry. Nor is it necessarily required that someone else project serene thoughts into your subconsciousness. You can build such thoughts into your own subconsciousness by affirming your ability to exercise emotional control until your mind accepts that you are no longer going to let anger harm you..." Yes, anger can be bad. For whom? You!

Community Health Screenings At Quincy Hospital

Quincy City Hospital is offering community health screenings each Wednesday afternoon.

The screening consists of a comprehensive blood chemistry analysis, which will evaluate blood glucose, cholesterol, BUN, creatinine, calcium, hemoglobin, and several other parameters. A urine specimen will also be taken for analysis.

A registered nurse will review the results of the screening test with the patient. Copies of the test results will be given to the patient, and copies will be sent to the patient's personal physician. If the individual does not have a personal physician, the nurse will assist the patient to select one, through the Quincy City Hospital Doctor Directory (Physician Referral Service).

Community health screenings are offered weekly. Next scheduled date is Wednesday, July 20, from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the Ambulatory Care Department. Patients will register for the testing through the Out-Patient Registration Department area in the Admitting Department. Fee for the screening is $10 and is due at the time of service. Cash, check or bank card are accepted for payment.

For additional information on the Community Health Screenings, the Hospital's Diabetes Clinic or free blood pressure screening clinics held at Quincy City Hospital, contact the Ambulatory Care Department at the hospital at 773-6100, ext. 3009, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. on weekdays.

Contact with the Physicians' Referral Service, the "Doctor Directory," may be made between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. on weekdays.

Bookcraft Programs For Children At Library

Four Bookcraft programs for children 8 years and older will take place at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Square on Thursdays at 10:30 a.m.

The next sessions are July 21, Aug. 4, and Aug. 18.

Each session will feature a specific and different format. After investigating books from the Central Children's collection, instructions and a craft period will allow all participants to make their own books. Supplies will be provided.

To register, those interested may call the library at 984-1950, extension 322, or inquire at the children's desk. Since each session will include complete instructions, youngsters may attend one or all sessions.

25 To Compete For Miss Quincy Bay Title

Twenty-five contestants will compete for the title of Miss Quincy Bay of 1988 and some $2,500 in prizes Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Quincy Center Plaza.

For the sixth straight year, the beauty pageant, highlight of the annual downtown Quincy sidewalk bazaar, will be staged at Quincy Center Plaza, corner of Hancock and Granite Sts.

The new queen, to be crowned by last year's winner, Renee Vardaro of Brockton, will reign over the 51st Quincy Bay Race Week Aug. 10-14.

She will also receive the largest share of the prizes. The four runners-up will also share in the prizes which include jewelry, gift certificates and savings bonds.

The new Miss Quincy Bay will also receive a $1,000 scholarship from Quincy Junior College.

This year's pageant theme is the 100th anniversary of Quincy as a city.

Among the pageant's features will be past queens modeling antique costumes and the presentation of future Miss Quincy Bays.

Entertainment and commentary will be provided by yesterday performers, Adam and Eve.

Music for the pageant will be provided by Baron Hugo and his orchestra.

Bernie Reisberg will be the emcee.

There will be five judges: Michelle Toth, Miss Quincy Bay, 1986; Cynthia Ryder of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association; Dr. O. Clayton Johnson, president of Quincy Junior College; Ronald Zooleck, executive director of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce; and Bill Wilder, president of Quincy Bay Race Week.

Tabulator is Richard Corner.

In case of inclement weather, the pageant will be held Saturday at 6 p.m. at Quincy Center Plaza.

The pageant is co-sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the Quincy Bay Race Week Association.

Contestants, South Shore single girls age 16 and over, will be judged in evening gowns and swimsuit competition.

They will be escorted by commodores of the Quincy Bay Race Week associated yacht clubs.

Contestants, in alphabetical order, are:

● Legion Baseball Quincy Runs Streak To 4

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy Legion baseball team edged Mass. Truck of Weymouth, 6-5, Monday night for its fourth win in a row to improve to 8-4 and take over fourth place in Zone 6 as it continues its quest for a playoff berth.

Quincy will host league-leading Braintree tonight (Thursday) at 8:30 at Adams Field, will play Morrisette Friday at 8:30 at Adams and will play at Milton Monday at 6. It has a game to make up with Holbrook to close out the regular season.

Robbie Higgins went the distance for Quincy against Mass. Truck, giving up eight hits, striking out seven, including the side in the second, and walked only one, as he improved to 6-2.

Weymouth took a 1-0 lead in the first but Quincy tied it in the second when Higgins singled, advanced on a balk, went to third on a fielder's choice and scored on Paul McLellan's perfect squeeze bunt.

Weymouth took a 3-1 lead in the third on Higgins' only walk and two hits, one a two-run double. Quincy bounced back with a run in the fourth on two errors and two walks but Weymouth added a run in the fifth on a triple and single to take a 4-2 lead.

Quincy tied it with two in the fifth when Jim Kearns singled but was out stealing. Jim Dennis doubled 350 feet over the right fielder's head and scored on a double to center by Nick Dragone. Higgins greeted a relief pitcher with a single, scoring Dragone.

Weymouth again went ahead with an unearned run in the sixth but Quincy won it in the bottom half when Peter Tufts and McLellan singled, Mike Ioland forced Tufts at third, Peter McLaughlin ran for Ioland and both runners moved up on an infield out. Dennis again doubled in McLellan after McLoughlin scored on a balk. Higgins shut the door in the seventh to earn the win.

Quincy outlasted Canton, 9-8, being forced to win in the last inning after losing a 7-1 lead.

Quincy scored six runs in the first as Dennis tripled, Bill Mulhern doubled, Dragone singled, Higgins and Sean Gately walked, Tufts hit a 400-foot double and Joe Taylor singled.

Quincy left the bases loaded in the second, scoring a run on singles by Dennis and Mulhern, a sacrifice by Dragone and Higgins' single. Canton scored a run in the second, two in the fifth and five in the sixth off three Quincy pitchers before Higgins came in with the bases loaded and struck out Canton's cleanup hitter.

Trailing, 8-7, Quincy tied it in the bottom of the sixth when Dragone singled, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Higgins' single.

Higgins struck out the side in the seventh and Quincy won it in the bottom half as McLoughlin led off with a walk, Kearns grounded to second, moving McLoughlin to second. McLellan reached on a fielder's choice as McLoughlin beat the throw to third and Mulhern singled in the winning run.

Kearns had a single and Higgins a double for the other Quincy hits. Quincy pitchers struck out 12, giving them 107 in 11 games.

In a makeup game, Quincy defeated Canton, 9-2, with Dennis pitching five-hit ball, striking out nine and walking two.

Quincy scored a run in the first when Kearns singled, Mulhern walked and Dragone singled. It added two in the third when Dennis walked, Dragone singled, both moved up on a fielder's choice and Higgins singled them home.

Quincy clinched it with four runs in the fourth on an error, a walk to Kearns, Dennis was hit by a pitch, Mulhern cleared the bases with a double and, following a walk to Dragone, Mulhern scored on an error.

Quincy added two in the sixth when Dennis was again hit by a pitch. Mulhern forced him at second, Dragone doubled and Higgins drove in both runners with a single.

Gately had two singles for Quincy.

The umpires called the game after the sixth when the Canton pitchers hit the fourth Quincy batter of the night and tensions began to mount.

Higgins, who pitched at the U. of Maine this season and is having an outstanding Legion season, pitched a three-hitter, struck out nine and didn't issue a walk as Quincy blanked Wollaston, 7-0.

Bill Bellew, Rick Hutchings and Rob Keddy had the only hits for Wollaston.

Quincy collected 12 hits off loser J.J. Steen and Bob Austin, who relieved in the seventh.

Quincy scored three runs in the first on a single by Kearns, a walk to Dennis, a double by Dragone and Higgins' single.

It added a run in the sixth on back-to-back doubles by Ioland and Gately. Quincy added three in the seventh on singles by Mulhern, Dragone, Gately and Larry Balke and an error. Other Quincy hits were collected by Tufts, Higgins and Gately.

Morrisette Detours Mass. Truck, 11-7

The Morrisette Legion baseball team continued its battle with Braintree for first place in Zone 6 when it scored 11 runs in the first three innings and held on to defeat Mass. Truck of Weymouth, 11-7, and improve its record to 8-2.

Morrisette will play Quincy Friday night at 8:15 at Adams Field and will host Holbrook Monday night at 8:15 at Adams. It will face Mass. Truck in a makeup game next Wednesday and will still have two games to make up.

Morrisette scored six runs in the first inning against Mass. Truck on three hits, three walks and an error. It added three in the second and two more in the third.

Wayne Chambers was Morrisette's starting pitcher and went 5 1/3 innings to improve his record to 3-1. He, like the other pitchers, was bothered by the intense heat and was relieved by Dan Overby with one out in the sixth. Chambers gave up all seven runs, five of them earned, struck out six and walked five. Overby, in his first action since undergoing a shoulder operation, pitched well to get the save. He gave up one hit, struck out two and walked one.

Billy MacDougall went 3-for-4. Ron Fletcher had two hits and two RBI. Jeff Calvert had two RBI on a single and Ed Flavin, Dan Biagini and Rob McDonald also drove in runs.

Last Saturday night Morrisette rolled over Randolph, 14-1. With games piling up, coach Dave Perdios found himself short of pitchers as his ace, Eric DeBoer, came up with a sore arm. Perdios went to catcher McDonald and he proceeded to pitch a two-hitter, giving up both hits and Randolph's lone run in the first. He struck out seven and walked three to pick up his first pitching win.

Three Randolph pitchers issued 11 walks and also gave up 11 hits.

Morrisette scored twice in the first, four times in the second and iced the game with five in the fifth, led by Ron Fletcher's grand slam home run.

Eight of Morrisette's starters had hits, with Biagini having a triple and two RBI. McDonald had two hits and two RBI. Calvert two RBI on bases loaded walks, Chambers was 2-for-3 with an RBI. Billy MacDougall and Flavin had RBIs and Mike Mullaney and Tony Anderlonis had hits.

In its previous game Morrisette dropped a 4-3 decision to Braintree, which scored twice in the bottom of the seventh for the win.

Braintree used its ace, Ted Novio, on the mound and he was opposed by Kevin MacDougall, a 16-year-old who did an excellent job in his first Legion start.

Morrisette scored in the second when Biagini hit a 380-foot home run to right-center, McDonald singled, went to third on Calvert's single and scored on Fletcher's sacrifice fly. Braintree scored once in the third and tied it in the fifth.

Morrisette went ahead in the sixth when Billy MacDougall looped a double down the left field line and scored on Flavin's single.

In the bottom of the seventh Joe Tosone singled for Braintree and was bunted to second. Chambers relieved MacDougall. Rick Delvecchio hit back to the mound. Then came the key play of the game.

The next batter topped a slow roller between first and second that was smothered by first baseman Jim Ross. He couldn't make the throw in time and Braintree took advantage as Bob Kearney hit a long fly just over Calvert's head in right field for a game-winning triple, handing Chambers his first defeat.

McDonald had two hits and Chambers a triple off Novio, who struck out 10 and didn't give up a walk.

Earlier Morrisette had split a doubleheader with Milton, breezing, 15-0, in the first game and losing its first game, 8-4, in the nightcap.

Morrisette pounded out 20 hits in the opener, 11 of them in the fifth inning when it scored 11 runs. Chambers was pitching an outstanding game, giving up two hits, striking out 10 and walking one.

Biagini and Flavin each went 4-for-5, Biagini having a triple, driving in four runs and scoring two, and Flavin also had a triple, drove in three and scored four. Billy MacDougall, McDonald, Fletcher and Chambers had two hits each and Fletcher drove in two runs. Mullaney, Calvert, Anderlonis and Jimmy Glynn had a hit each, Glynn driving in a run with a double.

Morrisette fell apart in the second game as it committed seven errors and several mental errors as DeBoer suffered his first loss. Only one of seven runs off him was earned. Tim Brillo relieved in the seventh.

Mullaney drove in two runs with a triple, Flavin had two more hits and Biagini, McDonald and Anderlonis had a hit each.

• Junior Baseball Gear Racks Up 3

Boston Gear added three more victories last week to improve its Quincy Junior Baseball League record to 15-5.

Gear avenged an earlier defeat with a 9-4 victory over the VFW with Timmy Byrne pitching one of his best games, allowing seven hits, striking out nine and walking four.

Gear's attack was led by Kenny Ledwak and Sean Kennerson, each with a double and two singles. Danny Duncan's two-run homer in the second inning proved the winning hit and he also had a double and played a strong game at shortstop. George Wirtz had two key singles and made several outstanding plays at second base. Jeff Burrell had a key single and caught a fine game. Tommy Sullivan, 10-year-old third baseman, had a single and played excellent defense, and Bernie Mullen, Bryan Raftery, Sean Dolbare, Johnny McLoughlin and Kevin Keddy all played fine defense.

Keith Driscoll pitched well for VFW.

Gear overpowered State Street, 17-3, with Byrne again the winning pitcher, giving up three singles, all to Robert Rose. He struck out 14 and walked three. He also had a key single.

Going into the bottom of the third and the score 2-2, Gear exploded for seven runs, four coming on Wirtz' grand slam homer. He also had two singles.

McLoughlin had three singles, Dolbare, Bernie Mullen and Raftery two hits each. Danny Duncan a towering two-run homer and Ledwak and Burrell a single each. Sullivan and Keddy were outstanding on defense.

Gear also topped the Elks, 12-4, with Duncan the winning pitcher, striking out 12 and walking three. He also had a double and single.

Raftery led the hit parade with a double and two singles and four RBI. He has been playing hurt all year and has been a key in the team's success. He will undergo surgery on both feet at the end of the season. Mullen and Wirtz had two hits and Dolbare and Byrne one each. Ledwak, in his second year with Gear, has played six different positions and has sparked at each. Burrell, McLoughlin, Sullivan and Keddy played strong defense against the Elks.

Sandra Jordan Charity Golf Winner

Sandra Jordan of Quincy was one of the award winners during recent Main Spring

The tournament was sponsored by Jack Conway Realtor Co. and raised $7,500 for the homeless.

The tournament attracted the maximum 144 players.

Jordan took home an award for Women's Low Gross.

The proceeds from the tournament will help fund the purchase of a building for homeless women.

Wollaston Legion Still Up And Down

Wollaston Legion's baseball team continued its up and down season last week with a win and a loss to make its record 6-8.

Wollaston defeated Holbrook, 4-2, with Mark DiMattio pitching a three-hitter and striking out seven.

Wollaston scored three runs in the seventh, two coming on a single by Bill Bellew.

Jim Bryan opened the inning by reaching on an error, DiMattio singled and Jay Ilespasio set up Bellew's game-winning hit with an RBI single that broke a 1-1 tie.

Wollaston lost to Quincy, 7-0, as Quincy's Rob Higgins (6-2) pitched a three-hitter and struck out nine.

Bellew, Rick Hutchings and Rob Keddy had the only hits for Wollaston.

T.J. Steen was the starting and losing pitcher and Bob Austin relieved in the seventh. Quincy started off with three runs in the first inning and never looked back.

• Jaehnig League

Heating Wins Regular Season Title

Led by the goaltending of Tommy Meade, the scoring of Tommy Satkevich, Keith Murdock and Jason Fennessy and the defense of Mike Duffy and Patrick Joyce, a Quincy Youth All-Star under 12 soccer team, coached by John Murphy, won one of the nation's largest soccer tournaments, the John Smith tournament at Wheaton College in Norton.

More than 240 teams from four New England states competed in the two-day event.

Quincy was grouped with 39 other teams and had to win four games in a row on the last day to reach the finals.

Here Quincy defeated Marlboro, 3-2, to win the championship after trailing, 2-0, at halftime.

Other members of the Quincy team were Dan Donahue, Matt Boston, Zac Costa, Ian Zilla, Jason Downey and Sean Joyce.

Congratulations go to the boys and their parents who cheered them on for six hours of soccer spread over 14 hours in a two-day period.

Youth All Stars Win Tourney

J.B. Heating clinched the regular season title in the Jaehnig Chiropractic Men's Summer Basketball League with an easy 105-55 victory over the outmanned Hoop Junkies.

John Byers had 35 points and Brian Levitt 33 for Heating, while Bob Flaherty had 15 for the Junkies.

Kane's Place looks ready for the playoffs on the strength of an 82-64 win over Masterclean. Mark Millane had 24, Dean Coletti 23 and Bill Dacey 16 for Kane's. Kevin McGrath had 17, Brian Donahue 16 and Greg Smith 14 for Masterclean.

In the highest scoring game in league history, the Miller A.C. outlasted 1-Troop, 106-96. Mike Cohen had 29, Rick Stoltz 26 and Billy Loughbone 22 for Miller while Paul Cornell had 25, Russ Boyle 24, Bill Wentworth 22 and George Isan 21 for 1-Troop.

The Jaehnig Club held on to defeat the Republicans, 76-66, with Chuck Jaehnig scoring 22, Marty Connolly 19 and Paul Leonard 18. Pete Hall, who tied Mark Millane for the scoring title with an average of 27 points a game, was held to 17 points for the Republicans. Kevin Lottermilk had 16 and Chip Bunker played well defensively.

In the playoff opener this week 1-Troop and the Hoop Junkies, both 2-7, met in a preliminary matchup. In quarterfinal play tonight (Thursday) at St. Joseph's gym, Miller (7-2) meets the Celtics (4-5) at 6 p.m. Kane's (6-3) faces the Republicans (4-5) at 7 p.m. J.B. Heating (8-1) plays the Junkie 1-Troop winner at 8 and Jaehnig (6-3) meets Masterclean (6-3) at 9.

The public is welcome at all games.

Storyteller In Concert At Crane Library July 19

Storyteller Betty Lehrman will appear in concert Tuesday, July 19 at 7 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Sq.

Lehrman's performance is the second in the library's storytelling series funded by the Quincy Arts Council.

The series is offered without charge to families with children age five and older.

Lehrman is a newcomer at the Quincy storytelling scene but is a frequent and popular performer in the greater Boston area. A performer as well as a teacher, Lehrman has appeared in scores of schools and libraries, at storytelling institutes and festivals, and on public radio. She performs extensively throughout the northeast United States and has even performed in Australia.

Lehrman is the co-producer of "Stories After Dark," a sell-out concert series for adults. She has also recorded stories and songs on cassette, "Tales for the Telling" and "Watermelon and Other Stories."

Her performance promises

to be a lively program of stories and songs, including a scary story called "The Graveyard Voice."

Other performers scheduled this summer at the library are Scot Cannon, mime, on July 26, Judith Black on Aug. 2, Len Cabral on Aug. 9 and West of the Moon on Aug. 16.

Historical Society Plans Trip To Lowell Park

A trip to the Lowell National Historical Park will take place Aug. 25 sponsored by the Quincy Historical Society.

When in Lowell, participants may choose either a two-hour Mill and Canal Tour or a One Hour Pawtucket Canal Tour.

Lunch will be served for the group at the Speare House.

There will be a tour of a local art gallery after lunch.

Call the Quincy Historical Society Center at 773-1144.

HN Center Plans Trip To Music Circus

A July 28 bus trip to the South Shore Music Circus for children ages three through ten will be scheduled by the Houghs Neck Community Center.

A bus will leave the Center at 9:45 a.m. for the 10:30 a.m. presentation of "Alice in Wonderland." Return will be about 12:30 p.m.

Children under the age of seven must be accompanied by an older child or parents. Thirty tickets have been purchased. Fee for bus and ticket is $5 for children and $6 for parents.

Those interested in going are asked to call Pat Riden at 471-8251 after July 11. Payment is due before July 26.

ESL Tutor Training Workshop At Library

A workshop for adults interested in learning to tutor English as a second language will be held at the Thomas Crane Library July and August.

The library's tutoring program provides free, one-on-one tutoring for adults whose native language is not English.

Working as part of the Literacy Volunteers network, tutors complete a 16 hour training workshop and tutor two hours a week for one year.

The workshop will be held July 25, 27, Aug. 1, 3, 8 and 10 from 7-9:30 p.m. at the North Quincy Branch, 381 Hancock St.

Enrollment is limited so interested participants should respond immediately. Call Ann McLaughlin at the library, 984-1950, for more information.

Joan Collins

CAN ALEXIS MAKE SABLE'S FUR FLY? Why, you may ask, are they bringing ex "Colbys" star Stephanie Beacham (Sable) onto "Dynasty" this fall? Because dear Alexis (Joan Collins) just hasn't had an adversary worthy of her plots and shots for many a season. Together, these brittle-y brilliant Brits may put some pep back into an almost-too-pumped-to-pop series.

CBS' upcoming "Jack the Ripper" will expose secrets kept hidden for the past 100 years.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're renowned for your intuition, your sensitivity, your resourcefulness. You are also said to be highly patriotic. Emotions sometimes get carried away. Latter half of '88 is favorable for travel, both for pleasure and work. Friendship is the dominant theme of early '89.

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19

Intuition is on your side this week, but rely on logic as well. Property transactions require special care. Recent disappointment may prove a blessing in disguise.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20

Avoid becoming uncomfortably involved in the problems of coworkers. Home improvements are generally favored, and your own sense of design is impressive. Surprise windfall may arrive by Monday.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20

Weekdays find you tackling some dreary but essential tasks, but the week has a Cinderella quality. It's a highly social time - with lots of glamor. You feel like the toast of the town.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22

Staying close to home has benefits, but it's useful to explore new turf as well. Balancing is the key in a week that finds you designing, debating and delegating.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21

Week sees you visiting new places, playing host to fresh faces, trying new tactics when it comes to easing tensions. On balance, it's a very favorable period.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22

Accent is on vanity, travel, new challenges, civic responsibility, playing matchmaker, meeting VIPs, and enjoying lots of culture - all this and more may be on the agenda.

LEO - July 23 - August 22

Difficulties with relatives can be resolved, but realize that compromise may not be exactly 50/50. You can express yourself well visually - a good week to take up - or resume - sketching.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22

Your gift with language earns the chance to work with someone you admire. Travel is favorable but avoid excesses and try to learn the true meaning of "relax."

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22

Be wary of taking anyone into your confidence this week. Partner is inclined to do a lot of mind changing. Prepare too for a more demanding, but more rewarding, schedule.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21

Small but significant bonus may arrive at this time. Partner is more willing to see your point of view. Opportunity arises for smoothing a relative's ruffled feathers.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22

You have a knack for bringing together a team. A rocky friendship may be on a steadier course. Travel arrangements require checking. News from faraway arrives after an annoying delay.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20

Friends and relatives respond positively to your ideas, and you find you enjoy a leadership role. Fitness activity may appeal, but don't make major investments till you know it's for you.

BORN THIS WEEK

July 14th, actress Polly Bergen, 15th, singer Linda Ronstadt, 16th, actress Barbara Stanwick, 17th, singer Diann Carroll, 18th, singer Paul McCartney, 19th, singer Vikki Carr, 20th, actress Diana Rigg.

City To Take Legal Action Against 17 Taxpayers

Mayor Francis McCauley said Tuesday the city, through the treasurer's office and the City Solicitor's office, will initiate a new round of legal actions to be filed in Quincy District Court against 17 delinquent personal property tax accounts totaling approximately $43,060.

During the past two and a half years, $426,000 has been collected in personal property collections, he said.

McCauley said the following delinquent accounts will be placed in suit under General Laws, Chapter 59, within the next 10 days.

Gerald S. Lyons, doing business at Harvey's Boat Livery, $5,358.

Atty. Richard D. Paster and Atty. Ronald Rice, $1,216.

R & K Realty Trust, $1,030. Florence Wallace Real Estate, $94.

Joseph Ansaldi, $3,121. Atty. Jeffrey C. LaPointe, $636.

Judge Landscaping, $2,823.

William Simon, $1,096.

Santo J. Chiaramonte, $862.

William Saccone Jr., $686.

Barbara DuJardine, $655. Johnson's Filling Station, $317.

William Chiaramonte, $286.

Executive Recruiters, I.T.D., $109.

Dr. Clyde Lewis, $15,711.

Atty. John W. Sharry, $1,035.

Stephen Richmond, $8,025.

McCauley said $212,100 was collected in personal property taxes while there was $92,956 in abatements for the period Sept. 1986 through December, 1987.

Bids Sought In Street Resurfacing Project

Mayor Francis McCauley has authorized the Public Works Department to advertise for bids for the 1988 Street Resurfacing Program.

Phase One of the program, which includes portions of 10 streets, is fully reimbursable under Chapter 90. Total estimated cost is $465,500.

Streets included in Phase One are:

Burgin Parkway (Adams to Granite); Fieno St. (Rice to Quincy Shore Dr.); Billings Rd. (Apthor to MBI); Sumner St. (full length); Elm Ave. (Hancock to Green); Quarry St. (Common to Furnace Br.); Sea St. (Hancock to Rockland); W. Squantum (Hancock to Milton line); Harvard St. (#208 to Beale) and Liberty St. (remaining portion).

Phase Two, which includes 11 streets, three of which are 75 percent reimbursable under Chapter 90, will be completed if the city's share of the cost becomes available.

Estimated cost for Phase Two is $233,700.

Streets in the second phase are: Turner St., Freeman St., Nut Island Ave., Shore Dr., Circuit Rd., Spaulding St., Altamount and Apex, Reardon St., Elcott Rd., Craig Ave., and Robertson St.

The mayor said the contract will be awarded shortly after Labor Day.

Construction will be completed by the end of the year, weather permitting, he said.

Any unfinished construction will be completed next spring, McCauley added.

Meeting Thursday To Push Spectacle Island As Sludge Site

A meeting planning the ways to best represent Spectacle Island and not General Dynamics as the most favorable place for a long-term sewage treatment and sludge processing plant will take place at City Hall tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m.

The meeting will be held by OASIS, the Organization Advocating Spectacle Island Site.

According to Ward 1 Councillor Michael Cheney, Spectacle Island, which is in Boston Harbor, is a more favorable location than the old General Dynamics site, which is also under consideration.

"It is important for all residents of the city of Quincy that the long-term sludge processing plant be located at Spectacle Island in order that we might return the General Dynamics Shipyard to its highest and best use, which is building ships," he said.

Representatives from communities such as Revere, Wapole, Stoughton, Randolph, Chelsea, Lynn, Medfield, Ashland, and Boston are expected to attend.

OASIS was formed after Sen. William Bulger said the General Dynamics site would be ideal for a long term facility. Cheney said that remark was improper.

According to the councillor, Quincy could realize up to $1 million if the shipyard were reactivated by 1996 although the city has already received millions of dollars for the interim plant at G.E.

Resentment towards Bulger on Cheney's part could come from the fact that rate payers of the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority, which includes Quincy, are going to have to pay for the cleanup of Boston's combined sewer overflow, or CSO.

"Sen. Bulger is unrealistic to expect the ratepayers to pick up the expected several million dollar cost of correcting Boston's problems if Boston is unwilling to share in the burden of cleaning up Boston Harbor," he said.

Cheney said he is willing to meet with Bulger to discuss Spectacle Island as the ideal location of a sewage treatment plant.

Peter Kolson Named QHA Maintenance Superintendent

Peter Kolson will succeed James D'Olimpio as superintendent of maintenance for the Quincy Housing Authority Board of Commissioners.

Kolson will take his new position in August, when D'Olimpio retires.

He was worked for QHA since 1970. He is an Army veteran and has been involved with many community activities.

Among his civic work are service as an officer in the Germantown Neighborhood Association, service in the Adams Shore Community Association, and the Quincy Citizens Association.

He is the incoming cubmaster of Cub Scouts Pack 26, Germantown.

Blood Pressure Screening At Hospital

Quincy City Hospital will conduct a free blood pressure screening for the general public Tuesday, July 19, in the Ambulatory Care Department from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m.

The Ambulatory Care Department is located on Huntington.

The screenings, performed by nursing staff, will enable the individual to keep track of his blood pressure, and to be aware of dangerous elevations in the pressure. Persons in need of referral to a physician will be advised to do so. Referrals to physicians are possible through the QCHH Doctor Directory at the individual's request.

The screenings, which take place at the hospital on the first and third Tuesday of each month, are free of charge. All are welcome to attend.

Museum Passes At Library

The Friends of the Library have purchased museum passes for another year for use of library borrowers.

Passes to the Children's Museum, the Science Museum and the Garden in the Woods in Framingham are available to borrow from the Main Library.

Passes may be reserved a day in advance and kept for three days with a $5 deposit. More information may be obtained by calling the library, 984-1950.

McCauley Optimistic

'City Will Weather State Aid Cuts'

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The city will continue to operate as budgeted, despite Gov. Michael Dukakis' veto of $1.2 million in state aid to Quincy, Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday.

"It's a blow to the city of Quincy but we'll weather the storm," McCauley said, referring to the veto.

On Sunday, Gov. Dukakis vetoed $91 million in state aid to local cities and towns including Quincy to balance the state budget for fiscal 1989. Of that aid package, $1,129,135 was headed to Quincy before the veto.

McCauley said Quincy's 1989 fiscal budget of $110 million already has a shortfall of between $3 and $3.8 million. He said the state aid would have gone to help cover the imbalance.

"Despite this tight situation, there'll be no drastic cuts or any (Prop. 2½) override or layoffs of personnel. We'll close that gap by transferring funds from reserve funds," McCauley said.

"I don't have any plans to reduce any budgets. I'm sure I'll be able to overcome any shortfalls by transferring funds from reserves," he added.

Presently, there is a balance of $2.2 million in reserves. That total last year was $10.1 million but dropped to its present figure after the city spent $7.9 on various programs and equipment.

"We've done a lot of good things with the free cash," the mayor said.

According to McCauley: • $4 million was spent on capital equipment for schools and a number of city departments, including fire and police.

• Some $2.3 million was spent on waste disposal costs in order to have trash hauled to a landfill in East Bridgewater.

• And $1.6 million was used to fund the clean up at the West Quincy landfill in order to bring it up to state standards.

McCauley said the vetoed aid would have been additional funding since the state gave Quincy $38 million in total aid for fiscal 1989 in March. The aid is commonly called the "Cherry Sheets."

"In recent years, additional money has come in but not this year," McCauley said.

Last year, Quincy received $700,000 in additional aid. In 1986, $300,000 was allotted to Quincy by the state.

Although Quincy will continue to operate as budgeted this year, McCauley is unsure about the city's financial outlook for 1990.

The mayor predicted next year's fiscal budget to be around $118 million.

"I'll be able to get by this year but I don't know about next year," McCauley said.

Funds In Budget For State Police Barracks

A new $3 million State Police barracks, to be built at the site of the former Howard Johnson restaurant on the Southeast Expressway in West Quincy, was included in the 1989 fiscal budget passed into law over the weekend by Gov. Michael Dukakis, announces Rep. Michael Morrissey (D-Quincy).

Funding for the 23-trooper barracks, which will replace the facility in Norwell, was included in the governor's supplemental budget, Morrissey said.

"This will be a great location for them," said Morrissey, who has worked on the project for three years.

State Police for the present Norwell barracks patrol the region from Plymouth to Milton.

In addition to relocating the Norwell barracks, the new facility will be more modern to include holding cells and enclosed garage area to unload prisoners, Morrissey said.

The $3 million outlay includes furnishings and equipment, he said.

Toland Challenges Candidates To Debate

Patricia Toland, candidate for state representative in the Second Norfolk District, has challenged the other two Democratic candidates to a debate on the issues.

The challenge was quickly accepted by candidate Stephen Durkin.

"I welcome the chance for a debate," he said. "I've been hoping we'd have as many debates as possible."

Issues such as education, crime, harbor cleanup, the MWRA, and health care would be some of the top issues he said he'd like to discuss with Toland and Stephen Arthur Tobin, the other Democratic challenger.

Tobin was campaigning at press time and could not be reached for comment.

At a press conference Tuesday afternoon, Toland said, "I am here today to propose that a debate be held in the near future among the three Democratic candidates so that we may better define our goals and make our viewpoints known."

"It is my hope that the other candidates will see the importance of this process and agree to have a representative from their campaigns meet with my representative as soon as possible to work out scheduling, structure, and general format," she said.

Toland said the debate would be beneficial to Quincy voters. "Hopefully this forum will provide the voters of the second Norfolk district with the information and knowledge needed to make an informed choice," she said.

Annual Event Another Success

Sidewalk Bazaar Makes Cash Registers Ring

By CHRIS MAHONEY

Merchants agree that this year's Downtown Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar was just as successful, if not more, than last year.

But many of them are hopeful for some new stores to open in the area in time for next year.

Storeowners who participated in the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association annual three-day event last week say the sale has a three-pronged effect. It brings shoppers in, it helps businesses, and says Quincy Center is still a vital place.

"People come down and say, I didn't know this little store was here," said Eileen Cohen, proprietor of Sweets-n-things. "Getting the people down here, showing them that Quincy Center is alive, that's what the bazaar is all about."

This year's bazaar comes at a time when concern and interest over the revitalization of Quincy Center is at its peak. A notable example of this was a seminar held at City Hall late in May calling for an equal mix of office space, commercial space and retail businesses in the downtown area.

But even though new stores are significantly desired, many of the participating merchants say the bazaar went extremely well anyway.

"Considering what's in Quincy, right now," says Mark Bertman, proprietor of Roger's Jewelry. "I was very pleased."

Bertman says he did more business by far this year and that sales were up "at least 40 percent" from last year.

"When you have a 40 percent increase, that says a lot," he said.

Summer is usually a slow season for retailers. The annual sidewalk bazaar helps many of these stores pick up in a season of slow business.

"The sale's a viable concession, no question about that," says Aaron Miller of Miller Shoes. "You have to have it. These are normally quiet times."

It wasn't quiet during those three days. Hancock St., turned into a shoppers' mall, was packed during the event.

Aside from the bargains offered by the area merchants there was a karate demonstration, celebrity look-a-likes, a zoomobile and a moonwalk.

Smells of sausages, pizza, and other foods from open-air grills were everywhere, as was music from Yankee Jack and Marie and Company, the Milton Post Band, the Baron Hugo Orchestra, and Jimmy Jay's lookalikes.

The highlight of the bazaar was the Miss Quincy Bay

Beauty Pageant which was held at 7:30 p.m. at Quincy Center Plaza Friday night.

The entire bazaar went with no problems, according to QCBPA Executive Director George Riley.

"I walked down Hancock St. from booth to booth and 99 percent of the comments were positive," he said.

The weather played a very important part also, according to QCBPA president Robert Colman of Colman's Sporting Goods.

"I only hope that nature is as kind to us next year," he said.

Any of the stores have high hopes for next year.

"More people, more hours, more events" is the way Jay Johnson of Napoli's Pizza puts it.

Having more sidewalk sales during the summer months probably would also help, according to Anastasio Kapsakis of Taso's Pizza & Subs.

"Bazaars do help businesses, no question about it," he said.

"But it takes a lot out of you. It was spread out two or three times during the summer. It would be ideal. It's hard because it goes on for many days."

He says businesses haven't stuck together to make things like a sidewalk sale work. This comment is reiterated by Cohen.

"I think getting the merchants together to organize organized sales, along with getting the people down here, is the meaning of this bazaar."

Shipbuilding At GD Site Takes 'Giant Step' Forward

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The return of shipbuilding at the former General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy has taken another "giant step" forward with the help of Gov. Michael Dukakis' pen.

The governor has signed into law a bill that now allows the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority to transfer some of its land at the former shipyard to a group of shipbuilding employees who want a portion of it for shipbuilding purposes.

"This is a giant step closer to renewing shipbuilding at the shipyard," Representative Michael Morrissey said Monday.

"It really moves the shipbuilders a lot closer to get their operation going," he added.

The MWRA, which owns the 182-acre site, now has the power to enter into a lease or sales agreement with Shipbuilders Inc., for maritime uses only, Morrissey said. He also said the law prohibits the disposal of hazardous waste at the yard.

"This is critical with Clean Harbors beating at the door," Morrissey said.

According to Morrissey, there was some debate over the language of the bill but differences between the House and Senate were ironed out.

As a result, Shipbuilders Inc. "now has the broad authority to enter into an agreement," the representative said, adding that he is optimistic an agreement between the MWRA and shipbuilding group "will be reached soon."

If a lease agreement is set up, Morrissey said "it's envisioned that they (MWRA) will offer the shipbuilders a below market rent." He added that the rent would probably increase as production gets underway.

Morrissey said restrictive language pertaining to the number of acres that could be transferred was also removed from the bill.

As a state agency, the MWRA would have had to return to the state legislature for approval of any sales or lease agreement without the law. The legislature has recessed for the summer.

Shipbuilders Inc. is comprised of members of the former Local 5 Shipbuilding Union.

Planning Board Hearing

The Quincy Planning Board was scheduled to hold a public hearing and meeting Wednesday, July 20 at 7 p.m. in the second floor conference room, City Hall annex.

The hearing was to deal with a proposed zoning amendment concerning environmental concerns and earth removal.

Quincy Programs In State Budget

Rep. Michael Morrissey announces that the new fiscal budget signed by Gov. Michael Dukakis Saturday includes $76,000 for two programs in Quincy.

Morrissey said $51,000 was approved for maintenance programs including police patrols and clean-up at the Quincy quaries.

"This gives them the extra help they need," Morrissey said, adding the maintenance program is a relatively newer item.

Morrissey also said $25,000 was appropriated for special police patrols along Wollaston Beach and Quincy Shore Drive.

The patrols, initiated about 10 years ago, have been very successful, Morrissey said. He said the patrols make the beach area much safer and cleaner while improving traffic.

Old Army Hospital Records May Help Veterans' Claims

The recent discovery of some Army hospital records dating back to 1942 may help veterans' claims, according to Norfolk County Senior Vice Commander Henry Bradley, past commander of Morrisette Legion Post, Quincy.

The National Archives has notified the Veterans Administration that records have been located of admissions to Army hospitals during the periods of 1942 to 1945 and 1950 to 1954.

The records on magnetic tapes had been in the possession of the National Research Council, and have recently been turned over to the National Personnel Records Center, St. Louis, Mo.

These records may help in adjudication of claims for service-connected disabilities for veterans whose medical records were destroyed in the 1973 fire at the St. Louis records center.

The recently discovered records appear to reflect 100 per cent of the battle injuries treated in Army hospitals, including personnel of other services who were hospitalized in Army facilities.

Houghs Neck Legion Receives Two Awards

Houghs Neck Legion Post received two awards at the state American Legion Convention in Worcester on July 7, 8 and 9.

The post received a banner to be carried in parades and a plaque as second place awards for community service.

The Post received a plaque also for third place in Americanism.

Senior vice commander Mary Timcoe accepted the awards for the post, judged on books which she compiled with historian Richard Wainwright.

Who, What Is A Senior Citizen?

(Henry Bosworth is taking a breather from his column this week and turned it over to a long-time friend, Ed Spargo, who looks back on the good old simple days as remembered by a senior citizen.)

By ED SPARGO

Just WHO is a Senior Citizen and WHAT is one??? Well, just pull up a chair and I'll tell you.

A Senior Citizen is one who was here before the Pill and the Population Explosion. We were here before television, penicillin, polio and flu shots, antibiotics and frisbees were dreamed of. Before frozen food, nylon, dacron, Xerox, Kinsey, radar, fluorescent lights, directional signals, radials, automatic shift or tubless tires, condos or condoms, Social Security, ball point pens, s-t-r-e-t-c-h limousines and scotch tape. And VCRs were way off in the distance. So were TV dinners, Ann Landers, Vanna White, bikinis, the X-pessway and the Mid-Cape Highway.

For those of us in our so-called "Golden Years," time-sharing meant togetherness, not computers; a chip meant a piece of wood, hardware meant hard wear, and software wasn't even a word. Co-eds never wore slacks and neither did their moms. We were before pantyhose and blankets. Before Hawaii and Alaska became states. Before men wore long hair and earrings and women wore tuxedos.

We got married first and THEN lived together. How quaint can one be, by today's standards! When we were young and innocent, money was tight but neighbors weren't; in fact they shared and shared alike and locked doors in our homes were unheard of, and unnecessary. And in our day, long before oil burners were perfected, coal to fuel our coal-consuming furnaces was poured into a bin in the cellar via a chute placed in the cellar window. Remember how carefully we sifted the ashes and RE-SIFTED them whenever coal was scarce?

Yes, we were before yogurt, plastic, the 40-hour week and the minimum wage. In our day closets were for clothes, not for coming out of, bunnies were small rabbits and certainly not scantily-clad girls or Volkswagens.

We were before Grandma Moses, cup-sizing for bras, and Old Blue Eyes, a k a Frank Sinatra. In our day girls wore Peter Pan collars and thought cleavage was something butchers did. We were before Batman, Rudolph the Rednosed Reindeer and Snoopy. Before vitamin pills, DDT, disposable diapers, Q-F One, Jeeps, the Jefferson Memorial -- and pizza. Cheerios, instant coffee, decaffeinated anything, and MacDonalds were all unheard of. As was the exploration of Space.

So were air-conditioned cars, cake mixes and those magic "money machines" at the bank. Come to think of it, we were before microwaves, credit cards, that "plastic" sectioned bacon called Sizzlean and Chicquita banana. Before FM radios, tape recorders, electric typewriters, word processors, MUZAK, electronic music, disco-dancing, rock music (with its repetitive, over and over again lyrics, and ear-splitting cocophany) and the American Bandstand with the ever-young and personable Dick Clark as major domo. When we were growing up, we thought fast food was something you ate only on a diet or during Lent. And AIDS was unheard of, thank the Lord. The phrases "making out" or "scoring," in our day, referred to how you performed on an exam and not on .... well, you get the idea. And "scoring" meant innocently keeping score at a baseball game. How times have changed! Especially with the State's clever tax-raising Lotteries.

In our heyday cigarette smoking was fashionable, grass was for mowing, pot was something you cooked in and Coke was a refreshing drink that made baseball great "Ty" Cobb even wealthier. And you could get a Chevy coupe for $500 in early depression days -- if you could ante up enough cash. And gas to run it went for 12 cents a gallon, believe it or not. At that point in time the "made in Japan" label meant junk stuff, unlike today.

We were before night baseball, artificial turf, the designated hitter, and teams traveled by train. And in those days when a dollar was a small fortune, the financially-strapped Boston Braves let us still-wet-behind-the-ears kids into the Wigwam for 10 cents Saturday afternoons as members of the "Knot-Hole Gang" -- bless their hearts. And grownups could sit in the bleachers at both Braves Field and Fenway Park for two bits.

When you and I were young, Maggie, there were no jet planes, helicopters, interstate highways or vending machines. But a Buffalo (or Liberty) nickel bought you a ride on a street car (open trolleys in the good old Summertime), or a phone call, a good-sized Hershey (or any other) candy bar, and enough stamps to mail a letter. And five post cards. That was a time when five cents, if you were lucky enough to have it, would also buy a bag full of candy, licorice stick, three Tootsie rolls, an all-day sucker, about five or six mint-leaf gum drops and a great big bag of bubble gum. Then there were the movies.

A Saturday afternoon could mean one episode of a continuing scary serial, cartoons, previews of coming attractions and, get this! A double feature. The cost? Just a thin dime. And in those dear old days beyond recall, if we were asked to explain CIA, NAIO, M-U-F-O, H-F-I, F-D-I-C, J-F-K, F-R-A, or I-U-D, we'd have said A-I-P-H-A-B-E-T SOUP. And so it was in the 20s and early 30s, the way we were -- and we loved it.

Yes sir-ee, we are today's SENIOR CITIZENS, a hardy bunch (we think you'll admit) when you think of how radically OUR little corner of the world has changed -- and of the major adjustments we have had to make!!! How about a little violin music, please!!!

Readers Forum Animal League Thanks Mayor, Council For New Animal Shelter

Editor, The Quincy Sun

The Quincy Animal League would like to take this opportunity to express its appreciation to Mayor Francis McCauley and to the Quincy City Council for their unanimous support of a $275,000 appropriation for the construction of our new city animal shelter.

We of the Animal League have actively campaigned for this shelter during our six years of animal advocacy in Quincy, and we can feel justifiably proud of our successful efforts.

When the actual dates of groundbreaking, scheduled for August, and of completion and opening, scheduled for December, are announced, we urge all members and supporters as well as the general public to attend.

We also suggest that people contact the mayor and councillors to express their appreciation for a job well done.

John H. McDuff, Jr.
President, Quincy Animal League Inc.

Dukakis-Bentsen Ticket:

Will Lightning Strike Twice?

(Mayor Francis McCauley is covering the Democratic National Convention in Atlanta for The Quincy Sun. He filed this report before he left for Atlanta Wednesday.)

By FRANCIS X. MCCAULEY

Many people are asking the big question concerning Governor Michael Dukakis' selection of Senator Lloyd Bentsen of Texas as his Vice Presidential running mate.

Will Senator Bentsen be a positive force in the November election and was the Dukakis brain trust decision a good one?

The answer simply is, if Dukakis wins in November, it is a good choice. If the Duke loses, the second guessers will have a field day.

The Dukakis inner circle, apparently decided, after looking at a number of potential running mates, that, what worked for John F. Kennedy in 1960, was worth trying for Michael S. Dukakis in 1988.

Senator John F. Kennedy surprised many by selecting the then Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, a competitor for the Presidential nomination, as his choice for a vice presidential running mate. The selection of Lyndon Johnson was a good one. Kennedy carried Texas and the election by a close margin.

The big question is. Can lightning strike twice?

The Dukakis (group) hopes that Senator Bentsen will help bring Texas into the Democratic column and possibly bring some of the southern states back into the Democratic fold.

Lloyd Bentsen is a native Texan, unlike George Bush, who was born in Milton, Mass. and raised in Connecticut. Bush's father Prescott Bush served as a U.S. Senator from Connecticut. Bentsen has been in and out of politics for 40 years and holds the powerful position of chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Will a majority of Texans vote for a native son who is a candidate for vice president over a long time Texas resident who is running for the top office of president?

Senator Bentsen's age will be against him in this selection process in Texas. At 67, Bentsen cannot hope to be elected president in his own right. Assuming Governor Dukakis is elected and serves two terms, Bentsen would be 75 in 1996, too old to run for president.

In 1960, Richard Nixon chose former Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts as his running mate. The Lodge name was a household word in Massachusetts, his late grandfather Henry Cabot Lodge, Sr. also served in the U.S. Senate for many years. The Lodge addition to the Republican ticket did nothing to help Richard Nixon in Massachusetts.

The voters, by a substantial margin, cast their ballots for

John F. Kennedy, who headed the Democratic slate. While Lyndon Johnson did help Kennedy in the south, many students of the political scene question the ability of Senator Bentsen to do the same.

The south has changed greatly in the past 28 years. The region, once known as the "solid south" automatically supported Democratic candidates for virtually all elective offices, has moved more and more toward the Republican party. Ronald Reagan lost only West Virginia and Georgia in 1980 and carried all the southern and border states in 1984. Whether Bentsen, who is labeled as a moderate conservative, can help convince southerners to support a ticket headed by a very liberal Governor from the northeast remains to be seen.

Now that the Democratic Presidential ticket has been selected, attention will focus on George Bush's selection of his running mate. Some potential candidates include Senator Robert Dole, former Governor Lamar Alexander of Tennessee, Governor Robert Martinez of Florida, Martinez a Hispanic is the former Mayor of Tampa.

Congressman Jack Kemp of New York should also receive serious consideration by Vice President Bush. Kemp is a young, aggressive, charismatic and articulate politician. He has worked closely with and strongly supported Reagan Administration economic policies over the past eight years.

A George Bush-Jack Kemp ticket would provide the Republican party with a strong and experienced team to field against the Democrats in November.

Mrs. Ann Richards, state treasurer of Texas, delivered the Democratic keynote address Monday evening. The 33 minute speech was interrupted frequently by applause as she delivered a hardhitting "the Democrats are all good and the Republicans are all bad" partisan speech. Richards singled out Jesse Jackson as a leader and a teacher and noted that Governor Dukakis' running mate Senator Lloyd Bentsen has already beaten George Bush once for the U.S. Senate in 1970. After about 30 minutes of Republican bashing, Richards did admit that the United States "is still the greatest nation on this good earth."

Republicans who get upset at the intense partisanship at the Democratic National Convention should be patient. Next month in New Orleans it will be the Republicans' turn.

By the time The Sun is on the street this week, I will be in Atlanta covering the nomination of the Dukakis-Bentsen ticket and Governor Michael Dukakis' acceptance of the Democratic nomination speech Thursday evening.

Quincy's Yesterdays

General MacArthur Gets Big Quincy Welcome

Thousands lined Hancock St. for a glimpse of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who visited Quincy for about an hour as part of a triumphal national tour that followed his dismissal by President Truman as commander of the United Nations forces in Korea.

37 Years Ago

The five-star general and his wife spent 25 minutes at the First Parish Church where, escorted by Mayor Thomas S. Burgin and City Historian William C. Edwards, they placed wreaths on the tombs of John and John Quincy Adams and their wives.

"These men engendered liberty and we cannot come here without being recreated by their spirit," said the general.

Security was tight for the controversial MacArthur as all Quincy police officers, some 100 auxiliary policemen and 125 men from the Squantum Naval Air Station turned out under Capt. William Ferrazzi, acting chief in the absence of vacationing Joseph F. Hughes.

Historian Edwards said the MacArthurs surprised him with their knowledge of history.

"Their questions were most indicative of a real knowledge of early American history and a definite interest in the men that helped to formulate the United States government," he said as their 16-vehicle convoy motored off to Milton.

Lasagne Florentine A Bit Different

They say that having a swimming pool in the back yard brings families together - and it is true.

But something strange happened this past sizzling hot spell, when on the third day of the oppressive heat, the pool was getting pretty full with eager people wanting to feel refreshed. My husband was supposedly putting on his bathing suit and after a while I began to wonder what was taking him so long. Guess where he ended up? On the bed in the air-conditioned bedroom taking a nap. I must admit it took me a while to finally leave to join the others poolside.

Anyway, the day before or I should say the night before, I prepared some lasagne a bit different. Since the tomato sauce was already cooked, it was easy to put together.

LASAGNE FLORENTINE

1 Lb. lasagne
1 Lb. ricotta cheese
1 frozen package of leaf spinach or fresh equivalent or 1 can Grated Romano cheese (about 1/4 cup)

1 package of shredded mozzarella cheese (or any favorite such as Muenster, etc.

While the lasagne is boiling, cook the spinach and mix with the ricotta cheese and the grated Romano cheese. Blend well and set aside. Then as you layer the lasagne strips, spread a layer of the spinach mix over each piece and a sprinkle of the mozzarella and then sauce and continue until done. Bake in a 350 degree oven covered for 30 minutes and uncovered until bubbly. Add more sauce before serving. This type of lasagne cuts very easily after you let it cool for about 10 minutes. I served it with a large salad which turned out easier to prepare on a hot day than cooking hot dogs and hamburgers over the grill.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point; Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Dawn Larkin:

'You Have To Have Confidence' Says Miss Quincy Bay

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Along with beauty and poise, Dawn Larkin's confidence and contest experience helped her win the Miss Quincy Bay of 1988 crown Friday night in Quincy Center.

"You have to have confidence. If you don't have that, you won't go anywhere," said Dawn, 16, of Weymouth.

The pageant, highlight of the annual downtown Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar, attracted an audience of close to 1000 people to Quincy Center Plaza.

It was co-sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and Quincy Bay Race Week Association.

Dawn, the daughter of Dennis and Irene Larkin of Weymouth, was crowned by last year's winner, Renee Vardaro of Brockton.

The runners-up were Jill Livermore, 19, of Norwell, first runner-up, Rachel K. Eliason, 17, of Weymouth, second runner-up, Annette Godin, 24, of Rockland, third runner-up, and Erin I.

Grogan, 19, of Quincy, fourth runner-up.

As Miss Quincy Bay 1988, Dawn will reign over Quincy Bay Race Week, Aug. 10-14 and be a special guest at various QCBPA and yacht club functions.

She will also ride on a float in the annual Quincy Christmas Parade this fall.

For her victory, Dawn will receive a $1,000 scholarship to Quincy Junior College and the largest share of the more than $2,500 in prizes to be divided among her and the four runners-up.

The five-foot, six and half inch blue-eyed blonde was also selected Most Photogenic by William Fitzgerald and Glen Carter of Photo Quick of Quincy Center, the pageant's official photographers.

An instant celebrity, Dawn and her family are taking the status in stride.

"I'm excited and it feels great. People I have never met have come up to me congratulating me," Dawn said. "The phone hasn't stopped ringing," her mother Irene added.

Although this was her first Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant, Dawn has entered other contests. The experience, whether winning or losing, proved invaluable. Last night.

"You have to take the loss along with the wins," Dawn said, who added this was her first contest in about two years.

"We got used to losing. If it was exciting and you were determined to win," Dawn said. "It was a real growing experience for her," she added.

For Dawn, entering the pageant was almost as shocking as winning it.

"My father filled out my application and sent me a picture in I was a little shy at first," Dawn pointed out since she was unsure where she could find the time for the pageant amid her busy work schedule as a nurse's assistant at Logan Health Care facility.

But it all worked out. "He sent me roses before the pageant," Dawn said. "My father," and he was the first one up there on stage after I won."

Dawn's selection as Miss Quincy Bay is "extra special" because her father is a Quincy firefighter at the North Quincy station, Irene said.

"This is his home town. He grew up here," she said.

In addition to her parents cheering Dawn on Friday night were her brother Dana, 14, sister Dara, 13, and about 20 other relatives and friends.

The large cheering section gave Dawn an emotional boost.

"I could see them all as I came out onto the runway," she said. "My cousins held signs with 'Go Dawn Go' that gave me a big boost."

Dawn also got support from the 24 other contestants.

"I made so many new friends. I was thrilled to be able to congratulate me when they were beside me that night."

'You Need Confidence'

"They were all wishing me good luck," Dawn said.

The 25 contestants from various South Shore towns were judged on swimsuits, evening gowns and poise. They were escorted by commodores of the Quincy Bay Race Week Association.

For the swimsuit competition, Dawn wore a silver, brown and black snake-skin design one-piece suit. For the evening gown segment, she wore a strapless white satin gown with black flowers and pearls and rhinestones.

Once the competition was narrowed down to five finalists, emcee Bernie Reisberg asked each contestant a question and they were judged on their response.

The question: "If you were to meet a visitor from 100 years ago who wants to know the best aspect of life in the 1980s, what would you tell them?"

Dawn took a deep breath and replied, "I would tell them the '80s have a lot of caring people, that really love each other and bond together and work to achieve a common goal."

As a nurse's aide, Dawn was definitely speaking the truth.

"It's a tough job. There are good times but there are a lot of hard times and sad times."

she said, adding that her response "just popped into my mind."

A few years ago, Dawn would have difficulty answering questions in public, her mother said. But she overcame her public speaking problem, after enrolling in classes at Weymouth South High School.

"I learned that speaking from within your heart is the best way to convey how you feel," Dawn said.

Irene added, "I told her she would succeed as a loving person if she just spoke what's inside her."

Dawn will be a senior at Weymouth South High School this fall. Although she's thinking about a law career, she hasn't decided for sure.

"I have my whole senior year to plan it out," she said.

Dawn will also assist one of the Weymouth Pop Warner cheerleading squads this September. Tricia Tanner, Miss Quincy Bay of 1985, coaches one of the teams, Dawn said.

But before school and coaching duty, Dawn has the whole summer to savor her victory and look forward to Race Week.

"I think the race week will be great. Jill (Livermore, second runner-up) will be with me. I'm looking forward to it," she said.

The other contestants in alphabetical order were:

Jayne Anastasio, 21, of Braintree; Jennifer Brown, 16, of Quincy; Denise Corsile, 21, of Milton; Theresa Dern, 17, of Quincy; Monique Diserio, 18, of Braintree; Teresa Gorham, 19, of Quincy; Kathryn Gralton, 17, of Quincy; Tara Grasso, 16, of Quincy; Alita Hutchison, 16, of Weymouth; Marla Lotterhand, 17, of Quincy; Tammie O'Brien, 18, of Quincy; Jane O'Neil, 16, of Weymouth; Wendy Orcutt, 20, of Braintree; Carolyn Rochelle, 21, of Quincy; Andrea Scott, 16, of Quincy; Irene Scott, 18, of Quincy; Cheryl Springsteen, 20, of Weymouth; Lynn Tausevich, 20, of Quincy; Claire Vitello, 18, of Weymouth; and Kathleen Wilson, 17, of Quincy.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Ever think that you and your ideas are better than others? ... That you could do better than others in running the world? Yet it is an old truism that there is one thing which is true, it is this: we cannot run this old world just our way.

Let us not despair over this. There are many, many things which we can do to make our lives, the lives of our family, our friends and our acquaintances much brighter and more pleasant.

We can be less selfish and more generous; we can be less critical and more prone to praise. We can be less deceitful and more careful of the truth; we can be more loving and less hateful; we can smother ignorance with knowledge, replace jealousy with trust, and let understanding overcome suspicion.

Granted, we won't make the world run our way by doing these things, but we will be adding zest and meaning to our own lives, and at the same time contributing a little something to the happiness of others. There seem to be modest goals. Perhaps ... But wouldn't a world be a better world in trying to obtain them? ... (our comment on this or any other subject covered in these thoughts is ALWAYS welcome) ...

'What Does A Christian Have To Give Up' First Church Of Squantum Sermon

First Church of Squantum pastor, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, preached a sermon entitled "What Does a Christian Have to Give Up?" The text was taken from the story of Jesus and the rich young ruler (Mark 10:17-22): "And Jesus looking upon him loved him and said to him,

"You lack one thing, go, sell what you have, and give it to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me."

For the offertory anthem, Scott Williamson sang "If With All Your Heart You Truly Seek Him," from Mendelssohn's "Elijah." Mary Ruth Scott played the organ and Janet Williamson the piano as the congregation sang "Fairrest Lord Jesus," "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life," and "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee."

Harry Holmes and Tore Wallin were the ushers. After the service, May Lewis hosted the Fellowship Hour. It was announced that the next two Church Council meetings will be held on Sept. 28 and Nov. 9 at 7 p.m.

This Sunday the service will begin at 9:30 a.m. Dr. Langevin will preach a sermon entitled, "Finding God in a Scientific Age." A nursery is provided.

Happy Acres Camp 25th Anniversary Cookout Aug. 24

The Quincy Recreation Department is planning a special cookout to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Happy Acres Day Camp for special needs participants.

Recreation Director Barry Welch said:

"The National Award winning Happy Acres Camp was one of 11 sites funded by the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation in 1963. For the past 25 years, special needs residents of the city of Quincy have been spending July and August participating in games, activities and sports that have been supervised by Recreation staff and community volunteers. The camp has been able to demonstrate that with proper supervision and training, those with special needs can enjoy the physical and social benefits of a well-rounded recreation program."

All past campers, volunteers and staff are invited to attend the anniversary cookout Thursday, Aug. 4, from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The cook-out will be hosted by participants in this summer's program and photos and other materials from the past 25 years will be on display. Funding for the cook-out has been provided by the Quincy City Club, and the Wollaston Credit Union. Special invited guests will be campers from the first year of Happy Acres.

The event will be held at Happy Acres, 100 Southern Realty.

Those wishing to attend need only to contact the Recreation Department at 773-1380 ext. 204 by July 29. Additional information can also be obtained from the Recreation Department.

O'Brien's Bakery:

Where Everything Is Freshly Baked

By CHRIS MAHONEY

It's quiet time at O'Brien's. The bakery has been opened since 6 a.m.; three hours so far. Big morning rushes are over. Three or four people are getting served at the counter and another three or four sit drinking coffee and eating pastry at a few tables.

The peaceful setting belies the activity that goes on in back, where owner Jim O'Brien is working. Bakers and decorators have been preparing fresh goods for hours.

"Jim sometimes is here from midnight to 3 p.m.," says Jeanne, Jim's wife and the bakery's co-owner. "It's hard sometimes but you've just got to do it."

Everything is freshly made at O'Brien's Bakery, 9 Beale St. in Wollaston. There are no preservatives; nothing comes in frozen. Over 200 varieties of items are baked in a day, Jim says. The work is hard but according to Jeanne, it's worth it.

"It makes me feel good to have people walk out of here with what they want," she says.

Both of them are dedicated, she says. They have to be.

"We try to give more personal service," she says. "If people get bad service at Jordan's or Filene's, they'll still go back. If they get bad service at a bakery, they won't go back."

That may not be a problem at O'Brien's. Jeanne describes the shop as a neighborhood bakery, maybe old fashioned.

"People come in and say they haven't been in a place like this for years."

But then, Wollaston is unique in itself. Ninety businesses operate in this small community. The place is a throwback but shoppers like it.

"We're trying to thank people for moving back and shopping in Wollaston," says Jeanne, who is a member of the Wollaston Center Business Association. "Neighborhood is very important."

The O'Brien's have owned the bakery since April, 1979. They were veterans of the bakery business by then, however. Jim had worked for the bakery's previous owners since 1968. Jeanne worked there since 1974.

He had been an accountant and she a medical secretary before going into business for themselves.

Jim's father and grandmother owned bakeries in Dorchester. Owning one himself was in his blood, says Jeanne.

"I think it's the independence of it all," Jim says about owning a bakery. "It gives you the opportunity to be creative. I do enjoy the industry."

For Jeanne the change from employee to employer was a bit bigger.

"You have to be a jack of all trades," she says. "One day you're behind the counter. Then suddenly you're in charge of doing everything."

One of their new employees was Shirley Purpura, who has been working at the bakery for nearly 40 years.

Shirley is a decorator. A display case in the window is filled with birthday cakes displaying her artwork: delicate red and yellow rosebuds gracing smooth sheens of vanilla frosting.

"I love my work," she says. "I go home and call in to see if everything is all right. I don't think I'd ever want to leave."

She's seen stores come and go. She says it can make a person nostalgic but there are always new stores.

The number of customers Shirley has seen walk into the bakery must be staggering.

JEANNE AND JIM O'BRIEN, owners of O'Brien's Bakery on Beale St., stand in front of display cases stocked with some of their tempting products.

But, as is the case with all other courtesy shops, there are the regulars.

"I can almost tell what everyone is going to order," she says. "We do get a lot of regular customers."

"Because we love you," shouts a smiling woman customer to Shirley.

She and the O'Brien's have had some adventures with customers, too.

The first fight is the first thing they mention when recalling customer-related stories.

It happened when the store was so crowded that two men came up with the same number tickets used to mark order in line. An argument came to blows until another customer showed them the 99A and 99B on the tickets.

Crowded stores are another hassle.

"I must love a lot of customers that way," says Jeanne about people who have to wait. "Holidays are the worst."

As a result of the holiday traffic, O'Brien's will be open 24 hours this Christmas to sell fruitcakes and other festive items.

Jeanne says fruitcakes and fruit items are a big seller around the holidays. Fall find around the holidays. Fall finds more people into pumpkin pie and other squash items.

During summer, customers buy the fresh hot dog and hamburger rolls. Then there's something called a watermelon cake, which is an O'Brien's original, that's a popular summertime treat.

Jeanne says more people are watching what they eat these days, people are more health conscious. Bran muffins are big sellers now. Tastes change.

What about the store? How will that change in the next five years?

"We want to keep changing to fit the needs of our customers," Jim says.

Jeanne is more pragmatic. The store needs much more space and could use a lot more utilities.

"We want the store bigger because we have a lot more items," she says. "We want a new freezer case; we want more tables; we certainly could use more oven capacity."

She adds with a laugh, "If you could do all that for us, it would be wonderful."

C.A. Cox Automotive:

Specializing In Quality, Pre-Owned Cars

By ROBERT BOSWORTH
Once inside C.A. Cox Automotive, Inc., 60 Beale St., Wollaston, you know you're in for special treatment.

Showcased in this beautifully remodeled oak showroom with ceiling fans is a 1936 shiny black Cadillac Fleetwood limousine.

The business, and car, are owned by Brian Cox and his showroom clearly reveals his business philosophy.

"We want to make used car buyers realize that when they come in here, they are just as important as new car buyers," says Brian.

"I want people to know they are treated fairly here," he adds.

C.A. Cox Automotive, founded by Brian's father, C. Ashton Cox in 1934, specializes in pre-owned car sales, collision and service.

After Brian's father retired in 1980, he took control of the business. From 1980 to 1987, the sales division was leased out and Brian concentrated on the collision and service areas. But in July of last year, Brian decided to regain control of the sales and continue the Cox family full service tradition.

And how does Brian sum up the last 12 months of business?

"It's been phenomenal," he says.

On any given day, the lot has between 15 and 30 pre-owned domestic and foreign cars. Ninety percent of them have had one owner and their guarantees range from 90 days to six years.

In addition, Brian says he tries to sell cars five years old and less because their performance records are better than older cars.

"We specialize in quality, pre-owned cars," says Brian, who does all the stocking. "The cars sell themselves."

Although he admits quality pre-owned cars are hard to find, Brian does all the leg work in tracking down what customers want.

"We try to do our best to locate cars customers want," he says.

"We're here, we bend over backwards to put out an excellent product. The used car business is my livelihood and we cater to used car buyers," he says.

One of the cornerstones to C.A. Cox Automotive is the way customers are treated fairly in a comfortable, relaxed atmosphere.

"We let our customers look around in the lot. There are no high-pressure sales," says Brian. "We just don't believe in it."

"It's just not my way."

Customers are also invited to listen to a car and test drive it.

Once the customer is ready to buy, Brian says he puts together a good deal for both parties.

"It's not like we don't want to see them again. We service what we sell."

"We want people to come back," he says.

Brian says the majority of his clientele comes from the Quincy-South Shore area. He also has many customers from the Greater Boston area and beyond.

Regardless of where his customers reside, they all share one thing in common.

"People who buy cars here are extremely pleased," says Brian, adding he'll be happy to supply a referral list of satisfied customers.

Besides Brian, there are several other people who are carrying out the Cox pride and tradition.

Joe Gerrior has run the service department for 40 years, since he was 15 years old. Thomas Walters has managed the collision shop for five years and technician Robert Mullen has lent his services for three years.

Furthermore, Brian's wife Marjolaine helps out in sales. She and Brian are the parents of a 15-month old son, Brian Ashton. They live on Arlington St. in Wollaston.

Brian says having a business in Wollaston is "fantastic." He said the location is better than a main road because there's a lot of walking traffic created by the MBTA and nearby businesses.

"The Wollaston area is generally a growing area. We've been here so long it's not taking long to get out that we're back in the used car business," Brian says.

To help get the message out, Brian purchased the 1936 Cadillac Fleetwood limousine a year ago and moved it into the showroom. The classic serves as a reminder to his father's love for automobiles. "He was an avid antique

Quincy Sun Car Care Guide

Car waxing enters new era: Product for "clear coat" car finishes makes process easier, faster

Waxing the car will no longer be one of the most dreaded household chores. For years, it ranked right up there with washing windows and ironing the laundry. Now, with the creation of a new car wax, you can give your car the care it needs without the hard work.

Revolutionary wax

This revolutionary new car wax comes from Armor All Products Corporation of Irvine, Calif., and started from "scratch"—literally.

Abrasives can scratch paint

In the past, harsh abrasives were included in car wax to remove the oxidation from faded enamels. However, since 1980, most cars have been painted in layers with the top layer consisting of a clear coat paint.

This clear coat protects the car from fading, but can be scratched by the use of harsh abrasives.

To locate ingredients that would not scratch, yet deliver a high shine, Armor All went to the jewelry industry to acquire the very same grade of polishing agents used by jewelers to shine crystal and gold. These polishing agents are five times finer than traditional automotive wax polishing agents.

The next step in developing a superior wax was to combine these very fine polishing agents with advanced high-tech silicones and refined waxes. This was a delicate step, but the results were worth it, according to Armor All's Vice President of Research & Development, Dr. Jim Latty.

"The super-fine polishing agents provide less surface resistance, allowing consumers to wax their cars in less time, while the superior silicones and waxes provided an incredible shine," said Dr. Latty. "Our next goal was to develop a way to make waxing 'fun.'"

Special dispenser

In addition to the more traditional paste can and liquid bottle, Armor All created a packaging breakthrough with the development of a new "pressurized" paste can. The can resembles a mouse hair-styling can, yet employs a technology that, with the touch of a "button," automatically dispenses the wax like toothpaste.

In Armor All's research, consumers found this packaging to be fun and more convenient—they prefer it three to one over traditional car wax packaging.

The new Armor All Car Wax is already available in stores nationwide, wherever car wax is sold.

EASY! DOES IT!—Even those who rarely wax their cars will find Armor All's new car wax easy and effective to use.

Pointers on how to talk to your auto mechanic: Save time, money, frustration

Learn how to talk to the person who repairs your car, and you'll save a lot of time, money and frustration.

The classic—and all too common—way of how not to talk to a mechanic is to say "It doesn't run. Fix it."

When you bring in your car for repair, be as specific as possible about the problem.

The Gates Rubber Company offers the following tips using the example of an overheating engine.

First, take the time to write down the answers to such questions as:

1. When is the overheating most noticeable? When the weather is cold? When it's hot? At high speed? At stop lights? When pulling a load?

2. What symptoms are present? Steam from under the hood? Bubbling or hissing sounds? Leaking coolant?

3. How long has this problem been occurring, and is it now worse?

4. Has overheating happened before and been repaired? What was done, and when?

5. If you tried to fix it yourself, what did you do and what parts were replaced?

6. When was the last time the cooling system was serviced? Has the system ever been drained and flushed?

7. Have major components (hoses, belts, thermostat, liquid coolant, radiator cap) been replaced in the past two to four years?

Then give this information to the dealer service manager or mechanic, and give some thought to any additional questions.

Don't try to diagnose the problem yourself unless you know what you are talking about, and you are willing to pay for an unnecessary repair.

Ask for a written estimate, and make sure the service order states that no major repairs are authorized until you've received the estimate.

Finally, leave a phone number where you can be reached so that the car won't sit half disassembled while they try to obtain your approval for repairs.

To help prevent this situation of an overheating engine, Gates engineers recommend a periodic—and preferably seasonal—check of the engine and the cooling system.

IN THE SUMMER, engine overheating can be caused by hot weather, stop-and-go traffic and prolonged vacation driving. To ensure trouble-free travel, The Gates Rubber Company recommends a professional cooling system check that includes the coolant, belts, hoses and radiator.

Morrisette Clinches Zone 6 Playoff Spot

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team, which had already clinched a spot in the Zone 6 playoffs, was scheduled to face Braintree last night (Wednesday) to decide first place.

Braintree had a 12-3 record and Morrisette was 11-3 going into Tuesday night's game with Mass. Truck. Milton also was assured of a playoff berth while Quincy and Mass. Truck were battling it out for the fourth and final spot.

The playoffs were scheduled to open tonight (Thursday), but the pairings were up in the air pending the results of the games last night and Tuesday night.

Morrisette was knocked out of first place Monday night when it was upset by Holbrook, 3-2. Morrisette had rocked Holbrook, 23-3 earlier. Holbrook also had upset Braintree.

Holbrook scored twice in the seventh inning to shock Morrisette as Wayne Chambers lost a tough-luck decision to drop his record to 3-2. Jeff Dyer pitched an excellent game for Holbrook.

Holbrook took a 1-0 lead in the first on a bases-loaded walk. Morrisette tied it in the third when Billy MacDougall singled, his brother Kevin walked and Dan Biagini singled. Morrisette went ahead in the fifth when Billy MacDougall walked, Kevin beat out a bunt and Biagini again drove in the run with a sacrifice fly.

Holbrook won it with two in the seventh on three hits.

Biagini went 3-for-3 and drove in both runs. Eddie Flavin had a hit and had to leave the game after the first when he hurt his knee. Ron Fletcher and Jimmy Glynn also had hits.

Morrisette defeated Quincy, 6-0, in a battle between the teams' top pitchers. Morrisette's Eric DeBoer went in at 3-1, having missed his last two starts with some shoulder stiffness, and Rob Higgins of Quincy came in at 6-2. DeBoer also had pitched in an 11-inning scoreless tie with Braintree.

DeBoer pitched a two-hitter, struck out seven and walked only two for his second win over Quincy.

Morrisette got to Higgins early with four runs in the first inning. Mike Mullaney singled, Billy MacDougall walked and both runners moved up on Flavin's ground out.

Biagini hit a long short to deep center field which bounced over the fence at the 400-foot mark for a ground rule double, scoring two runs. Rob McDonald singled to score Biagini and, with two outs, Chambers tripled to deep right center for the fourth run.

Morrisette added a run in the second when Mullaney singled and, with two outs, Flavin tripled to center.

Higgins pitched well in the next three innings, giving up only a hit to DeBoer. Morrisette scored its final run in the sixth when, with two outs, DeBoer reached on an error, went to second on Mullaney's third hit and scored on Billy MacDougall's single.

"We have been getting good pitching and timely hitting and I think we should do well in the playoffs," said Morrisette coach Dave Perdios.

Quincy's Tourney Hopes On Line

The Quincy Legion baseball team, which had won four games in a row, lost two last week to drop to 8-6 and put a crimp in its Zone 6 playoff hopes.

Despite the losses to Braintree and Morrisette, Quincy still had a chance to make the fourth and final playoff berth going into this week's games.

Quincy was battling it out with Mass. Tire for the final spot.

The playoffs were scheduled to open tonight (Thursday), but the pairings were unknown pending the results of games last night and Tuesday night.

Quincy lost to league-leading Braintree, 7-3, as it was held to three hits by Dan Mitchell.

Jim Dennis, who has pitched some excellent games for Quincy, was the losing pitcher, giving up 10 hits and striking out six.

Quincy also lost to Morrisette, 6-0, as Morrisette's Eric DeBoer pitched two-hit ball. Both Quincy hits were singles by Peter Tufts.

Quincy ace Rob Higgins pitched all the way and pitched well after a four-run Morrisette first inning.

Higgins gave up nine hits, struck out seven and walked two as his record fell to 6-3.

Quincy, North Open Season Sept. 16-17

The Quincy and North Quincy football teams, which won't have to play Brockton this fall, will open their seasons the weekend of Sept. 16-17.

North will open against Milton Friday night, Sept. 16, at 7 at Veterans Memorial Stadium, and Quincy will face Cambridge Rindge and Latin Saturday, Sept. 17, at 1:30, at Cambridge.

Quincy will play Weymouth South in place of Brockton, while North will meet Silver Lake.

Each team will play five Suburban League games. Quincy also will play Weymouth South and Weymouth North of the Old Colony League and Peabody, Malden and Revere of the Greater Boston League.

North will meet Weymouth

South and Silver Lake of the Old Colony League, Milton of the Bay State League and Revere and Medford of the Greater Boston League.

There will be at least two coaching changes. North Quincy must replace Ted Sadowski, who retired after 29 years as an assistant, and Kevin Cobban, who has moved to Weymouth North.

Sun Sports

Wollaston Finishes 8-8

The Wollaston Legion baseball team, which was competitive all season long and stayed in the playoff picture for most of the season, completed its Zone 6 season with an 8-8 record last week.

T.J. Steen pitched one of the finest games of the league season as Wollaston blanked playoff-bound Milton, 3-0, as he pitched a two-hitter and retired the last 17 batters.

"T.J. pitched some tough-luck games this year, but his defense supported him tonight and we scored some runs," said Wollaston coach Mike Gormley. "He had good location and got ahead on the count all night. His breaking stuff was the key. He was a solid contributor for three years but this is his last year and I hate to lose him."

Wollaston scored once in the second inning when Chris Higgins reached on an error, took second on Bob Keddy's grounder and scored on Mark DiMattio's single. It added two in the third on Bill Bellev's triple to left, scoring Steve Kohler, who had walked, and Bellev scored on Jay Lespasio's sacrifice fly.

Wollaston had only three hits off Milton's Greg Fitzgerald, who struck out six.

Wollaston lost to Braintree,

6-0, as Dave Hutchings, Steen and Lespasio had the only hits off Braintree ace Ted Novio. DiMattio was the losing pitcher.

Wollaston also bowed to Mass. Truck, 7-4, in a game halted by rain after six innings.

Sean Thompson had two hits and DiMattio, Keddy, Hutchings and Lespasio one each.

"We stayed competitive all season and until the last few games we were in the battle for a playoff berth," said Gormley. "The boys played well and lost some tough games."

Carlton Gibney Club Winner At Ponkapoag

The Ponkapoag Golf Course Ladies' Inner Club recently held its annual competition for the Gibney Club.

Nancy Carlton was the winner with a net 64, the second time she has won the cup.

The Gibney Cup is given annually in memory of Clarence Gibney, the first golf pro at Ponkapoag. He served as pro for 22 years.

A few putts tournament was recently played with Mary Carchedi and Laura Lynch tying for first place with 13, followed by Mary Michaels and Renee Randozza, 14; Hilda Appel, Sally Barr, Ethel Cook, Charlotte Dickie and Doree McConaghy, 15. The Ladies' Inner Club will hold its annual ladies invitational tournament next Tuesday, July 26. An awards luncheon will be held at the Blue Hill Country Club. All lady golfers in the area are invited to take part. About 100 golfers annually play in the event.

Harvey's Club Hosts 28th Veterans Outing

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Handicapped hospitalized veterans and staff attendants numbering more than 200 in all, recently had a day of fishing capped off by a tasty dinner.

The outing was provided for the 28th year by the 125 members of Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club, most of them on duty that day at Quincy Yacht Club or on the docks.

And "without the Boston Lobstermen, we couldn't have done it," said Bobby Allan, the day's chairman.

Twenty-eight lobster boats were filled with wheelchair veterans and the handicapped from Jamaica Plain, New Bedford, West Roxbury and Chelsea Veterans Administration Hospitals. Many of them arrived in specially equipped buses.

Harvey's fishermen prepare all year for this one big day. Fortunately, the weather cooperated after a week of record-breaking heat and early morning thundershowers.

Lawrence "Bucky" Shaw, a typical Harvey's Fishing Club member, had spent his spare time this past year carving and assembling 600 miniature lobster buoy keyrings, embossed by his brother, John Shaw. These were the souvenirs given to the veterans and guests—the remainder will be sold to raise funds for next year's Vets' Day.

Bucky himself was presented with a four-foot replica of the miniature lobster buoy, in appreciation from the club.

Four men who won prizes for "largest fish" this season contributed their cash awards to the Vets' Day fund, announced Herb Morgan, treasurer. They were Charles Leuchte, Sr., Paul Leuchte, Tom Berry and Richie Vieira.

Pete Raymer, Harvey's president, presented flowers to Carole Gardner for her years of volunteering with other women of the community to serve the homecoming meal to the veterans.

Mayor Francis McCauley greeted the veterans, and congratulated Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club on providing the day's outing since 1961. "It started small and it has grown," said the mayor, noting sweatshirts worn by some of the women which read, "No Veterans - No America."

Ward 1 Councillor Michael Cheney said he had brought his two sons with him that they might see and appreciate the efforts to honor the real war veterans.

Quincy City Council President Patricia Toland brought greetings also.

Rev. Denis O'Driscoll of Most Blessed Sacrament Church gave the blessing

• Jaehnig League

Playoff Action Heats Up In Jaehnig Hoop

Playoff action has heated up in the Jaehnig Chiropractic Men's Summer Basketball League with four teams advancing to the semifinal round.

The Miller A.C. defeated the Cutters, 73-63, as Mike Cohen scored 22 points, Billy Loughnone 16, Rick Stoltz 14 and Bob McNamara 11. The veteran Miller club was able to maintain its composure down the stretch when the younger and quicker Cutter squad cut the lead to one point with four minutes to play.

The Cutters, playing without their high scoring center, Norris Brown, were led by Jim Clancy with 17 points, George Louis with 16 and Dave Chaperon with 10.

Kane's Place topped the Republicans, 98-85, despite 36 points by the losers' Peter Hall, the league co-scoring leader Mark Millane had 30, Billy Dacey 24 and Dean Coletti 20 for Kane's P.J. Fay had 12 and Tom Henry contributed his usual steady defensive effort. Chip Bunker had 14, Brian Seppella 10 and Kevin Lottermilk 10 for the Republicans.

Top-seeded J.B. Heating spluttered a bit but defeated F-Troop, 80-66. F-Troop, which defeated the Hoop Junkies in the preliminary round of playoffs, got off to a fast start and led for nearly a half before succumbing to the powerful board strength of J.B. Heating.

F-Troop was led by Bill Wentworth's 22 points, 16 for Russ Boyle and George Esan's

14. Gerry Parker and Paul Cornell played well on both boards. Heating was led by Don Murphy's 21 points, while Fred Hamel, Brian Levitt and John Byers had 13 apiece and Steve Waitkus and Willie Weeks 10 each.

The Jaehnig Club provided a mild upset with a 66-52 win over Masterclean in a physical contest. Brian Donahue scored all 11 of his points in the first half for Masterclean. Greg Smith had 18 and Pat Kleicher 10. For Jaehnig Paul Leonard had 18, Chuck Jaehnig 15, Marty Connolly 14 and Mike Keeley 10.

In the semifinals Heating met the Jaehnig Club and Miller met Kane's place. The championship game will be played tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. at St. Joseph's gym.

Houghs Neck Wins Babe Ruth Title

For the second year in a row Houghs Neck fought off a challenge by VFW to win the Babe Ruth League's American Division title.

HN had to win its last seven games and wrapped up first place with a 12-2 win over the Firemen.

The win gave HN a 17-4 record, its best in 26 years in the league. The record was reached despite being two players short, and several key injuries.

Because of injuries the team was forced to use three pitchers, who combined for a one-hitter. Chad McMahon was the starter, followed by Rob Kiesel and Billy Campbell.

Garrett Butkus, Campbell and Jim Gately combined for eight hits, six RBI and six runs scored.

In its previous game HN had defeated Golden Print behind McMahon's four-hitter to assure the team of at least a tie for first place. Kiesel had four hits and McMahon and Sai Manganaro two each.

In the other games leading up to the first place finish, HN had topped the Flks, 11-8; walloped the VFW, 20-5; scoring 10 runs in the first; defeated Sons of Italy, 11-7; downed Morrisette, 3-2; and toppled Granite City Electric, 11-8.

Don Anderson, Kevin Mullay and Steven Waas, three 15-year-olds, led Bryan Post to three victories over the past week, improving its record to 15-6.

Bryan defeated Barry's Deli, 9-4, as Pat McDonough scattered five hits and struck out six.

Waas and Anderson had three hits each, Mark Kelleher had a triple and double, Michael Malvesti had two hits and Joe Marnikovic had a long double. Steven Loud and Rob Kane also had hits.

Mullay, who has been outstanding all season, played excellent defense at first base and Chris Stenmon and Paul Murphy also played strong defense. Tom Nutley, Philip Bell, Todd Portesi and Terry Sheehan also contributed to the win.

For Barry's Denny MacLean doubled and Mike Kelley, Joe Bevilacqua, Dan Kearns and Steve Osborne had singles.

Bryan also edged the Firemen 9-7, with Malvesti and Waas combining for eight strikeouts, while yielding only four hits.

Malvesti and Mullay had three hits each, Waas two and Marnikovic and Murphy one apiece. Bryan won the game in the last inning on RBI hits by Nutley and Stenmon.

For the Firemen, Jason Radzevich had two hits, J.J. Schnabel a double and Mark Portesi a single.

Bryan topped Golden Print, 9-4, with Marnikovic pitching a one-hitter over the first four innings and striking out six. Relief pitcher Don Anderson allowed one hit and struck out six of the eight batters he faced. Earlier Anderson had made a spectacular diving catch in left field.

Marnikovic had two hits, including a long ground rule double, Mullay had two hits and Kane and Kelleher one each. Kelleher had another outstanding game behind the plate and Nutley and Portesi played well in the outfield.

Joe Crespi tripled for Golden and Brian Zimmerman singled. Matt Collins pitched well, going all the way and giving up six hits.

Granite City Electric defeated Morrisette Post, 13-5, with Dave Gamsby pitching four-hit ball, striking out 10 and walking three.

George Walsh and Andy Colleary led the offense, Walsh having a double and two singles and driving in four runs and Colleary having two doubles and four RBI.

Wayne Sit, Vin Anderlonis and Gamsby had singles and Dave Jolley, Mike Picariello and Ed Costello played well on defense. Also contributing to the win were Mike MacDougall, Scott Wysocki, Jamie White, Brian Jennette and Andy Veneziano.

For Morrisette, catcher Jeff Currie was outstanding defensively and also had two hits. Joe Cunio and Steve Keddy had singles and shortstop Tom Ridge played well.

Lipton Cup Regatta Set For July 30-31

The second annual Lipton Cup Regatta, sponsored by the Squantum Yacht Club, will be held July 30-31 on four different Quincy Bay race courses and promises to be one of the largest regattas on the East Coast.

In last year's inaugural event, 126 boats competed, making it the largest first-year U.S. Regatta in 1987.

This year's regatta is expected to draw over 250 boats with competition in the following classes: PHRF, Tornado, 110, 210, Laser, Sailboard, Hustler, Thunderbird, Mercury and N-10. Sailboards from MIT, the alma mater of the original recipient of the trophy, Herb Albright, are also welcome to compete. The Turnabout N.E. Open championships will be held at the regatta.

The magnificent silver cup, presented to Albright in 1930 by John 'Honey Fitz' Fitzgerald, grandfather of President John F. Kennedy, will symbolize the event.

Albright won the trophy for his victories in the One-design Indian Class 'Osseo,' celebrating the Massachusetts Tercentenary.

Winners in the various classes will receive specially designed keeper trophies and their names will be inscribed on the cup's base.

The Lipton Tea Company has provided significant support for the regatta, continuing the tradition of Sir Thomas J. Lipton, the company's founder. Sir Lipton donated the ornate silver trophy, which stands nearly three feet tall, to the Mass. Bay Yacht Club Association in 1930. Albright of Quincy won the cup, proudly displayed it in his home for over 50 years and generously returned the trophy to active competition last year.

Drop marks will be used on all four courses and MicroDirect, a major Boston computer firm, is providing state-of-the-art computer equipment. Computers aboard race committee boats immediately will transmit race information to shore via cellular phone, and results will be displayed on a wide screen TV in the Yacht Club.

A full schedule of social events complementing the races will culminate in a Sunday afternoon awards ceremony honoring the top three boats in each class.

Deadline for entries is July 29. Entry fees are $25 for IMS, PHRF and One-Design and $15 for N-10. Checks made payable to Squantum Yacht Club should be sent to Donald McGilvray, 3 Ashworth Rd., Squantum 02171.

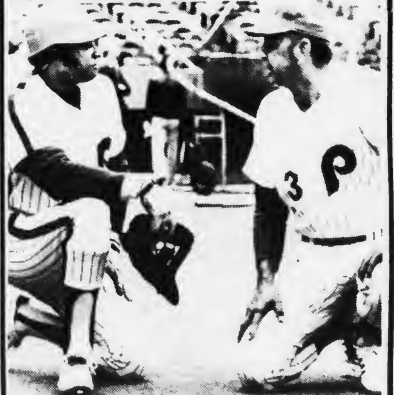

MORE THAN 250 boats are expected to compete for this beautiful Lipton Cup in the second annual Lipton Regatta July 30 and 31 on four Quincy Bay race courses.

North Quincy Alumni Theatre Presents 'A Shot In The Dark'

The North Quincy Alumni Theatre will present the mystery comedy, "A Shot In The Dark" July 21-23 and 28-30.

The play is about the interrogation of a murder suspect and the amusing situations that develop as the inquiry proceeds.

"A Shot In The Dark" is under the direction of Mr. Frank Moffett, drama coach and English and Latin teacher at North Quincy High School. The cast includes Sheila Egan, Tim McDonald, Greg Toland, Nanig Gheridian, Liz Harrington, Ashot Gheridian, Don Spinks, and Mike Megias.

The production will begin at 8 p.m. at the North Quincy High School Black Box Theatre. Tickets are $4.50 and may be purchased at the door or reserved by calling Greg Toland at 479-4806 after 6 p.m. All proceeds will benefit the North Quincy Alumni Theatre Scholarship Fund.

Openings Still In Beechwood Music Classes

Openings are available in two classes at the Beechwood Music School.

One of the classes is music campers, which introduces children to the creative aspect of music. Singing, dancing, instrument families, and hands-on experience are covered.

The class is for grades one through five. It runs Aug. 1-12 from 9 a.m. to noon. Cost is $75.

The other class is the piano keyboard class. Children explore all aspects of keyboarding from beginner to professional level. Demonstrations, workshops on the history of keyboards, techniques, accompaniment, and improvisation are covered.

Participants are required to bring their own keyboard. The class is for children ages nine-13. It runs Aug. 1-5 from 10 a.m. to noon. Cost is $40.

SCOT CANNON

Mime To Perform At Library

Scott Cannon, a mime, will perform at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Center, Tuesday, July 26 at 7 p.m. This is the third in a six-week series of programs funded by the Quincy Arts Council.

The series provides a variety of performers and story repertoires to children five years of age and older and their families.

Cannon's story technique

as a mime is different from other programs in the series since pantomime depends upon facial expression, gesture and body language to portray character, provide action and convey emotion without the use of voice.

Cannon's one man mime show has been staged in libraries, schools, colleges and festivals throughout New England, in theaters and on television.

Trained in music, Cannon writes much of the sound-track that accompanies his show. He's a vigorous performer who has a daily regimen of exercise that keeps him in top physical condition.

Cannon's appearance as a mime is a "first" for the Thomas Crane Library audience.

Future performers in the series will be Judith Black on Aug. 2; Len Cabral on Aug. 9, and West of the Moon on Aug. 16.

'A Taste Of Broadway' To Be Presented Saturday

The Quincy Community Theatre will present "A Taste of Broadway" Saturday at Milton Cinema, 588 Adams St. in Milton.

The event is a fundraiser to benefit the Quincy Community Theatre. Proceeds will go to help QCT establish an ongoing theater program and cinema for the South Shore.

The show features Ann-Kennelly Ryan, who has appeared in such local productions as Godspell, Carousel, Jesus Christ

ANNE KENNELLY-RYAN

Superstar, and Two by Two.

She will be backed up by a 30-piece orchestra under the direction of Doug Anderson. Songs featured will be "As Long As He Needs Me," "Don't Rain on My Parade," "Somewhere," and "I Dreamed a Dream."

The two shows will run at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. respectively.

Tickets are $12.50 and can be purchased at Milton Cinema or by calling 696-0300.

6 QHS Students Top Scorers In Math

Eight ninth grade math team members at Quincy High School were named as national student leaders during a competitive season in

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're individualistic and broadminded, self confident and a born leader. Some may find you a show off. Intellectual pursuits are accentuated over the coming six months. In the community or on the job, you make your mark by late '88.

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19

Sports and recreation are spotlighted this week -- a good period for entering or observing competitions. Friends are more generous with their time. Communications improve noticeably.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20

Coworker or a neighbor may enter into a friendly disagreement, be sure not to read too much into the situation. The social event of the season may be on tap for this week.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20

Friends of the opposite sex help you understand where a key relationship is headed. Tie-ups are a way of life for much of the week, if traveling, you may enjoy some delightful detours.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22

Friend proves his or her loyalty in an unexpected way. Intriguing correspondence may arrive, be sure to interpret it correctly before framing a reply. Relative may be in a picky mood.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21

Week finds you mingling with the rich or famous, and chances are you're quite unimpressed. Surprising announcement may take a while to sink in. Good week for writing songs or poems.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22

New group activity may capture your interest in a week that finds you unusually outgoing. Loved one may be under some pressure, your quiet support is valued greatly.

LEO - July 23 - August 22

Loved one may oppose your plans, and there may be a worthwhile reason behind the opposition. Week is generally favorable for completing a major project and learning a new skill.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22

Week sees you pursuing -- and coming closer to -- an elusive goal. Energy runs high, be sure to channel it in a positive direction. Educational prospects brighten through this period.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22

Positive financial news may arrive at an unexpected time. Family support helps you achieve a personal goal ahead of schedule. You may be traveling to a place you knew as a child.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21

You may be visiting someone from the distant past -- and it's possible that very little has changed. Community interests dominate your time and energy through this period.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22

Week may be deceptive, your first impressions may not be entirely accurate ones. Decorating and designing respond to your bold and adventuresome mood. Emotional friend is more down-to-earth.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20

Week accents family get-togethers and an important reconciliation. If considering membership in an organization, be sure to collect all the facts first. Friend appreciates your objectivity.

BORN THIS WEEK

July 21st, actor Don Knotts, 22nd, actor Jason Robards, Jr., 23rd, comedian Tommy Craven, 24th, actress Ruth Buzzi, 25th, singer Carol Sanders, 26th, singer Mick Jagger, 27th, producer Norman Lear.

CITY OF QUINCY, MASSACHUSETTS DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS INVITATION TO BID

Sealed proposals for the Foundation and Slab on Grade for the New Animal Shelter, 50 Broad Street, Quincy, MA 02169.

will be received at the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA, until 10:00 a.m. on Thursday, August 11, 1988 at which time they will be publicly opened and read. Late bids will be rejected.

General bids will be considered only from bidders who present with their bid certificate of eligibility and qualification update statement as prescribed by Chapter 44A of the Acts of 1984.

Forms for the Contractors Qualification Statement are available at the Massachusetts Division of Capital Planning and Operations.

General Bids must be accompanied by a bid deposit in an amount equal to five (5%) percent of the value of the bid. Bid deposits payable to the City of Quincy, shall be either cash, bid bond, certified check, or treasurer's or cashier's check issued by a responsible bank or trust company. The successful general bidder will be required to furnish a performance bond and a labor and materials or payment bond, each of a Mass. Qualified Surety Company and each in the sum of the contract price.

Bid specifications (one set per bidder) will be available for pickup at the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. beginning July 12, 1988. A deposit of fifty ($50) dollars in cash or check, payable to the City of Quincy is required for each set of specifications. This deposit will be refunded upon return of the specifications in good condition to the Public Works Department Office within ten (10) working days after the opening of the general bids. Otherwise the deposit shall become the property of the City of Quincy.

Bidders requesting specifications to be mailed to them shall add a separate check for twenty-five dollars ($25.00), payable to the City of Quincy, to cover mailing and handling.

Bids are subject to the provisions of M.G.A., Chapter 30, Section 90M and Chapter 149, Section 44A through 44I, as amended.

Wages are subject to the provisions of M.G.A., Chapter 149, Sections 26 through 27I.

The City of Quincy reserves the right to waive any information in, or to reject any or all bids, if it is in the City's interest to do so.

Docket No. 88P2564A1

NOTICE OF FIDUCIARY'S ACCOUNT

To all persons interested in the estate of LOUIS GENTILE late of QUINCY, in said County, deceased.

You are hereby notified pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 72 that the 1st and final account(s) of Theresa Gentile as Administratrix (the fiduciary) of said estate have been presented to said Court for allowance.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said account(s), you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before the twenty-fourth day of August, 1988, the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney for the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said account(s). If you desire to object to any item of said account(s), you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each such item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 5.

Witness, Robert M. Ford, Esquire, First Justice of said Court, this fourteenth day of July, 1988.

Funds In Budget For State Police Barracks

According to Morrissey, the next step is to design and plan the new facility. Proposals will then be brought before neighbors.

Once that is accomplished, the project will be sent out to bid. Morrissey said it could be six months to a year before it is contracted.

"The engineering and surveying could take some time. As far as design, that's under control," Morrissey said, adding the design will be similar to other recently built State Police barracks.

The state Department of Public Safety has wanted to move the Norwell barracks closer to Quincy for eight years.

Morrissey said the Quincy barracks will be built close to the Route 3-128 interchange.

Mary Collins Reception July 26

A reception for Mary Collins, candidate for Norfolk County Commissioner, will be held Tuesday, July 26 from 6 to 8 p.m. at Amelia's in Marina Bay, Squantum.

Tickets are $50 per person and may be obtained by calling Janet Coughlin at 328-5124.

Cheney Suggests New Name Snug Harbor Community School

Ward 1 Councillor Michael Cheney would like the name of the Snug Harbor School to be renamed the Snug Harbor Community School because he believes the latter is more appropriate.

"This school is not just for children and young adults," Cheney said. "This is a community school that everyone has access to."

"This change best reflects what the school has become over the past year," he said.

The school offers a wide range of community oriented programs not found in every day elementary schools.

Cheney was set to ask the School Committee to authorize the change at its meeting Wednesday night.

Although he is unaware of how committee members will react to the idea, Cheney said he is hopeful they will support it.

Cheney, whose ward includes the school, said Snug Harbor's principal Richard DeCristofaro as well as other school officials have been "very cooperative."

"We plan on working with the school department for their cooperation," Cheney said.

According to Cheney, modifying the school's name will not cost the city any money. In addition, by changing the name, the school could receive state, federal and private grants if designated a community school.

Furthermore, the School Committee will retain control of the 36-year-old building.

For the past several months, the Snug Harbor school has been offering community programs and has plans to expand. Programs range from helping residents to achieve high school diplomas to offering equivalency courses.

In addition, Cheney said the school could be used as a resource center for residents and as a site to conduct job seminars.

The school is also used as a satellite campus for Quincy Junior College programs for residents in disadvantaged neighborhoods.

Quincy has one community school, the Lincoln-Hancock Community School, which was built specifically as a community school. That facility is located in West Quincy.

Kemper Insurance Bill Awaits Signature

A bill, sponsored by Rep. Michael Morrissey that would allow Kemper Insurance to transfer its auto policies to a mutual company, is on Gov. Michael Dukakis' desk awaiting his signature. The legislation allows Kemper to transfer its 250,000 personal auto policies to a new domestic mutual company to be known as Arbella Mutual Insurance.

Arbella will be funded with $119 million from Kemper and run by a blue ribbon board of directors comprised of prominent business leaders, academics, professionals and Massachusetts consumers, Morrissey said.

of which approximately 300 belong to Quincy residents, Morrissey said.

"This is a new innovative approach to allow for the creation of a new mutual insurance company," Morrissey said. "Kemper Insurance did not turn their back on their employees like some insurance carriers who chose to close their doors."

According to Morrissey, Kemper negotiated an agreement for employees involved in private passenger auto to be offered comparable benefits and severance packages with Arbella. This will save more than 1000 jobs.

"A lot of credit goes to Kemper Insurance for not shirking their corporate responsibilities. They took the initiative to create a new company which will protect both the employees and policy holders," he said.

Republican McCauley Finds:

Democrats Confident of victory

By FRANCIS X. MCCAULEY
Mayor of Quincy

For two days last week I was a reporter for The Quincy Sun at the 1988 Democratic National Convention.

I left Boston on Delta flight #173 nonstop to Atlanta on Wednesday, July 20, at 10:00. The flight was two hours late because of the fog and heavy rain. I arrived in Atlanta at 12:20 P.M., and after checking into my hotel, I picked up my press credentials and became a part of the 1988 Democratic National Convention.

The convention was held in the Omni Coliseum, the home of the Atlanta Hawks, an N.B.A. professional basketball team. Just across the street for the Omni is the Georgia World Congress Centre which housed a number of hospitality rooms, and a restaurant.

The Democratic National Committee deserves congratulations for their management of the convention. Despite the large numbers of delegates, alternates, press and other observers, once you received your credentials you could move about the convention area very easily. I made my headquarters in the hospitality room of the U.S. Conference of Mayors. The conference provided widescreen TV, food and liquid refreshments for Mayors and their guests.

During my stay, I interviewed a number of delegates from around the country as well as some of the Mayors.

During Wednesday evening I had the opportunity to visit with the Massachusetts delegation on the convention floor. Some of the local delegates included, Rosemary Wahlberg of Quincy, Secretary of Human Services, Phil Johnston, Bernice Mader of Quincy, Jim French of Cohasset, Congressman Joe Moakley, Jim Segal, former Executive Director of the Massachusetts Municipal Association, Ruth Walsh of Randolph and Mary Sofis of Hingham, a Quincy teacher. The Massachusetts delegates are very proud of their candidate and are confident of a Dukakis presidential victory in November.

Blue Hills Road Closure Program Continues

The Metropolitan District Commission recently implemented the Blue Hills Road Closure Program to provide more enjoyment for joggers, hikers, cyclists and nature enthusiasts alike.

The program runs through Columbus Day in October. The weekend program consists of closing three gates from dusk on Friday to dawn on Monday.

The gates are at Wompatuck Rd. and Bunker Hill Ln., Chickatawbut Rd. and Granite St., and Chickatawbut Rd. and Overlook.

The weeknight road closure program, instituted in order to increase overnight security in the reservation, is in effect all year round.

Gates closed dusk to dawn,

Monday through Friday, are:

The gate at Wompatuck Rd. and Bunker Hill Ln., the gate at Chickatawbut Rd. and Granite St., and the gate at Chickatawbut Rd. and Rte. 28.

For more information on the Road Closure Program or MetroParks activities, call the MDC's Public Information Office at 727-5215.

effects of pollution on recreation and public health, and the efforts to clean up Boston Harbor.

The public is invited.

The executive board of the Quincy Police Patrolman's Association says "there is no room in the city of Quincy for Auxiliary Police."

Board members, in a statement released Tuesday said the auxiliary police volunteers "are an untrained group of people who are not equipped for the many complex matters in today's world."

The four board members said:

"These people are on the street doing non-confrontal type duties. However, anything can happen and they are just not equipped to handle these delicate situations."

The statement was released by Paul Quinn, president; Kevin Cook, vice president; Jeff Burrell, secretary and Gerald Gardiner, treasurer.

According to Civil Defense Director Tony Siciliano, the Auxiliary Police members are a supplement to the Police Force who must pass stringent guidelines.

These guidelines include CPR, criminal justice, and handling firearms, he said, adding that training for Auxiliary Police is 96 hours, with Special Instruction for firearms.

The people who sent the letter, he said, "are afraid if we get the volunteers, they will be utilized for other things (which the police force does already). I can't see how civic duty hurts police financially. It does, there is something wrong."

The executive board's statement was prompted by news articles in The Quincy Sun and the Patriot Ledger last week that Civil Defense was accepting volunteers in eight divisions, including the Auxiliary Police and Auxiliary Fire Department.

The text of their statement: "The officers who serve on the Quincy Police Department are a well trained group of men and women who have gone through many months of intense training to perform their duties in a timely and professional manner."

City Beaches Will Remain Open

Despite some sewage pollution reported at Wollaston Beach due to recent heavy rains, city beaches will remain open. Quincy's health commissioner said Tuesday.

"We feel it is very difficult to close a beach and enforce the closure," said Jane Gallahue, the city's health commissioner.

"We cannot have people manning the beach and keeping people off continually," she said.

"We feel a better way to inform the public about the suitability or unsuitability for swimming is to let the media know...and to let them know what the levels are," she said.

Last week, after several days of steady rain and drizzle, the fecal coliform count at the Wollaston Beach-Channing St. area was found to be 230, above the acceptable standard. Counts of over 200 are considered unacceptable and unhealthy for swimming by the Quincy Health Department.

Water samples taken last week also revealed that the fecal coliform count at Wollaston Beach at Milton St. was 190, slightly below the acceptable level.

In the wake of Monday's downpour over Quincy which dropped two inches of rain in about an hour, Gallahue cautioned potential swimmers for bathing in the city's beaches.

"When there is heavy rain, we advise people to wait about one or two days (before swimming)," Gallahue said, adding the heavy rain causes sewer treatment bypass.

It takes the tide at least a day or two to "flush out" the amount of sewage in the water, she said.

The Metropolitan District Commission, which controls the Wollaston Beach area, has repeatedly warned area residents against going into the water there.

McGrath Asks Legislature Reconvene To Override Dukakis

Councillor Stephen McGrath is asking Senate President William Bulger and House Speaker George Keverian to reconvene the legislature and entertain the motion to override Gov. Michael Dukakis' veto of $91 million in local aid.

Some $1.29 million would have gone to Quincy from this intake of lottery revenue, which was vetoed by Dukakis July 17.

McGrath, who is chairman of the City Council Finance Committee, says cities and towns rely on these funds to provide essential city services due to limits on powers of taxation.

In a letter to Bulger and Keverian, McGrath said:

"We at the local level relied on these funds to provide essential city services as there is a limit on our power of taxation.

"When the lottery was established, the promise was that these sums would be distributed for the benefit of the cities and towns, and this has always been the case.

"It is my understanding that Quincy's share of the $91 million vetoed by the Governor would have amounted to $1.29 million." Administration and Finance Secretary Frank Keefe has pointed out that giving the same amount to the cities and towns as last year ignores the fact that lottery receipts have risen-increasing the amount for distribution."

MWRA Citizens Board Should Control Budget

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority would be more accountable to taxpayers if approval power of its budget were given to the MWRA Citizens Advisory Board, according to Council President and state representative candidate Patricia Toland.

The MWRA board of directors is not required to implement budget recommendations by the C.A.B., she said, even though the C.A.B. meets monthly and during the past year made some budget recommendations which were ultimately followed.

"It seems reasonable to assume that those representatives from the MWRA member communities would cast an extremely watchful eye on every dollar spent since it would impact every taxpayer in their community," said Toland.

She also said that legislation giving the C.A.B. more power over the budget would "bring a broader perspective to budget deliberations and important decisions affecting all of us."

McCauley Seeks Override On Dukakis Local Aid Veto

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Mayor Francis McCauley has written Quincy's three state representatives asking them to support a call for a special session of the legislature in an effort to override the governor's veto of $91 million in local aid.

"I'm asking our representatives, Rep. Robert Cerasoli and Rep. Michael Morrissey, and Senator Paul Harold to urge the state legislature back into session so that they can override the veto by Gov. Michael Dukakis of the $91 million in additional local aid," McCauley said Tuesday.

"It is urgent that you act on the above request, (since) the city stands to lose $1.4 million in additional lottery funds," McCauley wrote.

The mayor said Quincy's situation is not as serious as Brockton's where perhaps 150 city employees could be laid off.

"Still, we feel this is money we're entitled to," McCauley said.

House Speaker George Keverian said Monday he has no plans to call back state representatives to override the governor's veto.

"As of now, there are no plans for a date to come back into session" to override the veto, Keverian said.

The House of Representatives is meeting informally through the summer.

McCauley wrote Quincy's three representatives after receiving a letter from Rep. Steven Pierce, the House Minority Leader. Pierce's letter urged McCauley, as well as other municipal officials, to immediately contact their legislators to support a call back into session and vote to override the governor's veto.

Pierce wrote that Gov. Dukakis "wrongly characterized the $91 million in resolution aid when he vetoed as 'surplus' or 'extra' money which the Commonwealth's cities and towns didn't need or deserve."

"He claimed that he was able to do this because the state will have collected an additional $91 million in lottery revenues above and beyond the original estimates for fiscal years 1988 and 1989," Pierce said.

"As you know, however, there is really no such thing as 'surplus' lottery revenues because all such revenue is statutorily dedicated to the state's municipalities, whatever the amount that finally comes in," he added.

Furthermore, Pierce noted that the statute, which created the lottery fund, clearly states that all revenues beyond the expenses needed to operate the lottery, must be distributed through local aid fund to cities and towns in order to provide "local property tax relief and continued services at the local level."

"No mention is made of 'caps' or 'ceilings' and no provision is made for withholding any amounts by the executive or legislative branches.

"Yet, this is exactly what the governor has done through his use of the veto," Pierce said.

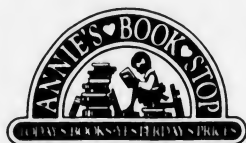

With the news of the veto, McCauley said, "It's a blow to the city of Quincy but we'll weather the storm," adding the city would continue to operate as budgeted for fiscal 1989.

Because of the veto, McCauley said he would transfer money from reserve funds to "close the gap."

The mayor also said there would be no drastic budget cuts or layoffs.

As for next year, McCauley said he is unsure of the city's financial picture.

Special Needs Program At Vo-Tech

The special needs program at Quincy Vocational-Technical School is being presented as a model of special needs education to a special Congressional Committee.

Many students requiring special education are attending vocational schools, according to Voc-Tech director Joseph Mazarella. The school tries to keep its program more flexible and better suited to individuals to deal with the supposed influx.

He also says many of the program's teachers have been there since the program started nine years ago.

Their program pairs a special needs student up with an advocate who watches out for the student and keeps in contact with the parents. Punishment for special needs students is work at Quincy City Hospital instead of suspension.

"By keeping students in school, we are lessening their chances of becoming discouraged and dropping out," says Carter Caudle, director of special needs at Quincy Voc-Tech.

Saturday 'Clean Water Day'

Saturday, July 30 has been proclaimed "Clean Water Day" in Quincy by Mayor Francis X. McCauley.

"Clean Water Day" was established in 1983 but this year has been expanded into a nationwide event.

The proclamation reads, "The City of Quincy supports the efforts of the "Save the Harbor-Save the Bay" and "Clean Water Action Project" in their work to set aside one summer day as "Clean Water Day."

"The Boston Harbor and Massachusetts shorelines and waterways have been a valuable asset in the region, promoting tourism, swimming recreation, fishing and commerce.

"By signing the proclamation, we deepen our awareness about protecting our National Resources and involve our community in positive efforts of protecting and promoting clean water for all of Massachusetts."

Longtime Landmark Gone

Houghs Neck Water Tank Demolished

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

The Houghs Neck water tank atop Great Hill—a long time landmark—was demolished this week.

Workmen with cutting tools and crane did the job.

Mayor Francis McCauley, familiar with the landmark all his life, awarded an $80,000 contract to James I. Grant of Readville to remove both the Houghs Neck and Squantum water tanks.

Built in 1914, the "water tower" has for nearly 75 years been the Houghs Neck area's well-known landmark. It could be seen from all homes in Houghs Neck. It was a beacon to small boats on Quincy Bay. It was a "welcome home" to Houghs Neck residents returning to Boston by air from all over the world.

The water tower did not always stand alone on Great Hill's highest point. For a number of years, the small plot of land between Mears Ave. and Sea Ave. was the site also of the Great Hill Observatory. This round wooden structure was built in 1901. A small food and novelty souvenir shop occupied its lower level. A small window, its "observatory," was half-way up the 30-foot structure. This, too, was dismantled years ago.

In recent years, despite expensive repairs, high winds and heavy storms have caused the tower and tank to spray nuts and bolts on nearby homes and land. There was a fear that the tank might lose some of its graffiti-covered siding. The tank might leak, might even become weakened enough to fall from its spindling legs.

Once relied upon by the Quincy Fire Department for emergency help in extinguishing neighborhood fires, the tank has not held water, nor its apparatus pumped water for a number of years. Water pressure for Great Hill homes has been very low.

New and larger water pipes now being laid down Sea St. from Adams Shore to the foot of Great Hill are expected to alleviate pressure problems.

Still, Houghs Neck neighbors pause and sigh with regret as they look upward to Great Hill for their lost landmark, the Great Hill Water Tower. It is small consolation that Squantum's landmark will soon be dismantled also.

HOUGHS NECK LANDMARK the Great Hill Water Tower, built in 1914, shows a worn and tired tank rising above surrounding trees and shrubbery.

GREAT HILL WATER TOWER, partially demolished, today has only its tall legs remaining.

One Beach Area Unhealthy

One of Quincy's 15 beach areas was considered unacceptable and unhealthy by the city's Health Department for swimming after water quality samples were taken July 19.

The beach area at Wollaston and Channing St. had a fecal coliform count of 230 and total coliform count of 1000.

Fecal coliform counts of over 200 are considered unacceptable and unhealthy for swimming by the Quincy Health Department.

Other results are:

Avalon Beach, 230 total coliform and 18 fecal coliform.

Mound Beach, 140 and 10. Broadly Beach, 370 and 15. Germantown Fire Station, 90 and zero.

Rhoda Beach, 150 and 23. Edgewater Dr., 200 and 7. Parkhurst St., 80 and 2. Post Island Rd., 50 and zero.

Chickatawbut Rd., 30 and 5.

Wollaston-Rice Rd., 370 and 76. Wollaston-Sachem St., 460 and 110.

Wollaston-Milton St., 1200 and 190.

Nickerson Beach, 60 and 2. Orchard Beach, 40 and 2.

The next tests were scheduled to be conducted on July 26.

McDuff To Attend White House Briefings

John H. McDuff of Quincy Point, Republican candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District announces he will attend a political briefing to be held at the White House.

The conference will be held for selected state legislative candidates from across the country Aug. 5 and will deal with key legislative policy issues.

"I believe," McDuff said, "it is essential that those of us from Massachusetts who are most familiar with the tax-and-spend philosophy of Michael Dukakis attend this meeting, in order to share with our fellow-Republicans from other states the sense of deep concern we feel for America if the liberal Dukakis agenda which is bankrupting Massachusetts ever finds its way into the White House.

"America is facing a socialist future and we must all fight against it."

Readers Forum Who Are They?

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The story in the news media of the theft of Lloyd and Jane Reikard's '79 Cadillac might have bounced off the wall with some readers, but it sure hit home with others.

Taking property of another without earning it is a dastardly act. Yet it happens all the time. Massachusetts leads the nation in car thefts; that's why insurance companies offer reduced premiums to those who install some type of antitheft device on their vehicles. Apparently the Reikards failed to have a device installed.

There were two attempted breaks in my well-lit parking lot recently, but both failed because of antitheft devices attached to their old cars, and neither owners are public figures.

If Mrs. Reikard really believes as she has stated in the press, claiming various annoyances with her Cadillac since August 1987 saying,

"Since the vendetta against Jane Reikard has persisted, I have no alternative but to start naming names, and let the public know what's happening to Jane Reikard."

Because as the news article stated, "Jane Reikard, an advocate of tenants' rights" appeared so adamant in her choice of words. I believe she owes it to the public to be more explicit and identify who her "constituents" are. How many are landlords and how many are tenants that she represents in court on Thursdays and she should name the people whom she says are the scoundrels and the dregs of society who are responsible for her annoyances.

How can we cope with these alleged violations of law if we are not given all the facts?

Golden For Lt. Governor?

IF MIKE DUKAKIS should make it all the way to the White House, there will be a lot of political scrambling at the state level in Massachusetts.

Lt. Gov. Evelyn Murphy, of course, would move up and fill out the remaining two years of Dukakis' term. She would then run for governor in 1990.

The open lieutenant governor post is already eyed by Secretary of State Michael Connolly.

But a local name is also being mentioned as a possible candidate: former Quincy City Solicitor William Golden, now a state senator out of Weymouth.

Golden was the man who, as Mayor Francis McCauley's city solicitor, sued the state over the pollution in Boston Harbor-Quincy Bay. The suit led to the multi-million dollar harbor cleanup project.

GOLDEN

FOR THE RECORD: Just in case any of you are wondering, Mayor McCauley did not get paid by The Quincy Sun to cover the Democratic National Convention. All his expenses, including travel and hotel accommodations, came out of his campaign fund which he has the right to tap.

The Sun obtained the press credentials for him from the Democratic National Committee.

McCauley did not get the idea to try his hand at newspaper reporting from New York Gov. Mario Cuomo who recently covered an assignment for a newspaper.

McCauley expressed an interest in covering the convention last April and The Sun applied for the press credentials back then.

The idea of Quincy's mayor who is also a Republican covering the Democratic convention appealed to The Sun.

McCauley did a good job with articles before the convention and his impressions of the convention and how he sees the Michael Dukakis-George Bush race which appear in this week's Quincy Sun.

Wonder if he would like to cover the Republican convention next month in New Orleans.

WHILE IN ATLANTA, McCauley got a chance to get together with an old classmate from Bentley

Dance Camp Openings

Recreation Director Barry Welch announces there are limited openings in the department's Dance Camp scheduled for Aug. 1-5.

This camp will be taught by Nancy Palmer, a former member of Boston Ballet Co., and director of "Let's Dance Studios," Quincy and Weymouth.

Dance Camp is open to girls with an interest in dance and is geared to the beginner through intermediate level. The emphasis will be on routines and technique. Participants will be taught different types of dance including musical comedy, jazz, fundamental ballet, tap and choreography. Techniques for overcoming stage fright and the application of stage make-up is included.

The camp, one of the self-supporting summer programs of the Quincy Recreation Department, is for girls ages 7-12. Cost is $20. Registration is conducted weekdays 8:30 a.m. through 4:30 p.m. at 100 Southern Artery as long as openings still exist. Additional information can be obtained by calling the Recreation Department office at 773-1380, ext. 204.

College McCauley and Dan Heffernan met while attending night classes at Bentley back in the 1950's. Heffernan, a Dorchester native, has lived in the Atlanta area for a number of years and is retired from the trucking business. The pair hadn't seen each other for 25 years.

OBSERVATION: Once upon a time Quincy seemed to dominate the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant with a long string of winners. But now there hasn't been a Quincy winner in six years.

The last winner from Quincy was Christine McGrath in 1982. Before her Quincy winners included Beth Ann Strenge (1981), Tracy Hart (1980), Kathy Mann (1978), Mary Pickering (1976), Jeanne Rathgeb (1975), Janice Lamparello (1974) and Patricia Kelly (1973).

In recent years, it has been Weymouth that is on a roll. Three out of the last four pageant winners have been from Weymouth, including this year's Miss Quincy Bay Dawn Larkin, 16. The other Weymouth winners are Michelle Loth (1986) and Tricia Lanner (1985).

And don't you think Michelle Loth and Dawn Larkin look a lot alike?

Maybe Quincy will take back the crown next year.

You know, Beth Ann Strenge who won it in 1981 and is now the pageant chairman, looks like she could get back in there and win again.

Democrats Confident Of Victory

Some of the delegates interviewed included a registered nurse from Tuscon, Arizona, who was a Jesse Jackson delegate, a retired railroad employee from Richfield, Minnesota, another Jesse Jackson delegate, a housewife from Lenore, North Carolina who was originally a Gore delegate (Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee had dropped out of the race earlier) and a labor leader from New Jersey, who was a Dukakis delegate.

Talking with the rank and file delegates, almost all of them felt confident of a democratic victory in November. Party unity was the major reason for their optimism. The delegates feel that Jesse Jackson will be a great help in delivering the black vote to Governor Dukakis in the fall. The vast majority feel that the state of the economy will be the dominant issue in the campaign rather than foreign policy and foreign affairs.

By wide margins the delegates felt that Lloyd Bentsen although not well known to them, will be a positive addition to the ticket. They feel that Bentsen will help in the south and his presence on the ticket puts Texas' 29 electoral votes within reach of the Democratic column.

Delegates interviewed do not perceive Governor Dukakis as a liberal but as a moderate. Governor Dukakis' message that he is a competent chief executive in a state that has a booming economy and that what he has done in Massachusetts he can do at the National level has been accepted by the delegates.

Very few of those interviewed knew about Dukakis' recent financial problems with the FY1988 and 1989 Massachusetts State Budgets. When I pointed out that the Reagan performance in economic affairs for the past eight years was a strong one (low inflation, declining unemployment and the creation of 15 million new jobs) many of the delegates dismissed these numbers as illusory.

Some said that most of the new jobs created were low paying dead end jobs. The retired railroad worker commented upon hearing the Reagan Administration statistics "there is always room for improvement."

MAYOR FRANCIS MCCAULEY, who covered the Democratic National Convention as a correspondent for The Quincy Sun, meets with State Auditor Joseph DeNucci while at the convention in Atlanta, Georgia.

Massachusetts mayors attending the convention included Carleton Viveros of Fall River, who did a double take when he saw me.

"What is a notorious Republican like you doing here,"

Other mayors were Eugene Brune, of Somerville, Albert DeVergilio of Lynn and Boston Mayor Ray Flynn who addressed the convention briefly.

I also talked with a number of mayors from other parts of the country. Mayor Sidney Barthelemy of New Orleans, said that poor economic conditions in the southwest caused by the decline in oil prices will give the Democrats a good chance of carrying the states of Louisiana, Texas, and Oklahoma. Mayor Barthelemy said while he could not blame the Reagan Administration for the cause of the regions economic woes, he felt the Reagan Administration was insensitive to the areas continuing problems.

Mayor Barthelemy predicted Lloyd Bentsen's selection as the Vice Presidential nominee will be helpful in the south and southwest.

Mayor Martha Scott freshman Mayor of Highland Park Michigan, was a Dukakis delegate. Scott, who ousted a three term incumbent mayor last November, noted that the population of her city has declined from 54,000 to 27,000 over the past 25 years and that the current unemployment rate was 14 percent. Mayor Scott feels that a Dukakis Administration, would be more sensitive to and provide more federal assistance to cities with economic problems than a republican administration. She predicted that the democrats will carry Michigan in November.

Mayor Joseph Riley of Charleston, South Carolina, a past president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, said that he was "happy with the ticket." Mayor Riley, in effect, spoke for all the Democratic mayors at the conference, when he said that the federal government must reorder its priorities and provide for a greater share of federal revenues to the cities of the nation.

Massachusetts State Auditor Joe DeNucci attended the convention as a Dukakis delegate. While his first choice for Vice President was Sen. John Glenn of Ohio, DeNucci also feels that Bentsen will help the ticket. DeNucci said the Democratic party, for the first time in many years, "is strongly unified."

William "Wimpy" Wimpisinger, President of the Machinist and Aerospace Workers Union placed Rev. Jesse Jackson's name in nomination for President.

Governor Bill Clinton of Arkansas, who was to become the goat of the convention, delivered the nomination speech for Governor Dukakis.

Governor Clinton, a long time friend and colleague of Dukakis, started off well but simply talked too long. If he had been on the old "Gong Show," he would have been out of there a lot sooner.

On Thursday evening, Senator John Glenn of Ohio, introduced Senator Bentsen, who had just been nominated for Vice President. Glenn, who has a reputation for being boring and stuffy, was a surprise. He brought the delegates to their feet with a rousing attack on the Reagan Bush Administration.

Senator Bentsen's acceptance speech was a 20 minute low key affair. Bentsen told the delegates that "we stand united in our commitment for a better America."

Governor Dukakis, introduced by his cousin, Olympia Dukakis, formally accepted his party nomination for president in a 46-minute speech which was enthusiastically received by the convention.

The Governor restated some of the issues that he raised during the primary campaign. He noted that "the Reagan era is over and a new era is about to begin."

In an effort to blunt Republican charges that he is too liberal and out of the mainstream of American thinking, the nominee stated that "this campaign is not about ideology, but about competence."

The convention ended with the nominees, their families and the also runs gathering together on the rostrum to receive the acclamation of the convention.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Tropical Squall Batters Quincy

Quincy was battered by a violent early evening tropical squall during which winds reached hurricane force for a period of 15 minutes, uprooting trees, blowing off roofs and swamping some 50 small craft gathered for Quincy Bay Race Week.

48 Years Ago

The Goodyear blimp, Reliance, tied down for the night at Dennison Airport in North Quincy, located on the lawn of Joseph W. Powell's home at 79 Presidents Lane, came down blocking Fairmont Way, and the huge billboard atop the South Shore Buick Co. fell to earth, halting traffic on Hancock St.

The brief storm, called the worst since the Hurricane of 1938, struck about 6 p.m., depositing .65 inches of rain in 15 minutes. By 6:30 p.m. the skies were clear and the breezes gentle. Damage in Quincy was estimated at about $200,000.

SHIPBUILDERS WIN

Bill Mainhall won his sixth South Shore League victory of the season, scattering seven hits as the Fore River Shipbuilders defeated the Squantum Yankees, 5-2, at Adams Field. The lineup:

Fore River -- Eddie Bowles ss, Mike Nally lf, Joe Shapiro c, Jake Cormier cf, Nick Malvesti cf, Jay Desmond lb, Frank Courtney rf, Johnny O'Malley 2b, Joe Saunders 3b, Bill Mainhall p.

Squantum -- Bob Workman 3b, Sonny Ela ss, Tunney Dixon lf, Dikka Hallsworth rf, Lou Clay lb, Bub Doyle cf, Gunk Dinsmore 2b, Bill Moody c, Mel Dunton p, Jim Frazer ph.

Members of the South Shore League included: Milton, Braintree White Sox, Thorp Motors of Weymouth, Fore River, South Quincy, Brookside, Squantum, Hingham and the Weymouth Sons of Italy.

QUINCY-ISMS

Prof. Hilding L. Carlson of 803 Commercial St., Braintree, noted a peculiar situation at his home on the city line atop Penn's Hill wherein his family slept in Braintree, but ate in Quincy, received telephone service from Quincy but electricity from Braintree, and sent the children to school in Quincy but go this mail in Braintree ... The Senior Troop of the Squantum Girl Scouts held a weenie roast and dance at East Edge, the Squantum Women's Clubhouse, with Scout Leader Mary McHale and George Moore as chaperones ... The Quincy Market, 18 Chestnut St., was closed since July 1 by a strike of employees ... The Republican City Committee was hoping to get Wendell Wilkie, the party's candidate for president, or his running mate, Charles McNary, as speaker at it's Aug. 14 victory outing at the Pemberton Inn, Hull ... Frederick H. Wright of 31 Rawson Rd., Wollaston, and V. Leon Hayes of 55 Elliott Ave., Montclair, were enroute to Portland, Ore., on a 10-week camping trip in a 1929 auto ... Muirhead Wright of General Electric demonstrated the new fluorescent lighting at a meeting of the Quincy Rotary Club ... Dr. Edward Loftus upset Paul Hurley, 1-6, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4, to win the singles championship in the Faxon Courts Tennis Tournament ... The City clerk's office reported marriage intentions up 36 percent over July, 1939, with most of the twosomes including draft age males ... Dog Officer George F. Reid started a drive to round up all unlicensed dogs in the city after a lot of people reported being bitten ... Dr. Joseph P. Leone, superintendent of City Hospital, asked residents of Cranch Hill to close their windows for 10 minutes periods at 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. while the tubes of the Hospital's boilers were blown in an effort to solve a soot problem ... Steak was 33 cents a pound and chicken 19 cents a pound at the Stop and Shop on Southern Artery opposite the Police Station ... A move was underway to have a Plan E referendum on the Fall ballot, since "Quincy voters have been fully awakened to the advantages of the plan" according to William M. Edmonston, executive secretary of the Quincy Taxpayers Association ... Robert A. Zottoli, a Democratic candidate for State Rep, spoke at an outing of the National Old Age Pension group at Squaw Rock in Squantum ... The Quincy Theater was showing "I Was an Adventurer" starring Zorina, and "Alias the Deacon," with Bob Burns and Mischa Auer ... Charlie Erwin pitched the first nine-inning no-hitter in the six-year history of the Quincy Park League, giving the South Quincy Dodgers a 2-1 victory over the Wollaston Eagles ... Edward V. Gartland of 111 Colby Rd., Atlantic, was home after six weeks of intensive training with the MIT ROTC at Camp Belvoir, Va. ...

McCauley's Personal Reflections

Now that the 1988 Democratic National Convention is over, I offer some personal reflections.

I attended only the last two days of the convention and that was enough. I have to congratulate those who endured the entire four days, particularly the delegates.

The nightly agendas were lengthy and the Omni Coliseum was too small to accommodate the numbers of people eligible to attend.

The delegates each night were subjected to a never ending parade of elected officials and candidates for office at all levels. These individuals spoke briefly extolling the virtues of the Democrats while denouncing the Republicans (the reverse will be true at the Republican National Convention in New Orleans next month).

Virtually no one pays any attention to these seemingly interminable speeches. Eliminate this portion of the program, eliminate time spent on party platforms which no body pays attention to and you could cut the convention time from four days to two days.

Governor Dukakis' speech, which was well received by the convention delegates, was a typical Dukakis formal presentation. I have always felt that the Governor is an extremely competent public speaker. His speech was no better or no worse than many of his other public addresses that I have heard him deliver. However, it is not my personal opinion that counts, what counts is how the citizens all across America who were hearing Michael Dukakis for the first time received the speech.

Finally, I wish somebody would pass a law prohibiting politicians from parading their roots out in their political speeches. What someone's grandfather who came from a foreign country 50 years ago with 28 cents in his pocket knowing only three words of English has to do with that person's ability to hold public office is beyond me.

My attendance at the D.N.C. was an educational experience for me. So much so that, in all fairness to the Republicans, I am considering attending the Republican National Convention which convenes Monday, Aug. 15 in New Orleans.

A Quick Entree Meat Roll-Ups With Dumplings

Here is an entree that can be prepared within minutes and looks like it took a lot longer. I made these meat roll ups with veal, but you can also use thin slices of beef or chicken. It consists of a meat roll-up with dumplings on the side. When you make the dumplings, you can either follow the recipe on the Bisquick box or make them from scratch as I will show you today. I find the dumplings made with Bisquick a bit salty, but they're good in a pinch.

MEAT ROLL-UPS WITH DUMPLINGS

6 slices of thinly sliced veal
6 slices of ham
6 slices of swiss cheese
1 cup water
White wine
Garlic powder
Salt and pepper to taste
2 Tbsp olive oil and 1 Tbsp butter or margerine

Roll and secure with toothpicks (one on each end). In the hot oil and butter, saute the rolls, adding the wine and garlic powder and turning until they have all been turned at least once. Add the water and let them simmer. Then put the dumplings all around the pan and cook until done. You'll love this entree. I promise. Here is the dumpling recipe.

DUMPLINGS

1 cup flour
1/2 tsp salt
1 1/2 cups baking powder
1/2 Tbsp oil
1 egg beaten
6 Tbsps water or milk

Place flour, salt and baking powder in a bowl. Add the water or milk. Add the oil and egg and stir until blended. Drop from tablespoonsful all around the meat rolls and cover and cook about 15-20 minutes. Each person should have one dumpling with their meat-roll.

If you prefer another filling for the meat roll, you may use a spinach, cheese or any other favorite.

Host Families Needed For Foreign Exchange Students

Families are needed to host foreign exchange high school students for the upcoming school year.

Students will be arriving from such places as Mexico, Japan, Colombia, Spain, Germany, Panama, Brazil, Bolivia, and Egypt, sponsored by International Student Exchange. They live as a member of the family while attending the local high school.

Students are individually selected for different families and provide an interesting insight into different cultures.

Spending money is provided for the students. They are covered by medical insurance and are very carefully screened.

Anyone interested in introducing a foreign student to the American culture, and in learning a little about another country, may call the International Student Exchange at 1800-233-HOST, or write to ISE at PO Box 840, Fort Jones, CA 96032.

'No Other Gods' Sermon Topic At Bethany

There will be one worship service at 10 a.m. Sunday, in the sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will conduct the liturgy and preach the sermon entitled "No Other Gods." The lay scripture reader will be George F. Nicholson.

Guest organist will be Charles Martin Brooks. Soprano soloist will be Carol R. Massey, member of the Bethany Chancel Choir, who will sing as the offertory, John Prindle Scott's composition, "Come, Ye Blessed."

A fellowship hour follows the worship service. All are welcome.

The service is broadcast live at 10 a.m. direct from Bethany over WJDA, 1300 kc. A cassette tape of the service and sermon is also available for $2 by contacting the church office at 479-7300.

For information regarding Bethany's worship or work, call the church office Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

'Finding God' Topic At Squantum Church

"Finding God In A Scientific Age" was the title of the sermon preached Sunday morning at the First Church of Squantum by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin.

For the offertory, Dr. Marilyn Bull sang a soprano solo, "Consider the Lilies of the Field" by John Prindle Scott. Dr. Bull teaches in the area and regularly sings at the First and Second Unitarian Church in Boston.

The congregation sang "Come, Thou Almighty King," "Praise to the Lord, the Almighty," and "I Sing the Mighty Power of God." They were accompanied by Janet Williamson on the piano and Mary Ruth Scott on the organ.

Tore Wallin and Harry Holmes were the ushers. Pat Sorensen hosted the Fellowship Hour after the service.

This Sunday the service will begin at 9:30 a.m. A nursery is provided and visitors are welcome.

All Candidates Should Be Included If Debate Held Says Tobin

Stephen Arthur Tobin, a candidate for state representative in the Second Norfolk District, said if a candidate's debate were held, it should include all five Democratic and Republican contenders.

Tobin said he has been discussing the issues with the voters while campaigning door-to-door in the Second Norfolk District for the past few months.

Tobin's statement comes in response to a challenge last week by Patricia Toland, another candidate for state representative. Toland has challenged the two other Democratic candidates, Tobin and Steve Durkin, to a debate.

Durkin accepted the debate challenge last week.

However, Tobin said the two Republican candidates, Richard Harris and Denis Iardo, should also be included if a debate were to be held.

In response to Toland, Tobin said, "I am concerned that the people of our district would view your discrimination against the two announced Republican candidates as being indefensible. Since we all share the same problems, we should all be involved in the problem solving."

Tobin, while thanking Toland for sharing her views on campaign issues, said he "respectfully disagrees" with her assessment of how the issues are being discussed.

"As you know, I have been campaigning for many long months throughout the Second Norfolk District, and have taken my candidacy throughout all of the neighborhoods. I have been listening to the concerns of the voters and can assure you I have voiced my opinions on the issues," Tobin said.

"My impression is that the voters are very much aware of the Tobin candidacy and my position on the issues. I am surprised," Tobin said, "to learn you feel that the campaign thus far has generated little discussion of the many serious issues which impact our district."

He continued, "If the ability of the voters to make an 'informed choice' is the motivation for your proposal, then I submit all points of view, regardless of party affiliation, should be considered."

"I question why, if you feel a discussion among the candidates would be of benefit to the citizens of our district, you would exclude other announced candidates from your 'debate,'" Tobin said.

"I believe the voters of the Second Norfolk District deserve the very best efforts from those who seek to serve them. I feel that I have been fulfilling my commitment to the voters in discussing the issues and I have been well received in every neighborhood," he said.

Thomas Doherty Awarded Masters Degree Posthumously

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Thomas J. Doherty, son of Bernard and Virginia Doherty of 31 Hovey St., North Quincy, was awarded his master degree in chemical engineering posthumously during recent commencement exercises at the University of Lowell.

Mr. Doherty, a model engineering student who graduated with honors, died from complications of a stomach virus and dialysis treatment Dec. 2, 1987.

Thomas's father, Bernard, accepted his son's diploma at the June 5th ceremony.

The graduating engineers, including chemical, nuclear, electrical and civil, as well as professors and other school officials, gave a standing ovation in tribute to Mr. Doherty during the diploma presentation.

"He was greatly thought of at the university and greatly missed there as well," said Mrs. Virginia Doherty, Thomas's mother.

Despite kidney failure in his fourth year of college and subsequent hemodialysis treatments three times a week, Mr. Doherty was awarded his bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering cum laude in 1985.

He then entered into a masters degree program in chemical engineering, as well as teaching chemical engineering courses as a teacher's assistant at Lowell.

He chose as a thesis topic the development of a "Thermal Pulse Injection Flowmeter in a Sterile Environment" for potential use in the care of nighttime peritoneal dialysis patients.

With his research and thesis completed and approved by the university, Mr. Doherty died from complications of a stomach virus and dialysis treatment on Dec. 2, 1987.

The faculty of the Department of Chemical Engineering voted unanimously to present his master of science degree posthumously.

At the university's graduate school award banquet held this spring, a moment of silence was observed in dedication to Mr. Doherty. Also, former U.S. Senator Paul Tsongas of Massachusetts, the banquet's guest speaker, offered kind words to the Doherty family.

Mr. Doherty was treasurer of his graduate class and vice president of the Chemical Engineering Graduate School Association.

In 1986 and 1987, he was awarded the graduate school research grant for an outstanding research proposal.

In 1985, he was a representative speaker at the American Institute of Chemical Engineers Conference in New Hampshire. He was also a member of Omega Chi Epsilon chemical engineering honor society and Tau Beta Pi national honor society.

Tardo Names Preble As Campaign Coordinator

State Representative candidate Denis Tardo has named Michael Preble chairman of the Ward-One Republican Committee as his campaign coordinator.

Preble, a life long resident of Quincy who was elected to the post of ward chairman in April, said:

"I believe that Denis Tardo can win the election against the Democrats in November. We need Republican representation on Beacon Hill."

"For years the Republican Party has been known as the party of the rich, as Republicans we need to change that. The Republican Party is the party of the working man and the Democrats are the party of the MWRA, tax hikes, legislative pay raises, and the party of vacant legislative seats.

"As a resident of Quincy I believe that we need a man like Denis Tardo on Beacon Hill. He can win, we all can win."

Vo-Tech Advisory Board Named Outstanding In State

The Quincy Vocational Technical Advisory Board was recently named the outstanding vocational instructional advisory committee in the state of Massachusetts for the second consecutive year.

The advisory board is composed of local trade representatives from such crafts as metals and machines to health and nursing. It has received national and state recognition for its accomplishments.

In addition, two Quincy residents were recently elected to serve on the board for the next two years. They are chairman Sonny Tocchio, 44 Chubbuck St., Quincy and first vice chairman Alfred Saluti, 33 Lorton St. Adolph Aimola, 11 Main St., Braintree, was re-elected second vice president.

130 Central Students Take Part In Duxbury Camp Program

Over 130 seventh graders from Central Middle School recently participated in a program at Camp Wing in Duxbury.

The program emphasized ecological studies, problem solving, group dynamics, physical fitness and sports clinics.

Most of all, the students had the opportunity to learn and live together.

This is the 10th year the week-long program has been offered.

Twenty junior counselors joined the staff as aides during the morning and afternoon

mods.

Senior counselors organized and implemented evening programs.

Senior counselors were Stonehill College student Terri Duggan and Boston College grad Victor Greene.

The program was coordinated by the following:

Mary Catherine Iannoni, head counselor; assistants John Buckley, Fred Crowther, Thomas Henderson, Dr. Laurence Osborne, James Piccini, Christine Prendeville, Mary Schiess, Edward Steele, and Raymond Whitehouse. Parents assisting in the trip

were:

Mrs. Paul Anderson, Jay DeAngelis, Mr. and Mrs. William Delahunt, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen DesRoche, Mrs. Michelle Greeley and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lind.

Participating agencies were the South Shore Nature Center and the Massachusetts Fisheries and Wildlife Division.

130 Central Students Take Part In Duxbury Camp Program

Over 130 seventh graders from Central Middle School recently participated in a program at Camp Wing in Duxbury.

The program emphasized ecological studies, problem solving, group dynamics, physical fitness and sports clinics.

Most of all, the students had the opportunity to learn and live together.

This is the 10th year the week-long program has been offered.

Twenty junior counselors joined the staff as aides during the morning and afternoon

mods.

Senior counselors organized and implemented evening programs.

Senior counselors were Stonehill College student Terri Duggan and Boston College grad Victor Greene.

The program was coordinated by the following:

Parents assisting in the trip

were:

Mrs. Paul Anderson, Jay DeAngelis, Mr. and Mrs. William Delahunt, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen DesRoche, Mrs. Michelle Greeley and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lind.

Participating agencies were the South Shore Nature Center and the Massachusetts Fisheries and Wildlife Division.

Rosemary Walhberg:

1988 Convention Far Different From First

By ROSEMARY WAHLBERG
DNC Delegate

On the morning of July 16, my husband and I left Quincy bound for Atlanta and the 41st Democratic national convention.

I would be the delegate. I would take part in the final act in the process of nominating a Democratic candidate for the presidency.

As a child of Irish immigrants, I had been told many times how fortunate I was to be an American. So, on that Saturday I was glad I had chosen a candidate that my father approved of—and sorry my mother was not alive to share it.

I remembered my favorite history teacher, a good Republican named Elsie Whitte (DHSG 49). She taught me that the Democrats first convened in Baltimore in 1832.

The 1988 delegation would be quite different from the original. I would be one of 4,233 delegates at the Omni Convention Center.

Unlike that first convention, which was made up of entirely white males, the 1988 convention would be 50 percent female. Sixty-eight percent of the delegates would be white, 21 percent black, eight percent Latin, three percent other minorities. The faces of Americans from all over the world flashed on the huge TV screen.

No smoking was allowed in the center, this announcement was met with cheers. Farewell to (the traditional?) smoke-filled rooms.

Alcohol was served at private receptions but discretion and discipline appeared to be the rule of the delegates. Alcohol may be out of vogue too!

According to the Los Angeles Times-CNN poll, 60 percent of the delegates described themselves as somewhat to very liberal. Forty percent described themselves as moderate to very conservative.

From my aisle seat at the rear of the hall I could view them all. But most exciting was the fact that my aisle seat allowed me to greet some well known Massachusetts and Texas political leaders as they entered to join their delegations.

Massachusetts and Texas were adjacent on this aisle.

Our own Tip O'Neill, former speaker of the house, was followed by current speaker and convention chairman Jim Wright. Then came the Texas state treasurer and convention keynote speaker Ann Richards. Finally came Texas secretary of agriculture and firebrand Jim Hightower and all of the Massachusetts delegates.

Monday night's high point was the key note speech, delivered so well by Ann Richards. She teased George Bush about his lack of Texas accent and moved us with her concern for young families.

On Tuesday we voted on the Platform Committee Report. There are those who say the platform is soon forgotten—but I disagree. I believe many progressive ideas begin as planks in a platform.

I felt strongly enough on the platform to vote with the minority in support of a "no first-use nuclear weapons policy after consultation with our 'ies."

Wednesday was the big day! The vote for the nominee of your choice.

The familiar voice of Dorothy Bush read The Roll of the States. She is secretary to the Democratic convention and hers is the voice I first remember in 1944 calling the roll over the radio. She has been calling the roll at every Convention since then.

It was an historic moment when Jesse Jackson's name was placed in nomination. I sat with three black women, Angie Wilkerson, Joyce Wilson, and Juanita Wade, all Jackson delegates.

Their joy in seeing Jackson nominated was obvious. Their later disappointment was poignant.

It was an equally exciting moment for those who worked and believed in the candidacy of Dukakis to hear his name placed before the convention.

The tension was rising as we held our breaths for California to cast the deciding vote and put him over the top.

Then, with the noble gesture of Jackson's representative requesting suspension of the rules and choosing Dukakis by acclamation, another historic first was made. It was then that healing began between the two factions.

Thursday evening, when the famous ex-congresswoman Barbara Jordan of Texas came to the microphone to nominate Bentsen as vice-president, the knitting together was almost tangible.

Academy Award winning actress Olympia Dukakis had the honor of introducing her cousin, the Democratic presidential nominee. She presented a short film showing the school and neighborhood in which she and her cousin grew up—a place not unlike any suburb in America.

In fact, if Dukakis is elected, he will be the first president from the suburbs, aware of the problems smaller cities face.

Finally, the lights softened. The voice of Neil Diamond could be heard singing "Coming to America."

Michael S. Dukakis, the son of Greek immigrants, governor of Massachusetts, and now the nominee of the Democratic Party, came to the podium and delivered the best speech of his political life.

His speech was packed with power and emotion for those of us in the hall.

His nomination was a dream come true for this child of Irish immigrants. I was proud to be there and proud to represent the voters of the 11th Congressional district—home to the largest number of registered Irish-American voters.

Bernice Mader:

Being At Convention 'Eyewitness To History'

By CHRIS MAHONEY

She's a self-described political junkie.

Bernice Mader of Quincy also describes herself as an "eyewitness to history." The Democratic State Committee woman for Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and Avon was an alternate delegate to the Democratic National Convention. If delegate Rosemary Wahlberg left the floor of the Omni in Atlanta, Mader would've cast the vote for Gov. Michael Dukakis.

Wahlberg didn't leave the floor. But Mader certainly doesn't think her trip was wasted.

"It didn't bother me," says Mader. The convention "made me fall in love all over again with the American political system."

Mader, a former teacher of American politics, was a coordinator for Dukakis for 11 years.

"When he announced his candidacy, I said, 'Go for it!'" Mader observed Dukakis for over a decade, and has noted some of his strong points.

One such strong point, Mader says, is Dukakis' ability to make people with opposing views reach an agreement. She says this is the reason Jesse Jackson and Dukakis were able to raise their hands together in victory rather than continue as opponents.

"Everybody makes comments about his government of consensus," she said. "But when you have consensus, you have cooperation."

Another strong point is Dukakis' straightforwardness—his ability to use issues in his campaign.

"The tone of his campaign wasn't acrimonious," she says. "He tried to make it stand on the issues."

And his speeches ring true, Mader says.

"He's not an overpowering orator, but he was eloquent in his simplicity of what he explained," says Mader, referring to his acceptance speech last Thursday.

"The night Dukakis won the nomination, people were in tears," she says.

Many people were in tears during Jesse Jackson's speech also, according to Mader.

The national convention

was just part of an exciting experience for Mader in Atlanta. The people she actually met sounds like a who's who of American politics.

She ran into former Democratic presidential candidates Al Gore, Richard Gephardt, Pat Schroeder, and Bruce Babbitt. She chatted with Bella Abzug about hate. She ran into Jimmy Carter at the Carter Library.

For a political junkie, it must've been heaven.

Her activity in politics started in the 8th grade, when she stuffed envelopes for John F. Kennedy. She was a burgeoning political junkie at age 10, when she watched the second Eisenhower convention.

"I find politics extraordinarily stimulating," she says. "And I've never met one political junkie who was not an extraordinarily well rounded individual."

Mader says political junkies could have an argument about government, and then intelligently discuss the theater.

The theater won't be on the minds of these people now, even though their man Dukakis got the nomination. Mader—and most likely many other political observers—are looking to November, and looking at George Bush.

"I believe this election will be a two-point spread for the winner," says Mader.

Bush has been characterized as a person not distancing himself far enough if at all from Reagan during his campaign for president.

Mader says, however, that Bush has made a recent effort to distance himself, and speak out on issues which Reagan hasn't commented on.

But even if Bush does step out more on his own, Mader says the positive relationship with Reagan's administration will be an asset to Bush.

A lot of the contest between Dukakis and Bush will ride, according to Mader, on the power of money the Republicans have. Bush's selection of a running mate, and "who's not going to make the first major mistake."

Dukakis' selection of Lloyd Bentsen as running mate didn't surprise Mader.

"I believe his selection of vice president is totally pragmatic," she says. "Dukakis is a realist. And when you look at who's better, it was a good choice."

Bentsen is a Washington insider and it has been well noted he is of some differing opinions than Dukakis. But Mader says that is an advantage.

"Michael Dukakis is a person of extremely strong viewpoints. If you argue with him, if you make your case, you had better make your case strongly."

Dukakis is also a good nurturer of individuals, she says.

While Carter wouldn't have trusted people to do anything unless he was in on it himself, Mader says Dukakis surrounds himself with competent, well rounded people. He will have the last word on decisions, but he lets his staff make the plans.

Mader seems to know Dukakis pretty well. Now she is looking with interest at Bush, and how the Republican Party is going to prevent themselves and their opponents philosophically.

"The Democrats already set up positioning. The Republicans will set up their strategy during the next month."

This means they will decide to go more right or try to soften their conservative image.

Mader has already made plans to book a room in Washington for November.

But how does she feel now that the convention is over?

"Part enchantment, part I'm-sorry-it's-over-can't-wait-till-November."

She says the convention would've been exciting even if Dukakis wasn't involved.

"But it added a layer of icing that you know a potential president."

Host Families Sought For International High School Students

Host families are being sought for high school students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Belgium, Austria, Switzerland, West Germany, Spain, France, Italy, Ecuador, Australia and Japan for the school year 1988-89 in a program sponsored by the American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE).

The students, age 15 through 17, will arrive in the United States in late August 1988, attend a local high school, and return to their home countries in early July 1989. The students, all fluent in English, have been screened by their local school representatives in their home country and have spending money and medical insurance.

Lose 2 One-Run Games

Morrisette Eliminated From Tourney

By TOM SULLIVAN

Another successful season for the Morrisette Legion baseball team ended in disappointing fashion last week when it was ousted by Milton in two straight one-run games in the opening round of the Zone 6 playoffs.

Morrisette, which finished second to Braintree in regular season play with a 12-4 record, lost to third place Milton, 3-2 and 9-8 in playoff action. Morrisette and Milton actually tied for second, but Morrisette won a coin toss for second place.

It was the second year in a row that Morrisette had finished second only to lose in the opening round of the playoffs. It bowed to Mass. Truck last season.

Morrisette finished with an overall 12-6 record and four of the six losses were by one run when the team was leading going into the late innings.

"We played well in both playoff games and everyone gave me 110 percent all year long," said Morrisette coach Dave Perdios.

"We have had injuries and pitching problems and always hung tough. It's frustrating to lose, but we have a young club. Milton just made the plays."

"We just couldn't hold on to leads. We led in all our losses but one and led going into the sixth or seventh innings four times."

The second game of the playoffs was a wild one with four home runs, two by each team, into the tennis courts in short left field in Milton.

Kevin MacDougall and Rob McDonald had two-run homers for Morrisette and Chris Taylor and Paul Kenney homered for Milton. Kenney's two-run blast in the bottom of the sixth inning was the game-winner.

Morrisette started fast again with three runs in the top of the first. Billy MacDougall reached on an error, stole second and scored on Ed Flavin's single. Flavin moved up on a ground out and scored on McDonald's single to left. McDonald scored on Jeff Calvert's single and a throwing error.

Wayne Chambers (3-2-1) started pitching for Morrisette but he didn't have it and Milton quickly tied it up in the bottom of the first when Greg Boudreau hit a three-run double.

Milton took a 6-3 lead in the third when Taylor hit a homer and Kevin MacDougall relieved Chambers. But Milton added two more for a 6-3 lead.

Morrisette scored twice in the fourth on Brian Taylor's single and Kevin MacDougall's home run. Milton picked up a run in the fourth when a balk was called on MacDougall after two singles.

Morrisette scored three runs in the fifth to go ahead, 8-7. McDonald hit a two-run homer after Dan Biagini walked, Calvert singled and scored on Taylor's double.

Paul O'Donnell opened Milton's sixth with a double. Kenney hit his homer, which hit the top of the fence and bounced into the tennis court. After a leadoff walk in Morrisette's seventh, the next three batters hit into force plays and Morrisette's season was over.

McDonald had two hits, drove in three runs and scored two; Kevin MacDougall had two hits and drove in two runs, Taylor had two hits and an RBI, Calvert had two hits, Biagini doubled and Billy MacDougall and Flavin also had hits.

The series opener was a vastly different game with Eric DeBoer of Morrisette (4-2-1) and Milton's Fred Quinlan (6-0) hooking up in a fine pitching duel.

As usual, Morrisette took the early lead with single runs in each of the first two innings. It had several other scoring opportunities but couldn't come up with the key hits.

In the first Mike Mullaney singled, stole second and scored on Flavin's single. In the second Billy MacDougall was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded. The bases were left loaded as Morrisette let Quinlan off the hook.

Milton won it in the third on Taylor's two-run single to overcome a 2-1 deficit.

Flavin had two hits, including a double and Mullaney, McDonald and Ron Fletcher had singles. DeBoer allowed six hits, struck out five and didn't give up a walk. Kevin MacDougall pitched the last inning and retired the side in order, striking out one.

Both DeBoer and MacDougall are 16-year-olds playing their first year of Legion ball and should have outstanding futures.

Morrisette had finished the regular season by splitting its last two games.

It defeated Mass. Tire, 7-5, to move into a top tie with Braintree, but lost to Braintree, 5-1, to finish second to Braintree (13-3).

Morrisette battled back from a 5-0 deficit to top Mass. Truck. Kevin MacDougall relieved starter Dan Overby in the third and shut out Mass. Truck over the next four innings. DeBoer took over with two on and one out in the seventh and retired the last two batters to pick up the save.

Morrisette scored a run in the second, two in the third, went ahead with three in the fifth and scored an insurance run in the sixth.

Kevin MacDougall drove in two runs, including the go-ahead run, on a single and bases loaded walk. Calvert singled in a run, Fletcher drove in a run, McDonald was on base four times on an infield hit, two walks and an error and scored twice. Mullaney had a double and Billy MacDougall, Flavin and Biagini had singles.

Morrisette and Braintree went with their number four pitchers in the playoff game for first place as they wanted to save their best for the playoffs.

Catcher Rob McDonald started for Morrisette and Braintree went with 16-year-old Tom Molloy. Molloy kept Morrisette off balance with a variety of slow breaking pitches and allowed only one infield hit in three innings. McDonald pitched out of jams in the first and second innings, giving up a run in the second but leaving the bases loaded.

Morrisette tied it in the sixth when Billy MacDougall beat out an infield hit, went to third on a wild pickoff throw and scored on Flavin's second hit. Flavin, who wound up the regular season with a .481 batting average and 18 RBIs, went to third on a throwing error and Biagini was walked purposely. Braintree then went to its ace, Ted Novio, who struck out McDonald to end the inning.

Morrisette's defense fell apart in the seventh as Braintree scored four unearned runs to win, 5-1.

Quincy Bows Out In 2-1 Squeaker

The Quincy Legion baseball team, which made the Zone 6 playoffs for the first time under the present format, gave first place Braintree all it could handle, losing a 2-1 squeaker in the third and deciding game of the opening round.

Quincy had barely made the fourth and final playoff berth with a 9-7 record. It wound up with an overall 10-9 mark.

Braintree (13-3) walloped Quincy, 10-2, in the playoff opener as it went with its ace, Ted Novio. Jim Dennis, coming off a sore arm, started for Quincy. Braintree scored two runs in the first on three singles, added a run in the second and made it 4-0 with a run in the fifth.

Quincy came back with two in the sixth on Peter Tufts' 380-foot home run over the center field fence, followed by singles by Dennis and Nick Dragone and Bill Mulhern's double.

Quincy attempted a squeeze play but Dragone was out on a run down as the bunt was missed.

The roof fell in on Quincy in the sixth when Braintree scored six times on six hits, two walks and an error. A missed defensive sign that would have ended the inning without a run opened the door for the big inning. Quincy had only one other hit off Novio, a single by Tim Baker.

Quincy came back to win the second game, 2-1, behind ace Robbie Higgins (8-3), who gave up six singles, struck out five and didn't give up a base on balls.

Braintree scored its run in the third on three hits.

Quincy scored a run in the second on Higgins' triple over the right fielder's head and he scored on Jim Kearns' single. Mike Toland singled but was picked off first for the third out.

The winning run scored in the fifth when Baker singled, went to second on a fielders choice and scored on Dragone's double.

Quincy had nine hits, the others being by Mulhern, Dragone, Higgins and Toland.

The final game at Adams Field Sunday night went down to the wire as Braintree won, 2-1, and moved into the playoff finals against Milton.

Braintree took a 1-0 lead in the first on three straight singles off starter and loser Joe Taylor. It added the winning run in the second on three more singles. Taylor then settled down in the third and fourth innings before being lifted for a pinch hitter in the fifth.

Higgins came on to pitch the rest of the game and didn't give up a hit or run, striking out two and walking one.

Quincy left runners stranded in five of the seven innings. It threatened in the seventh, scoring its run and leaving the tying run on base. Sean Gately reached on an error, Paul McLellan ran for him and moved up on two ground outs. He scored on Baker's single. Novio came on and struck out the final batter to end Quincy's season.

"I said from the very beginning that the only thing that would hurt us was the lack of clutch hitting," said Quincy coach Dick Laracy. "Our pitching was outstanding all season with the pitchers striking out 158 batters, an average of eight a game."

"We were overachievers this year," said coach Ed Spring. "We hit the ball hard but right at people."

Quincy made the playoffs by defeating Holbrook, 8-1, in the final regular season game.

Higgins pitched a one-hitter and struck out 13. The only hit was a line drive in the first that split the center and right fielders and went into the bushes that are in play at Holbrook.

By the time the ball was retrieved the batter had scored.

Quincy scored three runs in the third when Baker singled, Tufts sacrificed, Dennis singled in Baker, stole second and scored on Dragone's single. Dragone stole second and scored on Mulhern's single.

Quincy added two in the fifth on singles by Tufts and Dragone, a sacrifice and two errors and put the game on ice in the seventh with three. Baker singled, Tufts singled and both moved up on an infield out and scored on Dennis' single. Dragone bunted Dennis to second and scored on Mulhern's single. Gately and Higgins had other hits for Quincy.

Cut For Third Time 3 Strikes For Dudek?

For North Quincy's Joe Dudek it might be three strikes and you're out after the former North Quincy High and Plymouth State College standout was cut for the third time last week by the Denver Broncos.

It could mean the end of Dudek's dream of an NFL career after he and several other running backs were waived. A big reason for cutting Dudek was the Broncos' acquisition of Tony Dorsett, making the NCAA's all-time touchdown leader expendable.

After being cut by the Broncos last year, Dudek embarked upon a weight program that enabled him to put on 10 pounds on his six-foot frame and top the scales at 200 pounds at the beginning of training camp.

The highlight of his Broncos stay for Dudek, who joined the Broncos as a free agent after not being drafted by any NFL club following his graduation from Plymouth State, came last October during the NFL strike.

After being one of the last Broncos to be cut, he was called back by Denver. But he refused to cross the picket line.

However, with bills piling up, Dudek, who had been working at a construction job, changed his mind and decided to cross the picket line.

He was rewarded with a starting spot in a nationally-televised game with the previously unbeaten Los Angeles Raiders.

Dudek, who had broken Walter Payton's NCAA touchdown record while leading Plymouth State to four straight New England Conference titles, took full advantage of his opportunity and had an outstanding night in leading the Broncos to a 30-14 win over the Raiders.

Joe, who played the entire game on offense, rushed for 128 yards and scored the first two touchdowns in the opening quarter.

Before entering Plymouth State Dudek had led North Quincy to wins over Quincy in 1980 and 1981.

There is a slim possibility that Dudek could catch on with another NFL team, but his dreams of an NFL career could well be over.

Hotshot Competition Starts Aug. 1

The Quincy Recreation Department playground program will host the annual Pepsi-NBA Hotshot Competition at city playgrounds Aug. 1 and 3.

Recreation Director Barry Welch, said the competition, which is being made possible through the sponsorship of the Pepsi Cola Bottling Company of Milton in conjunction with the Quincy Recreation Department, will be held Aug. 1 for District II at LaBrique and District IV at Elm; Aug. 3 for District I at Mass. Fields and District III at O'Rourke Playground.

All competitions will begin at 10 a.m.

Open to boys and girls ages 9-18, the Pepsi-NBA Hotshot competition tests youngsters' speed, dribbling, shooting and rebounding abilities. There are six age categories for competition: Boys 9-12, 13-15, 16-18, Girls 9-12, 13-15, and 16-18.

The winner in each of the six categories of the district competition will advance to compete against other local winners for the Quincy Recreation Department All City Championship to be held Aug. 5. One winner from each of the six categories will advance to an area playoff to be held in Boston. The six winners of that round will playoff during halftime of a Celtics game and the winner will receive an expense paid trip to the national championships to represent New England in competition against the winners of the 22 other NBA cities. At that time, the winners in each of the six age categories will be crowned National Champion for his or her respective age group.

Additional information for the Pepsi-NBA Hotshot program will be available at supervised playgrounds from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, or contact the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380, ext. 204.

Local 1139 Wins National Division Title

Quincy Local 1139 won the Babe Ruth League's National Division championship with a 19-2-1 record, the best in the league, edging Granite City Electric, 7-6, in an extraordinary regular season finale.

Local 1139 jumped off to a 6-1 lead in the third inning, led by triples by Pat Gallagher and Tony Stafford, and held on to the lead behind the strong pitching of Gary Rawdon, who had 21 strikeouts, until the seventh when Granite City rallied to tie the score.

Granite City pitcher David Gamsby held on until the ninth when catcher Fred Regan singled home the winning run.

Local 1139 started off the season with a 12-game winning streak behind the pitching of Gallagher, Rawdon, Bob Fitzpatrick and Scott Dunn.

The hitting was erratic but the team finished up with a .311 average and the pitchers had an excellent 1.44 ERA.

The team roster includes Regan, Rawdon Stafford, Paul Harrington, Brendan Inland, Gallagher, Fitzpatrick, Dunn, Floran Neamtu, Pat Shea, Kosta Rovantis, Bill Stavros, Pat Donaher and Chris Roncarati.

Bryan Post finished the regular season with a 16-6 record, winning 12 of its last 13 games.

Steven Waas, who excelled at shortstop and as a pitcher, had an outstanding season, leading the team with a .450 batting average. He performed exceptionally well in clutch situations as he had the game-winning hit in 11 of the 16 wins.

Bryan edged the Elks, 4-3, in its finale with Michael Malvesti pitching a two-hit shutout until the last inning. Waas came in on relief and preserved the win.

Bryan scored a run in the first when Mark Kelleher reached on an error, stole second and scored on Waas' single. Kelleher and Waas combined for another run in the fifth. Kelleher opened with a towering double, stole third and scored on Waas' ground out.

Malvesti avoided trouble in the fifth with excellent defensive plays by center fielder Pat McDonough and third baseman Rob Kane.

Bryan added two in the sixth when Kane singled, stole second, scored on Kevin Mulla's double and Waas again came through with an RBI single.

The Elks roared back with three runs in the seventh on key singles by Chris McElley, Dana Gurwitch and John Kelly before Waas shut the door.

Kelleher played an outstanding game behind the plate, throwing out four runners trying to steal, hitting a double, stealing two bases and scoring two runs.

Joe Marnikovic, Don Anderson, Chris Stenmon and Paul Murphy played strong defense and Philip Bell, Tom Nutley and Todd Portesi also contributed to the win.

Tony Bianco and Mark Reardon had hits for the Elks and Bill Warren and Pat Clifford pitched well.

In the final game of the season for both teams, Granite City Electric outlasted the Quincy Police, 15-12, in a 3½-hour marathon.

The highlight was the fine play of nine 15-year-old players, five for Granite City and four for the Police, playing their final Babe Ruth League games. All had at least one hit in the see-saw game.

For Granite City Dave Gamsby, one of the league's premier pitchers, went 4-for-5 at the plate, including a double, had six RBI and had a fine game catching in closing out three outstanding seasons of Babe Ruth baseball.

Leadoff batter Wayne Sit, the only Asian-American player in the league who has improved a great deal in his three years with Granite City, reached base six straight times, twice on singles, stole seven bases and scored four runs.

Right fielder George Walsh, injured much of his career, came on strong in the second half and finished with two singles and two RBIs. Left fielder Andy Colleary played well defensively and had two RBI with a hard single.

Starting pitcher Mike Picariello did well for five innings, allowing only five hits, before tiring. He had two hits, including a long triple, to put Granite City ahead in the fourth. Vin Anderlioni and Dave Jolley had singles and winner Ed Costello and Jolley pitched well in relief.

The Police 15-year-olds also went out with class. Ronnie Boudreau had two hits and pitched a strong game. Catcher Ralph Bevilacqua had a triple and double and four RBI. Peter White had two hits including a long double, and third baseman Sean Cafferty had a single and reached base three times.

Chris Cunio had a single and played a solid game at shortstop, and Liam Higgins and Brian Doherty pitched well in relief.

Also playing well for Granite City were Mike MacDougall, Scot Wysocki, and Veneziano and Jamie White. Playing well for the Police were Bob O'Connor, Adam Calvert and Marc Swirbalus.

TED SADOWSKI, who has retired after 29 years as a North Quincy assistant football coach, holds trophy presented to him by the Mass High School Football Coaches Association after being named one of seven assistant coaches of the year. Sadowski served under all five North coaches, Jack Donahue, Carl Leone, Ralph Frazier, Dave Burke and Ken McPhee.

Dick Koch Memorial MDA Softball Doubleheader Aug. 18

The first annual Dick Koch Memorial Muscular Dystrophy Softball Doubleheader will be played Thursday night, Aug. 18 at Adams Field in Quincy.

Last year's game, the 11th annual MDA benefit doubleheader, was dedicated in the memory of Richard J. Koch Sr., who organized the special fundraising event.

Mr. Koch, who served with Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth as co-chairman of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon for 11 years, died last August.

Bosworth decided to rename the game in memory of Koch as a tribute to his hard work in making the game a continued success. With Mr. Koch's help and organization, the committee has raised more than $1 million to fight muscular dystrophy.

More than $15,000 has been raised in the MDA doubleheader to date.

This year's co-chairmen for the game are Thomas Koch, Quincy's Council on Aging Director, and Robert Bosworth, assistant editor of The Quincy Sun.

The first half of the doubleheader features the Quincy Fire Department versus the Quincy Police at 6:30 p.m. The nightcap includes members of the City Officials slugging it out against the News Media All Stars at 8 p.m.

The Police defeated the Fire Department 25-4 last year while the News Media All Stars downed the City Officials, 13-6, to take a 6-5 series lead.

Tickets are available at the Quincy Sun office at 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Center, and by calling Tom Koch at 773-1380 ext. 245 at the Council on Aging department, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy.

In case of inclement weather, the game will be held Aug. 25 at Adams Field.

Raymer, McPhee Re-appointed

Quincy's Jack Raymer and North Quincy's Ken McPhee have been re-appointed by the School Committee as football coaches at their respective schools.

This will be the fifth season as Quincy coach for Raymer, while McPhee will be leading North for the seventh season. Both will have new freshman coaches this fall. Earl Metzler will take over at Quincy and Kevin Kelly at North.

Other Quincy coaches named were Bob Sylvia, golf; Steve Metcalf, girls' soccer.

Charlie MacLaughlin, boys' soccer; Doug MacFarlane, girls' cross-country; John Franceschini, boys' cross-country; Judith Kring, girls' swimming, and Tom Henderson, girls' volleyball.

North coaches named were Hank Conroy, golf; Leo Donovan, girls' soccer; Jim McGuire, boys' soccer; Geoff Hennessy, girls' cross-country; Dan Cuddy, boys' cross-country; Bill Walker, girls' swimming and Jim Rendle, girls' volleyball. Rendle led the North girls to an undefeated season and state championship last fall.

WEEK OF: July 28

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You are magnanimous and creative, and your enthusiasm is contagious. You're intelligent too, but some people find you too objective. Your optimism helps you overcome a recent difficulty and leads to the realization of an important goal by late '88. You're naturally affectionate, but romance requires some guidance.

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19

Focus is on short-term financial planning. Watch out for a tendency to be a big spender. Friendship brings you rich rewards through this period.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20

Paying visits to the lonely or sick is high on the week's agenda. Travel may include some unusual shopping sprees. Pay careful attention to job-related hints.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20

Investigation is the week's keyword, and job opportunities may offer more variety than you realize. Several upbeat meetings, some unplanned, are on tap for the week.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22

Artistic endeavors are highlighted at this time, you may become interested in pottery or ceramics. Property negotiations may be indicated, pay careful attention to the fine print.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21

Family-connected engagements are spotlighted, along with educational travel, new career challenges, and a leadership role in the community. In short, it's one of the year's liveliest weeks.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22

Treating an old problem with a new approach can lead to a speedy solution. Check out the larger picture if considering making a large investment of your energy.

LEO - July 23 - August 22

Family situation is more congenial thanks to your recent attempts to establish harmony. New hobbies are accented. Difficulty on the job requires a novel touch.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22

The past is highlighted. This is a good week for collecting antiques, studying family history. Reconciliations are indicated, thanks largely to your forgiving nature.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22

Horizons are broadened in a week that sees you visiting new, perhaps exotic, destinations. Recent community or educational activity may bring an advantage on the job.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21

You're making progress on a project, but there are some important touches that still require your care. Artistic ability is stressed in a week that sees you painting a canvas or a room.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22

New source of information proves more reliable than you hoped. Loved one's independent streak may surface, while you find yourself in an atypically sentimental mood.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20

Week sees you putting in overtime as you help relatives with their emotions or neighbors with their chores. A favorable time for updating your files. Love life is on a steadier course.

'No Room For Auxiliary' Say Quincy Patrolmen

Association stands behind and supports its numbers 100 percent by saying that there is no room in the city of Quincy for Auxiliary Police.

"Auxiliary Police are trained in other lines of employment and only do their police duties in their spare time for voluntary purposes.

"Whether it be for self satisfaction, a chance to wear a uniform and badge, or for community involvement is unclear, but, the bottom line is that these volunteers are an untrained group of people who are not equipped for the many complex matters in today's world.

"Sure, they will state that they have 40 hours of Massachusetts Criminal Justice training. However, we are sure that the citizens of Quincy would rather be helped by a police officer who is totally trained in the profession and who can sympathize and understand their individual needs and situations.

"This police officer is a full time city of Quincy employee. When a citizen is looking for a police officer, they are looking for a uniform. They cannot tell whether this person is a police officer or an auxiliary. These people are on the street doing non-confrontational type duties; however, anything can happen and they are just not equipped to handle these delicate situations.

"We do not take 40 hour courses and perform other types of employment. But, apparently, the Auxiliary feel as though they can.

"Let's look at this in another way. Would you want a secretary or plumber with 40 hours of nursing training be in the operating room while you are undergoing an operation? The town of Braintree doesn't need or want Auxiliary Police and neither do the full-time police officers from the city of Quincy.

"These people are a liability for our uniformed personnel as well as their own families. They are not trained or equipped to handle the many confrontations that could happen to them while in the street and this can only become a safety hazard for us. Now we have to watch out for ourselves as well as the Auxiliary. If an Auxiliary officer handles a situation incorrectly this can result in a liability suit against the Police Department as well as the city of Quincy.

"We applaud their civic duty; but we are also looking out for their family. Who is going to support their loved ones if they are injured or sued while performing volunteer work.

"The executive board of the Quincy Police Patrolman's Association is proud of the men and women that they represent and the professional manner in which they perform their duties that they are dedicated to serve in. Let the Auxiliary Police stick to their trained profession and leave the police work to us."

A topping off ceremony was recently held at President's Place, the $60 million mixed-use development currently under construction on the site of the former Bargain Center in Quincy Square.

The eight-story north office tower and associated parking garage now underway represents the first phase of the project. The balance of the development, a companion five-story tower, is to be completed in early 1990.

In total, President's Place will include 230,000 square feet of office space, 80,000 square feet of retail space, 206 condominiums and a 1,100 car parking garage.

The first major tenant, The Boston Five Cent Savings Bank, recently signed a lease for 125,000 square feet of office space, including a full-service bank branch. Bank personnel will be based in the eight-story north tower. In all, about 400 of the bank's employees will be relocated to the development.

Frank Burke, a longtime Quincy resident and real estate professional, was recently named general manager of the office-retail space and parking garage. Burke was most recently involved with the construction and management of three major office buildings in Quincy's State Street South area.

Condos, Office Buildings On ConCom Agenda Aug. 10

The Quincy Conservation Commission will meet Aug. 10 at the city hall annex to discuss a request to construct condominiums at 132 Shore Dr. and a request to build office buildings at Copeland and Miller Sts. and Furnace Brook Pkwy.

The public is invited to attend the 7:30 p.m. meeting. The condo request was filed by Walter Hessen. The condos would be built on new and existing foundations at 132 Shore Dr. The office building request comes from Condyc, Inc.

The building would consist of three levels of offices and two levels of parking. The commission will also handle any other business coming before them at the meeting.

State Funds Possible Relief Programs Aid Flood Victims

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

While there was no official word on a state disaster declaration in Quincy as of Tuesday, several relief programs were being implemented to assist victims of last week's severe flooding.

Mayor Francis McCauley has written Gov. Michael Dukakis asking that the affected area be declared a state disaster area so that state funds can be obtained.

As of Tuesday, the mayor had not yet been notified.

"I haven't heard anything yet," McCauley said. "I'm hoping something definitive will be heard by the end of the week."

For several days, representatives from the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the state Civil Defense Agency have been conducting needs assessments throughout the city's hard-hit neighborhoods. Information gathered is used to make applications for disaster assistance to the state and federal government.

The mayor declared a local emergency in Quincy last week.

Meanwhile, two officials from the federal flood insurance program were scheduled to meet with residents Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Furnace Brook School in West Quincy. DPW Commissioner David Colton said Ed Thomas, director of the New England flood insurance program, and Thomas Gann, were to supply information and answer questions from residents wanting to file claims on their flood insurance.

West Quincy, South Quincy, Wollaston and Bigelow St. areas.

A disaster assistance center, set up Saturday at the Furnace Brook School by the American Red Cross, will remain open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. the rest of the week.

The Red Cross has already assisted 250 people. They operate on a case by case basis.

Assistance ranges from food, clothing and shelter items to appliances such as hot water heaters and refrigerators.

The Red Cross has also set up a fund to help the city's flood victims. Anyone wishing to donate may make their contribution to the American Red Cross, 15 Front St., Weymouth, MA 02188. For more information call 331-6999.

Also, a special home improvement loan program designed specifically to aid flood victims has been Colton emphasized the representatives will not settle any claims at the meeting. He also said they will discuss how to preserve water-damaged property.

Colton estimated last Wednesday's flooding caused $500,000 in damage, about $100,000 of that in food, clothing and shelter items. He said 400 homes and 1500 people were affected by the intense flooding, mostly in the

Fundraiser Underway Candlelight Vigil, Peace March For Stabbing Victim

By CHRIS MAHONEY

A candlelight vigil Thursday and peace march in remembrance of stabbing victim Robert Lingoes will be held in Germantown tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. on Yardarm Lane.

Eulogies will be delivered by neighbors, including youths from the area.

Teenagers from Germantown also are showing grief for their lost friend with a fund drive to help Lingoes' mother, Patricia.

Corey Grier of Ridgeway Dr. in Quincy is very practical in the way he describes the fund drive he set up.

"Giving her money isn't going to bring 'Quackie' back, but it'll help to let her know that people care."

"Quackie" is Robert

Lingoes, the 18-year-old Germantown resident who was murdered Sunday morning after trying to break up a fight outside his home.

Obituary On Page 8

He was allegedly stabbed by David Compston, who was arrested shortly after and was arraigned at Quincy District Court Monday morning.

Grier and Brian Buchanan, who grew up with Lingoes, describes him as a kid everyone liked, as a kid with a future. He graduated from Quincy Voc-Tech and had started a plumbing job.

"I don't think that someone should take away the life of someone with a future," says Grier.

Now that Lingoes' future is suddenly cut short, his mother has to be pragmatic with the funeral and burial arrangements.

But she has no life insurance.

That's where Grier, Buchanan and several other kids from the Germantown area including Kerry Mortimer, Jeff Litif, and Jim Franklin come in.

Tuesday a fund drive was started to help Mrs. Lingoes with arrangements. Cans will be set up in several area stores, including Harry's Pizza on Sea St., Napoli's Pizza in Quincy Square, Samoset Pharmacy in Merrymount, 3 in 1 Variety in Germantown, and International House of Pancakes.

The cans will be there at least until Sunday. According to Buchanan, this was a good idea.

"It's better than bugging people on a street. People can just walk into a store and see the can."

In one day, the fund drive has raised $125.

"The stores have been cool about it," says Grier. "They agreed to do this right off and have been keeping an eye on the cans."

Mrs. Lingoes will need a minimum of $1,000.

"It's never too late to give her any money," says Buchanan.

Quincy Savings Bank is also helping. Anyone wishing to donate may do so by sending a contribution to the Robert Lingoes Memorial Fund, c/o Quincy Savings Bank, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy 02169.

Funds may also be sent to Fr. Richard DeVeer, St. Boniface Parish, 26 Shed St., Quincy, 02169.

Several Changes On Zoning Board Of Appeals

The Zoning Board of Appeals has undergone several personnel changes, announces Mayor Francis McCauley.

The board, which was expanded from three to five members last year, also has three alternate members.

McCauley said Martin Gordon of 315 Rock Island

Rd., Quincy, an alternate member, has been appointed to succeed Anthony Sandomato, whose term has expired.

Replacing Gordon as an alternate member is Lynne Houghton of 19 Wayland St., Wollaston. Her term will expire in February, 1989.

The mayor has also appointed Atty. David

Spillane of 116 Willow Ave., Wollaston, as an alternate member until February, 1991.

All appointments are effective immediately.

McCauley commended Sandomato, who recently completed 20 years of service as a member of the board. The mayor noted that Sandomato served the city as a member of the Zoning Board of Appeals for 20 years during the administrations of five mayors and did an outstanding job.

Siciliano Responds:

'Definitely Room Here For Auxiliary Police'

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The head of Quincy's auxiliary police says there is "definitely room" for his group of volunteers in the city.

"To say there is no room for auxiliary police (in Quincy) is just not so," said Anthony Siciliano.

Siciliano responded to a statement by the Quincy Police Patrolmen's Association published in the July 28 issue of The Quincy Sun. In the statement, the association's executive board said "there's no room in the city of Quincy for Auxiliary Police."

Board members said the volunteer group was an "untrained group of people who are not equipped for the many complex matters in today's world."

The association's statement was prompted by news articles in The Sun and Patriot Ledger two weeks ago that Civil Defense was accepting volunteers in eight divisions, including Auxiliary Police and Fire Department.

Siciliano has been auxiliary chief since 1976. He has been connected with Civil Defense for 20 years.

In his response, Siciliano stressed the auxiliary's role in community affairs, adding that his group is not out to deprive police of their details. "The only reason they don't want us around is because they fear we're going to take away their details. And that's not what we're trying to do," he said.

"That's not our function. That's not our responsibility."

"They (the police) have to understand the role of the auxiliary police in a community. The man must always be in training."

"You've got to have that man out there so that when we're faced with an emergency, we can handle it. You have to keep them active, well-trained and on duty to prepare them for anything," he said.

Some of the group's duties include parades, road races, walk-a-thons, beauty pageants, Christmas parades and emergencies, such as last week's heavy rains and flooding when 60 volunteers worked around-the-clock helping hundreds of residents recover from flooded property.

"We're on call 24 hours a day for disasters, emergencies and hazardous waste incidents. Any natural or man-made accident we're there," Siciliano said.

"Everything we do is authorized by the chief of police," he added. According to Siciliano, a "rumor" was started that stated the auxiliary police were going to be utilized at three city activities July 30. The activities, a concert and ceremony at the Boston Harbor Marina, a drum and bugle competition at Veteran's Stadium and the Quincy Fiks Carnival, were manned by police, he said.

"We have nothing to do with those activities. The auxiliary police would not have been called because those are police details," he said.

According to Siciliano, the city's auxiliary police are extremely well-trained and prepared for any situation.

"We take the same courses prescribed by the Massachusetts Criminal Justice Training Council as regular patrolmen, but they take more hours," he said, adding time restraints prevent his group from more classroom training.

The 60-hour training program includes these topics of study: criminal law, motor vehicle law, civil rights law and responsibility, use of baton, report writing, apprehension and arrest, drugs and alcohol, traffic enforcement, firearms policy, courtroom testimony and procedure, prevention of suicide, crime scene investigation and pursuit policy.

Other courses taken include first responder, firearms qualification and a 32-hour CPR program.

In recent years, the auxiliary police have fallen on tough times with declining enrollment and liability problems.

After performing land patrols for parks, playgrounds, schools and historical monuments for 20 years, it was ended by the police. Siciliano said.

"They (the police) took it away because they thought it was a liability to them. That's not true," Siciliano said.

Also, enrollment in the volunteer group has dropped off dramatically the past two years. In 1986, there were 61 volunteers. Now, there are 23.

"If I don't look for new people, I'm not going to have anyone," Siciliano said.

Dutton's Should Be Torn Down Says Tardo

"Last week's fire at the abandoned Dutton's Restaurant should be the last, that building should be torn down," says Denis Tardo, state representative candidate.

Commenting further on the Sea St. fire opposite the entrance to Quincy Shore Blvd., Tardo said, "As president of the Quincy Tenant Organization and a resident of Merrymount, I have continually encouraged city officials to remove this derelict building which does not conform to the City of Quincy Zoning Ordinance."

Tardo also expressed concern for the two injured firefighters, calling this abandoned building "a trap waiting for disaster."

Tobin Urges Flood Conditions Be Rectified

Three avoidable factors added to the severe flood conditions in West Quincy brought on by the recent onslaught of rain, according to Democratic state representative candidate Stephen Arthur Tobin.

In a letter sent by Tobin to Mayor Francis McCauley, Tobin blamed flood conditions on faulty floodgates and backed up conduits.

The factors were:

• The floodgates at Black's Creek were not operating properly and water became backed up in low lying areas.

• The conduits which pass through the area were discovered to be damaged by the roots of nearby trees.

• Furnace Brook is clogged with silt and debris which made it susceptible to overflow.

Tobin said each of these situations can be rectified to improve drainage of future rainfalls.

Tobin said he assured several residents he would bring the matter to McCauley's attention.

"I hope you (McCauley) will work with officials from the M.D.C. so that specific maintenance of the floodgates, the conduits and Furnace Brook can be arranged," Tobin said in his letter.

"Further, I ask you to work with state and federal officials to identify and appropriate any available monies to help alleviate the financial burden on residents affected by this disaster."

Farmer's Market Coupons To Be Distributed To Elders

The Quincy Council on Aging and South Shore Elder Services are working together to distribute Farmer's Market Coupons to Quincy's older citizens.

This program, sponsored by the Executive Office of Elder Affairs and the Mass. Federation of Farmer's Markets, will provide 300 elders with $10 worth of coupons that are redeemable for the purchase of fresh fruit and vegetables at the Quincy Farmers Market.

Coupons will be distributed and transportation to the market provided at these sites:

• South Shore Elder Services Meal Site, 95 Martensen St., Aug. 12 and Sept. 2.

• Houghs Neck Meal Site, Manet Community Center, Aug. 19 and Sept. 9.

• Church of the Good Shepherd, North Quincy, Aug. 26 and Sept. 16.

• Atlantic Neighborhood Center, Aug. 17 and • Southwest Community Center, Aug. 17.

18-Year Old Held In Stabbing Death

David Compston of 14 Yardarm Lane is being held on $50,000 cash bail for an Aug. 16 hearing at Quincy District Court for the stabbing death of Robert Lingo, 18, of 17 Quarterdeck Rd.

Compston, 18, pleaded innocent to a charge of first degree murder at his arraignment in Quincy District Court Monday morning. Judge Lewis Whitman ordered him held on $50,000 bail for the hearing.

Lingo, police said, was killed when he tried to break up a fight between his friend, Bill Keefe, and Compston over a girlfriend. Compston allegedly stabbed Lingo in the torso with a hunting knife, which Quincy Police Capt. David Rowell said may be in nearby elephant grass.

Police responded to a call at approximately 2:57 a.m. Sunday, Rowell said. Lingo was found on a sidewalk outside 2 Quarterdeck Rd. and was rushed to Quincy City Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Compston was arrested in a Dunkin' Donuts on Southern Artery, said Rowell.

Louis Sabidino, of the Norfolk County District Attorney's office, asked that bail be set at $50,000 cash and $500,000 assurity.

Compston's attorney, Roger E. Hugh, said Compston had a history of drinking problems and in fact had been drinking the night of the incident.

He also suggested Compston be sent to Bridgewater State Hospital for detoxification and observation as one of the alternatives.

Readers Forum

Irritated By Letter On Reikard Incidents

Editor, The Quincy Sun.

As the president of the Quincy Tenant Organization I feel it is necessary to comment on the Reader's Forum of July 28th.

The letter written by Mr. Roger B. Lyons, expressing his views of the Reikard's and their recent misfortunes irritated me for a number of reasons.

First, Mr. Lyons failed to identify himself as the spokesman for the Apartment House Owners Association as he is. Second, he seems to brag about ownership of an obviously unsafe parking lot. Third, Mrs. Reikard does not represent tenants but does mediate grievances (as Executive Director of the Rent Grievance Board) and is quick to tell either party the law. Fourth, he apparently takes offense to Mrs. Reikard's ability to read and understand the laws that some apartment house owners continually try to circumvent.

Fifth, I see no reason why the original news story should have "hit home" with Mr. Lyons, unless of course, the shoe fits.

Knock! Knock!

Well, the Ledger's Eric Schwarz is at it again.

This time he's knocking Mayor Francis McCauley on his writing ability in his coverage of the Democratic Convention for The Quincy Sun.

It doesn't take much talent to knock someone. And you don't need a sense of fair play. Just knock.

Schwarz seems to take delight in it. Especially if the subject is McCauley or The Quincy Sun.

We can't help wonder if it goes back to McCauley holding Tuesday afternoon press conferences (now and then) which allow The Sun to carry the news the same day (Wednesday) as the Ledger. Schwarz gets upset over things like that.

Anyway, Schwarz has now set himself up as a journalism professor and calls McCauley's journalistic efforts "uninspired" and a "numbing account."

That's a bit of a cheap shot.

But, at least McCauley got his facts straight.

Which is more than Schwarz did few weeks ago with the gossip item in his column that The Sun was for sale and we were in secret negotiations for that sale. He attributed it to "reliable inside sources."

And that was a crock of Schwarz' bull.

Overall, we thought McCauley -- who doesn't claim to be a professional writer -- did pretty well.

He wrote two articles before the convention.

One a look at the Dukakis-Bentsen ticket comparing it to the Kennedy-Johnson ticket of 1960.

The other article noted that no incumbent vice president has been elected president in more than 150 years.

We found the articles appropriate but then maybe we don't know as much about writing as an expert like Schwarz does.

Schwarz also notes that the convention assignment was a good deal for McCauley and for The Sun.

The Sun got the coverage "free" while McCauley "got a first hand view of history and was able to keep his name and face in the news."

Well, the Ledger certainly went out of its way to keep McCauley's name and face in the news.

The Ledger carried a Page One article (with picture) about McCauley going to the convention for The Sun.

And when McCauley returned, there was a Ledger reporter waiting on his door step trying to get his impressions of the convention.

McCauley gave the reporter a few bits but insisted on saving most of it for The Sun because he went to the convention as a Sun correspondent -- not as the mayor of Quincy.

Then came Schwarz' knock.

Maybe Schwarz is so busy reading The Sun he doesn't know what's going on in his own newspaper.

Regardless, we would be willing to bet that if Schwarz ever happened to be elected mayor of Quincy (egad!) and McCauley was asked to comment on his first week's performance, Frank McCauley would be a lot kinder and a helluva lot fairer.

8th Grader Youngest Reporter At Convention

By FRANCIS X. McCAULEY

The youngest delegate to the recent Democratic National Convention was only 17 years old.

So announced House Speaker Jim Wright, chairman of the convention.

I found a reporter who was younger.

Jarrett N. Blanc, 13, an eighth grade student at the exclusive Westminster private school in Atlanta was the youngest credentialed member of the press.

When I asked him how he got press credentials, he told me that he had "connections."

Jarrett, after he handed me his business card, which listed his occupation as student, modestly informed me that he knew more about the convention activities and politics in general than 99 percent of the delegates attending the convention. After spending two evenings with him discussing a broad range of political and convention issues, I believed him.

Jarrett is a young man who knows exactly where he is going in his life. After high school he plans to obtain a degree in political science from Yale, then it's on to Georgetown University for a masters degree. Next comes Harvard Law School. Jarrett is not worried about the tab for all that education. His father is a surgeon and his mother has a P.H.D. in Psychology.

Jarrett feels that the next President must make the environment his number one priority. He is a Democrat who sees Governor Dukakis not as a liberal, but as a moderate who has a good track record as Governor of Massachusetts. Jarrett also feels that the state of the economy will take precedence over foreign affairs as the major issue in the Presidential Campaign.

I asked him if the Reagan record of low inflation, declining unemployment and the creation of 15 million new jobs in the past eight years was not a good one? Jarrett angrily replied that most of the new jobs were "hamburger flipping (low wage) jobs."

Jarrett plans to go into politics at the National level after he completes his education. A run for Congress would be the first step. After talking with this young man, it is not beyond the realm of possibility that Jarrett N. Blanc in the year 2020 will be standing at a podium accepting the democratic parties nomination for President.

Public Hearing Aug. 22 On Historic Places Nominations

The Quincy Historical Commission will hold a public hearing on Aug. 22 at 7:30 p.m. to consider the nomination of 84 historic properties to the National Register of Historic Places and the extension of the Quincy Central Historic District.

Health Dept. Precautions For Flood Exposure

The Quincy Health Department has issued a list of precautions to follow in the event people may have been exposed to water, debris or mud contaminated with sewage.

General Sanitary Procedures

After working in areas contaminated with sewage be sure to wash hands and other parts of the body thoroughly with soap and water. If any unusual rashes or eruptions appear on the skin, contact a physician to determine the proper treatment.

Preventive Measures For Open Cuts, Wounds And Immunization Information

Consult a physician if there's an open cut or wound which may have been in contact with contaminated water, mud or debris. An assessment of the wound and need for a tetanus series or booster can be determined by a physician.

Gastro-Intestinal Illness

If gastro-intestinal symptoms occur such as vomiting, cramping or diarrhea, contact the Health Department for information at 773-1380 ext 458.

Drinking Water

State and local health officials immediately assessed the potential for contamination of the drinking water in areas affected by flood waters this past week. Both Quincy and Milton receive their drinking water from the MDC Quabban Reservoir located in the greater Worcester area.

Residents do not drink any water from private wells which have the potential of becoming contaminated when severe flooding occurs. The drinking water in Quincy and Milton was not considered as a source of contamination for residents.

The Health Department and the DPW are continuing to assess the impact of the flood to residents. A few isolated complaints over the taste of drinking water were reported from residents in the Sheldon St. area only.

The DPW has checked the sewer and water lines for any cross connections and found no evidence of contamination of the water lines.

As a precaution, however, the DPW is testing the drinking water in all 10 homes on Sheldon St. until results are received, residents should either boil their water approximately 20 minutes or drink bottled water.

This advisory applies only to Sheldon St.

Ce llars-Basements

Under no circumstances should a sewer cap be removed in the cellar to aid in the disposal of flooded basements. Invading bacteria from waste materials could enter an open cut or wound on the body.

Yards

The DPW has purchased an ample supply of lime which can be picked up at Ballou St., Sheldon Rd. and O'Rourke playground.

Clothing

Clothing which has come in contact with contaminated flood waters should be thoroughly washed with a detergent.

Vegetable Gardens

Residents in the areas affected by the flood waters are advised of the following:

If gardens were totally or partially submerged in flood waters, these items should be discarded:

- All leafy vegetables such as lettuce, spinach, Swiss chard, broccoli.
- All low-lying vegetables such as squash and cucumbers and root vegetables such as beets, carrots and turnips.
- If submerged, vegetables of taller plants such as peppers and tomatoes should be removed and discarded.

If not submerged in water, tomatoes and peppers should be thoroughly sprayed with water and eaten.

Lime applied directly into viable gardens (those not completely submerged) is not advised as it could damage the root system.

This updated advisory was delivered to residents of Alrick Rd., Cornell St., Sheldon Rd. and Ballou St.

Copies of the advisory are available at the Furnace Brook School Wednesday through Friday from 10 to 5 p.m.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Three Big Fires In Five Days

The third big fire in five days, the worst series of fire losses in Quincy in years, ravaged the Memorial Granite Co. at the foot of Weeden Place, South Quincy, causing an estimated $60,000 damage.

Earlier the same day, fire destroyed the offices of the Forbes Granite Co., 149 Brook Rd., South Quincy.

Five days before, fire gutted the interior of Most Blessed Sacrament Church in Houghs Neck with damage estimated at a half a million dollars, sending 4,000 parishioners to services in Atherton Hough School.

HURRICANE WATCH

The Weather Bureau was keeping a wary eye on Hurricane Connie, the third tropical storm of the season, which was hovering over the ocean some 200 miles off Wilmington, N.C., with 135 mile an hour winds near the center.

Thomas F. MacDonald, director of Civil Defense in Quincy, hurried home from vacation in Marblehead to place his unit on alert and Quincy yachtsmen, recalling the devastation of Hurricane Carol of 1954, secured boats in the Bay.

REFERENDUM UNCHALLENGED

George A. Yarrington, executive director of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, said the QTA will not take the trouble to challenge the validity of signatures on a petition asking a Plan A referendum in the fall election.

"I think the Plan A referendum will be defeated on its merits at the polls," he said.

QUINCY-ISMS

Hearing in the case of James A. Goodwin of North Quincy, captain of the Nantasket boat Pilgrim Belle which went aground June 22, was set for Aug. 12. Rev. Robert G. Doherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Doherty of Houghs Neck, left for Bagdad, Iraq, to teach algebra and science for three in Jesuit College. Coach Mary Pratt pitched a three-hitter, as the North Quincy Raiders defeated the Cagiano All-Stars of Lynn, 2-0. The Tuesday headlines at Mohican Market, 29 Chestnut St., was lamb chops at 49 cents a pound. James L. McCormick, Jr. of 11 Hllington Rd., Wollaston, was the first to file nomination papers to run for School Committee. Health Commissioner Dr. Brooks Ryder told a Rotary luncheon that there is no danger of contracting polio by swimming in fresh or salt water. Mrs. Evelyn Della Chiesa, wife of the Mayor of Quincy, won the golf putting contest for women at the annual outing of the Quincy Granite Manufacturers Association at the Summit Club in Rockland. "Hit The Deck," starring Lane Powell and Tony Martin, was playing at the Lincoln Theater, Quincy Point. Mrs. Sidney B. Spiegel of 1381 William I. Morrissey Blvd. hosted a cookout for the Quincy Hadassah Chapter on the annual New Year book. Dick Donovan of North Quincy, a 13-game winner for the Chicago White Sox, was recovering from an appendectomy in Mercy Hospital, Chicago. Judith Hey of 10 Kemper St., Wollaston, was elected vice president of the Wesley Club at Boston University. Chimmicello won the Park Softball League championship with a 7-3 victory over Milton's as Mal Putnam pitched a five-hitter. Foy's Markets, 1177 Hancock St. and 60 Franklin St. had boneless sirloin roast for 69 cents a pound and butter also for 69 cents a pound. Mrs. Walter F. Perry of 35 Newbury St., Atlantic, was chosen to play the role of Abigail in the Quincy Historic Festival Aug. 17-20 at Veterans Memorial Stadium, the same role she played 30 years before in the Tercentenary Celebration.

Nurses at City Hospital complained that beginning nurses were paid $55.75 a week while orderlies with four or five years experience received $86. William H. Ryan was sworn in as Quincy's first full-time recreation director. President Eisenhower expressed regret in a letter to Mrs. Ralph C. Sprague that he would be unable to attend the Squantum Day celebration Sept. 29. Emily A. Swanson of 48 Aberdeen Rd., Squantum, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army at Fort Belvoir, Va. State Public Works Commissioner John A. Volpesaid work should get underway by spring to convert Southern Artery from Sea St. to Washington St. into a divided highway. City Manager Donald H. Blatt announced that Hitchcock's Quarry will be ready for dumping in a few days. Bacon was 29 cents a pound in the meat department in the basement of the Bangam Center.

Health Tips For Homeowners

The Quincy Health Department and the Massachusetts Department of Public Health have issued advice on cleanup and disinfection procedures to citizens in areas which may have been affected by flood waters in the wake of the recent storm.

As the waters have receded from the extreme flooding, there is ample opportunity for bacteria to proliferate in cellars and other areas contaminated by flooded sewage systems. This advisory is being issued to alert residents to health precautions they should take in the event flooding has occurred.

There are six basic areas of concern. These include the contamination of cellars, buildings and surrounding yards by flooded sewage systems, children playing in muddy yards or areas which have potentially been contaminated with sewage; the spoilage of food due to immersion or by loss of electricity; the contamination of swimming pools; the deterioration of asbestos pipe coverings in flooded basements; and possible rodent and insect infestation.

Cellars and Basements:

Flooded basements should be pumped out and disinfected. After the water has been pumped out, any remaining solid waste should be disposed of in a functioning sewage disposal system or sealed in plastic bags for ultimate disposal in an approved landfill. Mud should be removed when most so that basement floors will dry more quickly.

All flooded floor and wall surfaces should be washed with a solution of two cups of household bleach to one gallon of water. Any household articles affected by flood waters should be washed with the same solution. Carpets, mattresses and upholstered furniture should be disposed of or cleaned and disinfected by a professional cleaner. Disposal is recommended in any cases where sewage contamination is suspected.

A dehumidifier and fan should be used to eliminate the growth of mold and mildew once the cellar has been cleaned and disinfected.

Yards should be disinfected with a liberal application of lime if any evidence of sewage contamination exists. Keep all children and animals away from limed areas until lime is no longer visible.

Do not allow children to play in standing water or with mud in yards until the area has been thoroughly disinfected with lime.

Food Spoilage-Immersion

In Water:

Immersion food products should not be consumed. Canned foods that have not been immersed in water should be washed thoroughly with water and a mild disinfecting solution and then rinsed thoroughly with clean water prior to opening. Any bulging cans should be discarded.

Food Spoilage-Loss Of Electricity

Perishable food items should be cooked for immediate consumption or thrown away. Generally, foods stored in large freezers should be safe from spoilage for about 48 hours if the freezer remains closed.

Residents should avoid opening freezer or refrigerator doors to the extent possible until such time as the electricity has been restored.

As long as temperatures in refrigerators remain below 45 degrees, stored foods should not spoil. Caution is advised during warm weather, as food will spoil more quickly above this temperature. The purchase of a thermometer for placement in refrigerators is recommended.

Rodent And Insect Infestation:

Discard debris such as garbage, lumber, tree limbs, broken furniture and trash as soon as possible to prevent insect and rodent infestation.

If rodent and insect infestation persist, contact a certified pesticide control company.

Contamination Of Swimming Pools:

Swimming pools should not be used until the water is free of any debris and the water is clear. Keep the filters running until the water is clear and then superchlorinate the pool. The chlorine level should drop to between 1.0 - 3.0 ppm before re-entry.

Deterioration Of Asbestos Pipe Coverings:

There is concern about the deterioration of asbestos pipe covering and boiler insulation due to flood waters. If the insulation has fallen off or deteriorates, it must be repaired by licensed individuals.

If an asbestos covered heating system has been damaged and requires removal from the premises, the asbestos must first be removed by a certified asbestos removal contractor and approved by the Quincy Health Department.

Children's Council Offers Special Needs Guide

The South Shore Council for Children is distributing free copies of "A Resource Listing of Recreational Programs for Special Needs Children in Quincy, Milton, and Randolph" to families in the area.

This directory contains information about after-school and sports programs as well as summer camps and general special education resources.

Members of the South Shore Council's Special Needs Committee who worked on this project were Joan Keefe, chairwoman, Milton; Mary Bresadola, Quincy; and Mildred Kelly, Quincy.

The South Shore Council for Children is part of the citizen arm of the state Office for Children. It is responsible for assessing children's service needs in the South Shore area and advocating for resources where they are lacking.

Copies of the resource listing may be obtained by calling the council at 331-1520.

Laurence Mirick Elected RAFA State President

Laurence I. Mirick of Quincy was recently elected state president of the Retired Armed Forces Association, Inc. during a state convention in Fitchburg.

Mirick will serve a two year term.

He was a member of the U.S. Army Air Force, U.S. Air Force and reserves for 40 years before retiring in 1980.

Alfred DePaulo, 87

Played With Baron Hugo Orchestra

A funeral service for Alfred DePaulo, 87, of Quincy, was held Monday at the Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 174 Elm St., Quincy.

Mr. DePaulo died July 28 at South Shore Hospital, Weymouth, after a brief illness.

A lifelong Quincy resident, he was a shipper for the F.H. Crane Co., retiring in 1966 after 48 years' service.

He was a well known clarinet player, having played at the old Quincy Theatre, at Boston hotels, and with Baron Hugo's Orchestra. He continued to play even after he became blind in 1968, entertaining at local nursing homes.

Mr. DePaulo was the husband of the late Adeline G. (Thomas) DePaulo. He is survived by two sons, Alfred DePaulo Jr. and Richard J. DePaulo, both of Braintree; a daughter, Alice M. Clark of Quincy; two brothers, Ralph DePaulo and George DePaulo, both of Quincy; two sisters, Laura McKeegan and Mary Chase, both of Quincy; 11 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Knollwood Memorial Park, Canton.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Much has been written and quoted on the advantages of experience. Ralph Waldo Emerson said: "The years teach much which days never know." It has also been said that "If a man could sell his experiences for half of what they cost him, he could get for nothing."

The elder Henry Ford was keenly aware of the value of experience. On his 65th birthday he said: "Take all the experience and judgement of men over 50 out of the world and there would not be enough know-how left to run it." When asked if he thought that there should be an age limit for men working actively in business, he replied that he had not yet found it. "There is no reason why men of 65 should not do as much work with the mind as anyone else. Youngsters have their place and are necessary, but the experience and judgement of men over fifty are what gives purpose and meaning to younger men's efforts."

Henry Ford proved to be a living example of his own doctrine. Almost until the time of his death, many years later, he continued to direct the affairs of the vast enterprise he had founded.

Squantum Church Pastor Warns About Movie 'Last Temptation Of Christ'

The pastor of the First Church of Squantum used the controversy surrounding a new movie about to be released by Universal Studios as an opportunity to talk about Jesus' teaching on sex.

The sermon, which was preached by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, was entitled "The Flap Over Jesus and Sex In A Movie."

Dr. Langevin began with the questions raised by one of the members of the Squantum congregation when she was asked to sign her name to a petition asking local theater managers not to show the film, "The Last Temptation of Christ."

The movie, which is based on a novel of the same name by Nikos Kazantzakis, will not be released until Sept. 23. Yet it has already sparked an angry reaction from fundamentalist and evangelical Christian leaders who see it, in the words of the Rev. Donald Wildmon of the American Family Association, as depicting "a weak, insecure, mentally deranged Jesus."

Some liberal Christian leaders such as the Rev. William F. Fore, the executive director of the National Council of Churches' Communication Commission, argue that "the point of both book and film is that Jesus is a real man who becomes the Messiah by an act of acceptance."

According to Rev. Fore, the "last temptation" of Jesus was that of living an ordinary life. "He wrestles with God's will for his life and finally accepts that God wants him to go to Jerusalem and be crucified."

Dr. Langevin pointed out that the most controversial section of the film involves a fictional flash-forward at the time of Jesus' crucifixion. This scene shows what Jesus had to give up in order to be the Savior of the world: a long life, marriage, and children.

Critics of the film claim that this section is offensive. Since Dr. Langevin had not seen the film, he said that the matter was difficult to judge. Nevertheless, he agreed that if the petition was accurate in reporting one of the lines spoken by the character of Jesus in the film, the words were "so raunchy that, for the sake of decency, I will not repeat it here."

The pastor also said that the synopsis of the plot provided by the petition "certainly made it sound like a sleazy movie" upon first hearing.

"What puzzles me so much," Dr. Langevin said, "is that the fundamentalist and liberal summaries of the film are so utterly different. Indeed, one wonders if they are even talking about the same film."

For example, he noted, Bill Bright, the president of the Campus Crusade for Christ, declared, "If I had that film in my hand tonight, I would call together the leaders of the Christian world and we would have a big bonfire celebration." Bright and some other fundamentalists actually did offer to pay Universal Studios $10 million for all of the copies of the film so that they could be destroyed. Universal rejected the offer.

The Episcopal Bishop of New York, Paul Moore, on the other hand, remarked of the film and its detractors, "It emphasizes the humanity of Christ, and if their faith is shaken by that, then that's their problem."

Dr. Langevin said that the real cause of all the controversy was the way the movie is alleged to handle the subject of sex.

"The implication is that Christians have been unwilling to ask any questions about Jesus' sexuality or his views on sex. Yet there is plenty of material in the Bible that speaks to those issues."

It was at that point that the pastor adduced his text, "I or we have not a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sinning" (Hebrews 4:15). Dr. Langevin then summarized

Jesus' ideas on the subject of sex and talked about the way in which Jesus dealt with his own sexuality. He said that if the film did violence to the biblical story of who Christ was and how he lived his life, Christians would have the right to be angry.

Dr. Langevin recalled that, in the past, a number of films about Christ's life had initially been opposed by various Christian groups but are now even shown in churches. These included "King of Kings," "Parable," "Jesus Christ Superstar" (which Dr. Langevin conceded was based on some very questionable theology, from the Christian point of view), and Franco Zeffirelli's production "Jesus of Nazareth" (which, Dr. Langevin said, "is probably the finest version of the life of Christ ever put on film").

At the same time, he warned that Christians must not always think that such movies are harmless. He mentioned "Monty Python's Life of Brian" as one that he personally regarded as anti-Christian propaganda. That film was condemned by the Roman Catholics, called "blasphemy" by the Lutherans, and condemned by three rabbinical associations as a "crime against religion."

Dr. Langevin did not know which type "The Last Temptation of Christ" would be but advised his listeners to be careful before they gave their money to persons who might be handling the story of Jesus irreverently. He suggested that Christians would want to keep an eye on the news reports about how the movie is received by those who have seen it and that they should pay attention to the reviews it gets when it finally comes out.

"It helps us to understand more about the Lord or gives us some insight into how much he has sacrificed for us, then perhaps there is some purpose in seeing such a film. From what I have heard about it so far, though, I doubt that that is the case. Therefore, until I know more about it, I won't go see the movie. I don't want to be a part of anything that might tend to tear Christ down. And I don't want to sign any petitions that will just give the picture more publicity. You can do what you want. I'll learn about Jesus the way we always have - from the Bible."

This Sunday the service will begin at 9:30 a.m. A nursery is provided and visitors are welcome.

Q: What's up and coming in health care?
A: The New QCH!

Quincy City Hospital has begun an impressive $57 million renovation. Almost two-thirds of the buildings and other facilities will be replaced—all part of a dramatic plan to better serve the growing and changing health care needs of the South Shore.

The focal point of the new hospital complex will be a brand new six story building that will contain 234 patient beds as well as all of the necessary patient care support services.

Since its founding in 1890, Quincy City Hospital has been in the forefront of health care on the South Shore. With our new facilities we'll continue to deliver the highest quality health care services with warm, personal attention.

At QCH—we're building for the future on a proud past.

Merrymount School Raises $2,400 For Pediatrics Library At QCH

A check for $2,400 was recently presented to Ellen Zane, associate director of Quincy City Hospital, by Ethel Sherman, president of the Merrymount School Parent-Teacher Organization, to help fund a pediatric library of books and tapes at the hospital.

The money was raised by children, families and faculty of the Merrymount School during a June 4 walk-a-thon. Each year, the school plans to replace damaged books and add new ones to what will become a permanent resource for patients of children hospitalized at Quincy City Hospital.

The Pediatric-Young Adult department at QCH is a 24-bed unit specializing in general pediatric medicine.

Zane commended the Merrymount students for contributing to this important and worthwhile cause and thanked them for their generosity and interest in helping children in their own community.

Mayor Francis McCauley was the first to finish the four and a half mile route in 63 minutes. About 250 participants walked the route, from Merrymount Beach the length of Quincy Shore Drive to East Squantum St and back again. School Committee Member Peggy Nigro walked on behalf of the Quincy School Committee.

Other elementary schools that pledged support to the Merrymount kindergarten through grade five fundraisers included Lincoln-Hancock, Atherton Hough, Wollaston, Squantum, Furnace Brook, Montclair, Snug Harbor and Daniel Webster.

Local businesses which supported and donated to the event included Quincy Pediatrics Association, The Locker Room, Pizza Hut, Colonial 1620 Restaurant, Frantic Framers, Hair Place One, Beard's Exxon, Quincy Minute Car Wash, Adams' Cleaners, Marchionne Insurance Agency, and the Paint Shop.

McDuff Urges Override Of Local Aid Veto

John H. McDuff of Quincy Point, Republican candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District has called on local legislators to support an override of Governor Dukakis' veto of $91 million in local aid.

McDuff said "Lottery revenues were never designed to bail out an extravagant state government or to tidy up the political image of a spendthrift governor. They are meant to be divided among the cities and towns. By this I mean all the lottery surplus, not just the amount the cities and towns received last year."

"When lottery receipts go up, then local aid should increase by the same amount. Local communities count on it, and they have a right to. Our share of that surplus does not belong to Dukakis or the legislature, but to the people of Quincy and Weymouth."

"It is the responsibility of our local legislators to fight for the people who elected them. I urge my opponent, Mr. Cerasoli, to support this override proposal with the same vigor he displayed supporting all the big taxing and spending bills in the past year. Mr. Cerasoli has been quoted several times in recent months as saying that he supports and votes "with the leadership."

"I challenge him now to demonstrate to the folks in this district that he is able to say 'no' to the leadership and to support and vote for our best interests."

McDuff predicted hard times ahead for taxpayers across Massachusetts if there is no override. "It will mean either a whopping local tax increase or a drastic cut in local services," he said.

Quincy Receives $5,000 In Federal Funding

For Preservation Planners

Secretary of State Michael Connolly, chairman of the Massachusetts Historical Commission, announces that $5,000 in federal funds has been allocated to Quincy for preservation planning.

"These grants are vitally important to local communities," Connolly said. "By carrying out preservation activities on a local level, we encourage community awareness of these significant resources which will undoubtedly lead to large-scale preservation efforts in the future."

"During the Massachusetts Historical Commission's 25th Anniversary year, we are especially pleased to award this Survey and Planning Grant within Congressman Brian J. Donnelly's community of Quincy," said Valerio Lalmage, executive director of the Massachusetts Historical Commission.

Quincy Hospital Offers Community Health Screenings

Quincy City Hospital is offering community health screenings Wednesday afternoons.

The screening consists of a comprehensive blood chemistry analysis, which will evaluate blood glucose, cholesterol, BUN, creatinine, calcium, hemoglobin, and several other parameters. A urine specimen will also be taken for analysis.

A registered nurse will review the results of the screening test with the patient. Copies of the test results will be given to the patient, and copies will be sent to the patient's personal physician. If the individual does not have a personal physician, the nurse will assist the patient to select one, through the Quincy City Hospital Doctor Directory (Physician Referral Service).

Community health screenings are offered weekly. The next scheduled date is Wednesday, Aug. 10, from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the Ambulatory Care Department. Patients will register for the testing through the Out-Patient Registration Department area in the Admitting Department. The fee for the screening is $10 and is due at the time of service. Cash, check or bank card are accepted for payment.

For additional information on the Community Health Screenings, the hospital's Diabetes Clinic or free blood pressure screening clinics held at Quincy City Hospital, contact the Ambulatory Care Department at the hospital at 773-6100, ext. 3009, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. on weekdays.

Contact with the Physicians' Referral Service, the "Doctor Directory," may be made between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. on weekdays.

3 College-Bound Students Receive 9 Scholarship Awards At HN Congregational

Three college-bound students recently received a total of nine scholarship awards from the Houghs Neck Congregational Church Scholarship Board.

Gloria M. Brummitt, chairman, presented to Scott Stirling of Quincy Junior College, the Muriel Bonney, Anna Straughn Memorial and general scholarships.

Wendy Stirling, a Quincy High School graduate entering Merrimack College, received the Barbara Blowers and Cornelia and Edward McGuire Memorial scholarships, and a general scholarship.

Charles Hughes, a June graduate of Catholic Memorial High School entering Harvard, was awarded the Randal Coombs and Nellie R. Kirby Memorial Scholarships and a general scholarship.

For 40 years the Houghs Neck Congregational Church has made scholarships available to young people of the church to help them achieve their academic goals.

Dr. Peter V. Corea, minister, pointed out that the Scholarship Board has been able to do this because people of the church have recognized the importance of higher education to enable young people to better serve the world by cultivating their talents and interests to their fullest potential.

The Scholarship Board includes Gloria M. Brummitt, chairman; Hugh Christie, treasurer; Ada Freeman, secretary; Barbara Christie, Margaret McDonald, Pamela Craig, David Murphy, the Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea and Rev. M. Alicia Corea.

Durkin Accepts Challenge For Debate

Stephen J. Durkin, candidate for state representative in the Second Norfolk District, has accepted a challenge from Patricia Ioland to a proposed Sept. 8 debate.

The text of Durkin's statement follows.

"I welcome the opportunity to debate my opponents in the race for state representative for the Second Norfolk District, and I am happy to accept Patricia Ioland's proposal for a debate to be held among the three Democratic candidates.

"While I think it is extremely important for a candidate to meet personally with as many voters as possible, it is also important that voters get a chance to compare the candidates in the context of a public forum. A debate format prevents candidates from hiding behind the rhetoric of press releases and political advertisements, and forces them to publicly respond to questions regarding issues of public policy.

"The ability to express oneself and to be persuasive in public debate is an important qualification that the voters of the Second Norfolk District should demand of their next State Representative. Anyone can propose legislation.

"It is the responsibility of a state representative, however, to see that proposed legislation, beneficial to his district and to Massachusetts citizens, is passed and enacted into law.

"Passage depends upon the representative's ability to speak convincingly on behalf of proposed legislation, to effectively debate its opponents, and to successfully lobby the votes of undecided legislators. These abilities of persuasion become crucial when proposed legislation would benefit only Quincy citizens. Accordingly, Mrs. Ioland's proposed debate, as well as those previously scheduled, will allow the voters to assess the extent to which each candidate possesses these important debating skills.

"I wholeheartedly agree with Mrs. Ioland that the campaign has thus far generated very little public discussion of policy issues facing our state and the Second Norfolk District. A public debate, before a live audience, and aired over cable television, would allow many voters an opportunity to hear candidates' views on a wide range of issues, to determine how well-versed candidates are on those issues, and to better compare the candidates' backgrounds and qualifications to serve in the state legislature.

"While I agree that voters deserve to hear from both Democratic and Republican contenders, I believe it is entirely appropriate, at least on one occasion before the September primary election, that separate debates be held for Democratic candidates and Republican candidates. A debate involving just the three Democratic candidates would, I believe, enable Democratic voters to see much more clearly the differences among the three candidates whose names will appear on the Democratic ballot in September.

"With all of the political posturing surrounding the debate controversy, it should be noted that several other debates had already been planned prior to Mrs. Ioland's "challenge" and that many of those debates will include both Republican and Democratic candidates.

"In any event, I am happy to accept Mrs. Ioland's invitation to meet Aug. 11 to discuss the format for the proposed Sept. 8 debate."

Quincy Completes Best Season In Years

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy Legion baseball team completed one of its most successful seasons in several years with an overall 10-9 record, including the Zone 6 playoffs.

Quincy made the playoffs for the first time under the present format, making the fourth and last playoff berth in its final game of the season.

Quincy gave first place Braintree all it could handle as it dropped the third and final game, 2-1, after losing the first game, 10-2, and winning the second, 2-1.

"Our pitching was our strong point," said coach Dick Laracy. "Our pitchers struck out 158 batters, an average of eight a game, but all these pitchers will be gone next year."

Quincy loses several top players including catcher Bill Mulhern (.350), pitcher-infielder Robbie Higgins (.367), pitcher-outfielder Jim Dennis (.281), first baseman Sean Gately (.229), center fielder Peter Tufts (.309) and pitcher Joe Taylor.

Quincy, coached by Laracy and Ed Spring, will still have a fine nucleus returning.

Those coming back include infielder Nick Dragone (.434), catcher Mike Toland (.267), outfielder Jim Kearns (.330), outfielder Paul McClellan, infielder Tim Baker and pitcher-infielder Peter McLaughlin, all of whom saw considerable action this season.

Also returning will be pitcher-outfielder Sean Mulhern, pitcher-first baseman Mike Connor, infielder Kevin Daley, outfielder Chris Beatrice and catcher Greg Clifford, who saw limited action.

"We will have to rebuild, but we have the players with whom to do it," said Laracy. "People say we should be competitive, but the pitching again has to be there. We have boys with a lot of pitching potential, but it has to be developed, hopefully in high school, before our season starts."

"You always hope that someone coming out of Babe Ruth baseball will contribute immediately, but this doesn't happen too much. Morrisette was fortunate this year with 16-year-olds who contributed."

Four of Quincy's nine losses this season were by one run. "You have to get the clutch hitting with runners on base," Laracy concluded. "We left too many runners stranded this year."

Bryan Eliminates Elks

With Ken Loud and Steve Waas showing the way with outstanding pitching, Bryan Post eliminated the Elks in two straight games to advance to the second round of the Babe Ruth League playoffs.

Waas scattered for hits and struck out seven in a 9-1 victory last Saturday.

In Sunday's second game Loud fired a one-hitter as Bryan Post won, 9-3.

Catcher Mark Kelleher starred defensively and worked well with both pitchers.

In Saturday's win Michael Malvesti had three hits and Kevin Mulla had two hits, including a long home run. Waas and Don Anderson had two hits apiece, Kelleher doubled and Loud, Pat McDonough and Philip Bell singled. Rob Kane and Terry Sheehan played strong defense.

Bill Warren had three singles and Sean Murray a double for the Elks.

In Sunday's game Loud received outstanding defensive support from infielders Mulla, Paul Murphy, Kane and Waas and outfielders Anderson, Malvesti and Tom Nutley.

Offensively Kane and Waas had three hits each, Kelleher doubled and singled and Nutley and Murphy had singles.

The Elks' Sean Murray ruined Loud's bid for a no-hitter with a double.

Waas continues to excel and after pitching Saturday's win, he had an outstanding game at shortstop Sunday. He had five hits in the two games to raise his average to .463.

Bryan's overall record is 18-6 and the team has won 14 of its last 15 games. Bryan meets Houghs Neck, the American League champion, in the second round, and Bank of New England, which defeated Sons of Italy, faces Local 1139, the National League champ.

The championship series will get under way Friday and continue over the weekend.

Partridge, Higgins Lipton Cup Regatta Winners

The second annual Lipton Cup Regatta attracted more than 200 sailboats last weekend off Marina Bay with some outstanding competition despite threatening weather.

Dick Partridge of Hingham Yacht Club, winner of a number of Quincy Bay Race Week 210 Class championships, had a fine weekend as his boat, Pear Tree Too, crewed by Brian Curtis and Dick Gallagher, had a first and two seconds to win the division title, followed by clubmates Jim Robinson and Doug MacGregor.

Billy Higgins of Boston Harbor Yacht Club returned to the yachting scene and, with his crew, Billy Donald, had a win, two seconds and a third to win the 110 Class trophy. The Lipton also counts as the 110 district championship series.

Other results:
Tornado Class: 1, Melodie Gummer, Kingston, Ont.; 2, S. Andrew Fithou, Hyannis; 3, Steve Perr, Squantum.

St. Colletta Classic Golf, Tennis Tourney Sept. 19

The Braintree Savings Bank and Gerald T. Reilly and Company are sponsoring the second annual St. Colletta Classic Golf and Tennis Tournament Sept. 19.

The golf tournament will be held at the Wollaston Golf Club in Milton and the tennis tournament at the Weymouth Tennis Club.

Dinner will follow at the Wollaston Golf Club at the conclusion of both tournaments.

The event is being held to raise funds for the benefit of Braintree St. Colletta Day School, which is dedicated to educating mentally retarded and handicapped children from the age of five.

Last year's Classic raised almost $20,000 which was donated toward helping to provide much needed programs for developing skills and abilities for special needs children to achieve their fullest potential.

Businesses and individuals are being sought to assist in the tournaments. Those interested are asked to sponsor a hole and pay $300, or corporate sponsors are being sought for $250.

Also being sought are those to sponsor a tennis court for $250 or to make a tax-deductible contribution.

Checks should be made payable to Braintree St. Colletta Classic and returned to Donald C. Olson, Braintree Savings Bank, 865 Washington St., Braintree 02184.

Further information can be had by calling Olson at 843-9100, Dolly Dipesa at 423-3555, Donna Fitzwilliams at 749-4610 or Allan McKinnon at 973-7230.

North Cheerleaders Second In Regional Championships

The North Quincy High School competitive cheerleading squad placed second overall in the recent Northeast Regional Cheerleading championships in Chicopee.

The Raiderettes placed second in Division 3 varsity and competed against 29 other squads from throughout

New England and New York. They finished only 15 points out of first place.

Junior Suzanne Rochon was named to the all-star team.

The North girls also finished second in the CYO competition at Boston College.

The members of the team, coached by Nancy Peduzzi, are senior captains Stacey Lee and Erin Grogan, juniors Wendy Lampa, Beth Roberts, Suzanne Rochon and Sharon Stroup and sophomores Kerry Lynch, Danielle Scanlon, Kim Ward and Toni Yalch.

Whiffleball Tourney

Pollard, Montclair Russell Park Winners

The Quincy Recreation all city whiffleball tournament was concluded as 12 teams throughout the city competed in the fourth annual George Brett Whiffleball Tournament at Russell Park.

In the Midget Division, Pollard won the final game of the tournament over Bishop 4-2. There was a strong, all-together team for Pollard with the duo of the Regan brothers Kevin and Mark blasting home-runs left and right, and other fine plays from Brad Smith and Jeff Russell.

In the Junior Division, Montclair cruised to victory being undefeated throughout the day. Playing for Montclair were Steve MacDougall, Dan Burke, Mark Cahill, and Nick Mastrov. They defeated the LaBrecque squad of Doug Nolan, James Schatzl, Kevin Nichol, and Jaime White with a score of 11-3.

In the Senior Division, it was the upset of the day. Fenno St. has been champion for the last two years but was defeated in the finals by a young squad from Russell Park. The winning team from Russell Park was led by Chris Campbell with nine home runs for the day, Chad Mackie with eight, and Chris Delluto also with eight.

In each division, the winners were awarded trophies that were supplied by the Quincy Recreation Department.

The tournament was organized and supervised by Noreen Connolly and Tom Ryan, sports and special event coordinators for the summer playground program.

Russell Chisholm Stationed In West Germany

Army Captain Russell Chisholm, son of Edgar Chisholm of 1000 Southern Artery, Quincy, is a forward observer with the 106th Helicopter Squadron in West Germany.

Chisholm is with the NATO troops and does patrol duty at the East-West Germany border. A 1978 graduate of North Quincy High School, he held records on the track team, was a member of the band and also co-captain of the football team.

Chisholm is a 1982 honors graduate of Norwich University in Vermont. He attended the college on a ROTC scholarship his last two years and was commissioned a second lieutenant on graduation day.

He did most of his training at Fort Bragg, North Carolina before being assigned to the 106th Regular Cavalry attached to the 4th Armored Division in Fulda, West Germany.

Quincy Bicyclists Finish 3,300 Mile Ride For Lung Assn.

Paul and Carol McGrath of Quincy recently finished a 47-day, 3,300 mile bicycle ride across America for the American Lung Association, in which $2 million was raised to help prevent various lung diseases.

The McGraths and over 300 other bicyclists finished the TransAmerica Bicycle Trek at Atlantic City's famed Boardwalk on July 22.

The participants were asked to raise at least $5,000 each in pledges to combat diseases such as lung cancer, emphysema, chronic bronchitis, and asthma in order to take part in the ride.

Much of the journey consisted of riding an average of 80 miles a day on long highways through 100 degree temperatures and blinding headwinds.

Point Panthers Registration Saturday

The Quincy Point Panthers of the Quincy Youth Football league will hold player registration this Saturday at 9 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, Harrison Ave. entrance.

The team is open to area players 11-14 years of age with a weight limit of 140 pounds.

Parents are invited to accompany boys to the sign-up. Birth certificates and a $25 registration fee are required. All equipment will be issued at practice.

Practices are held evenings at 5:30 and Saturday mornings. Once school begins, practices are held Tuesday and Thursday only. Games are played on weekends. Players are grouped according to age-experience on varsity and junior varsity levels.

Further information can be had by calling 770-4263.

South Shore YMCA Day Care Program To Expand

The South Shore YMCA's

unique day care program will expand this fall to include the "Y's" facilities.

In addition to the YMCAs "Kids Unlimited" preschool day care program, participants will have a 30-minute swim lesson, one hour gym time to work on large motor development and each Friday the group will complete a cooking project.

The day care program presently includes reading readiness skills, language, arts and communication skills.

Also, older children will be introduced to both math and science concepts.

All children in the program have the opportunity to be "just kids" during free play time when they can play dress up, house or shoot hoops on specially lowered rims.

There is also time for snacks, lunch, rest time and outside play.

The YMCA, located at 79 Coddington St., Quincy, is convenient to many local businesses and the Quincy Center I Stop.

There are currently openings for all age groups (2 1/2 to 6 years old).

For more information call Marcia Baily, director at 479-8500 ext. 127.

James Kelly Participates In NATO Exercise

Army Cpl. James P. Kelly has participated in the NATO-sponsored exercise, Return of Forces to Germany '87 (Relorger).

The exercise was designed to evaluate plans and support agreements between NATO member nations, to exercise West Germany's ability to support deploying forces and to test the ability of European-based units to quickly link reinforcing units with their pre-positioned equipment.

Kelly is the son of Jean M. Brooker of 33 Arnold St., Quincy.

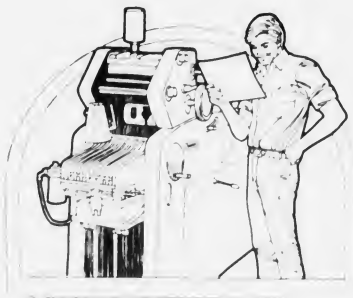

He is an armor crew member with the 68th Armor at Fort Carson, Colo.

The corporal is a 1983 graduate of Quincy Vocational Technical High School.

Patriots White Volleyball Team Returns From West

The Mass Patriots White 16 and under volleyball team, which includes several Quincy and North Quincy girls, recently returned from an 18-day trip to California and Colorado.

The Patriots represented New England at Volleyball Festival 88 at the University of California-Davis and at the Junior Olympic National Championships at Colorado State.

At Festival 88 the Patriots team, comprised of seven high school freshmen and one sophomore, played well, finishing 57th out of 124 teams. The team defeated Woodland, Calif., Spokane, Wash., Santa Clara, Calif., Golden Bear VBC, Calif., and Orange County VBC, Calif.

Couch Chris Prendiville's goal in the rebuilding season was that the team be competitive at the national level.

"The girls achieved that goal in defeating some very good teams and taking the better teams to three games and double figure scores," she said. "They played scrappy defense and earned the respect of many of the country's top programs."

At the National Championships the Patriots finished 41st out of 60. Competition here was even stiffer as all teams had to have previously qualified to be there.

The Patriots had qualified in May by winning the New England Regional championship. The team faced teams from Hawaii, Texas, Colorado, Iowa, California and Washington.

Quincy girls on the team were Capt. Randi Gaura, Jennifer Richmond, Christin Barrett, and Kara Sullivan. Other members were Judi Nutter of Dracut, Khuong Ta of Brookline, Keri Gibson of Notre Dame and Aimee LeCompte of Case High of Swansea.

"Randi Gaura provided great leadership on and off the court," coach Prendiville said. "She played superb defense and was one of the team's top servers."

"Jennifer Richmond demonstrated great passing skills in both tournaments. She led the team with a 95 per cent serving statistic and played gutsy defense."

"Kara Sullivan had some beautiful defensive plays and was one of the most supportive players on the team."

"Christine Barrett was one of the offensive forces contributing, with one of every three hits being a kill. She had some tremendous blocks which helped to change momentum in our favor."

80 Take Part In First Cheerleading Camp

By MAUREEN FLYNN

Nearly 80 girls took part in the first annual cheerleading camp at St. Joseph's School conducted by the National Cheerleaders Association of Dallas, Texas.

Cheerleading squads from all parts of the South Shore took part, but most of the girls were from Quincy.

The National Cheerleaders Association runs camps throughout the country but concentrates its efforts in the South and Southwest, where cheerleading has become a major program at the high school and college level. The Quincy camp was among the first forays of the association into this part of the country and it hopes to make Quincy an annual stop.

The association presented spirit awards daily to teams demonstrating contagious, all-around spirit despite the oppressively hot weather. Ribbons and other awards were also given.

The NCA stick, the most prestigious award, was presented to the Quincy Point Panthers cheerleaders. Each member of the Panthers received a commemorative pin.

Individual awards for jumps, motions and leadership were presented by junior instructors Jenn Bonvie and Colleen Skehan of Quincy High and Lina Russo and Sheila Cronin of Abp Williams.

All Quincy-based teams received a minimum of three awards. Quincy coaches taking part in coaching seminars were Mary Fasoli of St. Ann's Blue Knights and Patti Myers of the Quincy Point Panthers.

Teams taking part were St. Ann's, St. Joseph's, North Quincy High soccer cheerleaders, Quincy Point Panthers, North Quincy Apaches and West Quincy Elks.

The following girls from Quincy took part:

Lynne Feeley, Cheryl DeLomaso, Kara Bagen,

Michelle Gowdy, Christine Pollara, Christine Curran, Karen Curran, Michelle Vacca, Maureen Mancuso, Maureen Wood, Amy Murphy, Kelley Dyer, Vicky Comeau, Tara Brown, Laurie Silverio, Jennifer Kelley, Paula Morris, Erin Skehan, Dina Speranzo, Kelly Stewart, Jessica Ianolsky, Jenny White, Erin Nichols and Jennifer Brodeur.

Also, Kelly Daley, Cheryl Norton, Christine Caporale, Cindy Cedrone, Jane Cocio, Amy Echelle, Chrissy Fasoli, Nicole Fasoli, Kara Feeney, Lynn Ferguson, Tracy Ferguson, Elizabeth Flynn, Janine Kozowsky, Rachel Lahage, Marsha Maloney, Christine Miele, Michelle Minichello, Kim Nhu, Erika Ogden, Ima Plourde, Debbie Russell, Ialita Silva and Julie Simon.

WEEK OF: August 4

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Creativity and enthusiasm are your middle names. You have a sense of the dramatic, and are generous to the point of extravagance. Your organizational skills lead to professional advancement over the coming six months. Family responsibilities continue to increase in the year ahead.

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19

Relationship becomes less intense thanks to your logical approach. As August progresses, you may be making plans for a fall educational program and find that new interests attract you.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20

Friend is eager to please - too eager, it may seem. Watch tendency of overindulging, specifically in late summer's sun shine. You may have to be tougher with people working for you.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20

A potentially significant friendship may be launched at this time. Sticky financial situation requires thorough analysis. Week focuses on new areas of interest and increased prestige.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22

Interesting news about a long ago connection reaches you and may lead to renewed friendship. Bargains abound, but be sure to check for quality. Resourcefulness is your present byword.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21

Avoid showdowns this week, particularly with members of the opposite sex. Recent business problems can be examined objectively. Family situation brightens dramatically thanks to your efforts.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22

Don't hesitate to rely on your own good judgement, and watch that you're not unduly influenced by stronger types. You may have to lay out extra cash, be sure to obtain proper receipts.

LEO - July 23 - August 22

Despite the month, you seem to be hit with a case of spring fever. This is a good week for expressing your feelings through art or writing. Good week for outlining your career goals.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22

New friendships figure high on the week's agenda. Period is favorable for planning a fall wardrobe, warmer colors suit your style. You become more assertive at this time.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22

Philosophical discussions help create a bond with a new friend. Projects may be delayed, and it may be time to put contingency plans into action. Relatives tend to exaggerate.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21

Friend may seem uncommonly serene, while you're unusually expressive. Check out all the angles of any business arrangement that's suggested to you. Family announcement arrives unexpectedly.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22

You're likely to dream up some serious plans, the trick now is to implement them. Platonic friendship is in the spotlight. Salesmanship skills are even sharper than usual.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20

You receive support from older or younger friends, relatives, and colleagues. Difficult domestic situation becomes much easier to handle. Heavy workload arrives after the weekend.

BORN THIS WEEK

August 4th, musician Sammy Black, 5th, actress Loni Anderson, 6th, actor Robert Mitchum, 7th, singer Lana Cantrell, 8th, actress Connie Stevens, 9th, comedian David Steinberg, 10th, singer Eddie Fisher.

Fred B. DiMeo, 58 Firefighter 31 Years

A funeral Mass for Fred B. DiMeo, 58, of Quincy, was celebrated July 29 at St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point.

Mr. DiMeo died July 19 at Quincy City Hospital after a long illness.

A firefighter in Quincy for 31 years, he was assigned to Engine 1 in June 1957. He worked in the fire alarm division for eight years.

He was also a disabled Army veteran of the Korean War.

He is survived by his wife, Jayne C. (Mahoney) DiMeo, a son, David F. DiMeo in Hawaii, a brother, William DiMeo of Randolph; and six sisters, Margaret Muraski of West Haven, Conn., Mary Mann, Eleanor Simpson and Michela Sacchetti, all of Weymouth, and Lucy Frangipane and Susan DiMeo, both of Quincy. He was the brother of the late Americo DiMeo and Ralph DiMeo.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave. Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery, West Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to St. Joseph's Church Building Fund, 556 Washington St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Vernon L. Bomar, 53

Quincy Youth Hockey Coach

A graveside service for Vernon L. Bomar, 53, of Quincy was held Wednesday at Massachusetts National Cemetery in Bourne. A memorial Mass was later celebrated at St. Boniface Church in Germantown.

Mr. Bomar died July 29 at New England Sinai Hospital, Stoughton.

He was a Navy veteran of the Korean War, receiving medals for good conduct, national defense and for service in China and Korea.

He was a technician for the A and H Co., Quincy for 11 years.

Born in Deering, N. H., Mr. Bomar lived in Missouri before moving to Quincy 22 years ago.

Mr. Bomar was a former leader of Boy Scout Troop 26, and a coach for Quincy Youth Hockey Association.

He was a member of Braintree Golf Club and the George F. Bryan Veterans of Foreign Wars Post.

He is survived by his wife Helen C. (Macaulay) Bomar of Quincy, a son, William E.

Mary C. Schaeztl, 92

A funeral Mass for Mary C. (Brack) Schaeztl, 92, of Quincy, was celebrated Wednesday morning at Holy Trinity Church in Boston.

Mrs. Schaeztl died Sunday at Faulker Hospital, Boston, after a long illness.

She was a former employee at Long Jewelers in Boston.

Mrs. Schaeztl was born and educated in Boston. She moved to Quincy 40 years ago.

She was a former member of the Ladies Sodality of Holy Trinity Church, Boston.

Wife of the late Fred Schaeztl and sister of the late Frank X. Brack, she is survived by a nephew and two nieces.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave. Burial was in New Calvary Cemetery.

Relief Programs To Aid Victims

announced by the mayor. The program, a result of negotiations held by McCauley and South Shore Bank, will offer $5 million in low interest loans to Quincy homeowners seeking funds to repair damaged property.

"I am very appreciative of the help given by South Shore Bank," the mayor said.

The loan package offers an interest rate of 9.75 per cent for terms up to five years or a 10.5 per cent interest rate for terms over five years and up to 10 years. No fees will be charged, and 24-hour approval are also available.

Residents may complete applications at South Shore Bank offices in Quincy Center from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday. The Wollaston office will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday and from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Wednesday and Friday. The North Quincy office will be open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Thursday from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The program will be available through Aug. 31.

The mayor also announced that additional rubbish pickups in flood-affected areas would be conducted during the afternoons this week.

Trash trucks will come around again after their regular routes until all damaged property is removed.

In addition, the mayor said lime was made available for pick-up by residents affected by the flood in three areas Wednesday morning.

Distribution was set up at Ballou St., Sheldon Rd. and O'Rourke playground.

Colton, who was on hand during the emergency situation, said the frequent downpours caused an already high Furnace Brook to overflow its basin. Several streets in West Quincy, such as Alrick Rd., as well as other sections of the city, were virtual riverways as storm drains were unable to handle thousands of gallons of water.

Hundreds of backyards and homes were flooded with up to nine feet of water.

"The amount of water that fell on this city was unbelievable," said Anthony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy's Civil Defense Department.

"The deluge we received here, no storm drains could have handled it," he said.

Colton said it was the worst flooding in the city since the coastal flood in January, 1987.

Siciliano estimated there was five to six feet of water in some streets while basement water ranged from three to almost nine feet.

Officials were forced to turn off electricity in 50 homes for safety reasons. Colton said some homes lost power for four to six days. McCauley said six homes were still without power as of Tuesday. He said power would be restored once repairs have been made and properly inspected, probably by Wednesday.

About 75 DPW workers, as well as 60 civil defense volunteers, manned with pumps and flood equipment, worked around the clock bailing out residents. Sewer, water and drain personnel also assisted.

Siciliano said emergency personnel rescued people, evaluated property damage and assisted pumping operations.

Shortly after assistance began, Siciliano said help from the state DPW and the Massachusetts Civil Defense Agency was called in.

"We knew Wednesday afternoon that we didn't have the capabilities to do the job," he added.

There are 10 pumping crews in Quincy, Siciliano said.

The city's pumps can handle 360 gallons of water per minute. The state's pumps, with six-inch hoses, can pump between 500 and 1000 gallons per minute.

Wednesday's flood marked one first for Siciliano, who has battled many disasters during his 20-year tenure with the city's Civil Defense.

"This was the first time that I could say I was flooded out of my training room" (at Civil Defense headquarters on Sea St.), he said.

McCauley said he was pleased with the emergency effort administered by the city's personnel.

"Overall, everyone performed pretty well. I'm satisfied that we did a good job," he said.

THOUSANDS OF GALLONS of water were pumped out of yards and cellars like these on Joyce Rd. in West Quincy after last week's torrential downpours flooded several city neighborhoods causing an estimated $500,000 in damage.

Harbor Pollution Topic For QCA

Quincy's harbor pollution problem and threats posed from overdevelopment were to be discussed during a meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association at the Montclair Men's Club last night (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. Clara Yeomans, first secretary of the Quincy Conservation Commission, will be the special guest.

She will discuss the problems with which Quincy residents have been "apathetic for too long," according to QCA President Arthur M. Chandler and Secretary Dorothy C. Kelly.

QCA members and interested Quincy voters are invited to attend.

City To Take Legal Action On Delinquent Tax Bills

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The city is preparing to take foreclosure action on approximately 125 delinquent real estate tax titles if the taxes totalling about $140,000 are not paid.

The deadline to pay 1987 outstanding real estate bills is Thursday, Aug. 25 at 10 a.m., said Dana Childs, the city's tax collector and treasurer. Once the deadline passes, the city can take the first legal step toward foreclosure, Childs said.

"The next step is the actual taking of tax titles. From there, the foreclosure process begins at land court (in Dedham)," Childs said.

"We have had some foreclosures (in the past)," he added.

The real estate tax titles range from homes and businesses to vacant lots and "some that are balances left when the taxpayer paid the original bill late," Childs said.

A complete list of 1987 outstanding real estate tax titles is in the legal advertisement section in this issue of The Quincy Sun.

The real estate tax payment notice procedure is a multi-step process.

First, the formal bill is mailed out. If left unpaid, a second notice, or a demand, is sent out which adds a $5 charge and 14 per cent accrued interest to the original bill.

Next, a final notice is mailed to delinquent taxpayers. This notice has no additional fee but includes the demand charge and additional interest.

Advertising of delinquent taxpayers follows stating the official deadline for tax payment. After the deadline, foreclosure can begin.

In addition, Childs said late taxpayers can avoid foreclosure by paying their bills as soon as possible. He said a fee would be assessed to those who pay after the Aug. 25 deadline.

Furthermore, interest on tax bills increases after the deadline, from 14 to 16 per cent.

Childs said he is hoping the 1987 delinquent real estate taxpayers come forward with payment so that he can begin the 1988 outstanding bills.

He said 1988 demands were sent out on July 29 and the final notice is expected to go out in September.

Childs estimated about 1500 bills for 1988 are out on demand, totalling $2.3 million or four percent in outstanding real estate revenue.

Presently, the city has collected 95 percent of the $54 million in real estate taxes for 1988.

Childs said the frequent notices and advertising help the city's collection efforts.

"The sooner you send out a notice, the better the response. The sooner you can start the collection process, the better off you are," Childs said.

Drainage May Need Drastic Overhaul

Quincy's drainage system may require a drastic overhaul which would most likely be expensive to ensure the city against another flooding problem, according to state representative candidate Stephen Durkin.

In a letter sent to Mayor Francis X. McCauley and M.D.C. Commissioner William Geary, Durkin cited the understandable problems caused by the unusually heavy rainfall, but also said most of the flooding could have been prevented.

"It is clear that flooding conditions were exacerbated by clogged drains, by a poorly functioning pump on Connell St., by the fact that Furnace Brook is clogged with branches, silt and debris, and by poorly functioning floodgates," the letter said.

Durkin also wrote there were not nearly enough water pumps; to deal with the flooding; and that the Civil Defense, the City Public Works Department, and the Fire Department should have enough pumps on hand.

"A long-term plan must be devised and implemented which will deal effectively with the issue of an antiquated and overburdened drainage system resulting from the combined problems of lack of maintenance and overdevelopment," wrote Durkin. "Quincy residents in affected areas have a right to expect that long overdue improvements be made to prevent future flooding disasters."

Presidential Honors

If Michael Dukakis makes it all the way, Quincy will have to share some of its Presidential birthplace honors with Brookline.

Dukakis, of course, would be the second President born in Brookline.
The first: John F. Kennedy.

Quincy and Brookline would then be the only two communities in the country's history where two Presidents were born.

Quincy's born, of course, were John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

But even if Dukakis is elected, Quincy would still have it over Brookline in the Presidential honors department.

John and John Quincy Adams will still be the only father-son Presidents in the nation's history.

And Quincy will still be the only community you can still visit and see the birthplaces of two Presidents side by side.

And the only place you can see the tombs of two Presidents side by side along with their wives.

But regardless of whether Dukakis or George Bush wins in November, Norfolk County will get another feather in its Presidential cap.

Bush was born in Milton although neither he nor that town has made much about it.

So, whether Bush or Dukakis wins in November,
Norfolk County will get to claim another President.
That will make four.

Can any county anywhere top that?

AND, ISN'T THIS the first Presidential election with the two contenders native sons of the same state?

Wayne McNeil In West Germany

Army Spec. Wayne
McNeil, son of Marilyn J.

Seaver of Quincy, has arrived for duty in West Germany.

McNeil is an ammunition specialist with the 191st Ordnance Battalion.

He is a 1981 graduate of Hobbs High School.

"Why don't you play on the grass like the golfers on television do?"

MASSACHUSETTS is expected to line up with native son Dukakis but there are some voters out there -- including Democrats -- who are saying "no way."

"We're doing very well in Massachusetts," says Ron Kaufman, former familiar Quincy political
Regional Director for the George Bush campaign.

"I'm surprised at the number of Massachusetts people who say they are not going to vote for Dukakis," Kaufman predicts Massachusetts will have a Republican governor elected in 1990 regardless of how Dukakis fares this year.

Kaufman, a close friend of City Councillor James Sheets, campaigned for Bush eight years ago when the latter lost the nomination to Ronald Reagan.

He is the brother-in-law of former State Rep. Andy Card who also campaigned for Bush and is now an assistant to Reagan at the White House. Kaufman is married to Card's sister, Allison.

CITY COUNCILOR Steve McGrath will celebrate his 35th birthday at a $35 per ticket party fundraiser
Thursday, Aug. 18 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Squantum
Yacht Club. Tickets may be obtained by calling Anna Prall, 773-3877. They will also be available at the door.

McGrath, incidentally, isn't saying whether the fundraiser is for a mayoral or re-election campaign this year.

A RECEPTION FOR Mary Collins, candidate for Norfolk County Commissioner, is being hosted by the Jack Conway Company Thursday, Aug. 25 from 6 to 8 p.m. at its Quincy Center office, 26 Elm St.
Donation is $15.

Collins, in her 11th year as a member of the Quincy School Committee and her second term as vice chairwoman, is a licensed real estate broker for the Jack Conway Company.

KAI SPARGO of Sherman St., turns a young 80 today. And husband, Ed, former newspaper man who still likes to write, reveals Kai was born in "a most unlikely locale."

She was born, he says, on the exact site where the famed "Jury Box" (right field bleachers) at the old Boston Braves field was erected in 1914--just six years later.

Her father was greenskeeper at the Allston Golf Club when it was taken over to make way for Braves Field. As a "regular" at Braves games, he delighted in pointing to the bleachers and announcing, "That's where my daughter, Katherine, was born!"

A LONG TIME familiar Quincy city employee, Louis Caruso, recently retired after more than 30 years service.

Caruso worked some of those years in the Cemetery Department. Whenever he saw a familiar name on a gravestone he would give that grave a little special personal attention. Often times during lunch periods or even after working hours.

And how many remember that he ran for mayor in 1963? Others in that race: Amelio Della Chiesa (the winner), Charles Shea and Joseph May. Caruso finished third in that preliminary election.

Dorothy Quincy:

She Lived In A Challenging Era

This biography was compiled by the members of Alpha Delta Kappa International Sorority for Women Educators, XI Chapter, Quincy, in recognition of the varied contributions of Quincy women over the last 200 years.

In Quincy, you can visit the Dorothy Quincy Homestead and The Adams Academy, built on the site where John Hancock was born.

Dorothy was born in Quincy, on May 10, 1747. However, then it was not called Quincy, but was a section of Braintree.

Dorothy was a warm and friendly woman with both strength and charm. Her parents, Judge Edmund and Elizabeth Quincy gave Dorothy and her nine older brothers and sisters faith, moral values and educational stimulation.

She lived in a very challenging era. When she was a young woman of 21,

British troops began arriving in America, which was still an English Colony. These were days of making choices - times of decision. Some people adamantly favored the British and wanted America to remain safely England's colony. Others felt equally as strong about Americans ruling America and wanted to break away from England's laws and taxes, to forge a new country. Dorothy's father held the latter view. He was a patriot and a promoter of the revolution.

Because Dorothy loved being with people, she continued her humane work. She extended hospitality to those in health. And because she understood suffering, she was considerate to those who also suffered. Her table was always set with an extra plate - for anyone who might call. And the Governor's mansion was always a place where guests were made to feel welcome. Dorothy was described by her friends, as having "delightful powers of conversation."

In 1793 John Hancock died. He lay in state for eight days. Citizens came from everywhere to pay him tribute because of their love and respect.

After her husband's death, Dorothy found much pleasure in the presence of her nieces and great nieces. Her home continued to be open to her friends.

Becoming closer to her husband's trusted adviser, Captain James Scott, she married again in 1796. After 13 years together, Captain Scott died in 1809. Dorothy then spent much of her time with relatives and friends, reminiscing about many of her life's experiences. And they rejoined together in the growth and prosperity of their country. Dorothy Quincy had an unending memory of the heroic past in which she lived. In 1830, at the age of 83, she died.

She is remembered today, as an important woman in the history of our country.

Quincy's Yesterdays

City Whoops It Up On V-J Day

Official Quincy was shut down for two days in response to President Truman's call for a holiday observance of V-J Day, marking the end of three and a half years of war against Japan in the Pacific.

Church bells pealed, cars with honking horns jammed Quincy Square, City Hall and the Fore River Shipyard closed down for two days and City Councillor Carl Anderson and Guy Faiella organized an impromptu parade in Quincy Point.

A few barrooms were closed after the celebration erupted into fist fights and eight persons were treated at City Hospital for holiday mishaps but Quincy residents generally behaved themselves during the holiday.

"Never before has Quincy seen such spontaneous enthusiasm with so little vandalism," said Police Capt. George W. Fallon.

Perhaps the feeling in Quincy was best expressed by Bruno Ranieri, a Quincy Point grocer and veteran of World War I, when he said, "Very nice. It means my two sons will be coming home."

The three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Whitman of 56 West Elm Ave., Wollaston, already were home, to the surprise and delight of their parents.

Cpl. H. Rowan, 24, Cpl. William H., 21, and Seaman Vernon C., 20 sat down to family dinner together with mother, father and sister Alice, for the first time since June 3, 1942.

Meanwhile, the Navy Department ordered work on the heavy cruisers USS Northampton, Cambridge, Bridgeport and Kansas city halted at the Bethlehem Fore River Shipyard where they were calculated to be from 21 to 54 percent completed.

"The immediate effect in the next month or two will be relatively minor with the exception of the structural trades," said William H. Collins, who was in charge of Bethlehem's Boston district. Some 20,000 men were working at the Yard.

The Mathewson Machine Works in North Quincy laid off about 200 of the 350 men working in its shops due to the cancellations of war contracts to build outboard motors for the Navy's landing craft.

Special Anniversary Issue Sept. 28

We're Celebrating Our 20th Year!

The Quincy Sun will be 20 years old in September and we are celebrating with a special anniversary issue Sept. 28.

The top Quincy news stories and photos of the past two decades will be highlighted in this nostalgic special issue.

Come back to 1968 when some of your favorite political figures sported crewcuts, the MBTA's Red Line was coming to Quincy, James McIntyre was mayor and senator, the average family income was $11,000, there were 8,000 workers at the General Dynamics Shipyard and the future was looking mighty bright. And you could still buy a pretty good house for $25,000.

Watch for this

Marie's Kitchen

By MARIE J. D'OLIMPIO

Chicken With Spinach Pasta

Anne Marie's Family Favorite

Every once in a while I do allow someone else "kitchen privileges." And so it was one night when my husband and I were invited out to dinner. Our daughter Anne Marie and husband Dave are staying with us while their home is under construction, so that night she prepared her family's favorite entree. She left a little side dish for us to taste and today I share that recipe with all of you.

CHICKEN WITH SPINACH PASTA

1 Lb. boneless chicken cut in pieces
1/2 head of broccoli
10 fresh mushrooms
2 Tbsps soy sauce
2-3 Tbsps olive oil
(or mixture of vegetable and olive oil)

2-3 cloves garlic butter grated cheese
1 Lb. spinach noodles

Cut the broccoli into florets. (You can also purchase the broccoli all prepared this way.) Slice the mushrooms and cut the chicken in pieces. In the hot oil, saute the garlic, the chicken and the uncooked broccoli, stirring for a few minutes. Add the raw mushrooms and the soy sauce and cook until done. (Takes about 20 minutes). While this is cooking, boil the water for the spinach pasta. Put the mixture over the pasta with a slab of butter and grated cheese. (If, during the cooking process, the chicken, etc., looks dry, add a smidgen of water).

Foster Homes Sought By Children's Association

New foster homes in the Quincy community are being sought by the Boston Children's Service Association.

"Providing foster care to developmentally delayed children and adults is an activity that benefits not only the foster client and foster care providers, but also the foster care provider's family and community," says Al Weiss, recruitment coordinator for the Specialized Home Care Program of BCSEA.

To be eligible to provide this foster care, the person must be at least 21, have his or her own apartment or home, attend an informational session, and successfully complete both a home study carried out by a social worker, and a ten-session training program.

Those who successfully complete these steps are certified. They are then matched with up to four developmentally delayed children or adults (most families have one or two).

A care provider is paid $174 per week per client, and is given money to cover various client-related expenses.

Care providers attend a monthly meeting at which they exchange ideas with other providers, give one another emotional support, and hear speakers. They are considered an integral part of a professional service team. Two weeks of paid vacation are provided.

Those interested in learning more about Boston Children's Service Association's Specialized Home Care Program may call Al Weiss at 267-3700.

Morrissey Seeks Timetable For Furnace Brook Flooding Area Corrections

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) has contacted Jane Garvey, Massachusetts Commissioner of Public Works, requesting a meeting to address the timetable to correct the flooding Furnace Brook area of West Quincy.

The state legislature recently budgeted $8 million to correct the drainage-related problems in the area of the expressway and the Furnace Brook.

Morrissey said, "We have been trying to fund this project for a number of years. I think it is long overdue. There is a detailed study of the flooding problems that the state D.P.W. will use in correcting the problem."

The $8 million was part of a transportation bond issue that was passed in April. It provides funding for various transportation projects throughout the state. Some of the projects are new, while others are in the form of repair or modernization of older transportation systems.

The funding for the Furnace Brook Project is possible through the transportation bond issue because it impacts transportation to and from the South Shore, as was demonstrated by last week's rain storm. The funding was in jeopardy on several occasions before the bond issue was actually signed. It was necessary to amend the house version of the bond issue to ensure that the funding stayed in.

"I was pleased that the members of the legislature realize how important these funds are to the citizens of Quincy. I hope to report the timetable for the project very soon," added Morrissey.

SACRED HEART STUDENTS listen to a storytelling presentation by Betty Lehrman. The students were given the performance for their outstanding participation in the Multiple Sclerosis Read-A-Thon.

Sacred Heart School Wins MS Read-A-Thon Award

The Sacred Heart School in North Quincy was recently presented a Read-A-Thon Award of Excellence for outstanding participation in the 1987-88 Multiple Sclerosis Read-A-Thon.

As one of the top 20 schools from the 500 taking part in the program, the school received a special presentation from Betty Lehrman, a professional New England storyteller.

This spring, 136 students at the Sacred Heart School read 1,638 books and raised $2941 for MS research and patient care services for the 6,000 people with multiple sclerosis in Massachusetts.

The program was coordinated by Sister Ann Marie Ghilini, C.S.J., the school's principal.

Some of the top readers at Sacred Heart include William Norris, Lauren Luzzo, Ted McGillicuddy, Brendan Gibbons, Gordon Au and Amy Lyn Nelson.

Honorary chairman and Boston Red Sox third baseman Wade Boggs, whose sister has multiple sclerosis, congratulated Sacred Heart.

"Helping Ann is more important to me than baseball, and I especially want to thank all of the students and staff at the Sacred Heart School, and the New England storytellers and authors who have donated their talents to the winning schools. We need everyone in the fight against MS," Boggs said.

Sacred Heart students were delighted with Lehrman's storytelling presentation.

"Miss Lehrman's stories were captivating, exciting and even outrageous," said seventh grader Dennis Gibbons.

"She made all her stories seem so lifelike. As she told the story, I felt as if I were in it," said Kerry Fitzgerald, another seventh grader.

"Every word Betty Lehrman said was meaningful and enthusiastic. She made each story seem real," said seventh grade student Jacqueline O'Shea.

"Betty Lehrman was a magician. She made the scenery change from an auditorium to the countryside," said Michael McAdams, another seventh grader who watched the performance.

"She painted a picture, using words as brushes and paints. Her descriptions were amazing," noted seventh grader Patrick Donahue.

"Thanks to the students who participated in the MS Read-A-Thon, your contributions made Betty Lehrman's visit possible," said Terrence Manning, another seventh grader.

The MS Read-A-Thon is a program which encourages children to read for the needs of others by obtaining sponsors' pledges for each book or series of newspaper articles read during the four six weeks of the program.

The program is just one of the many charitable projects that Sacred Heart students participate in annually.

"The generosity of our students to the Quincy Crisis Center when they were in need of non-perishable food items, the Long Island Shelter for the Homeless, a mission in Peru, speaks of their care and concern for those in need," said Sister Ann Marie.

"We are proud indeed of the students and grateful to the parents and friends who have supported the students in their out-reach projects," she said.

'God And The Greenhouse Effect' Bethany Sermon Topic

This Sunday there will be one worship service at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The congregation will celebrate God's presence in the world and Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will preach the sermon, entitled "God And The Greenhouse Effect."

Bryant L. Carter Sr. will be the lay scripture reader.

Charles M. Brooks, guest organist, will be at the organ console. In addition, Lewann Semchenko, soprano soloist, will sing "Hear Ye" by Mendelssohn and "Soft Were Your Hands, Dear Jesus" by Geoffrey O'Hara. Nursery care for babies and toddlers will be provided by members of the church.

A fellowship hour follows the worship service, and you are cordially invited to come and share in both the worship and the fellowship.

The service is broadcast live at 10 a.m. over WJLA. A cassette tape of the worship is also available for $2 by contacting the church office at 479-7300.

For any other questions regarding Bethany's worship or work contact the church office from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Registration Month At United First Parish Church School

September is registration month at United First Parish Unitarian Church School, Quincy Center.

A registration table, with the 1988-89 Church School Prospectus and various informational materials, will be set up in the parish hall every Sunday after services, from 11:30 a.m. - noon, beginning Sept. 11. Anita Savelle, chairperson of the Religious Education Committee, will be on hand to answer questions.

This year's program will include arts, crafts, and stories for the nursery class, "Holidays and Holy Days," a curriculum that acquaints children with world religions and cultures, for Level 1 (grades 1-3) and Level 2 (grades 4-6), and "How Can I Know What to Believe?" for the Youth Group.

In addition, United First Parish has a Youth Choir that performs throughout the year, a Junior and Senior Youth Group that meet for social events and service projects, and various church school activities such as seasonal parties, sleepovers and picnics.

For more information, contact Brenda Chin (479-1577) after Sept. 1, the church office (773-1290).

Guest Ministers At Houghs Neck Congregational

Guest ministers will preach at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church at 9:30 a.m. Sunday morning worship services during August.

Toland Says Pre-Primary Debate Should Be For Democrats

Patricia Toland, a candidate for state representative in the Second Norfolk District, has notified Continental Cable that she is "agreeable" to a live candidates' forum for Thursday, Sept. 8 at 7:30 p.m., one week prior to the state primary.

In a letter to fellow candidate Arthur Stephen Tobin, Toland said the debate should include only Democrats, adding that any debate with the Republican nominee should take place after the Sept. 15 primary.

"Since our state constitution provides for both a Democratic and Republican primary, I think it is clear that any debate with the Republican nominee should take place after the primary, when standard bearers of both parties have been nominated," Toland said.

"That is the appropriate time for Democrats to challenge Republicans. Both tradition and logic dictate that each party agree on its own nominee before engaging in debate with the opposing party," she added.

Earlier, Toland had challenged Tobin and another Democratic candidate, Steve Durkin, to a debate. Tobin then wrote Toland stating any debate should include both the Democratic and Republican contenders.

Durkin has accepted the debate challenge. The Republican candidates are Richard Harris and Denis Tardo.

The preliminary meeting for the debate is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 11. At that time, format discussion will take place.

In summation, Toland wrote, "I would like to reiterate that I believe the public at large is entitled to a full, fair and wide-ranging discussion of issues and views that are often not elicited in a door-to-door visit, however well-received."

"Further, I believe that a true debate format is the ideal context in which the candidates and their positions may best be judged," she said.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

LET'S DEVELOP EMPATHY. "Empathy" is the ability to put ourselves in the other person's place and have some understanding of their situation.

A little girl was late returning from school. Her mother asked the reason for her delay. The little girl explained that a playmate had broken her doll and she had stopped to help her. The mother, wondering how her daughter could fix the little friend's doll, asked how she helped and her daughter replied, "I sat down and helped her cry."

As we go through life many of us have been placed in situations where we could find no words to express comfort and encouragement. All we could do is to help them cry.

In this needy world, wouldn't today be a good day to show empathy toward those who are less fortunate? It is a mistaken idea that everyone has an equal chance in this life and if they do not make it, it is their own fault. The person who will reach out to someone else will discover a satisfaction that only empathy can bring.

Harris Urges Legislature Reconvene To Override Dukakis Local Aid Veto

Richard A. Harris, Republican candidate for state representative in the second Norfolk District has written to House Speaker George Kevarian urging him to reconvene the legislature to override Governor Dukakis' veto of local aid from lottery revenues.

"I am hoping that representatives Morrissey and Cerasoli will join me in my effort to overturn this disastrous piece of legislation," Harris said.

"To my horror, I discovered that, as of Aug. 4, neither had signed the override petition."

"I reminded Speaker Kevarian that many of the older cities in the Commonwealth, Quincy among them, are struggling to provide basic services already. The loss of over $1 million in local aid for Quincy would surely cause further cutbacks, and this will impact most directly upon the poor, the elderly and other living on fixed incomes."

"Once again, the Democratic majority in the House and General Court has resorted to the political expediency which they have practiced so masterfully for these many years. The only thing the citizens of Quincy need is to elect another 'old boy' whose intention is to go along to get along. We need someone whose definition of public service goes beyond the desire to ingratiate himself with those in leadership positions."

"The voters of Quincy should contact Representatives Morrissey and Cerasoli and let them know that they are alarmed at the prospect of losing this lucrative source of local aid. If we miss this opportunity to force the legislature to act responsibly, I fear we will all come to regret it."

Vo-Tech Steering Committee Formed

A steering committee has been formed at Quincy High School Quincy Vocational Technical School for the purpose of planning for the New England Association of Secondary Schools (NEASS) evaluation scheduled for the spring of 1990.

Co-chairmen are Assistant Director Charles Baillargeon and Assistant Principal George Yezukevich. Participating members are Richard Haines, head guidance counselor (QVTS), Edward Nankin, head guidance counselor (QHS), Martha Brennan, special needs teacher (QVTS), Patricia Herbert, English Dept. (QHS), Joan Innis, Social Studies Department (QHS), and Mary Lou Petrelli, Chapter I Reading Specialist. Baillargeon and Yezukevich, Quincy High Principal Lloyd Hill, and Quincy Vocational Technical Director Joseph Mazzarella attended a recent study seminar at Foxborough High School, which provided them with an overview for planning for the visitation committee.

Work will begin by the school's faculty, students and parents in September, after Labor Day.

Tardo Endorsed By Capitol Police

Republican state representative candidate Denis Tardo was endorsed by the Massachusetts Capitol Police at a campaign birthday fundraiser held Monday at the Quincy Sons of Italy social center.

The endorsement was delivered by union vice president Donald Ventura.

Ventura said, "Mr. Tardo has always held an interest for the public safety of the people, he is willing to help. Mr. Tardo is sincere and has the ability to represent the people of Quincy."

"He can provide the leadership necessary to effectively represent you on Beacon Hill," Ventura said. Tardo said, "A public safety endorsement is especially gratifying because my interests in crime goes beyond the common hand-wagon of drugs.

"Criminals should be punished, if someone violates the law, action must be taken," he said.

"We cannot let child molesters, rapists, robbers and murderers control our society. The state is obligated to represent these criminals while hard working men and women, you and I, have no representation at the state house," Tardo said.

On the subject of debates, Tardo said, "I have answered all requests in the affirmative. I do not have to discuss when, where or who to debate."

"I have been discussing and debating the issues long before I became a candidate for state representative," he said.

Large Boats Turnout For QBRW

By TOM SULLIVAN

The 51st edition of Quincy Bay Race Week is under way.

Race Week Association president Bill Wilder of the Wollaston Yacht Club and vice president Ted Johnson of Quincy Yacht Club expect at least as many boats as competed last year.

"We had the largest number of boats in some time last year on our 50th anniversary and I feel we will have as many this year," said Johnson. "Everything was perfect last year and the conditions were excellent with perfect winds, especially in the first four days."

The only races cancelled were the inside races on the final day as the weather conditions were the best in years.

"We are hoping the weather will be as good this year," Johnson said. "We have had some poor conditions in the past but last year was just great."

"There have been lulls through the years when the number of boats dropped, but things have started to pick up again during the past few years and I expect the interest to keep picking up."

In 1970 a record total of 1870 boats took part in the competition. It is not expected that this record will be equalled.

Last year's Marine parade was the most colorful in years.

There weren't quite as many boats as the committee had hoped for, but there were some beautifully decorated boats.

Al Shaughnessy stepped down after last year's parade as parade marshal after many years. Bernie Reisberg, a longtime member of the Race Week committee and Race Week president in 1978, has succeeded him.

Also retiring after last year's races was Ray Regan, who had been chairman of the outside line committee for 18 years.

Replacing Regan, who received high praise from last year's Race Week president, Sal Gallinaro, is Norman McCormick.

The Quincy Bay Race Week Association was formed in 1937 with the Quincy, Squantum and Wollaston Yacht Clubs the original members.

The first Race Week was held in July of 1938 when 29 classes of boats competed in the racing program.

The regatta was so successful that plans were made immediately for a bigger Race Week the following year.

Later the Town River, Wessagussett, Braintree, South Shore and Metropolitan clubs joined and those eight clubs currently make up the Race Week Association.

Marblehead Race Week had been the main attraction in interclub sailboat racing for years and Quincy Bay Race Week has grown steadily until it is now challenging Marblehead as the most popular race week in the area. Juniors are the backbone of Race Week. There were no junior sailing programs when Race Week was in its infancy. Now all clubs have outstanding junior programs. Town River has a particularly excellent program with more than 80 young people involved.

All clubs in the association donate and participate in the racing. Any money raised during the year is spent in one year, most going for trophies.

To keep Race Week in the forefront every year, the association enters a float in the annual Quincy Christmas parade. Two years ago the association won the Mayor's Trophy.

"The weather is always a major concern during Race Week and races can be cancelled due to no wind and also because of too much wind," Johnson said.

A year's work is ruined if there are ever five days of bad weather. As soon as the association gets through with the races and trophy night, it starts plans for the next year. It is a 12-month project.

Trophy Day this year will be Sunday, Oct. 16, at the Quincy Yacht Club at 3 p.m.

Germantown Gals Hope To Repeat

The Germantown Yacht Club, an all-female club, won first prize for the best decorated boat in the annual Marine parade last year.

Wessagussett Yacht Club took second prize and Town River third.

Town River again had the most boats with Braintree second and Braintree had the most original boat.

Trophies Lure Sailors Of All Ages

Hundreds of sailors—men, women, boys and girls—will compete for several handsome trophies this week during the 51st edition of Quincy Bay Race Week.

They include:

The Capt. James Berwick Finlay Memorial Trophy: Presented to the Quincy Yacht Club in 1948 by Albert W. Finlay, his father, for competition during Race Week. Presented in loving memory of a son who during his lifetime did much to advance the sport of yachting on Massachusetts Bay. The trophy is presented annually to the yachtsman considered to have made the most outstanding record or to have performed some single act of sportsmanship during Race Week.

The Fred Hunt Memorial Trophy: A perpetual trophy presented annually since 1966 by the Patriot Ledger in memory of the man who served the newspaper for more than three decades as a yachting writer and the yachting editor. A deep water sailor and a racing enthusiast, Hunt played a major role in the success and growth of Quincy Bay Race Week and the sport itself.

This trophy is awarded annually to a person who had demonstrated a high degree of sportsmanship and a willingness to help others in the advancement of the yacht racing sport and who has contributed to the success of Race Week. The trophy is held until the succeeding Race Week by the home club of the winner, who is awarded a keeper trophy for his permanent possession.

The Reynolds Memorial Trophy: A perpetual trophy presented to the QBRWA in 1966 by the family of John Reynolds, a long and loyal supporter of and member of the Quincy Yacht Club.

The trophy is to be awarded annually to the winner of the 1988 Race Week trophy.

The trophy is to be awarded annually to the winner of the 1988 Race Week trophy.

WJDA to demonstrate its interest in Race Week and to aid in the stimulation of racing interest among the junior class.

This trophy is awarded annually to the winning skipper in the Turnabout Class and becomes his permanent possession.

Commodore Isadore Bromfield Trophy: Presented in 1976 to the QBRWA by the Metropolitan Yacht Club. The trophy is awarded annually to the Race Week winner according to the deed of gift. The winner is presented an engraved keeper trophy for his permanent possession.

Commodore Charles Wing Memorial Trophy: Presented to the QBRWA in 1981 by his friends and family as a perpetual trophy to be awarded annually to the winner of the Red Fleet on Town River Yacht Club's Day of Race Week.

City of Boston Bermuda Cup: This beautiful and historic silver punch bowl has been in the custody of the Quincy Y.C. for over 50 years. It was presented by the city of Boston around 1905 for a yacht race from Boston to Bermuda.

This race was never held and in 1911 the city again put the cup up for an ocean race to be held on Labor Day 1911 to become the permanent possession of the winner. The race was won by Hollis Burgess, Quincy Y.C. member in his sloop Marie J.

Mr. Burgess generously made the Quincy Y.C. trustee of the cup which was to be placed in annual competition as a perpetual trophy. In 1968, the QYC presented the trophy to the QBRWA for Race Week competition. This valuable trophy is to be presented to the annual winner to be held by him until the succeeding Race Week. The winner is to be presented with a trophy.

Harry Warner Memorial Trophy: Presented to the QBRWA in 1968 by the family of Harry Warner, a long and loyal supporter of and member of the Quincy Yacht Club.

The 1988 Quincy Bay Race Week trophy is to be awarded annually to the winner of the 1988 Race Week trophy.

Carleton Seeks 3rd Hustler Title

Dick Koch Memorial Softball Doubleheader Aug. 18

The first annual Dick Koch Memorial Muscular Dystrophy Softball Doubleheader, to be played Thursday, Aug. 18 at Adams Field in Quincy, will include many new faces as well as an added feature this year.

Last year's game, the 11th annual MDA benefit doubleheader, was dedicated in memory of Richard J. Koch Sr., who organized the special fundraising event.

Mr. Koch, who served with Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth as co-chairman of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon Committee for 11 years, died last August. The committee has raised more than $1 million.

Bosworth decided to rename the game in Koch's memory as a tribute to his hard work in making the game a continued success. With Mr. Koch's help and organization, the committee has raised more than $1 million to fight muscular dystrophy.

More than $15,000 has been raised in the MDA doubleheader to date.

This year's co-chairmen for the game are Thomas Koch, Quincy's Council on Aging Director, and Robert Bosworth, assistant editor of the Quincy Sun.

At least a dozen new players will take to the field for Jerry's Kids this year. Also, for the first time ever, Continental Cable television will tape the game and broadcast it in its entirety.

The first half of the double header features the Quincy Fire Department versus the Quincy Police Department at 6:30 p.m. The nightcap includes members of the City Officials slugging it out against the News Media All Stars at 8 p.m.

The Fire will be looking to rebound after last year's loss to the Police. The News Media will be trying to increase their series lead by two games. It now stands at 6-5.

In an effort to give their line-up more offensive punch, the City Officials have added several players. The entire line-up includes Robert Brennan, director of data processing, Kevin Shea, planning department, Larry Chretien, Ward 3 Councillor, Arthur Foley, mayor's administrative assistant David Kinnecom, traffic engineer, Thomas Koch, Council on Aging, Theodore DeCristolario, Ward 2 Councillor, Timothy Cahill, Councillor-at-large, Brian Buckley, Raymond Cattaneo, Park Department; Michael Shaheen, health department, Robert Foy, city auditor, Chuck Phelan, Ward 5 Councillor, Stephen Durkin, School Committee; Frank Santoro, School Committee; Dana Childs, treasurer-tax collector, Patricia Toland, councillor-at-large, and Mary Collins, vice chairman of school committee.

The city officials squad will be skippered by Peter Kenney, mayor's administrative secretary.

The News Media All Stars roster also features some key acquisitions. Managed by Henry Bosworth, the line-up includes: Herb Fontaine, John Nicholson, Ed Donahue, Sue Lyons, Brian Sullivan, Jay Asher, all of WJDA, Earl LaChance, Mark Knolton, Bill Ketter, Seth Livingstone and Eric Schwarz, of the Patriot Ledger, and Brian O'Neill, Robert Bosworth, Fred Happel, and Ben Harrison, all of The Quincy Sun.

Representatives from Continental Cable are also scheduled to play.

The Police and Fire rosters were unavailable at press time.

Tickets to the game are available at the Quincy Sun, City Hall and the Council on Aging office.

Bruins Help Cheer Jamie At Hospital

Jamie Boire, 11, of Quincy, who was involved in the auto accident that took the lives of his mother, Mary, and Raymond Ward recently in Hingham, is recovering at Mass. General Hospital from his injuries.

Jamie, who is scheduled to undergo surgery Friday, is in good spirits. His grandmother, Ida Boire, and aunt, Kathy Boire, along with his hockey coach, Bob Pirelli, have been at his side every day.

Jamie played with Quincy's Squirt C hockey team, had 24 goals last season and later played summer hockey at the Pilgrim Arena in Hingham.

He was expected to have

visits from Bobby Orr, members of the Boston Bruins and Sen. Paul Harold this week. Harold was sponsor of Jamie's first team and used to sit on the bench with the players during games.

General manager Harry Sinden of the Bruins sent a hockey stick autographed by the players and it is hanging over his bed, as Jamie requested.

He is receiving incoming calls in his room daily from family, friends and his teammates. Visiting hours are 1 to 8 p.m. daily at the Vincent Burnham Building, fourth floor, room 405D. The phone number is 726-4893. Cards can be sent to Jamie Boire, MGH, Vincent Burnham Building, room 405D, Boston 02114.

A trust fund has been set up and those who wish can contribute to the Jamie Boire Fund, Quincy Savings Bank, Quincy 02169.

• Babe Ruth League

Bryan Upsets Houghs Neck

Bryan Post continued its red hot pace in the Quincy Babe Ruth League by upsetting Houghs Neck in two straight playoff games, 2-0 and 15-6.

Bryan is facing Local 1139, winner over Bank of New England, this week for the city championship.

Bryan, in winning its 16th game in the last 17, had finished second to Houghs Neck in the American League Local 1139 had finished first in the National League.

Michael Malvesti pitched a two-hitter, struck out five and walked only one in the first win over Houghs Neck.

Bryan jumped off to a quick 1-0 lead in the first when Rob Kane singled, stole second and scored all the way from second on Steven Loud's perfect squeeze bunt.

In the sixth Malvesti gave himself a little breathing room with a long opposite-field home run. Kevin Mullay followed with a double but was left stranded.

Steven Waas had a fine game at shortstop and right fielder Tom Nutley made two outstanding plays in the final inning to preserve the victory.

For Houghs Neck Sal Manganaro had two singles and Chad McMahon pitched an excellent game, allowing only three hits and striking out eight.

Bryan's Don Anderson propelled the team into the city championship series with an excellent performance in the second game.

He pitched five innings of shutout relief, allowing just one infield hit and striking out five. He also had three extra base hits, four RBI and scored three runs.

Bryan pounded out 17 hits and played strong defense.

Houghs Neck scored three runs in the top of the first with Garrett Butkess having the key hit.

Bryan came back with five in the bottom of the first as Kane, Loud (three hits) and Mark Kelleher (three hits) singled and all scored on Anderson's triple. Anderson scored on Mullay's single and Nutley tripled Mullay home.

HN took a 6-5 lead in the second with Jim Gately, McMahon and Bill Campell all singling and Manganaro tripling.

Bryan scored twice in the fourth when Kane singled, stole second. Kelleher reached on an error and Waas singled.

Anderson drove in a run with a double in the fifth to put Bryan up, 8-6, and Bryan exploded for seven runs in the sixth. Kelleher and Anderson tripled, Mullay doubled and Nutley, Chris Stenmon, Loud and Kelleher singled.

Kelleher did an excellent job catching, working well with his pitchers. Nutley had another excellent game in right field and Paul Murphy, Jerry Sheehan and Philip Bell had fine games.

Morrisette Baseball Banquet Set For Aug. 29

Former Morrisette shortstop Paul Messina will be the speaker at the annual Morrisette Legion baseball banquet Monday, Aug. 29, at 7:30 at the Morrisette Post.

Messina, a graduate of Abp. Williams High, attended St. Anselm's College and was the only player to play four years in two varsity sports, baseball and hockey.

Awards will be made to the players and there will be a catered dinner by Basile Caterers.

Tickets are $12 each and all returns should be made to Frank Osborne, 98 Gilbert St., Quincy on or before Wednesday, Aug. 24. Checks should be made payable to Morrisette Baseball.

Everyone is welcome to attend the banquet and anyone wishing to purchase more tickets or if anyone knows of persons who would like to purchase tickets are asked to call Osborne at 773-5436.

The Morrisette team enjoyed another successful season, finishing second in Zone 6 with a 12-4 record, but losing in two straight games to Milton in the zone playoffs.

19th Fallon Cup Tourney At Wollaston Aug. 24-28

The 49th annual Fallon Cup Member Guest Tournament at Wollaston Golf Club in Milton will be held Aug. 24-28.

Qualifying rounds for the 96 match play spots will be Wednesday, Aug. 24 and Thursday, Aug. 25. Match play in the championship and five other flights of 16 teams opens Friday, Aug. 26 and continues through Sunday, Aug. 28 with semi-finals and finals in all flights the final day.

A large committee headed by John J. Davis is working with the Wollaston Golf Club to make the event an outstanding one.

The first Fallon Cup was held in 1938 when it began as a member-member four ball. Over 48 years the tournament has become rich in history, steeped in tradition and recognized as one of the most prestigious member-guest tournaments in New England.

Participating in the Fallon Cup over the years have been many Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine and other state amateur champions such as Wollaston's 1971 Eddie Jones, Tommie J. LaBelle, Dick Sidoti, Jr., Ed Bishop, Bruce Douglas, Ed Mallon, Bruce Douglas, Ed Barry, Warren Libberts, Arthur Benis, Tom McDermott, Jr., Ray LaBelle, Ed Connell.

Many other fine New England amateurs have played in the Fallon Cup, too numerous to mention. Entries received to date indicate an outstanding field will once again be vying for honors in the 1988 Fallon Cup.

For additional information call Ken Fallon, Jr. at 479-3560.

Carlton Wins Ladies Title At Ponkapoag

Nancy Carlton won the Ponkapoag Golf Club Ladies' Inner Club championship for the fifth time with Stephanie Rizza in second place.

The club's annual ladies' invitational tournament was held recently, a best-ball of two some event with members of several area clubs playing.

Brenda Austin and Pat Roderick won with a net 57, followed by Mary Michaels and Marianne Glynn, 60, Paula Grant and Sandy Keegan, Maureen Blaisdel and Dorothy Hydrun, Barbara Weiner and Mary Carhoun and Marilyn Robertson and Susan Martinelli, 62.

Nearest to the pin on the eighth hole were Marianna Alsbach in Div. A and Joan Morton in Div. B.

Longest drives on the sixth hole were by Marianne Alsbach in Div. A, Mona Main in Div. B and Renee Randozza in Div. C.

An awards luncheon was held following the tournament at Blue Hill Country Club when prizes were distributed.

Junior League

Keohane's Blanks Kiwanis For Title

Quincy Kiwanis Club coach, Guido Carrera, a fine going away present by defeating Kiwanis 3-0, and winning the Quincy Junior Baseball League championship.

Carrera is retiring after 30 years of coaching in the league.

Marc Thibeault pitched a one-hitter and struck out 11 in the championship victory.

Keohane's had won some exciting games down the stretch, overcoming a six-run deficit to defeat Gear and scoring five runs in the sixth inning to top VFW.

His 18-5 record was the best in the league.

Quincy Kiwanis Club members Doug Nolan, Marc Thibeault, Sean Nathan, Chris Gorman, Eric Conti, Dave Flaherty, Ron McGinn, Tom Meade, Scott Kelly, Bob Verney, Tom Sattkovich, Mike O'Brien, Jason Fennelly and Jeff Keddy.

Coaching the championship squad along with Carrera were Steve Thibeault and Ron McGinn.

Quincy All-Star Legion Team In Cranberry Tourney

Quincy Legion baseball coach Ed Spring has entered an all-star Legion team in the second annual Cranberry Tournament to be played at Adams Field beginning Friday night.

Spring believes he has a squad that will be able to compete because of an exceptional group that will be leaving Legion ball and going on to college.

"Most of these players will be playing either in the Cranberry or Boston Park League next year," said Spring. "Some could have played in those leagues this year but chose to finish up their Legion careers."

"This is an excellent opportunity for these boys to be showcased before they go on to their respective colleges and I hope to make this an annual event for Legion players."

Among the Quincy players on the all-star squad are Bob Higgins, Bill Mulhern, Jim Dennis, Sean Gately, Nick Dragone and Joe Taylor of Quincy Legion, Ed Flavin, Mike Mullaney and Ron Fletcher of Morrisette and Mark D. Mattio, Jay Ispasio, T.J. Steen, Chris Higgins and Rob Keddy of Wollaston. Also playing will be Kyle Robertson of Quincy and B.C. High.

Openings In Cheerleading Camp

Recreation Director Barry Welch announces there are limited openings in the department's Cheerleading Camp scheduled for Aug. 15-19.

The camp will be taught by Patti Myers, director and coach of the Quincy Point Panthers, Quincy Youth Football League, St. Josephs cheerleaders, and a competitive judge, Jean Feeney and Donna McDonald, advisors of cheerleading at St. Ann's.

School and regional competition judges.

Cheerleading Camp is open to girls ages 9-15. The camp is geared to beginner through intermediate cheerleaders. Particular emphasis will be placed on fundamental techniques, voice, partner stunts, mounts and dance routines for all cheerleading sports. In addition, new sideline and floor cheers will be taught.

The camp is one of the self-supporting summer programs of the Quincy Recreation Department and will be held at North Quincy High School gym, Aug. 15-19, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Cost is $20. Registration is conducted weekdays from 8:30 a.m. through 4:30 p.m. at 100 Southern Artery as long as openings still exist. Additional information can be obtained by calling the Recreation Office at 773-1380, ext. 204.

Six On Six Soccer Tourney Results

The Quincy Recreation Department held its annual Six on Six soccer championship at Russell Park.

In the Midget Division, a combined team from Beechwood Knoll and Welcome Young won by forfeit over Pollard.

In the Junior Division, Palmer Park defeated Fenno Street in a tight match with no team scoring in the first half. Fenno went on to win in the second half, behind the great offense of the Meade brothers, Chris and Jeff, each scoring a goal. Playing net for the 2-0 shut out was Brendan Ridge. Other players for Fenno were Mike Duffy, Matt Weston, Al Carthas, Rob Guarnieri, Tom Mead, Tony Licciardi and Danny Stone.

In the Senior Division, Faxon Park beat Forbes Hill in an exciting match. Forbes Hill was leading 2-0, in the first half over Faxon Park on goals from Ryan Bell and Jonathan Park. In the second half, Faxon Park continued to press and score twice, both by Derek Mooter, the second goal coming at the buzzer, tying the score at 2-2. In sudden death overtime, Tom Cunio scored the final goal to beat Forbes Hill, 3-2. Rob Churchill, Ed Cunio, Mike Sweney, and Charles Mawn all played well in the winning effort.

WEST OF THE MOON storytellers Ellen Block and Laura Pershin will appear at the Thomas Crane Library Aug. 16 at 7 p.m.

Storytellers At Library Aug. 16

West of the Moon, a storytelling duo, will appear in concert Tuesday, Aug. 16, at 7 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Library, Quincy Center.

This is the final program in the summer's six week storytelling series funded by the Quincy Arts Council. Children age five and older, with or without their families, are invited to attend. West of the Moon storytellers Ellen Block and Laura Pershin have performed at the Thomas Crane Public Library several times. Their repertoire includes folktales from around the world and tales of enchantment. They encourage audience participation by interweaving their performance with movement and rhythmic chants. They are also noted for their skillful use of Appalachian limericks. The colorful wooden dolls beat out a rhythm with their jointed limbs.

West of the Moon has performed extensively throughout New England at schools, libraries, museums and festivals. The two former children's librarians also conduct workshops for aspiring storytellers.

Festival Meeting

The Quincy Christmas Festival Committee will hold its only summer meeting Aug. 10 at 5 p.m. at the home of Remo DeNicola, 21 Burroughs Rd., Braintree.

Expected to attend are Mayor Francis McCauley and City Councilors Patricia Toland and Steven McGrath, according to Committee Chairman George F. White.

Meeting Here Aug. 17 To Help Keep Pilgrim Closed

Quincy residents concerned with the dangers of the Pilgrim nuclear power plant will meet Wednesday Aug. 17 at 7:30 p.m. at 77 Bigelow St. to kickoff a campaign to support Question 4, a citizen's initiative on the November ballot to keep Pilgrim shut.

The local campaign will be a part of the Massachusetts Citizens for Safe Energy, a coalition of state and local environmental and citizens groups working to pass the binding initiative question on this November's ballot. If passed, the initiative would keep Pilgrim closed and close the Yankee Rowe nuclear power plant in Western Massachusetts.

Set For Aug. 23

'Summit Meeting' On 4-Year Terms

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A mini-summit meeting between Mayor Francis McCauley and Rep. Robert Cerasoli is set for Tuesday, Aug. 23 regarding two pieces of legislation concerning Quincy in the House of Representatives.

The meeting, with local media present, will take place at 1 p.m. in the mayor's office.

McCauley and Cerasoli will discuss two home-rule petitions filed by the mayor which Cerasoli is opposed to.

One concerns four-year terms for mayor and city councilors and the other would return the position of executive secretary of park and forestry to a mayor's appointment from Civil Service.

Cerasoli, who does not support four-year terms, said his opposition to the petitions is "basically procedural." He said he does not think the state legislature should be used to implement changes in city government.

"They seem to want to use the legislature to get the petitions on the ballot. But we're really only giving people the chance to vote up or down."

"I don't think the legislature should be put in that position," Cerasoli said.

FRANCIS MCCAULEY

ROBERT CERASOLI

Both petitions have been passed by the Senate and need House approval and the Governor's signature before they can be put on the November ballot. Then Quincy voters would decide their fate.

The four-year term petition is McCauley's second attempt to increase the terms. After prior rejection several years ago, the City Council voted 5-4 to put it on the ballot.

The second petition would return the position of executive secretary of park and forestry to a mayor's appointment. The position is currently held by Raymond Cattaneo, who, according to McCauley, has no problems with the change.

Cattaneo would remain on if the petition is approved.

Office Building On ConCom Agenda Aug. 24

The Quincy Conservation Commission will hold a public hearing Aug. 24, 7:30 p.m., at City Hall.

Among the items on the agenda is a notice of intent filed by Condyne, Inc., to construct an office building at

226-248 Copeland St., 1253-1263 Furnace Brook

Parkway, and 27-01 Miller St.

Afterwards there will be a continued public hearing on the notice of intent filed by William Mather, 1-15 John St.

City To Purchase 6 New Flood Pumps

The city plans to purchase six additional flood pumps at a combined estimated cost of $7,000 to help the flood relief program in Quincy. Mayor Francis McCauley said Tuesday.

The decision to buy the pumps came during a 90 minute-meeting with several city officials last Thursday in the mayor's office. Among those present were Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Civil Defense; Jane Gallahue, commissioner of Public Health; Tom Purpura, vice inspector; and David Colton, deputy commissioner of Public Works.

The equipment, which will be put out to bid, will "beef up" the city's flood management and relief effort, McCauley said. "In a disaster, you can never have enough pumps but this will certainly help," McCauley said.

The pumps will come under the control of Siciliano, he added.

The mayor also announced that flood drains will be cleaned again. They are cleared of debris at least once a year, he said.

In addition, McCauley said two major projects designed to alleviate potential flooding problems are being planned.

Tardo To Protest Last Temptation Of Christ

"The Last Temptation of Christ," which has come under attack from religious and civic leaders all over the country, has lately come under attack from Denis Tardo, Republican candidate for state representative in the Second Norfolk District.

Tardo, who admits he has not seen the film, recently said he will protest its showing in and around Quincy.

"The movie goes beyond the limits of the First Amendment," he said. "It is a direct insult meant to offend the religious beliefs of Christian doctrine."

The movie, directed by Martin Scorsese, portrays Christ as a man with human shortcomings who at one time fantasizes having sex with Mary Magdalene.

It recently opened nationwide but has not opened in the Boston area.

Quincy Home To Be Learning Center For Deaf

Sharon Beaman, a deaf 35-year-old woman from Norton, recently purchased a house in Quincy in conjunction with her sister and brother-in-law.

The house, located on Wollaston Ave., will be rented out to On Our Way, Inc., a non-profit organization established in 1987 to provide an educational program in independent living skills for deaf adults.

Seven deaf men and women will reside in the Quincy house and receive daily training and practice in skills such as budgeting and money management, meal planning and preparation, use of public transportation, communication with deaf hearing people, human rights and how to acquire appropriate competitive employment.

Sharon has been employed by Work Inc. since 1981 after the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission provided her an opportunity for vocational training.

The ultimate goal of the On Our Way program is to assist each person to move into an apartment of his/her own and have competitive employment as a contributing member of society.

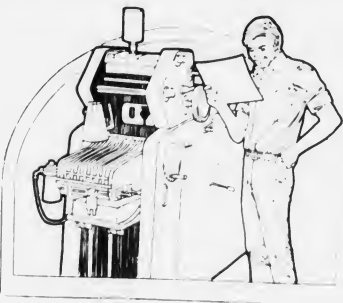

All clients of the program will work in the daytime and receive training evenings and weekends from professionals fluent in sign language and experienced in teaching independent living skills to the deaf.

Program funding has been raised from individual and corporate donations, grants and fundraising events. Anyone can become a member of On Our Way, making a small donation.

Those interested in more information, volunteering their help or making a contribution can call headquarters at (617) 251-7 or write On Our Way, Inc., 227 Dedham St., Norfolk, MA 02056.

DEQE Hindering Landfill Use Says McCauley

By CHRIS MAHONEY

Interim use of the Quincy Municipal Landfill in West Quincy is being hindered by lack of communication on the part of the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering, says Mayor Francis McCauley.

In a letter sent by McCauley to DEQE Commissioner Daniel S. Greenbaum, several instances of either a staggering bureaucracy or the department's concern with only "big" problems were cited.

The DEQE-DWPC has yet to act on an application filed by the city regarding discharging of collected leachate to the sewer because it is not to be discharged into the landfill.

No response was received on a proposed revision of present orders to allow Quincy to proceed in work on the landfill.

No response has been received on submittals of the required analysis of groundwaters in and around the landfill.

Regrading, placement of drainage and plant covering and construction of erosion control structures can't proceed without DEQE go ahead. 16 weeks are needed for completion of these tasks and Oct. 15 is the last date for seeding to be successfully accomplished.

So far, the city has spent $2,800,000 for contractual disposal of refuse, additional hundreds of thousands of dollars in engineering, construction, and environmental services, and has imported over 100,000 cubic yards of cover material.

The requests made are part of the city's seeking to keep the landfill open on an interim basis subject to DEQE approval and on a more extended basis subject to environmental review and DEQE approval.

"The situation is critical," said McCauley in his letter. "Work which requires approval needs to be done this summer and fall. The landfill could be reopened on a temporary basis in an environmentally sound manner and in conformance with law, regulation and order, thus affording some relief to the Massachusetts solid waste crisis."

The letter says that by keeping the landfill open, the city's financial problems could be significantly eased.

McCauley said he is looking for approval within the week.

Worker Dies From 70-Foot Water Tower Fall

A 23-year-old out-of-state construction worker fell more than 70 feet to his death while dismantling the Squantum Water Tower.

Kenneth Long, 23, of Madisonville, Ky., was pronounced dead from traumatic cardiac arrest due to multiple trauma at 12:15 p.m. Monday at Quincy City Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

According to several eyewitnesses, Long was on a catwalk halfway up the tower when a gust of wind blew against a piece of sheet metal he was cutting and flipped him off.

He fell inside the tank's frame and landed atop large sheet metal scraps. He did not appear to be wearing safety ropes or a harness, witnesses said.

According to the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, workers are not required to wear a safety belt or lifeline if a catwalk has a guardrail or other means of protection.

Area director John Phillips said the agency is investigating the accident.

It was the second construction accident in Quincy in five days. Last Thursday, Jeffrey Cosman, 26, of Sharon, fell five stories at a Marina Bay construction site.

He was listed in serious but stable condition in the New England Medical Center surgical intensive care unit, according to hospital spokesperson Stacey Wong.

Long, according to a hospital spokesman, had been working at the water tower for about six weeks.

Quincy firefighters radioed for an ambulance immediately after Long fell. He was dead on arrival at Quincy City Hospital. Firefighters were on hand because of the potential dangers of working on such a project.

Workers had finished dismantling the top half of the tower when Long fell.

State Representative Candidates Forum On Ch. 3 Sept. 8

All five candidates for state representative in the Second Norfolk District will appear at a 90-minute forum to be televised live on Continental Cablevision Channel 3 on Thursday, Sept. 8.

The three Democrats and two Republicans will be questioned by local media representatives and will have the opportunity to question one another--Democrats quizzing Democrats and Republicans asking each other questions.

The forum, to take place one week before the Sept. 15 primary, will be telecast from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Producer is Marie Hulbert of Continental Cablevision.

Scheduled to participate are Democrats City Council President Patricia Toland, School Committeeman Stephen Durkin and Arthur Stephen Tobin as well as Republicans Denis Tardo and Richard Harris.

Landscaping Project Underway At Adams National Historic Site

The National Park Service at Adams National Historic Site is currently sponsoring a City Year Team of 10 individuals as part of an Urban Peace Corps Project from the Boston area to accomplish specific maintenance and landscape gardening projects.

The program will continue through Aug. 30.

The City Year Program is a cooperative effort between the Metropolitan District Commission, City Year Representatives, the National Park Service, and private sector funds. Youths in the program were selected from applications made to City Year and came from more than 35 schools in the Greater Boston area.

From a total of 100 applications, 50 individuals were accepted to the program. Participants are paid a small weekly stipend and awarded a $1,000 public service educational scholarship.

"City Year" reflects the idea that after their senior year in high school, young people are challenged to spend a "City Year" helping others and enriching their own lives.

Although several projects were identified at the Adams National Historic Site that would benefit from this labor intensive opportunity, the major project selected was to clear and landscape a parcel of land adjacent to the historic site which will more clearly define the site to the public.

This area, located at the intersection of Newport Ave. and Furnace Brook Parkway, is highly visible.

Restoration of this property will enhance the community and adjacent landscape of the Adams National Historic Site.

The Adams National Historic Site is pleased to participate with the MDC, city of Quincy, as well as Boston's City Year Urban Parks Program. It considers this program an opportune time to orient these individuals to the National Park Service and share with today's youth what the agency is striving to accomplish.

INSURING YOUR HOME'S CONTENTS

Homeowners' and tenants' insurance policies ordinarily cover the contents of your home if you have a fire, robbery, or other mishap covered by the policy. It's a good idea to review your coverage periodically with your insurance agent. He or she can discuss the options available to you and explain the costs and benefits of each.

Typically, policies cover personal property for its depreciated value. If, for example, you purchased a television set for $300 five years ago, today's depreciated value may be only $150. When you go out to replace it, however, you may have to spend $400 for a comparable set. Replacement coverage would pay you the amount it would actually cost to buy a new set, and it usually is not a great deal more expensive than regular coverage. Also, as you acquire more belongings, you should check your policy to see that its dollar amount provides sufficient protection against their loss.

At Riley & Rielly Insurance Agency, Inc., our insurance professionals are happy to discuss the many protection options available today. Please give us a call at 471-6200 or stop by our office at 1050 Hancock Street in Quincy.

Fundraiser For What?

City Councillor Steve McGrath marks his 35th birthday tonight (Thursday) with a $35 per ticket party fund-raiser at the Quantum Yacht Club.

To raise funds for what?
"I just like being prepared, he says.
Being prepared for what?
"Just being prepared."

The question is, of course, is he getting prepared for a run for mayor next year or for re-election as a city councillor at-large.

McGrath plans no announcement -- or even a hint -- tonight as to what he will do next year.

He can wait at least until January before making a decision.

And, at age 35 he could wait two or four more years before actually going for the big one.

McGrath has made no secret of the fact he would like to be mayor of Quincy. When he gave up his ward 5 seat to run for councillor at-large last year it was a move he figured he had to make if he was going to run for mayor.

McGRATH

He feels a candidate with city-wide exposure has a better chance at becoming mayor than a ward councillor.

Recent Quincy history seems to bear that out.

Daniel Raymonds, running out of Ward 2 in 1981 lost to Francis

RAYMONDI

McCauley when Arthur Tobin decided to step down.

And, in 1985, ward 6 councillor Joanne Condon was turned back by McCauley as he rode to a third term.

The last ward councillor to win the mayoral prize in one jump was ward 5 councillor Walter Hannon who defeated the late Joseph Brett in 1971 after James McIntyre retired.

But that was a different situation. Hannon had the backing and blessing of McIntyre's powerful political organization.

James Sheets, who is also being mentioned as a potential mayoral candidate, has been Ward 4 councillor for 14 years.

If he runs for mayor, he will have to accomplish what Raymonds and Condon could not do and what Hannon did with a big helping hand.

SHEETS

CONDON

HANNON

Word around political circles is that former Mayor Joseph LaRaia, who came within a 460 vote whisker of upsetting McCauley last year, is sounding like he is going to run again.

Of course, who finally does run and who doesn't, may depend on what Frank McCauley decides to do.

Will he try for a fifth term, which would make him the all-time mayoral longevity champ under the Plan A form of government?

McCauley hasn't decided yet and won't come to a final decision until sometime in January.

Politically speaking, January is just around the corner.

FORMER State Rep. Andy Card of Holbrook who has many friends in Quincy, has moved out of the White House to join George Bush's Presidential campaign.

Card, who campaigned for Bush eight years ago, has been an assistant to President Ronald Reagan.

Word is that Card's assignment will be to rescue Michael Dukakis' record in Massachusetts. Or, he might say, to find ammunition for Bush to trip Dukakis down the home stretch.

WJDA's Herb Fontaine, who reports the news here, son who makes it. Son, Steve, caused quite a stir in Denver, Colo. recently when he forced a supermarket to close for failing to abide by an order to get rid of asbestos. Steve is an industrial hygienist for the Colorado Department of Health, Air Pollution Control Division.

It got a big ride in the newspapers and on television and radio.

SEN. PAUL HAROLD will give his taste buds a workout as a judge at the fourth annual Massachusetts Tomato Festival Monday, Aug. 22 at noon at Faneuil Hall Marketplace.

Harold was named a judge after a recommendation by Anneli Johnson of South Quincy. Johnson, who organized the first festival held in Quincy four years ago, has coordinated the festival the past four years. She also established the Quincy Farmer's Market held Fridays during the summer and fall at the Ross Parking area.

The tomato festival, sponsored by the Department of Food and Agriculture, is a competition among amateur and professional farmers in the state. Tomatoes will be judged on color, consistency and taste. Prizes are awarded to the best growers.

Reikard Responds To Lyons

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I want to take this opportunity to thank the public for the overwhelming support, love, and devotion extended to me via cards, letters, phone calls, and in person, on The Quincy Sun article of July 14, about our stolen car.

The kind offers of help from these fine people -- landlords, tenants, and homeowners, varied greatly. I had offers to: chauffeur me around; use of their cars at any time; offers to take me shopping; and offers to send me on vacation via a nice boat trip.

Two gentlemen from a large apartment complex, wanted to take up a city-wide collection to buy me a new car. And, they said, "Since most Cadillac owners are switching to Lincoln Town Cars, we would like to buy one of those and set it right on your parking lot on space #14 where your car was stolen from."

Another group of men wanted to start a vigilante committee to stop this vendetta once and for all. Other people offered to "stand guard" at night to protect my car, my property, and me. Other people offered to watch my office (even if they have to hide in the trees) to catch the "rock throwers" and "break-in artists."

With practically every call I get in my office since the incident, I get words of encouragement urging me not to "give in" or "give up and leave." The people say they never want to read in the paper that I was forced into giving up the job I do so well.

It has always been this kind of support that has kept me going in this very difficult job.

for all these years. How many times I have heard, "I wouldn't take your job for any amount of money, but I'm glad you're in the job and I hope you stay forever."

Those words have been repeated so many times by so many people that I can never get discouraged about the "riff-raff" that feel that justice and the right side of the law is the wrong way to do business and to live. The more things that are stolen from us, the longer we must stay and work to recoup our losses. If the conspirators were smart, they would place a new "Rolls" in our parking space with a laundry bag full of money inside and a set of matched luggage with a big sign on the car. "GO JANE, GO!!"

Out of all the support I received in and out of the city, and in and out of the state, I read of one dissenting voice, who, as usual, misquoted and misrepresented the facts about me.

I can't say that I don't learn from Mr. Lyons everytime he opens his mouth, because I certainly do.

Mr. Lyons seems to imply that our parking lot is not well-lighted when he says there were attempted thefts in his "well-lit" parking lot. It does so happen, Mr. Lyons, that one of the lights in our parking lot was out at the time of the robbery, but it's glaring brightly now because I complained to my landlord about it. It would have been a nice gesture on Mr. Lyons' part if he had offered to let me park my car in his "well-lit" lot.

As to the anti-theft device, Mr. Lyons again implies he knows what was on our car. Apparently he doesn't know that anti-theft devices stop kids and amateurs, but skilled thieves can circumvent any anti-theft device in existence.

Who my constituents are has never been a secret. They are tenants, landlords, homeowners, politicians, John Q. Public, and, yes, even attorneys. My card file sits right on top of any my cabinets and I have invited Mr. Lyons to sit in my office on any given day and watch me while I do my job. Why shouldn't he? After all, many of the landlords who belong to his Apartment House Owners' Association come to see me or call me for advice and questions. He could feel right at home among my members.

Don't hold me to the exact percentage point, Mr. Lyons, but about 60 percent of my constituency are tenants, and 40 percent are landlords. The only reason for this lopsided percentage is that more landlords can afford and have attorneys and personal counselors to advise them, than can tenants.

Last week I received a call from Florida from a landlady who lives there but owns property here. She said the Attorney General's office referred her to the "expert" in the field. I received a call from North Carolina from a tenant who wanted his security deposit returned to him; I received a letter from England to procure a room for a man who wants to visit here; I received a call from a gentleman in Pennsylvania who wanted information on buying property here; I received a call from a woman in Newburyport who was referred to me by her Town Hall as the person to contact about her rights on the Condo Conversion Law.

After all, Mr. Lyons, I know who belongs to your association, why shouldn't you know who my constituents are?

Come now, Mr. Lyons, you were in court on several occasions when I was there. You know I don't and can't "represent" tenants or landlords in court. The court clerks and judges can attest to that. I can't represent anyone but myself in court, I am not an attorney.

If you say that I am called upon to mediate cases, yes I am. If you say that I am asked to help procure public or private housing for tenants, yes I am. If you say the Judges send cases back to my office for further mediation, yes they do. If you say that I am called upon to testify as to what happened in my office during my mediation process, yes I am. But, "represent" people, no I don't.

As far as the theft story bounding off the wall, no way did that happen. Not with the response I received. It certainly "hit home" to the multitudes as was intended to do.

Mr. Lyons, don't worry about coping with my problems, my constituents do that. With the "Network" I have out there, I am able to keep well-informed of who the "sleazes" and the "dregs of society" are.

Is it true, Roger, as one of my constituents pointed out, that "the only way Mr. Lyons can get publicity, is to use Jane Reikard as a whipping post?"

Oh, well. Poor Roger, he can't help it, etcetera, etcetera, etcetera.

Jane Reikard
Burgin Parkway, Quincy

And Lyons Responds To Tardo

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Why would Mr. Tardo, the alleged head of Quincy's Tenants Organization criticize my letter to the editor regarding the theft of Lloyd and Jane Reikard's car because I didn't identify myself as head of the Quincy Apartment House Owners Association?

I wish he would explain what the subject matter of the theft of a car and the near daylight illumination of my parking lot has to do with my affiliation with an organization?

Is Mr. Tardo, who is running for public office, just using Reikard's incident just to get his name in the paper? Or just to criticize landlords?

I didn't call the newspaper when a thief was caught by police, after breaking into my vehicle in the wee hours, doing extensive damage and stealing tools, then claiming a vendetta. Nor did I write the newspaper when vandals shot out the glass of a tenant's car.

I have spent over a thousand hours and thousands of dollars of my money fighting for some 30,000 (thousand) Quincy tenants in four court appearances against the city of Quincy in Superior Court Dept. case 13035.

The fourth hearing was held before Judge Hurd on August 28, 1980 where it was appealed, by and again the city was stopped cold for their "blatantly illegal" action of overvaluing of Quincy's already overvalued apartment buildings.

When the mayor announced his 10 per cent proposed tax break for small home owners in December '83 it was our newly formed organization who again successfully protested the discrimination by the city when again it was the tenants who would have had to pay.

We have often proven we are the best friends the thousands of Quincy tenants have.

We have offered to speak to their groups many times, as we need to cooperate with one another. We need one another.

Having protested repeatedly to the mayor of the alleged one-sided or biased remarks of Jane Reikard, I thought it was proper that she should document her alarming statements to the press as recorded in the June 14 issue.

If Mr. Tardo is really interested in improving the lot of Quincy's tenants and fair and equal news reporting, I think he too should request of Jane Reikard to stop withholding information, and name names!

Isn't that what she said she'd do?

Quincy's Yesterdays

Sacco-Vanzetti Execution Night Quiet Here

The hour of execution for Nicolo Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti at Charlestown State Prison passed quietly in Quincy after elaborate preparations were made by Police Chief Ernest H. Bishop to guard vital locations within the city.

Aug. 18-24
1927

61 Years Ago

Bishop remained at the station long after midnight while Lts. George Cahill and Thomas Malone manned the desk and patrolmen, on duty 24 hours, played cards, shot pool and billiards and listened to the radio.

A special guard was placed on the dynamite magazines of Robert J. Teasdale, 143 Pleasant St., and J.E. Sprague in the Sheep Rock section of West Quincy, where Fire Chief A.L. Mead estimated that 50,000 pounds of explosives were stored.

Guards were also assigned to the Wollaston homes of two members of the jury that convicted Sacco and Vanzetti in 1921. No one was allowed near the houses without ID cards and police were directed to shoot anyone who refused to show identification.

Navy patrols aboard the Aircraft Carrier Lexington, which was being built at the Fore River Shipyard, were reinforced from Charlestown Navy Yard. They paced the deck of the half-built ship, night and day, armed with shotguns.

Pesto Potato Salad Different And Delicious

Here is a great recipe from our daughter Rita who loves any kind of pesto sauce. She recently made this pesto potato salad at a cookout. It can be made ahead of time and kept refrigerated.

PESTO POTATO SALAD

1 lb. small red potatoes
2-3 Tbsps olive oil
1 tsp salt
¼ tsp fresh ground pepper
¼ cup mayonaisse
3 Tbsps pesto mixture

Cook potatoes until soft (not mushy) and cool to room temperature. Cut into 1 inch cubes and place in a bowl. Add the olive oil, salt and pepper and mix well. Than add the mayonaisse and pesto mixing gently until all ingredients are well blended. Chill and serve cold Pesto can be purchased pre-made in specialty stores or large supermarkets. It's also easy to make using one large bunch of fresh basil leaves, washed and chopped fine. Mix with 2-3 cloves of garlic, one tablespoon grated parmesan cheese and 2-3 tablespoons of olive oil. This will make enough for 2 recipes of the pesto potato salad.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point; Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

MR. and MRS. WILLIAM P. MURPHY, JR.
(McIntire's Studio)

Dawn Montgomery Married To William P. Murphy Jr.

Dawn Marie Montgomery of Quincy and William P. Murphy Jr. of North Quincy were married recently at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John F. Walsh.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Montgomery of Wollaston, while Mr. Murphy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Murphy of North Quincy.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Nancy M. Hourihan of North Quincy was the maid of honor. Claire McManus of Milton and Patricia Sweeney of Cambridge were bridesmaids, while junior bridesmaids were Allegra Snyder and Martina Snyder of Cohasset.

Paul J. Murphy was best man for his brother. Ushers were John Timmins and William Timmins, both of North Quincy, and Kevin Kennefick of Mansfield.

A reception was held at Barrett's on Boston Harbor.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Murphy were graduates of North Quincy High School. The bride attended Forsyth School for Dental Hygienists, Northeastern University, the University of Hawaii-Manoa, and is currently attending the University of Massachusetts-Boston and working as a dental hygienist.

Mr. Murphy, a graduate of University of Massachusetts-Boston, is employed as an accountant by Bay State Gas Company.

After a wedding trip to St. Maarten, the couple are living in Wollaston.

MR. and MRS. JOSEPH GUCCIONE
(Twin Willow Studio of Raynham)

Susan Callahan Wed To Joseph Guccione

Susan J. Callahan of Quincy and Joseph Guccione of Boston, a native of Sicily, Italy, were married recently at St. Agatha's Church, Milton.

The nuptial Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Francis X. Turke, pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joan M. Callahan of Quincy and the late Carleton L. Callahan. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Guccione of Boston.

Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon MacMillan of Milton and the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Callahan of Florida. The bridegroom's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pagano of Sicily, Italy and the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Guccione of Sicily, Italy.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Joan Callahan.

Deborah A. Callahan of Quincy, a sister of the bride, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Joan M. Callahan, Carla L. Burke, and Donna L. Callahan, all sisters of the bride and all of Quincy; Elisabeth Guccione and Rita Guccione, both sisters of the bridegroom and both of Boston; Grace Befaro of Weymouth and Jeanne Murphy of Quincy.

Enza Pagano and Peter Pagano, both of Sicily, Italy, were flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

Peter Guccione of Boston was best man for his brother. Ushers were Robert E. Burke, Jr., Patrick Mannion and Charles Murphy, all of Quincy; Gaetano Barletta, Antonio Burriello and John Callahan, all of Boston; and Michael Barbagallo of Malden.

A reception was held in the Grand Ball Room of the Copley Plaza Hotel, Boston.

Planning ahead can offer peace of mind...

It is only human to put things off. But proper planning for the event of one's death can spare a family many traumatic decisions and financial burdens. By pre-arranging the desires and wishes of one's funeral, burial and expenses can be specified to eliminate confusion, differences of opinion and difficult decisions on the part of family members. To ease this burden, we are making available to you FREE a booklet with all necessary information and forms to assist and guide you. Why not visit us or write for your FREE Pre-arrangement Booklet?

Booklet covers the following subjects:

- Funeral and Interment Preferences
- Vital Statistics and Data
- Survivors Information, Social Security, Insurance, Bank Accounts, Real Estate, Automobile, Safety Deposit Box, Savings Bonds, Stocks and Bonds, Retirement Accounts and Veterans Benefits.
- Pre-Arrangement Information
- Three duplicate copies of a Funeral and Interment Pre-Arrangement Agreement.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

WHAT IS MATURITY? Many quotes come to mind ... "When you can sense your concern for others outweighing your concern for yourself." "A frank acceptance of barren realities." "Implies otherness ... the art of living with."

... One of the best we have come across is by Dr. William C. Meninger. He said that the criteria of emotional maturity are:

Having the ability to deal constructively with reality.

Having the capacity to adapt to change.

Having a relative freedom from symptoms that are produced by tensions and anxieties.

Having the capacity to relate to other people in a consistent manner with mutual satisfaction and helpfulness.

Having the capacity to sublimate, to direct one's instinctive hostile energy into creative and constructive outlets.

Having the capacity to love.

Having the capacity to find more satisfaction in giving than in receiving.

We at Deware Funeral Home would like to thank the many readers who have taken the time to phone us or write us about these articles. It is most appreciated.

'Narrow Door, Wide Mercy' Sermon At Bethany Church

During the summer at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, there is one worship service held at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon Sunday, Aug. 21, on the topic "Narrow Door, Wide Mercy" based on the scriptural texts from the gospel of Luke 13:22-30 and from Philippians 3:7-14. Edmund A. Mussy will be the lay scripture reader.

The guest organist will be Robert E. Brown, and guest vocalist will be baritone Philip Brown, who will sing two selections, "Prayer" by Gabriel Faure and "Spirit of God" by W.H. Neidlinger.

The Sunday School is closed during the summer. However, nursery care is provided for babies and small children.

The worship service will be broadcast live direct from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 a.m. over radio station WJDA.

A fellowship hour will be held in the Allen Parlor at 11 a.m. immediately following the worship service.

Individuals and families from the area are invited to come and share in both the worship and fellowship.

For information concerning the ministries and programs of Bethany, please contact the church office at 479-7300.

'Summer Devotion' Topic At First Squantum Church

Because of steamy weather, the Sunday morning service at the First Church of Squantum was held this week in the church's Fellowship Hall rather than in the sanctuary as usual.

The title of the sermon preached by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langvin, pastor, was "Summer Devotion."

Mary Ruth Scott played the piano. The congregation sang "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee," "O For A Thousand Tongues to Sing," and "Stand Up, Stand Up, for Jesus."

Harry Holmes and Tore

Wain were the ushers. Patti Hone and Drusilla Warnes hosted the Fellowship Hour after the service.

On Wednesday this past week, Dr. Langvin conducted a funeral service for Ken Abbott. On Thursday, he led a funeral for Kathy Sweet. On Saturday morning, Richard Curran and Diane Tell were married in a wedding at the church.

On Sunday afternoon there was a marriage ceremony for Richard Sorrentino and Katrina Silver, also at the church. Members of the church Wedding Committee, including Ann Wallin, Rene Johnson and Barbara Anderson, and headed by Valerie Gorrill, assisted at both weddings.

This Saturday the church will sponsor its annual "Twin Party" with tables for arts and crafts, books, white elephants, bake sale, and refreshments, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Everyone is invited.

The service this Sunday will begin at 9:30 a.m. The sermon will be entitled, "Encountering the Living Christ Personally."

A nursery is provided and visitors are welcome.

Muharram Begins At Islamic Center

Sunday marked the beginning of Muharram, first month of the New Islamic or the Hijrah Year 1409 A.M.

(After Hijrah)

Each of the 12 months of the Islamic Year starts with the new moon and comprises either 29 or 30 days.

The history of the Islamic calendar goes back to the migration of Prophet Mohammed (peace be upon him) from the holy city of Mecca to Madina. The unreciprocated tribes of Mecca made it extremely difficult for Prophet Mohammed and his followers to spread their message of truth and to carry on the mission of peace. The Prophet decided to leave the town and go to Madina, where a rally of friends and well-wishers was ready to support the cause.

This advent of "Hijrah" or "migration" marks the beginning of a new era in the spread of Islam and the debut of the Islamic Year, 1 A.H., both noted by the Islamic Center of New England in Quincy.

5 Quincy Students Attend WPI Summer Science Program

Lisa Melchione, Christen Clarke, David Nie, Sean Gannon and Marsha Goodman, all of Quincy, recently spent 10 days at Worcester Polytechnic Institute exploring the leading edges of science, mathematics and the humanities in a special summer program for selected high school students.

Now in its sixth year, the program, known as "Frontiers in Science and Mathematics," is designed to promote an interest in these subjects among high school students by challenging them to explore unsolved problems in physics, chemistry, biology, civil engineering, mathematics and solar energy.

In addition, the participants explored special themes in college-level humanities and examined the interaction of the sciences and humanities.

"Our goal," said Thomas H. Keel, professor of physics at WPI and coordinator of the program, "is to lead these students to the very frontiers of knowledge by exposing them to current research techniques, problems and issues."

This year the program received support from a number of corporations including Massachusetts Electric Company, Norton Company and Digital Equipment Corporation.

While in residence at the WPI campus the participants, 35 students from New England, New Jersey and West Virginia, attended lectures, work sessions and labs and conducted group projects. In addition, they listened to guest speakers, attended concerts and films and toured robotics and computer-aided facilities.

Each also received hands-on experience with sophisticated scientific equipment, such as lasers, computers, instrumentation, microscopes and computers, and learned about such things as artificial intelligence, technology and science in science and the history of science.

In addition to Keel, the instructors at WPI included members, were Robert J. Connors, associate professor of Chemistry, Peter J. Christopher, assistant professor of mathematics, Daniel G. Gibson, O.D., assistant professor of biology and biotechnology, Fred Hart, associate professor of civil engineering, and Daniel H. Korchi, assistant professor of civil engineering.

'Summit Meeting' On 4-Year Terms

Cerasoli said having media present at the meeting would make for a more conducive meeting.

"I want to argue the issues, not personalities," he said, adding the two have had differences in the past.

McCauley said there have been no "grudges or vendettas" between him and Cerasoli.

"I have no problem with Bob. We want to discuss the issues. I'm looking forward for his support so that the petitions can be put on the ballot," McCauley said.

However, Cerasoli said he opposes the petitions.

Referring to past home rule petitions passed by the legislature, Cerasoli said, "They did this in the House of Representatives. Once in a blue moon is fine but there seems to be a pattern that has developed to change forms of government through the House of Representatives."

"I don't think it's right for the legislature to change a form of government for the city of Quincy. It's something the populace, the voters, should change," he said, adding, "The petitions are not allowing them to have any say."

Instead, Cerasoli advocates a charter commission which would allow voters to decide what type of revisions should be put on the ballot.

"I think if they want a change they should go to the charter commission and let them decide."

"There may be other things or nothing that they would want changed. Why don't we give people the chance to vote for any number of things," he said, adding, the petitions are "limiting."

"People should decide the changes, not the mayor or city council. The people are given only a limited choice," Cerasoli said.

"We're really not lining anything out. I really think it's self-serving. Let's open up a decision making process," he said.

First proposed by McCauley during his inaugural address in 1986, the mayor has been a staunch supporter of four-year terms for mayor and city councillors.

If the petition is approved by the House and Gov. Michael Dukakis, McCauley said he would campaign for it.

"I'm willing to speak out for it. It's long overdue. It's starting to happen in other cities in the Commonwealth," he said.

Cities that have recently increased mayoral terms from two to four years are Brockton, Lawrence, Newton and Waltham.

No city in the state has four-year terms for city councillors, Cerasoli said.

As for the civil service to mayor's appointment petition, McCauley said Cattaneo approves of the measure.

"We've spoken to Ray and he approves with what we're doing," he said.

According to McCauley, the executive secretary position was originally set up as a mayor's appointment in 1962. It was changed to civil service during the late James McIntyre's mayoral term of the late 1960s, early 1970s.

"We're basically trying to restore this position to where it was originally. That kind of position should be similar to other positions filled by the mayor," McCauley said.

"I don't see a major problem," he added.

IN TRAINING -- Frederick Maskell of 81 Bigelow St. and David McDonnell of 32 Edgewood Circle, both members of Quincy's Laborers Union Local 133, recently completed a four week drilling and blasting course at the New England Laborers' Training Academy at Hopkinton. The four week drilling and blasting course was developed for laborers seeking further education and new work skills. The training academy is operated by the New England Laborers' Training Trust Fund and is jointly administered by trustees representing contributing contractors and union officials.

LaBrecque's 'Couch Potato' Arts And Crafts Winner

LaBrecque Park's "Couch Potato," a papier mache creation, was the top vote getter in the Quincy Recreation Department's annual arts and crafts display.

The display, which features a project from each of the city's 26 summer playgrounds was held on McIntyre Mall for two days. During that period the public voted on their favorite exhibit.

There were over 300 voters in this year's balloting.

Fenno St. playground, which captured top spot last year, finished second with a felt creation of the "Pink Panther." Palmer Park took third place for a large 100th city anniversary cake made from papier mache. Rounding out the top 10 were:

Fourth-Faxon Park's "The Faxon Spots," tied for fifth-Heron Road's "Heron Bird" and Baker's "Oscar the Grouch," tied for seventh - Mass. Field's "Roger Rabbit" and O'Rourke's "Pepsi Can," Ninth - Atlantic's "Basketball Court," and Tenth - Adam's "Windmill."

Prizes were donated to the top three entries by Purdy's Ice Cream, Baskin Robbins, McDonalds-Southern Artery, and Entertainment Cinemas.

The event was coordinated by arts and crafts specialists, Kathleen Golden, Janice Ruane, Hollie Kaplan, and Kristin O'Brien.

Participants in the project from LaBrecque Park were Amy Gibbons, Jenna Nolan, Kerry Dully, Ashley Davis, Julie Gibbons and leader Jonna Dondoro.

Participants from Fenno St. were Jim Kane, Peter Sullivan, Chris Greene, and Mike Kane and leaders Donald Greene and Sheila Sullivan.

Participants in the project from Palmer Park were Nicole Pitts, Melanie Reves, Melanie McGrath, Jan McGrath, Jason Beavan and leaders Steve Novick, Gary Morrell and Patti Morrell.

Limited Openings For Volleyball Camp

The Quincy Recreation Department has limited openings for its volleyball camp which will be held Aug. 22-26.

The camp is for boys and girls ages 10-18, and is part of the self-supporting sports camps and workshop programs of the Quincy Recreation Department.

The camp to be held at North Quincy High School from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. is under the direction of Chris Prenderville, head coach of Mass. Patriots Elite Team and New England Junior Olympics coordinator. The instruction will include a wide variety of individual skills from defense to offense. The beginning player's emphasis will be on passing and serving while the advanced player will concentrate on attack. The camp will include instruction by some top collegiate players as well as guest coaches. Competition experiences of doubles, triples and 6 on 6 will highlight the camp.

The cost of the camp is $8. Registration can be done at the main office of the Quincy Recreation Department, 1001 Southern Avenue.

Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. More information can be obtained by calling 773-1380 or 1381.

Vo-Tech EVA Program Honors Students

The Extended Vocational Alternatives Program (EVA) recently honored its students at the 10th annual banquet at Quincy Vocational Technical School.

Approximately 130 parents, teachers, and friends enjoyed a buffet style dinner, elaborate ice sculptures, and desserts prepared by the students. David Zeno, William Ghivra and William Billikas, members of the culinary arts staff of the Vocational School, advised and assisted on the meal's planning and preparation.

Louis Iozzi, coordinator of Special Education for the QPS, was the host. Seniors Kristin Contrino, Laurie McInnis, and Catherine O'Donnell expressed their selves eloquently by narrating their progress in the EVA program, and what the experiences meant to them.

Trophies, yearbooks, academic awards, work performance awards, and Vocational sweat shirts were presented to the students. The instructors, Thomas received awards from

Anthony Madden, Dan Martin, Laurie McIntyre, Denny Maclean, Catherine O'Donnell, Louis O'Leary, Harry Polito, Dan Powell, Mark Smith, Patricia Smith, Christopher Sophis, Ralph Stuart, Daniel Sumpter, Bob Sweet, Ruth Sweet, Anne

Tervakoski, Paul Tzanitis, and Russell Walsh. Staff members presenting the awards were Floise Pappas, Leonard Cavarro, William McWeeney, William McCarthy, John Green, Jeff Johnston, and Peter Contrino.

Junior Robert Balzano and graduating senior Laurie McInnis each received a $500 James F. McCormick Scholarship, donated by Mr. and Mrs. James McCormick of Quincy.

Vocational School Director Joseph Mazzatelli presented the scholarship and thanked staff and parents for their continued support.

Durkin Urges Harold To Help Restore Two Housing Programs

Stephen Durkin, a Democratic candidate for state representative in the Second Norfolk District, has written a letter to Sen. Paul Harold urging him to offer or support an amendment to restore funds for two affordable housing programs.

In the letter, Durkin said: "As the Senate moves toward finalizing its budget proposal, for the coming fiscal year, I urge you to offer or support an amendment restoring funds for the Homeowner Opportunity program, as well as the SHARP program.

"It is my understanding that the budget proposed by Ways and Means would seriously jeopardize these two important affordable housing programs. Without full funding of these programs, as recommended by both the Governor and the House of Representatives, thousands of needed affordable homes and apartments may be lost.

"As you know, the Homeowner Opportunity Program provides low interest mortgages to first-time homebuyers with low and modest incomes. The SHARP program helps create affordable rental units by providing incentives for developers to build mixed-income apartment housing. The House budget proposal recommended that $15 million and $8 million, respectively, be allocated for these programs.

"Many, many young couples with limited incomes have expressed to me their frustration at not being able to qualify for mortgages at market rates, despite years of trying," Durkin said. "Similarly, apartments renting for between $700 and $900 per month are simply beyond the means of people earning lower incomes.

"With affordable housing being one of the most critical issues currently facing our city and our state, we can ill-afford to abandon or compromise programs which, at least in part, address the problem.

"I urge you to support the amendment restoring funding to these two important programs," Durkin concluded.

State Rep Candidates At Houghs Neck Forum

Three Democratic and two Republican candidates for state representative from the Second Norfolk District will speak at a special open meeting of the Houghs Neck Community Council Monday, Aug. 22, at 8 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Community Center, 1116 Sea St.

Stephen Durkin, Arthur Stephen Tobin and Patricia Toland, Democrats, Richard Harris and Dennis Iardo, Republicans, are the candidates. The Second Norfolk District includes Ward One, Precincts 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5.

The public is invited to attend the forum.

The most urgent issue, according to Martin H. Gordon, Houghs Neck Community Council president, is the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) which, with State Senator William Bulger is attempting to determine the fate of Ward 1. The ward has had no state representative voice since January.

All residents are urged to attend the forum.

The primary election is Thursday, Sept. 15.

Lydon-Russell Funeral Home Participating In Memorial Tree Plantings

Lydon-Russell Funeral Home of Quincy is participating in a program of Lofty Oaks Association to plant over 11,000 trees on public lands in Massachusetts to provide living memorials honoring the deceased.

After a funeral service, close family members and friends are informed that a memorial tree has been arranged for by Lydon-Russell Funeral Home.

After it is planted, relatives and friends are sent an official certificate of the tree planting, suitable for framing and keeping.

The program is part of a large endeavor in cooperation with other conservation and reforestation programs, to restore the Massachusetts countryside with trees.

Watch for holes in auto rust warranties: Some metal components often not covered

The corrosion warranties offered by automakers are not what they seem to be at first glance. In fact, there are a number of metal components that are not covered by these warranties.

The automakers, or original equipment manufacturers (OEMs), have tried to spur increased sales with these recently announced warranties.

But an analysis, conducted by Ziebart Corporation, shows striking similarities in the types of metal components that are not protected against rust through by the manufacturers' corrosion warranties.

Among them are hood and trunk inner panels, fender supports and reinforcement, door frames, brake and fuel lines, vehicle floor sheet metal, and structural and suspension components.

These components are all situated in interior areas of automobiles. And, since most automotive rust starts from the interior and eats its way through, the prospect for corrosion remains high for new vehicle owners, especially those living in traditional "rust belt" areas of the country.

The Ziebart analysis also showed that Japan's leading vehicle manufacturers offer the minimal warranty protection against premature rust corrosion. For example, Honda, Mazda and Nissan restrict the coverage period to 36 months.

Thus, aftermarket rustproofing is necessary to ensure long-term corrosion protection. Overall, foreign OEMs lag well behind North America's top producers in rust-through warranties.

So the message is clear. Don't assume that the warranty provided on your new vehicle will give you adequate rust-through protection.

Recent studies show that automobile owners are keeping their cars longer, so rust protection is more important than ever.

Your new vehicle needs further protection on 28 to 84 critical areas not covered by OEM warranties. Simply put, your investment in a new vehicle is not adequately protected by the manufacturers' warranties.

Owners who recently have purchased new or used vehicles are encouraged to visit their conveniently located Ziebart Service Center. "The Car Improvement Specialists" for free professional advice on their vehicle and its rust protection needs.

The importance of preventive maintenance: Damage due to neglect can be fatal to a car

What would you do if you were en route to the dealer's to trade in your car and, without warning, Old Betsy refused to go further? That's what happened to Angelo, whose name has been changed but whose tale of woe is very real.

When the light turned green at an intersection a few miles from the dealer ship, Angelo stepped on the gas but the car did not move. The transmission would go only in reverse. Angelo had postponed basic maintenance of his car a little too long.

He decided against having the car towed to the dealership, where the $500 trade-in value would have had to have been "renegotiated." Instead, he had the car taken home in hopes that he might find some help in patching up the problem long enough to consummate the deal.

As it turned out, no patch job could solve Angelo's dilemma. Junk yards would accept the car only if he would pay the tow. Finally, one of his friends took Betsy off his hands for parts. The car would never run again.

Earlier preventive maintenance, basically replacing the transmission fluid and filter, probably would have saved the transmission and prevented this $500 loss, plus towing charges.

Angelo's unfortunate situation dramatizes one fact that has emerged from a new survey by Car Care Council. American motorists continue to neglect the maintenance of their vehicles.

When asked to list the five systems or components most neglected by their customers, 380 technicians (members of Automotive Service Council), voted the automatic transmission at the top of the list.

Cooling system hoses came in second, followed closely by battery cables. Drive belts took fourth place, with oil and filter fifth in the list of neglected components.

As one repair shop owner commented, "We find frequent damage due to loss of fluids and consumer neglect."

For an informative pamphlet on your car's fluids and filters, send 25¢ and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Fil-Ters, Car Care Council, 600 Renaissance Center, Detroit, MI 48243.

The simple way to improve the sound of your car stereo system

Music played through a car stereo system often sounds unnatural—singers sound nasal and instruments off key.

The problem is caused by the individual acoustic characteristics of each car which cause certain musical tones to resonate and distort the correct tonal balance of the music.

The only solution is carefully to tune out, or equalize, the car's unwanted resonances. However, since every car model has a different interior size and shape, each car requires different equalization adjustments.

Buyers of brand new Ford, GM and Chrysler luxury cars can order equalized sound systems as rather expensive options, but where does that leave everyone else?

Blaupunkt's solution is the PSA (Parametric Sound Amplifier), a modestly priced equalized amplifier that will cure acoustic distortions in any of 83 different models of new and used U.S. Japanese and European cars—some 50 million cars on the road today.

The core of the system is the Blaupunkt PSA 108, a four-speaker 80-watt amplifier whose equalization correction factors are programmed onto plug-in modules, each of which is tuned for a different car model.

Blaupunkt's PSA system is available from Blaupunkt car and audio retailers for a suggested retail price of $199.95; the programming modules cost $49.95.

"Honey, maybe for the car's birthday we should buy it a new air filter."

Quincy Couple Head NF Mass. Chapter

The Massachusetts Chapter of the National Neurofibromatosis (NF) Foundation raised $67,000 at a black-tie benefit held recently at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

Quincy residents William and Rita Needel are co-presidents for the Massachusetts Chapter.

The event was held to raise funds for continued research on this disorder that strikes one in 3,000 people of all races and nationalities.

A first-time auction at the dinner dance led by guest auctioneer, Jim Pansullo of WEEI radio, raised $22,000, a third of the total contributions.

KATHLEEN CIAVARRO, center, of Quincy, is presented the Department of Public Welfare's 1988 Compassion Award by Sen. John Huston, right, and Representative Mary Jane Gibson at a special luncheon at Boston's Park Plaza Hotel.

Kathleen Ciavarro Presented Welfare Compassion Award

Kathleen Ciavarro of Quincy was recently presented the Department of Public Welfare's 1988 Compassion Award by Welfare Commissioner Charles M. Atkins, Senator John Houston and Representative Mary Jane Gibson at a special luncheon at Boston's Park Plaza Hotel.

Ciavarro was one of only 63 Compassion Award winners chosen from 5,000 Welfare Department employees in 60 local offices across the state.

A manager in the employee services office of the Department of Public Welfare, she has been employed by the department for 11 years.

Ciavarro received the award for planning and organizing the department's annual toy drive which distributed more than 1,400 toys to every family shelter in the state.

Mary And John Cunniff Continue Tradition

At Norfolk Flower Shop It's Friendly And Neighborly

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A lot of things have grown at Norfolk Flower Shop since it opened for business 51 years ago.

Not only have flowers bloomed and green plants flourished but a tradition of serving customers in a friendly, neighborhood atmosphere has taken root as well.

The neighborly tradition began when Joseph and Betty Koplovsky opened the flower shop Nov. 1, 1937 in Norfolk Downs. During their 40 years as owners, they strived to serve their neighbors in a variety of floral needs.

After about 20 years of prosperity in Norfolk Downs, they encountered a small roadblock when the MBTA extension into Quincy forced them to relocate to 49 Beale St., Wollaston. At their new home, the "Koplovskys' neighborhood" expanded as it began to serve old customers as well as new ones from the Wollaston area and beyond.

In 1977, the shop was sold to Andre Moreau and Daniel DeMeule who cared for the "seeds" the Koplovskys had planted. After nine years of nurturing, they sold the flower shop to Mary and John Cunniff in 1986. The Cunniffs, who picked up where the other owners left off, are making sure the tradition continues to prosper.

"They had a personal touch," says Mary, referring to the Koplovskys. "That was carried through by Andre and Daniel, and we're continuing the neighborhood tradition. We form friendships with our customers."

"I think we try to personalize our service," John adds.

The tradition consists of offering a wide range of floral services within a friendly, country-style atmosphere. At Norfolk Flower Shop, you'll find fresh cut flowers, silks, dish gardens, floor plants, hanging baskets, custom jewelry, pottery, wreaths and specialty dolls. Specialties include everyday arrangements, birthdays, anniversaries, funerals as well as custom designs.

Customers will also be greeted by Doby, the Cunniffs' three-year-old wire hair miniature Dachshund. He's the official Norfolk Flower Shop mascot-greeter. He also rides "shot-gun" in the delivery van.

An FTD and AFS wire service, commercial and residential accounts are welcome.

Mary, a nurse for 32 years and John, an electrician for 40, retired from their respected professions and decided to go into business for themselves. They attended the New England School of Floral Design and Rutter in Boston where they completed a one-year program. Once they became owners, they quickly applied their learned knowledge into practical experience.

"We were a little anxious at first but we were so busy that first week that we didn't have time to think about it," says Mary, adding they were in the midst of the Christmas season, the busiest time of year for florists. But once they got a taste of each hectic period, including Mother's Day, Easter, Valentine's Day and Thanksgiving, they knew things would get better and better.

"The first year was harrowing but the customers were great," Mary says, looking back.

Since day one of their operation, Mary and John have worked many hours serving their customers. A regular work week consists of about 48 hours, while during holiday seasons, they can spend between 60 and 80 hours a week at the shop. During the holidays, the Cunniffs "stay until all the customers are taken care of."

"To serve our customers we have to be available. Service is the key," Mary says, adding "A lot of time goes into each arrangement."

Although an adjustment at first, the Cunniffs are used to the long hours. Furthermore, John and Mary are devoted to their work because they enjoy helping people, especially while they are together.

AT YOUR SERVICE -- Norfolk Flower Shop owners Mary and John Cunniff and their dog Doby, the store's mascot.

"It was a big adjustment but we're very happy. This has certainly been something we have enjoyed together," Mary says.

The day begins at dawn when the Cunniffs drive into the Boston Flower Exchange in Boston. There, they select and buy only the freshest cut flowers. By 8:30 a.m., they are back at the store preparing to open at 9.

Preparation consists of cutting flowers, applying a special hardening solution and then refrigeration. Once open, the Cunniffs make arrangements as well as take and process new orders.

They also prepare for the next holiday. Although it's August and Christmas may seem like just a distant vision, the Cunniffs have already begun the holiday season at Norfolk Flower. They have been placing specialty orders such as decorative containers, artificial arrangements, Advent candles and wreaths. They are also stocking up on pretty bows.

"It's very exciting to say the least," Mary says of the constant planning and preparation. "And it's fun."

During the past 21 months, Mary and John have served many customers in the same fashion as the previous owners.

"We know a lot of our customers on a first name basis. We know what they like," Mary says.

For the most part, the clientele comes from the Quincy - Dorchester - South Shore area. Some, like St. Mary's and Second Church of Dorchester, "started back with Joe (Koplovsky)," Mary points out.

For the Cunniffs, knowing their customers is a big plus.

"We know a lot of our customers on a first name basis. We know what they like," Mary says.

"We get satisfaction seeing a customer pleased," she adds.

Norfolk Flower Shop is open Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is closed Saturdays during July and August. It is also open for special requests.

Bonnie Seely:

Her Dream Comes True At Blackwood Pharmacy

By CHRIS MAHONEY

After 17 years, Bonnie Seely's dream has come true. "I've always wanted to own an old fashioned corner drug store. And I got it and I'm thrilled."

Blackwood Pharmacy is old fashioned. It's 43 years old, making it the oldest operating pharmacy in Quincy. Seely is there 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year. It's that kind of business.

"I was offered mega bucks when I graduated from school to work for a chain store. But chains don't let you use your professional discretion," she says.

She illustrates this fact by saying if someone who was on medication for many years suddenly had to stop because their doctor retired, a chain store would not give that person the medication until he or she got a new doctor. By professional discretion, Seely means she will give a patient enough medication to survive.

"A chain store will not accommodate you," she says.

Seely herself is a cross between pharmacist and family doctor. She is more than willing to go to a client's home in the middle of the night with much needed medication. She had done so three times during a past week.

She also speaks to senior citizens' groups, because they are in the most need of counselling when it comes to pharmaceuticals.

"They're left sitting there like a leg of lamb," she says. "I try to make my talks as informal as possible. We talk and joke, but these people are learning a lot. Sometimes they will talk more openly with a pharmacist than with other people."

Along with lack of information reaching some people, another thing which bothers Seely is the amount of medication people take.

"The world takes far too many pills these days. Sometimes people get sick because they take too many," she says.

Part of the reason she says she became interested in being a pharmacist was because "people put so many pills into their mouths not knowing what they're taking."

She says she was always fascinated by medicine since the time she started working at a pharmacy at age 14. Before then she wanted to be a physical education major with a minor in math and music.

And yes, she's thought about being a doctor.

"But I get too emotionally involved with people," she says.

Seely does get emotionally involved with customers, she says. Not much, but just enough to insure some good old fashioned treatment.

"Let's face it. If you walk into any store these days and you're not treated with respect, you'll never go back," she says. "I treat people, when it comes to service, the way I would like my family to be treated in the same situation."

If you go into a chain drug store these days, she says, you're lucky to get a hello. Blackwood Pharmacy competes with two chain-operated stores and a few other pharmacies.

"People thought that I was crazy, opening a store in this area," she says.

But her concern for the elderly and her nursing home appearances—which probably no one else on the South Shore does—her contacts with every doctor in the city, and her commitment to personalized service have paid off.

Seely couldn't have picked a better neighborhood in which to practice. Wollaston itself is a study in neighborly love. Since she set up shop in February, this has been made clear to her many times.

"When I first opened up, a lot of the area merchants came in and introduced themselves," she says. "They bought me a plant, offered to help me paint and set up, and they come in every now and then to see how I'm doing."

She also talks about four older women who come in in the mornings just to say hello, and people coming in occasionally to say how nice the store looks.

"Let's face it, it's 1988. People are not as nice or as friendly these days. It's been a pleasure to come to Wollaston."

It's also been a pleasure, she says, to take over the helm of Blackwood, even though she had some pretty big shoes to fill.

The former owner of Blackwood was Dr. Romulus DeNicola, the executive director of the State Board of Pharmacies and her former professor.

"The store had a wonderful reputation," she says.

Prior to owning Blackwood, Seely worked at President Pharmacy on Franklin St. But becoming owner of a pharmacy was not a very big change.

"I ran President," she says. "I was in charge, to an extent. The only real difference is that it's my money."

And the paper work. She hates paperwork.

BLACKWOOD Pharmacy owner Bonnie Seely and store manager Cheryl Psaros.

But pushing papers doesn't dull her interest in her career.

"If you took away my pharmacy license, I don't know what I'd do," she says. "I think I'm at my happiest when I'm at work. It's hard work, but I'm having a ball."

Owning her own store has given her the freedom she's always wanted. She has a rapport with every doctor in the city and can tell you almost automatically what each one will prescribe for a certain malady.

"Doctors always work in trends," she says.

Doctors also ask her about medicines.

"I get a lot of calls from doctors about medication. I don't always know the answers but I'm willing to find out."

Keeping contact with doctors is vital, she says, because pharmacists will know a good deal about newer medicines. All of the medicines at Blackwood are under 10 years old. And pharmacists will know many of the side effects and proper dosage procedures which accompany medicines. Doctors specialize in diseases.

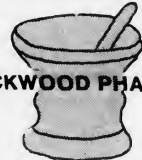

Seely also does her own compounding, or making remedies from scratch, which is cheaper than going to a store that acts as middle-man for products which aren't ready made.

She's only known such freedom for six months so far, but she hopes that nothing will ever change. Seely wants Blackwood pharmacy to continue to be a pleasant place for people to walk into, and to her this isn't far fetched.

"I've done it for 17 years, which is more than half my life. I can't stop now."

Despite Tricky Winds 51st Quincy Bay Race Week A Success

By TOM SULLIVAN

The 51st edition of Quincy Bay Race Week survived some of the trickiest winds in several years and enjoyed another highly successful week of racing last week.

The only races that had to be cancelled were the Turnabout races on opening day Wednesday and closing day Sunday due to the winds.

"These races are for young people eight and nine years old and we couldn't take chances with them," said Race Week vice president Ted Johnson.

"Otherwise it was an excellent week of racing with some of the best competition in some time. The winds were very tricky and the skippers and crews must be congratulated for the way they survived the winds. They did a tremendous job."

The winds were especially tough on the second day of racing and Hingham Yacht Club's Doug MacGregor, a many-time Race Week 210 champion and five-time national 210 champion said, "It was a terrible race, but I'll take it. The sudden and erratic winds made it tough and when the wind is that light, it becomes a case of trying to catch the leader."

MacGregory won the 210 championship again and received the Franny Charles Trophy.

The South Shore Yacht Club scored a first when 11-year-old Steve Almeida and his crew, Joe Kerrissey, won Saturday's White Fleet race. It was the first time a South Shore boat had ever won a major race.

However, Quincy's Pat Riley was the overall winner in this division.

The annual Marine Parade was as colorful as always with a good number of gaily-decorated boats.

For the first time in many years Al Shaughnessy was not the parade marshal. He retired after last year's parade and succeeding him was Bernie Reisberg, a veteran member of the Quincy Bay Race Week Association.

Trophy Day will be Sunday, Oct. 16, at 3 p.m. at the Quincy Yacht Club when all the trophies will be awarded.

AMONG the 210 competitors during Race Week was Number 401 running before the wind.

Quincy Legion All-Stars Rebound Against Sharon

• Babe Ruth League

Local 1139 Defeats Bryan For Title

The Legion all-star baseball team put together by Quincy Legion coach Ed Spring was still in the running in the second annual Semi-Pro tournament at Adams Field going into Tuesday night's games.

The team, comprised of players from Quincy, Morrisette, Wallaston, Braintree and Milton Legions, lost a 7-4 lead and dropped an 8-7 decision to the more experienced Quincy Sluggers, but came back to defeat the Sharon Cubs of the same league, 5-3.

The all-stars were scheduled to face the Braintree White Sox of the Babe Ruth League Tuesday night and hoped to win and gain the double-elimination spot.

In the first game against the Sluggers, the all-stars led 7-4, going into the last inning on the strength of a fine pitching effort by Milton's Fred Quinlan. After allowing the first two batters to reach in the eighth, Quinlan was replaced by Dan Mitchell of Braintree, who was unable to hold the lead.

Pat O'Sullivan, a former Quincy Legion player, singled in the winning run with the bases loaded and two outs.

In the Sharon game the all-stars jumped off to a 3-1 lead in the first inning and built a 5-3 lead in the fifth, holding on to stay in the running.

Rob Higgins, the ace pitcher for Quincy Legion, pitched an outstanding game in the 95 degree heat, keeping Sharon off balance and walking only one while scattering six hits.

Milton's Chris Taylor started the all-stars off, driving in two runs in the first. Higgins later drove in Bill Robinson with the winning run.

"I'm really not surprised at the pitching and defense, but I am pleased by the way we have hit and run the bases," said Spring, who is coaching the team along with his fellow Quincy Legion coach Dick Laracy. "I said from the beginning that this team would be competitive. The kids have done an outstanding job both on offense and defense and every single one of them has contributed at one time or another."

The outfield play has been handled well by Ed Flavin, Peter Tufts, Bob Kearney, Jim Dennis and Jay Iespasio. The infield duties have been handled nearly flawlessly by Ron Fletcher, Dan Biagini, Nick Dragone, Mike Mullaney and Chris Taylor. Bill Mulhern and Kyle Robertson have been doing a fine job catching and the pitching has been handled by Fred Quinlan, Rob Higgins, Dan Mitchell and Chris Higgins. L.J. Steen was scheduled to start against Braintree Tuesday. Mark DiMattio has been an effective designated hitter.

"No matter what happens from now on, Dick Laracy and I are very proud of these kids, who have done a fine job against more experienced teams," said Spring.

5 Win Hotshot City Titles

Five Quincy youngsters have captured the city championship in the Pepsi-NBA Hotshot competition sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department and Milton Pepsi Cola.

This is the first step in a National Competition that could result in an appearance at a Boston Celtics game at Boston Garden or the NBA finals.

The Quincy champions competed in a district playoff and advanced to the city championship in three different age groups. The winners are: Boys 9-12, Eddy Kenney; girls 9-12, Sandy Buonopane; boys 13-15, Sean Donovan; boys 16-18, Keith Douglas; girls 16-18, Elizabeth Gonzalez.

The runners-up in the

Garvie Wells Trophy B Fleet Winner

B. Garvie was the winner of the Wells Trophy (B Fleet) in Shooter, followed by F. Manning in Mirage and D. Cleverly in Wind's Free.

Quincy Employees Local 1193, which finished the regular season with 19-2-1 record, won the Babe Ruth League city championship, defeating Bryan VFW in four games in the final round of the playoffs.

Local 1193 won the opener, 12-5, receiving fine pitching from Bobby Fitzpatrick, who scattered six hits and struck out seven. Gary Rawdon had four hits, Fred Regan, Kosta Rozantis and Fitzpatrick two each and Tony Stafford one. Steve Loud and Kevin Mullay had two hits each for Bryan and Mark Kelleher and Pat McDonough one apiece.

Local romped, 21-4, in the second game with Scott Dunn pitching an outstanding game. Regan had three doubles and a single and eight RBI. Pat Shea had two hits and three RBI and Dunn and Fitzpatrick two hits each. Mike Malvesti, Tom Nutley and Mullay had two hits each for Bryan.

Bryan came back to win the third game, 10-4, with McDonough pitching a seven-hitter. Don Anderson and Kelleher had three hits each and Robbie Kanetwo for Bryan, while Regan had three hits and Rawdon two for Local 1139.

Local captured the city title with a 14-3 decision in the fourth and deciding game.

Dunn pitched well for his second win of the series, keeping the Bryan batters off balance by mixing pitches and changing speeds. Rawdon had three hits and four RBI. Fitzpatrick two hits and Floren Neamy, Brendan Toland, Paul Harrington, Regan, Dunn and Shea one each. Pat Gallagher was outstanding defensively at shortstop throughout the series. Bryan received strong performances from Kane, Malvestrand Nutley, with two hits each.

Other contributors for Local 1139 were Billy Stavros, Chris Roncarati and Patrick Donahue.

Bryan received strong efforts from Philip Bell, Joe Marnikovic, Steve Waas, Chris Stenmon, Terry Sheehan, Paul Murphy and Todd Portesi.

Quincy Track Club Takes 28 Medals In Kelly Memorial Meet

The Quincy Track Club came away with 28 medals in the recent 13th annual Frank Kelly Memorial meet which christened the new track surface at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The new facility produced extremely fast times and the visiting athletes remarked at the softness of the new surface and the wide lanes.

"The track itself is no different, it is still five laps to the mile, but we now have four lanes around the track and five on the straight-away. The facility is a real jewel, it is beautiful," said QTC director Jeff Hennessy.

Nearly 150 athletes, including those from Cape Cod and Methuen, responded with outstanding performances.

In 15-18 action Quincy's Chris DiGiacomo took second in the long jump with an excellent jump of 18-6 1/2.

Peter Stemiski won the discus and took third in the shot put and Ann Fitzpatrick won the shotput for girls.

In 13-14 action Brian Klier won the 800, John DiGiacomo took second in the shot with 11-year old Tony Liccardi third.

In girls 13-14 Jennifer Pratt won the 800 and long jump and took third in the 500. Maureen Fewer was second in the long jump, Erin O'Brien second in the high jump (only 12 years old) and Meghan Barry, only 11, second in the shotput with an excellent toss of 23-7. Erin Hamden was third in the 800 and Haley Houle third in the high jump.

In 11-12 events, Tony Liccardi won the 100 meters, Roger Smith won the 400 with his best time ever, 71.36, and in girls' action Noreen Fewer took second in the 400 and Kerry McGahan took thirds in the 400 and long jump.

In the 9-10 events, Andy Myers took second in the 400 and third in the 100, Sean Glennon took third in the long jump and Jon Hamden third the 400. For the girls, Barbara Scolaro won the long jump and took third in the 400.

In boys 7-8 races Patrick Grogan won the 100 meters with Nicholas Brugaglio third.

"I want to thank all who helped at the meet and during our summer program to make it a great success," said Hennessy. "We had over 100 athletes sign up this season. The talent, especially among the younger athletes, has never been better. With the new track and Middle School sports coming back, I hope we're on a roll now."

Applications Available For City Tennis Tourney

The Quincy Recreation Department announces that applications are now available for the 18th annual city of Quincy Tennis Tournament.

Recreation Director Barry Welsh said this year's tournament will once again be co-sponsored by the Granite Cooperative Bank.

"This makes the 10th year of our association with Granite Cooperative. Their commitment to our city, by each year providing awards, refreshments and printing for this event, helps to provide a positive recreational activity for young and old as well as men and women. We are pleased that they continue to support our All City Tournament.

This year, John Franceschini will return as tournament director and will oversee action in ten separate events. There will also be a special consolation in the largest that we have registered entries. This year's events are: Men's 50 and over, men's 35 and over, men's singles, men's doubles, mixed doubles, women's 35 and over, women's singles, women's doubles, boys 16 and under and girls 16 and under.

Applications are available at the Quincy Recreation Department, City Hall, and both branches of Granite Cooperative Bank.

All participants must be residents of Quincy and the deadline for applications is Friday, September 2. The matches will be played nights and weekends at the Vo-Tech Tennis Courts beginning Wednesday, Sept. 7, and will continue until champions are crowned in all divisions.

Application fee is $7 for the first event and $1 for each additional event. Additional information can be obtained by calling the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380, ext. 204.

Dick Koch Softball Doubleheader Thursday

Tickets are still available for the first annual Dick Koch Memorial Muscular Dystrophy Softball Doubleheader to be played tonight (Thursday) at Adams Field on Southern Artery, Quincy.

The game was named this year in memory of Richard J. Koch Sr., who was the principal organizer for the game for 10 years.

Mr. Koch, who served with Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth as co-chairman of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon Committee for 11 years, died last August. The committee has raised more than $1 million, including $15,000 from game proceeds.

The doubleheader features the Quincy Police versus Fire at 6:30 and City Officials against the News Media All Stars at 8 p.m.

Tickets to the game are available at The Quincy Sun, City Hall and the Quincy Council on Aging office. Co-chairmen for the game are Thomas Koch and Robert Bosworth.

Many new players will take to field for Jerry's Kids this year in what is always a fun and action-filled game.

For the first year ever, Continental Cable Television Channel 3 will set up a broadcasting booth at Adams Field.

The broadcast, to include play-by-play and on-air guests, will be rebroadcast in its entirety at a later date.

Also, a baseball glove donated by Colman's Sporting Goods of Quincy will be offered in a drawing. Proceeds will also benefit MDA.

In case of inclement weather, the game will be replayed Thursday, Aug. 25.

3 YMCA Swimmers Compete In Championships

Three members of the South Shore YMCA swim team took part in the recent U.S. New England long course age group championships at Brown University.

James M. Keyes (8 and under) finished second in his age group with a second in the 50-meter freestyle (1:37.38), fourth in 100 freestyle (1:29.07), second in the 50 backstroke (4:36.3), third in the 50 breaststroke (5:30.3) and third in the 50 butterfly (4:15.1).

James Morrell (9-10) finished seventh in the 50 breaststroke (4:47.41) and ninth in the 100 breaststroke (1:45.59).

David Cangiano (13-14) placed eighth in the 100 butterfly (1:09.83) and ninth in the 100 freestyle (1:01.39).

The Y swimmers made a fine showing in the U.S. New England area short course meet.

Finishing in the top 10 at 8 and under were Marianne Blaikie, Paul Zukauskas and Keyes.

Marianne was the champion in her age group, winning the 25 freestyle (15:07) and 50 freestyle (32.49), taking second in the 25 backstroke (17.93), third in the 25 butterfly (17.04), fourth in the 100 freestyle (1:15.94) and sixth in the 100 individual medley (1:27.57).

Sukauskas won the 25 freestyle (14.28) and 50 freestyle (32.32) and Keyes finished ninth in the 25 freestyle (15.48), fourth in the 25 backstroke (18.64), eighth in the 50 breaststroke (46.21) and fourth in the 50 backstroke (40.60).

The South Shore Y swimmers team is recruiting swimmers of all ages from 1-17 for the fall season. Further information can be had by calling the Y at 479-8500. Janet Keyes is the YMCA coach.

Paul Kelly Named Managing Partner Of Boston Law Firm

Paul C. Kelly of Quincy has been named managing partner of Parker, Coulter, Daley & White.

The 70-member Boston law firm was established in 1904 and is one of the leading civil litigation firms in the northeast.

Kelly replaces Maurice F. Shaughnessy, who served for eight years at the firm's helm. Shaughnessy will return to trial work and take on special assignments at Parker, Coulter, Daley & White.

Parker, Coulter, Daley & White handles cases in a number of areas including personal injury, worker's compensation, commercial litigation and professional malpractice. The firm also has highly respected corporate and appellate departments and is routinely involved in complex litigation in the federal and state courts.

Kelly, who has been with the firm for 17 years, is a graduate of Boston College and Boston College Law School. His primary areas of practice at Parker, Coulter, Daley & White are litigation and disability law, with an emphasis in worker's compensation, social security, and retirement systems.

Kelly is a past member of the Quincy Planning Board and formerly served as a member and vice chairman of the Quincy School Committee. He now serves on the executive committee of The Worker's Compensation Trial Bar of Massachusetts.

William Berardi Elected NEAMA President

Quincy Savings Bank announces that William G. Berardi has been elected president of the New England Adjustment Managers Association (NEAMA).

Founded in 1969, NEAMA is a professional association of credit and collections managers from around New England.

Berardi is vice president-consumer loan officer at Quincy Savings Bank. He joined Quincy Savings in 1977 from Newworld Bank where he was an assistant manager. Berardi is a graduate of Boston State College, the Massachusetts School of Financial Studies, and the National School of Finance and Management. He also served four years in the U.S. Air Force.

"We are proud of Bill's accomplishment and know he'll be an outstanding president of NEAMA," said

Charles A. Pearce, chairman and chief executive officer at Quincy Savings Bank.

Quincy Savings Bank, which operates nine branches on the South Shore, is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Excel Bancorp. Inc.

Marie DeBonis Asst. V.P. At Wollaston Credit Union

Wollaston Credit Union recently named Maria DeBonis Assistant Vice President of the bank's Wollaston office.

She previously served as Assistant Treasurer. Prior to joining Wollaston Credit Union, DeBonis was Personnel manager for The Stop & Shop Companies. Her new responsibilities at Wollaston Credit Union include mortgage loan closings and mortgage and consumer loan operations. A resident of Quincy, DeBonis is a member of the PTO Club for St. Joseph's School in Quincy Point.

We're Celebrating Our 20th Year!

The Quincy Sun will be 20 years old in September and we are celebrating with a special anniversary issue Sept. 28.

The top Quincy news stories and photos of the past two decades will be highlighted in this nostalgic special issue.

Come back to 1968 when some of your favorite political figures sported

crewcuts, the MBTA's Red Line was coming to Quincy, James McIntyre was mayor and senator, the average family income was $11,000, there were 8,000 workers at the General Dynamics Shipyard and the future was looking mighty bright. And you could still buy a pretty good house for $25,000.

Quincy Beaches Considered 'Swimmable'

Quincy's 15 beaches are considered swimmable by the city's Health Department after recently conducting water sample tests.

The results are:
Avalon Beach: fecal coliform 12.
Mound Beach: 10.
Broadway Beach: 35.

Germantown Fire Station: 22.

Rhoda Beach: 27.
Edgewater Dr.: 120.
Parkhurst St.: 14.
Post Island Rd.: 7.
Chickatawbut Rd.: 45.
Nickerson Beach: 5.
Orchard Beach: less than 10.

Fecal coliform counts of less than 200 are swimmable while counts over 200 are unacceptable and unhealthy for swimming.

The four MDC Wollaston beach areas use enterococci counts to determine swimmability.

Enterococci of greater than 104 is considered unacceptable for swimming.

MDC controlled beach area results are:
Wollaston-Rice Rd.: 83 (fecal coliform 38).
Wollaston-Sachem St.: 2 (fecal coliform less than 5).
Wollaston-Channing St.: 6 (10 fecal coliform).
Wollaston-Milton St.: 2 (less than 5 fecal coliform).

City To Purchase 6 New Flood Pumps

(cont'd from Page 1)

One is a $10 million flood control project while the other is a $3 million sewer improvement project. McCauley said the funding for flood control has been approved by the state with the help of Representative

Michael Morrissey and Senator Paul Harold.

"They've been working very hard to acquire the money needed for that project," McCauley said.

Funding for sewer improvements, including a new pumping station in West Quincy, has not been received.

"We're working on state and federal funds. If these monies are forthcoming I think we can cut down on some flooding areas."

"We're aware of the various flooding problems and we've been doing our job but it's a matter of funding," the mayor said.

"Once money comes in for sewer improvements, there'll be improvements made," he added.

Overall, the mayor said he was pleased with the emergency actions of city officials and volunteers during the recent flooding.

"Given the suddenness of this matter the city departments reacted very quickly and worked very well," he said.

First Woman Named 3 New Building Inspectors Appointed

Three new building inspectors, including the first woman in Quincy's history, have been appointed to the city's Building Department. Mayor Francis McCauley announced Tuesday.

The starting salary of the position is $31,107 annually. Kathleen F. Nugent, 25, of 48 Turner St., Quincy, is the city's first appointed female building inspector, McCauley said.

Nugent is a 1985 graduate of Wentworth Institute of Technology with a bachelor of science degree in architectural engineering technology. She was previously employed by R. Wendall Phillips and Associates of Cambridge and Presidential Sheet Metal Inc. of Rockland.

Joseph I. Prondak, 29, of Hull, has completed more than 230 hours of courses in masonry construction and construction management at Wentworth Institute in Boston. Prondak is presently a building inspector in Hull.

Eugene I. Caruso, 31, of Braintree, received a bachelor of science degree in engineering technology from Wentworth. His related work experience includes rehabilitation and restoration, concrete reinforcing steel, slab floor construction and structural engineering.

A former inspector and field engineer during the Fenway Park Phase II project, Caruso is currently employed by Weidinger Associates of Cambridge.

The three candidates were chosen from 14 applicants. Each has passed an extensive background and experience check, McCauley said.

After 'Summit' Meeting McCauley, Cerasoli Still Disagree On 4-Year Terms

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Despite meeting with one another for almost an hour Tuesday, Mayor Francis McCauley and State Rep. Robert Cerasoli are still at odds over two pieces of legislation concerning Quincy, including one that would change the term for mayor and city councillors to four years.

During the 50-minute meeting held in the mayor's office, the two officials reiterated their views on two home rule petitions filed by McCauley.

One would increase the terms for mayor and city councillors from two to four years while the other would change the position of executive secretary of park and forestry to a mayor's appointment from Civil Service.

McCauley supports the two measures while Cerasoli is opposed to them.

Both petitions have passed the Senate and now await action by the House of Representatives. Both need House approval and Gov. Michael Dukakis's signature before they can be put on the November ballot.

If placed on the ballot, voters would then decide their fate.

In addition to McCauley and Cerasoli, the meeting was attended by City Solicitor Joseph "Jay" MacRitchie, Administrative Assistant Arthur Foley, two aides to

Walking, Bike Conditions To Be Improved At Wollaston Beach Area

MDC Commissioner William Geary says steps will be taken to improve the walking and bicycling conditions along the Metro Parks walkway that runs from Fenno St. to Caddy Park in the Wollaston Beach area.

At a recent meeting of the Quincy Council on Aging members of the board said they had received complaints from several senior citizens who use the walkway regularly.

Because of the many bends in the thoroughfare which is lined with shrubs and trees pedestrians are unable to see and hear cyclists approaching from either direction. Cyclists are likewise unaware that pedestrians are in the area.

As a result of minor mishaps to seniors using the walkway the Council on Aging voted to send a letter to Geary outlining the problem.

John Noonan, council chairman, wrote to Geary and suggested possible improvements to avoid possible mishaps.

Geary wrote Noonan that "bushes along the path will be trimmed and pruned in order to increase visibility. Additionally, signage will be installed to notify both walkers and cyclists to proceed with caution and courtesy. I am confident that these measures will ensure a safe, smooth and scenic walkway-bike path for all its users."

Quincy May Get 84 More Listings In National Historic Register

Quincy may have an additional 84 listings in the National Register of Historic Places (National Register) if structures considered Sept. 14 by the Massachusetts Historical Commission are nominated favorably, it was learned Monday night.

In response to letters notifying property owners of their nominations, more than a hundred persons interested in the Multiple Resources Area Property Owners' nominations appeared at the Quincy Historic District Commission meeting at the City Hall Conference Room. Included were representatives from Bethany Congregational Church, the Quincy Masonic Temple, and owners of private homes.

James Bradley, director of presentation planning for the Mass. Historical Commission, stated that the commission was established in 1963 by the state to preserve historically significant buildings, industrial, commercial, educational and private homes.

There are now 27 Quincy structures listed, according to Betsy Friedberg, National Register Director. She explained that the Quincy list of 84 nominations was compiled two years ago by Julie Johnson, a professional preservation consultant. They are deemed important to the community's history because of architectural, archaeological or historical significance.

"Owners of property or homes listed in the National Register are in no way limited in making alterations, painting or even demolition," she said, and it is not necessary to open the property to the public.

Owners not interested in having their property included in the National Register listing should send a notarized letter to the Mass. Historical Commission before the September meeting.

Johnson showed slides of many of the Quincy properties nominated, commenting on Quincy's history from a farm community to industrial suburb from 1634 to 1938, the cutoff date for MHC consideration.

The open meeting was arranged by Robert Sammon of the Quincy Planning Department and Joyce I. Baker, chairman of the Quincy Historical Commission, who presided.

Merrymount. Wollaston Schools Open Sept. 7

Opening hour for two Quincy public schools not previously listed for Sept. 7 are:

Merrymount - Early opening at 8:15 a.m.

Wollaston - Late opening at 8:45 a.m.

These schools were inadvertently omitted from information provided by the Quincy School Department, and printed in The Quincy Sun on Aug. 18.

Second Norfolk Candidates Agree More Than Disagree

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Three Democratic and two Republican candidates for the office of State Representative from the Norfolk District set forth their platforms Monday night at the Houghs Neck Community Center.

The office has been vacant since January when Thomas Brownell resigned to become a judge of Plymouth Court.

There was standing room only at the center to hear candidates Denis Tardo and Richard Harris, Republican candidates; and Patricia Toland, Stephen J. Durkin and Arthur Stephen Tobin, Democrats.

Topics discussed, with Jack Nigro as moderator, included the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority, the Mass. State budget, trash and landfill, public education, drugs, and a rail system through Quincy.

Tobin called for "mandatory sentences for trafficking" as well as minor-related-drug offenses.

Durkin disagreed, calling it "not a good solution for a complex problem," while Toland favored a case by case consideration.

Republicans Tardo and Harris both agreed on stricter sentencing but neither was specific.

The candidates agreed on several of the topics.

Speaking of sludge treatment and its disposal, Toland said "Spectacle Island is a most preferred option... I would certainly support it."

Tobin agreed. "There are no neighbors in close proximity."

All favored having the MWRA move its offices to the Quincy Shipyard, citing high expenses of the present offices.

All agreed that teachers should receive more compensation, and more incentive to improve the educational skills they possess.

Harris, Tardo and Durkin agreed on giving working parents tax credits for day care. Toland said day care should be more the responsibility of businesses.

On the possibility of restoring Old Colony rail tracks through Quincy, only Tobin was undecided, stating that he would want to review the question with his constituents. Others agreed it would be unwelcome to Quincy.

Tardo and Durkin were the only two to give specifics on their support for the elderly.

Tardo said he would support a cap on medicine costs with price increases comparable to Social Security benefits. Durkin said he would support legislation preventing long-term care facilities from discriminating against patients on grounds of physical health.

There were five-minute introductory statements by each candidate, with three-minute closing statements. Questions submitted by those attending were answered by all candidates, with Tom Timcoe serving as timer for the candidates' replies.

The forum will be seen on cable television Channel 3 on Thursday at 8 p.m.

Free QJC Program For Unemployed

Quincy Junior College has received a grant from the State Department of Occupational Education to conduct a free program for unemployed, single adults in the South Shore area.

There are no income guidelines to be eligible for this program. A high school diploma is not a requirement.

Courses will focus on computer operations including keyboarding, introduction to computers, word processing, Data Base II, Lotus 1-2-3, basic math, basic English and Career Counseling and Development. The intent of this program is for the participants to acquire modern business skills as well as full-time office positions.

The program will begin Sept. 12, and will run through June 30, 1989. Hours will be Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Pre-registration days will be held at Quincy Junior College, Coddington Building, second floor, Room 10, 34 Coddington St., Quincy Center, Aug. 31, and Sept. 1 at 12 noon. Pre-registration will consist of orientation, application and group testing. Group testing will commence at 2 p.m. and the total pre-registration will end no later than 4 p.m.

Readers Forum Complains Apartment Building Denied Cable TV Access

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I am writing you this letter to inform you that 40 apartments located at 530 Willard St. in Quincy are being denied access to cable television. I feel that this is a violation of our personal rights.

This may seem like a petty issue to you, but it is very important to me, and to a lot of other people.

We are being denied access to Quincy public television, and therefore are not able to watch political debates and such that are televised to Quincy residents only.

We are also denied movies, music, sports, weather, request television and so much more.

What is being done to us is a form of communism pure and simple. What's next? Will tenants be denied telephones, just because the wires don't look good on the building?

I am infuriated that Nordbloom Mgmt. Company of Burlington is able to get away with this. I have repeatedly asked Mr. William Howell of Nordbloom Mgmt. if they would re-consider letting Continental Cablevision wire this building. He has said that his lawyers have advised him against it. Why would lawyers advise someone against installing cable television wires? I don't know.

What I do know is that we need your support to rectify this situation. Please send me your written response so that I can use it to make Nordbloom Mgmt. understand the severity of this issue. Your support is appreciated.

Quincy Police Department
Dear Chief Finn:

I appreciated the prompt and courteous service shown to us at Bank of New England on Southern Artery on August 9, 1988.

We had an occasion of a possible credit card fraud and the fast response of the Quincy Police Department enabled us to apprehend the suspect.

It is very rewarding to know the Quincy Police Department is on the job protecting us 24 hours a day.

DO CONDO OWNERS NEED HOMEOWNERS' INSURANCE?

When you pay your condo fee each month, a part of it goes to pay for the project's master insurance policy. Does this mean you don't need your own policy?

Almost all condominium association policies provide coverage for the building, but not for the contents of each unit in the project. In addition, liability coverage may not extend to injuries that occur in your unit. If someone is injured in the hallway of the building, the association's policy may cover it, but if a mishap occurs in your unit, you may be liable for any resulting damages. You should also be certain that you're covered if one of the systems in your unit damages another owner's property. Leaky plumbing damaging the ceiling downstairs is a typical example of a problem that could arise. As a unit owner, better safe than sorry is good advice!

For professional advice on all of your insurance needs please contact the experts at Riley & Rielly Insurance Agency, Inc. Call us at 471-8200 or stop by our office at 1050 Hancock Street in Quincy.

It Happened At The Lincoln

I don't think I'll ever run for President.

And, if someone ever asks me to be his (her) vice presidential running mate, I'm going to pass that up, too.

I just don't want anyone digging into my background.

If I were a potential vice presidential candidate the Presidential nominee would, of course, have me checked out. And, if he didn't do a thorough job at it, the press would.

One of the questions they would probably ask would be: "Have you ever committed a crime?"

And, I would reply: "No, never!"

But then, they would get to digging and some little thing I had long forgotten about might pop up and prove embarrassing.

Like when I was a kid in Quincy Point I did something that I shouldn't have. But others were doing the same thing and you really had to be pretty good at it to get away with it.

If you won't think I'm terrible, I'll confess right now.

I sneaked into the Lincoln Theater.

Not once. But several times.

Now, if you lived in Quincy Point or North Weymouth back in the mid 1930's or early 1940's, the Lincoln Theater on Washington St. was your social center.

That's where you went on a Saturday afternoon if you were a kid. And for a dime you could see The Three Stooges, a Buck Jones or Gene Autry western and maybe a Bulldog Drummond B feature. And you might get Popeye as a bonus.

But dimes weren't always easy to come by.

And if you had the dime, you kind of liked to hold onto it to buy a bag of gumdrops or green mints or chocolate drops.

The Saturday and Sunday matinee were usually packed. People bought their tickets at the little box office out front and then waited for the doors to open.

As soon as the doors swung open, there would be a great surge forward. Those of us without tickets would stand in the middle of those with tickets and be carried in with the tide. The ushers were so busy taking tickets, they didn't see the ones without them walk right by.

One kid, just to make it more interesting, used to walk in backwards. And if an usher caught him he would say: "Oh, I remember seeing this movie before. I'm just leaving."

Those of us who did sneak in didn't do it always just to save a dime. It was a challenge. I don't remember any of us ever being caught.

But then, when the theater started to have Saturday afternoon drawings for prizes we bought a ticket so we would be eligible to win.

One Saturday afternoon I won a baseball bat and ball. I was the envy of every guy in the theater.

After the drawing, I returned to my seat near the back of the theater and the movie resumed. Suddenly, in the darkness, the ball dropped out of my lap and rolled down to the stage area. Someone scooped it up and pocketed it.

I was heartbroken. So were my friends. A new bat and ball to start the summer season off with were something to look forward to.

I timidly went to the office of the theater owner, and almost in tears told him I lost the ball. He kindly gave me another one.

THE LINCOLN THEATER just before it was demolished in 1980 and where the crime was committed.

We used that bat and ball in a field off Des Moines Rd., the whole summer, taping the ball when the cover was knocked off and the handle of the bat everytime it was cracked. The ball got bigger and the bat heavier as the days went by.

The Lincoln Theater, as I said, was our social center long before movies were brought into our living room via television.

The theater was usually packed on Saturday afternoons. Sundays when the best movie of the week was shown, Tuesday night which was dish night, Thursday and Saturday nights which were money nights.

You know just about everyone in the theater. Most people sat in the very same seat every time they went there which was just about every time the movies changed.

I'm sure there were times when many families in Quincy Point sat down to Sunday dinner with the same set of dishes on the table.

The dishes were given to women on Tuesday nights, one dish a week until the set was complete. Admission price was 15 or 20 cents.

Money nights were big nights, too.

There were sealed unmarked brown envelopes, two or three with a $1 bill in them, one with a $2 bill, one with a $5 and another with the big prize: $10.

Ticket numbers were called and the lucky stub holders, one at a time, walked down to the stage to pick out one of the envelopes. And if you happened to have one of the first numbers and picked out a $1 bill, you got the Quincy Point razz all the way back to your seat.

And whenever the $10 envelope was the last to get picked up, that person was cheered all the way back to his or her seat.

We didn't have much else back then but we did have a lot of fun.

The Lincoln is long gone now. But the fond memories are still there.

You know, I feel a little better now that I have confessed my crimes at the Lincoln.

But, I'm still not going to run for President or vice president.

If I do, they're going to find out for sure that I was the one that led the raids on the tomatoes in Hubbab Elias' garden on Winter St.

Not to mention the apples over at Never mind.

I've told you too much already.

A Confidential Hot Line For Children Living With Domestic Violence

Youths who are living with domestic violence now have a place to turn to talk about their feelings of confusion, guilt and hurt.

DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended), a Quincy organization, established this month a 24-hour a day, seven day a week, confidential hotline at 773-HURT for children and teens.

"Probably the biggest help we can offer is to be there to let children get their feelings off their chest," said Rose Mary Kirwin, Community Programs Director, who has been with DOVE since it started in 1978.

"We can tell them it's not their fault, and offer some ways to cope," she said.

"Most kids have been in abusive families as long as they can remember.

"They wipe mama's tears and think the fights between their parents are their fault," Mrs. Kirwin said.

She explained that children often have a sense of guilt that they caused daddy to beat mommy because they spilled their milk, or they cried when they fell and this woke daddy up.

Statistics show that the long term consequences result in the perpetuation of the cycle of violence, said Mrs. Kirwin.

Over 75 percent of the children from abusive homes become abused or abusive, according to information from DOVE.

One study indicates that 80 percent of the adult prisoners that committed violent crimes grew up in abusive households, according to DOVE.

Staff members from DOVE with comprehensive training are available to talk with youths and offer survival techniques, Mrs. Kirwin said.

"Sometimes they suggest writing a note to the mother about how much they hurt, and giving it to her when she is in a good mood," she said.

DOVE is also reaching out to youths in local middle and high schools with talks by Mrs. Kirwin, who addresses adult groups as well.

"I talk about family dynamics, teen dating and violence, how to handle stress, domestic abuse," she explained.

"The common component is violence in the midst of a relationship."

According to Mrs. Kirwin, some 30 percent of all teen dating situations are violent or controlling.

"That can include an occasional push, grab, slap or verbal abuse," she said.

"I talk to them about what attracts us to different people, what keeps us in a situation.

"I ask them why they want to feel the negatives - sweaty palms, stomach aches.

"I tell them to think about it, and give them literature.

"Kids are usually very responsive and want to analyze it.

"At least we can give them the seeds of education.

"I see kids as the promise of the future."

Mrs. Kirwin hopes that children and teens can be taught to avoid violent situations before they need such shelters as the one run for women by DOVE.

The shelter for battered women and their children first opened in Quincy at the Gordon House at Quincy City Hospital.

"We never would have gotten started without Quincy City Hospital and the City of Quincy," she said.

"I call them our fairy godparents.

"Whenever we have had an appeal, everyone has helped."

In 1982, the shelter moved to another location in Quincy. The location is not disclosed.

It serves some 500 women and children a year, according to Mrs. Kirwin.

"It's a place where women run when they are in trauma," she said.

The average stay is two weeks and there are 18 beds, according to Mrs. Kirwin.

"Our shelter is probably one of the most cozy," she said. "But in reality, no one wants to be in a shelter."

She admits to seeing some very sad cases.

"Some of them tear you apart," said Mrs. Kirwin.

"But I'm an optimist at heart. And there is always hope."

For more information about DOVE, or to arrange for a speaker, call 471-5087.

The DOVE hotline for battered women is 471-1234.

Quincy's Yesterdays 8 Candidates For Governor Invade City

It was difficult to get about Quincy without stumbling over a candidate in the September state primary elections.

No less than eight potential Democratic nominees for governor showed up at the annual clambake put on by the Quincy Democratic City Committee and the Democratic Women's Club of Quincy at the Weymouth Fairgrounds.

They included State Secretary Joseph D. Ward, Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr., Auditor Thomas J. Buckley, Lt. Gov. Robert Murphy, Gabriel Piemonte, Patrick J. (Sonny) McDonough, Endicott Peabody and Francis E. Kelly.

Rep. James R. McIntyre (D-Quincy) was toastmaster of the affair and Rep. Joseph E. Brett (D-Quincy) represented Gov. Foster Furcolo, who was seeking the nomination to oppose Republican Sen. Leverett Saltonstall.

Sen. Charles W. Hedges (R-Quincy), the GOP candidate for sheriff of Norfolk County, was the guest of honor at a cookout at the home of Mrs. Claire Nelson of 32 Briggs St., Wollaston.

And George G. Burke, a candidate for the state legislature, told a house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barry, 31 Hunt St., Atlantic, that "a man should not run for public office if he is not qualified."

ANCIENT PUMPER CLAIMED

Richard Williams of Pompano Beach, Fla., a former Quincy firefighter, returned to his home town to lay claim to ownership of Granite III, the 116-year-old handhub pumper in storage at the Houghs Neck Fire Station.

Williams said Granite III was purchased in 1844, not by the city but with money raised by the call firemen of the old Granite Co. William's father was the last marshal of the Granite Co.

The Florida man said he wanted to restore the old pumper and place it in a suitable location.

Fresh Tomato Salad A Little Different

Over the weekend, our daughter Rita's friends Keith and Connie invited us over for lobsters. I seldom go anywhere without finding some new way to prepare various types of food. And so it was that night, when a fresh garden tomato salad was served quite different, at least for us. Our hosts graciously gave us this great combo of ingredients that was both colorful and delectable.

KEITH AND CONNIE'S FRESH TOMATO SALAD

1 Lb. of fresh tomatoes
(cut up in small pieces)
One 8 oz package of cream cheese
1 tsp of dill
(you can substitute fresh basil)
About 10-12 black olives
Olive oil to toss mixture with Salt and pepper

Cut up the tomatoes. Cut the cream cheese in squares and olives in small pieces. Connie said you can also use green olives. Mix all together with the salt and pepper, the olive oil and the dill. It is the tastiest combination involving fresh tomatoes that I've ever had and I'm sure you will feel the same way.

Don't worry, the lobsters didn't take a back seat over the tomato salad. Keith steamed them as opposed to boiling and they were delicious! In between times, they had some great music playing on the stereo and my husband wasted no time in teaching Rita some of his "jitterbug steps" as the others who were watching made plans to do some serious dancing as soon as the cool weather arrives!

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previtte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point; Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

QJC Student Receives Restaurant Assn. Scholarship

Quincy Junior College announces that Theresa Rawding of Millis has been named the recipient of a $500 scholarship given by the Massachusetts Restaurant Association.

She plans to graduate June, 1989 from Q.J.C.'s Hotel-Restaurant Management program.

Theresa's high scholastic achievement during her freshman year was the determining factor in her selection for the scholarship.

Rich Doyon, an instructor in the Hotel-Restaurant program and a member of the selection committee, also noted that she accomplished this high scholastic standing while working within the hospitality industry to gain experience and insight. Theresa plans to continue her education beyond Quincy Junior College and obtain a bachelor's degree in food service management before advancing her career in the hospitality industry.

Dr. O. Clayton Johnson, president of Quincy Junior College, presented the scholarship to Theresa at a ceremony in his office.

When asked how she felt about winning the scholarship, she replied, "Coming from a very small town where only the very top students received scholarships I didn't expect any type of scholarship or aid for going to school. This will cover a large part of my tuition so it's great."

Honorary Deputy Sheriffs To Present Memorial Scholarships

Awarding of its first scholarships and a tour of the John F. Kennedy Library and Museum are planned by the Honorary Deputy Sheriffs' Association of Norfolk County for the evening of Sept. 14.

The first two John A. Caporale, Sr. Memorial Scholarship Awards will be presented. Students continuing their education and who wish to apply for the scholarships may call the Sheriff's Office at Dedham for a Scholarship Application.

Applicants must fill out the necessary forms and have a school transcript forwarded to the Sheriff's Office, ATT Scholarship Committee, P.O. Box 149, Dedham, MA 02026 no later than Sept. 2, 1988.

The program opens at 6 p.m. with arrival at the Library Lobby. At 6:30 p.m. an introductory film will be shown. Scholarship Awards will be presented at 7 p.m., followed by a tour of the museum at 7:15 p.m.

A wine and cheese buffet from 7:45 to 9:30 p.m. will close the evening's events.

Tickets for the evening are $25 per person and can be purchased by calling Dean Coletti at the Sheriff's Office at 329-6730 or Jim Roche at 326-2787. Ticket purchases must be made by Sept. 7.

Helen Kelly is chairman for the evening.

CRUISING ABOARD the Massachusetts Bay Lines vessel New Boston are three members of the group from the John Adams Nursing Home, 211 Franklin St., Quincy. The tour of Boston Harbor was hosted by Boston Gas, which sponsors trips every summer for non-profit youth and senior citizen organizations. ## 9:30 A.M. Service At Squantum First Church

"Encountering the Living Christ Personally" was the title of the sermon preached Sunday morning at the First Church of Squantum by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor.

The congregation sang "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today," "Joy Dawned Again on Easter Day," and "Thine Be the Glory." Accompanying the congregation were Mary Ruth Scott on the organ and Janet Williamson on the piano.

Harry Holmes and Tore Wallin were the ushers. Ellen Ogilvie hosted the Fellowship Hour after the service.

The service this Sunday will begin at 9:30 a.m. A nursery is provided and visitors are welcome. On Sunday afternoon, members and friends of the congregation who have made reservations will gather at the church to leave at 1:15 p.m. to see the "Rameses" exhibit at the Museum of Science in Boston.

'Renewing Your Passport' Topic At Religious Science

"Renewing Your Passport" will be the sermon by the Rev. Maureen Christopher on Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship at the South Shore Church of Religious Science, 1073 Hancock St., Quincy.

There is a pre-service meditation at 9:30 a.m.

Beginning Sept. 4, the pre-service meditation will change to 10:30 a.m., and worship will follow at 11 a.m.

In addition to Sunday services, the church holds informative workshops. "Science of Mind 1" workshop class begins Oct. 2 and will be held Sundays from 2 to 4 p.m. This is a 30-hour course designed to help people reassess their values, attitudes and thoughts.

Students are taught a positive prayer technique that will enable them to change the attitudes standing in the way of spiritual growth and fulfillment.

Wollaston Woman In Career Research Project

Jennifer Behm of Quincy was one of four medical students in Massachusetts given the opportunity to perform cancer research this summer through the American Cancer Society's 1988 Betty Lea Stone Fellowship program.

Miss Behm received a $2,000 grant to work in a laboratory at Children's Hospital under Lois E.H. Smith, M.D. She began the 10-week intensive training program in June.

The daughter of Virginia Behm of 41 Harvard St., Wollaston, she is a second-year student at the University of Massachusetts Medical School in Worcester. She graduated from North Quincy High School in 1981.

Her research involves examining the growth patterns of two types of cells that make up normal blood vessels. Understanding how blood vessels develop could lead to new ways of controlling cancer, because tumors need blood to grow.

Behm said she plans to pursue a career in ophthalmology.

"I've always had an interest in cancer research, and I've been able to see through my work here how it is related to eye care also," she said.

Established in 1979, the Betty Lea Stone Fellowship encourages gifted medical students to pursue careers in cancer research. The fellowship is offered each year by the American Cancer Society's Massachusetts Division to one medical student from each of the state's four medical schools.

Mrs. Stone is an honorary director of the Massachusetts Division.

Other Stone Fellows are working this summer at Harvard Medical School, Massachusetts General Hospital and Boston College.

St. Joseph's School To Reopen Sept. 7

St. Joseph School, Quincy Point, will reopen Wednesday, Sept. 7 at 8:10.

Students are asked to report to the Curtis Ave. School Yard to assemble.

There will be a coffee hour and open house for parents in the school hall beginning at 8:15. All are welcome.

St. Joseph School offers a quality academic education in a God centered atmosphere. In addition to the regular classroom curriculum, courses are offered in Instrumental Music, Human Development, Human Sexuality, Computer Science, Library Science, Art and Physical Education. The philosophy of the school aims to develop the total person.

On Friday, Sept. 9 at 9 there will be a special Mass in the church to ask God's blessing on the school year.

Quincy Residents To Perform In 'Mass For St. Cecilia'

Baritone Robert Levitsky and flautist Ruth Levitsky will perform in the Gounod "Mass for St. Cecilia," conducted by Marguerite Rizzi, Aug. 28 at 4 p.m. at the Old Cambridge Baptist Church, 1151 Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge.

Admission is $5; children under 12 are admitted free. The Levitskys are the children of Jan and Bernard Levitsky of Quincy. They both are graduates of Quincy High School and UMass-Boston.

Cantor Workshop At Our Lady Of Good Counsel

The evening is planned for beginning and experienced cantors, organists, choir members exploring this ministry, folk groups, and for anyone wishing to learn more about cantors and cantoring. Music and other information will be included in the registration fee.

An "Evening for Cantors" at Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish on Sept. 20 from 7:30 to 10 p.m. will be conducted by Thomas M. Fallon.

Thomas M. Fallon has been the director of liturgy and music at Sacred Heart Parish in Lexington for the past five years. He is well known as an instructor for the emerging ministry of cantor, having served on the vocal faculty for the National Pastoral Musicians School for Cantors.

Fallon was a member of the Archdiocesan Liturgical Commission for the Archdiocese of Boston, and a task force member of the committee establishing the Office for Worship. A graduate of the New England Conservatory with a degree in Vocal Performance and Choral Conducting, Fallon has also received a Master of Arts Degree in Liturgical Studies from the University of Notre Dame.

Registration fee is $5 per person, payable to Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish, 227 Sea St., Quincy 02169. Registrations close on Friday, Sept. 16. Early registration is requested.

Questions may be referred to Sister Regina Harrington, CSJ, at 472-1408.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

JEALOUSY! Happy, indeed, is the person who is free of it... It has been called - very aptly - "a green-eyed monster." Perhaps nothing hurts our personal relationships with others more seriously than jealousy. It can destroy respect for others. It is fine to have admiration for someone who has done better than we have... It can lead to emulation and one's own eventual success. But a person who is jealous cannot admire for he only hates and envies. It can destroy friendships. For it we are jealous of our friends and what they have, we resent their good fortune and rejoice at their failings. These attitudes can and do destroy friendships... Jealousy can shatter love. For when we are jealous, we can no longer trust... and when we can no longer trust, we cannot truly love.

But even worse than what jealousy does to our relationships with others is what it does to ourselves. There is probably nothing that can make a person more miserable than to be in a constant state of jealousy. Yes, indeed - Happy is the person who is free of it...

MWRA To Hold Job Fair At Quincy Vo-Tech

An estimated 500 workers must be hired to provide the necessary labor for the $6 billion harbor clean-up and construction of the Deer Island Treatment Plant.

Jack Mayer, director of Training and Education for the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority, met recently with Quincy school officials, and received the green light to schedule a Job Fair at Quincy Vocational Technical School Saturday, Sept. 24.

"The Authority has made it clear that vocational schools throughout Massachusetts will be utilized as labor resources," noted Joseph A. Mazzarella, He and School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci said they were eager to sponsor the job fair because it dovetails with the mission of the school and provides a public service for the region.

Mayer said the Water Authority will be looking for people with a variety of skills, including civil engineers, computer programmers, secretaries, electricians, skilled and unskilled laborers. Some on-the-job training will be provided, he said, with an eye to career development.

The massive project will eventually bring the shut down of Nut Island as a treatment plant, but Mayer emphasized this will not occur until the late nineties when the Deer Island plant is on line. Then, he said, that facility will create hundreds of jobs. However, the Nut Island plant will continue to be utilized to funnel water through the eight-mile pipeline to Deer Island.

The Massachusetts Water Resource Authority also plans to provide skilled training for specific technical jobs at vocational schools throughout the state. One program for diesel mechanics has already been scheduled at Shawheen Valley Technical High School in Billerica.

Currently, there are an estimated 1,300 employees at the authority, which is not under the jurisdiction of the Massachusetts legislature, although employees are enrolled in the state pension.

Both Ricci and Mazzarella expressed hope that Quincy Junior College would be involved in the job fair, and both anticipate that some assistance will be provided from area business and industry through the newly formed School Community Partnership.

Mazzarella, who also serves as director of occupational education for Quincy schools, emphasized the importance of exposing students to job opportunities. "This is why Quincy Vo-Tech is an ideal setting for this important job fair," he said, adding, "we also have a responsibility to provide a skilled labor resource especially on a project so important as clean-up of the harbor."

The authority will staff the job fair with interviewers and will provide data on the clean-up.

Mazzarella said he hoped to involve Massachusetts Community College in the recruitment effort.

Director Of Library Services Appointed At QJC

The Quincy School Committee has appointed Sandra Neal to the position of director of library services at Quincy Junior College.

Neal was serving as the Government Documents Librarian at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. Her job entailed serving as a reference librarian for United States Government publications as well as other government documents. She also worked at Hofstra University in their School of Law Library and has been a coordinator of academic skills. She has experience in teaching as well as individual counseling in addition.

Neal earned her master of Library Science from the University of Kentucky, in Lexington, Kentucky. Her bachelor degree in sociology was granted from Barber-Scott College in Concord, North Carolina.

Robert H. Downey, Jr., dean of academic affairs at Quincy Junior College commented that "We are glad to have Sandra join our team. Under her direction the library should be able to improve their services to students and offer even more help to the faculty."

Tardo Endorsed By Government Employees Assn.

Republican candidate for state representative Denis Tardo recently received the endorsement of the National Association of Government Employees, Massachusetts Association of Skills and Trade.

"Denis Tardo has earned the respect of this union," said Union president Kenneth Howe. "(Tardo) is regarded as a union leader and will be an asset for the working person as state representative."

Tardo is former treasurer of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Local 2013. He is employed by the Bureau of State Office Buildings.

Denis F. TARDO State Representative

"The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority is an agency of financial waste"

Denis Tardo believes the MWRA should answer to the people of the communities they serve.

Denis Tardo had the courage to define "A good neighbor" and has the ability to enforce a good neighbor policy with the MWRA.

Denis Tardo believes the MWRA should stop dumping raw sewerage in the harbor, immediately.

Denis Tardo believes the MWRA should locate all management offices at the sludge treatment plant site to ensure local residents that safety precautions are being met.

Denis Tardo believes the MWRA should sell all property not sued for treatment processing or staging and agreements for transfer of all property should be signed over to the city.

Denis Tardo has always opposed placing sludge treatment in or near Quincy and will actively monitor all aspects of MWRA operations.

Denis Tardo believes satellite treatment facilities should be built.

Denis Tardo does not want the MWRA to run sewerage lines through Houghs Neck, Germantown or Palmer Street.

Collins Criticizes Commissioners On Charter Reform

Mary P. Collins, Democratic candidate for Norfolk County Commissioner, criticizes County Commissioners for their failure to call for a Charter Reform Commission.

Collins said Norfolk County is one of only three counties that has not yet adopted Chapter 807 of the Acts of 1985 passed by the legislature to modernize and update county government, allowing delegates to be elected from throughout the entire county to review the operation and structure of county government and suggest improvements.

Collins was extremely critical of the commissioners' reaction to an independent report by the commonwealth's Department of Revenue that said the county will have difficulty in funding a maintenance budget with projected revenues and further, that the situation would be even worse given funding of future collective bargaining contracts.

In response to the report the County Commissioners called for a doubling of the excise tax stamp paid by the seller of real property, she said.

Collins said that while the legislature allowed Barnstable County to increase the excise tax, it did so after lengthy debate both on the Cape and at the State House, following a democratic process that has allowed for input from many different sources.

The Norfolk County Commissioners, she says, continue to ignore the process approved by the General Court that would allow for a change and updating of County Government. The lack of planning and foresight by the County Commissioners has now placed county government in an untenable position, she said.

The current approach to the operation of county government is inexcusable, said Mrs. Collins. The commissioners were asked on numerous occasions to adopt the legislative proposal, she said. Their inactivity and failure to respond could force a drastic cut in county operations, she said.

"County government can be a viable form of regional government, but if it continues to operate as it has for the past 100 years, then it will go the way of the dinosaur," said Mrs. Collins.

McDuff Meets With Administration Officials In Washington

John H. McDuff, Republican candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District recently met with administration officials and White House senior staff during a day-long series of briefings and meetings in Washington.

McDuff attended a morning briefing at the White House. Speakers included Joseph White, deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget; Dr. Ian Macdonald, special assistant to the president for Drug Abuse Policy; Alan Tracey, special assistant to the president for Agricultural Trade and Food Assistance; and Carlyle Gregory, Special Assistant to the President for Political Affairs.

Following the White House briefing legislative candidates were guests at a luncheon at the Capitol Hilton Hotel hosted by the Republican National Committee. Among the guest speakers were: Political Communications Deputy Director Dan Beck who spoke on effective campaign communications; Neil Newhouse of the Wirthlin Group, who gave an overview of the national environment for the 1988 election; and RNC consultant John Morgan who spoke on legislative targeting.

Republican National Committee Chairman Frank J. Fahrenkopf Jr. said "These local elections are the true origin of national political power in the United States. By focusing our resources and energy down to the grassroots, we can build a party base that will be impregnable in the 1990s. As the future state leaders of America, these legislative candidates will also be the leaders of the movement."

McDuff said: "The legislative candidates day in Washington was a tremendous opportunity to meet with other candidates from across the country as well as hear from administration and party officials. The nation has been well served during President Reagan's seven and a half years in office.

"I hope this country will continue into the 1990s with the ongoing growth of the Republican Party, by not only electing national GOP leaders but also by electing more Republicans to strengthen our grassroots levels. With my election in November to the Massachusetts House, I hope to strengthen the Republican agenda in our state as well as our country.

"As a Reagan Republican, I ask the voters to give me the opportunity to continue the great work of the Reagan Revolution here in Massachusetts, for the people of Quincy and Weymouth."

Wollaston Woman Finds Challenge In Harbor Monitoring Program

By MICHELLE BYTHROW
After reading about a meeting for prospective volunteers last August, Deborah Dohl of Wollaston decided to become active in the Boston Harbor Monitoring Program.

Dohl says that a course on personal growth led her to seek out new and challenging ways to spend her time.

"I majored in biology in college, and the monitoring program is a nice way for me to use that background in science," says Dohl, who is now an insurance underwriting analyst.

The Boston Harbor Monitoring Program is organized by the Alliance for Boston Harbor Action and is led by the Massachusetts Audubon Society. It combines the efforts of the Boston Harbor Associates, The Friends of the Boston Harbor Islands, the Massachusetts Bay Marine Studies Consortium, the New England Aquarium, Save the Harbor-Save the Bay, and Northeastern University. The program is a 10-year cooperative effort by citizens and these non-profit organizations working to find solutions to the pollution problems plaguing Boston Harbor.

Monitoring is done twice a week for two-hour intervals by volunteers on- and off-shore in Quincy, Dorchester, South Boston, East Boston and Winthrop. By gathering baseline data on water quality, volunteers are aiding scientists from Mass. Audubon, the Aquarium and Northeastern University in measuring the progress being made by those involved in the harbor clean-up. The program aims to increase public awareness of harbor issues, improve scientific understanding, and advise harbor decision-makers.

Dohl said she enjoys the fact that volunteers usually monitor in groups, as it is a good way to meet others involved in environmental issues. Since she and her fellow volunteers monitor in such areas of high visibility as Squaw Rock, Wollaston Beach, and the Public Landing in Houghs Neck, she says, "There are a fair amount of questions as to what we're doing. People are usually just looking for a brief answer—they want to know if we can tell how polluted the water is."

Because of the long-term nature of the program, however, it is difficult to provide that sought-after short reply. Volunteers test the water for temperature, salinity and dissolved oxygen levels, which reflect the water's capacity for supporting marine life.

"We need to know what is normal for the harbor," says Dohl. "If we don't know what shape the harbor is supposed to be in, we won't have any benchmark for the future."

If you are interested in becoming a vital part of the future of Boston Harbor, come to any of the training sessions below:

Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer should attend a training session.

The next three training sessions, held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., are scheduled for:

Thursday, Sept. 1, Houghs Neck Community Center, 1193 Sea St., Community Center Room.

Tuesday, Sept. 6, Dawes Memorial Building, corner of Quincy Shore Dr. and Channing St., Wollaston, light green house, across from Squantum Yacht Club.

Thursday, Sept. 8, Winthrop Yacht Club, 649 Shirley St., Winthrop.

Training sessions are sponsored by the Massachusetts Audubon Society. For more information, contact Honi Schiffman at 367-1026.

Kindergarten Parents Should Be Given Time To Make Day Care Plans, Says Durkin

Parents should know whether their children will attend morning or afternoon kindergarten so they may make adequate daycare arrangements, according to School Committee member and state representative candidate Stephen Durkin.

In a letter to School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci, Durkin asked that this issue be put on the next committee agenda for discussion.

"It was recently brought to my attention that the school system traditionally waits until the end of the summer to notify parents which kindergarten session their child will be attending," said the letter.

"This delay in notification prevents working parents from making day-care arrangements earlier in the summer. I have spoken with Eugene Creedon, director of elementary education, and he didn't see any reason that parents couldn't be notified a couple of months in advance of the opening of school."

Durkin said this would be more convenient for parents who have to deal with the lack of affordable daycare.

Harris Says Legislature Should Address Auto Insurance Issue

Richard Harris, a Republican candidate for state representative in the Second Norfolk District, says he believes auto insurance rates are a critical issue that the General Court must address during the next session.

"The high cost of insuring an automobile in this state affects virtually every voter. They should be aware that the rates are kept at inflated levels because of heavy lobbying by lawyers who make money from the many small personal injury cases that are filed each year," Harris said. "Many legislators, themselves lawyers, are unwilling to place limits on this lucrative source of income," he said.

"What is needed is a tort threshold of possibly $2,000 below which people could not sue for pain and suffering. This would reduce the overload on court dockets because claims for very minor injuries would be less profitable," Harris said. "The savings realized by the insurance companies could then be passed on to automobile owners."

"Voters should be wary of Democratic double-speak on this one during the upcoming campaign," Harris continued. "According to a recent article in the Boston Globe, 'Auto Rate Unrest,' (July 3) a bill that might have saved car owners 14 per cent on their premiums was shelved in a Democratic Senate caucus before it ever reached the floor for debate," Harris said.

"This is very much a partisan issue," he added.

NQHS Knowledge Team Receives Highest Score

The North Quincy High School Knowledge Master

team has achieved the highest score among Massachusetts high schools which participated in a nation-wide academic contest recently.

This is the second time that the North team has earned this distinction.

The contest was sent to each participating school on a special computer disk so that teams could compete without the expense of traveling to a central site.

The computer compiled the students' scores attained by answering 200 academically challenging questions with both speed and accuracy.

This is the third time that North Quincy High School has entered the Knowledge Master competition. More than 1300 high schools representing all 50 states, Canada, and South Korea participated in this event sponsored by Academic Hallmark, a software publisher.

Because of their outstanding performance in the Knowledge

Master Open held last fall, North was invited to compete in the Texas Star Academic Championship to be held in New Orleans during June. Eight students qualified to attend. Unfortunately, the scholars have not yet found a sponsor willing to assist them to meet the expenses involved in competing in New Orleans.

The team consisted of the following students:

Christine Venezia, Timothy Jones, Christine Kalantzis, Nathan James, Michael Hoxie, Derek Borek, David Forrester, Eric Johnson, Melissa Ryan, Ann McNally, Peter Lee, Eugene McCarthy, Charles Owens, Alfred Cawthorne, Kerry Northup, Faye Borromeo, Elizabeth Harrington, Patrick Murphy, Elaine Joseph, Eric Gustafson, Jennifer Sullivan, Jeffrey Cluett, George Giaros, Julie Detwiler, Kaara Peterson, Brett O'Hare, Joseph Hajar, Michael Megias, Arcti Canellos

Quincy, North Plan Workouts Aug. 29

By TOM SULLIVAN

Another high school football season is just around the corner.

The Quincy and North Quincy squads will begin full-scale workouts Monday, Aug. 29 with double sessions in the morning.

Actually, the teams reported yesterday (Wednesday) for three days of conditioning without pads.

Fifth-year Quincy coach Jack Raymer will greet the Presidents for the start of full-scale drills Monday morning at 8:30 and the squad will practice until 11 a.m. at Faxon Field.

The players will return for an afternoon workout from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Raymer will have a new freshman coach in Earl Metzler, while all his 1987 assistants will be returning.

John Taglieri, who has done an outstanding job with the defense, is back as are John Sullivan, who returned last year after an absence of two years, and Bob Noble, who coached the Quincy Flks of the Quincy Youth League for several years.

The Presidents were winless last fall but ended the season on a high note as it held heavily-favored North Quincy to a 14-1 tie.

Quincy, like North, will not be facing Brockton for the first time in many years. The schools were given permission from the Suburban League to drop the Boxers from their schedules in football only. Brockton has an enrollment about three times those at Quincy and North.

The Presidents will play Weymouth-South of the Old Colony League, a former Suburban League rival, on Oct. 1 in place of Brockton.

They will open the season Saturday afternoon, Sept. 17, at Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 1:30. This is also the league opener.

North Quincy, under seventh-year coach Ken McPhee, will report Monday morning at 8 a.m. The Raiders will work out at Kavanagh Stadium until 11:30 and, after a break, will drill from 1 to 3 p.m.

Both schools will follow these practice schedules until the opening of school.

McPhee, whose team took a 5-4 record into the Quincy game, finished up with the disappointing tie with the Presidents.

Ken lost two of his assistants, 'the dean,' Ted Sadowski, and Kevin Cobban.

Sadowski, who served under all of North's coaches, Jack Donahue, Carl Leone, Ralph Frazier, Dave Burke and McPhee, retired after 29 years with the Raiders.

Cobban has moved to Weymouth South, where he coached baseball and is a football assistant.

McPhee also has a new freshman coach in Kevin Kelly. Back are Peter Chrisom, Pete Zoia, Jamie Walsh, Dean Merlin and Tom Carter.

Carter has moved up from freshman coach to junior varsity coach and a varsity assistant. Merlin, in addition to being an assistant, is also the team's trainer. Also returning is long-time volunteer coach John Muldowney.

"It is going to seem strange not having Ted Sadowski around, but I know he will be watching our games," said McPhee. "He was an outstanding assistant, did our scouting and also coached the sophomore and junior varsity teams. Ted did a tremendous job and we will sorely miss him. And we also will miss Kevin Cobban, who was an excellent assistant."

North has replaced Brockton with Silver Lake of the Old Colony League, which will face the Raiders Friday, Oct. 14, at 7 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Raiders will open their season Friday night, Sept. 16, at 7 against old-time rival Milton of the Bay State League at the stadium. Their first league game will be Friday night, Sept. 23, at 7 against Newton North at the stadium.

Several players on both squads are attending the Bay State Football Camp this week at Babson College.

THE YACHT 'Sciacca' from the Metropolitan Yacht Club, owned and skippered by Capt. Vincent E. Curreri, retired Quincy fire captain, won first prize for originality in the recent Marine Parade, a highlight of Quincy Bay Race Week. The theme of the decorations was 'peace.' The boat was decorated with flags of several nations, and a pair of doves were released by the captain's granddaughter. The song, 'Let There Be Peace On Earth' was played as the boat passed the judges' stand.

Quincy Legion All Stars Ousted By Braintree, 4-1

The Quincy Legion all-star baseball team was eliminated from the annual semi-pro invitational tournament at Adams Field when it lost to the Braintree White Sox, one of the top teams in the Cranberry League, 4-1, in the third round.

The White Sox played the Boston Club for the tournament title.

Quincy, which had dropped an 8-7 squeaker to the Quincy

Sheriffs and defeated the Sharon Cubs, 5-3, received excellent pitching from starter T.J. Steen and Mark DiMattio, both members of Wollaston Legion.

The more experienced White Sox broke a 1-1 tie with three runs late in the game on two bad hop singles. Ted Novio, the ace of the Braintree Legion team and a University of Maine pitcher, was outstanding for the Sox.

"These kids showed they can play with the best and with a couple of breaks, who knows how far we could have gone," said Ed Spring, who coached the all-stars along with Dick Laracy.

"I want to thank those who helped sponsor our team, Ray Cattaneo of Morrisette, Mike Gormley of Wollaston Legion, Tom Mullaney of Granite City Electric (Babe Ruth League) and Luke Higgins, owner of Luke's Lounge."

H.S. Physical Exams Saturday

Physicals for all fall sports at North Quincy High School, and Quincy High-Vocational Technical High Schools will be held Saturday at each school.

Candidates for boys cross country, girls cross country, golf, boys soccer, girls soccer, girls swimming and girls volleyball should report to the gymnasium at 9 a.m.

Any football candidates who have not had a physical, or junior varsity and ninth grade students should report also. All students should bring a user fee check or money order for $20 made out to Quincy Public Schools Athletics. Cash will not be taken. Students should also bring their signed parent permission card.

Walker To Be Inducted Into Bridgewater Hall Of Fame

Bill Walker, coach of the North Quincy High boys and girls' swim teams for 14 years, will be inducted into the Bridgewater State College Athletic Hall-of-Fame at a dinner banquet Friday, Oct. 14.

Walker, a former North Quincy athlete and a 1971 graduate of BSC, was a member of the BSC swim team from 1969-1971 and captained the team his senior year. In 1971 he was designated as an outstanding College Athlete in America.

In 1971 Bill co-founded the BSC women's swim team and coached the program until 1975. Since then he has been the pool director at the Lincoln-Hancock School.

He is the president of the New England Coaches Association and a member of several other swim organizations. He has been the meet director for the Mass. High School swimming championships for boys and girls for 14 years.

Many of his high school swimmers have gone on to star in college and for various swim organizations.

Police, City Officials Win

Koch Doubleheader Raises $1,500 For MDA

By STEVE KAVANAGH
The first annual Dick Koch Memorial MDA Softball Doubleheader proved to be a big success both on and off the field.

The Police defeated the Fire Department and the City Officials edged the News Media All Stars. But the big winners were Jerry's Kids as the doubleheader raised approximately $1,500 to help the Muscular Dystrophy Association continue its research and patient care.

A total of over $16,500 has been raised for MDA in the 12 years the game has been played. This year's event was re-named in honor of the late Richard J. Koch, Sr. who organized the fundraiser.

Koch, who served with Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth as co-chairman of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee for 11 years, died last August. The committee has raised over $1 million for Jerry's Kids at The Quincy Sun telethon pledge center and through special activities.

"Dick Koch," Bosworth said at the game, "dedicated his life to helping others. One of his favorite worthy causes was the Muscular Dystrophy Association and particularly this doubleheader which he organized. So, from here on the event will be known as the Dick Koch Memorial MDA Softball Doubleheader.

Bosworth also thanked the Quincy Police and Fire Departments and the City Officials and News Media for their contributions to the doubleheader down through the years and to the fans.

Bosworth also announced between games that Thomas Koch, Quincy's Council on Aging Director, and Robert Bosworth, assistant editor of The Quincy Sun, will serve as co-chairmen of the game from now on, and thanked them for their excellent job this year.

The games were taped this year by Continental Cablevision and will be televised Friday, Aug. 26 at 7 p.m. on Channel 3 and Monday, August 29 at 7 p.m. on Channel 3's Sports Show. The program will run about two-and-a-half hours.

Thomas Bowes, 10, of North Quincy, won a Wilson baseball glove in a drawing. All proceeds from the drawing benefited MDA.

The glove was donated by Bob Colman of Colman's Sporting Goods of Quincy.

The Quincy Police kept their winning streak over the Quincy Firefighters alive with a hard-fought, 6-1, victory.

For the Police it was their fourth straight win over a much-improved Firefighters squad. Last year the Police won 25-4.

Ed Kusser and Jim Churchill belted home runs for the Police in this year's contest.

Other members of the Quincy Police team included, Steve Igo, Brian Tobin, John Ryan, Jim Buhl, Steve Kring, Tim Sorgi.

Also playing for the Police were Billy Brabazon, Rich Tapper, Peter Green, Billy Shea, Kevin Foley and Mark Pitts.

The Quincy Fire Department squad was led by Bob Pettinelli, Jack Goddard, Eddie Ellis, Jim DeVarennes, Mike Radigan, Mike Butts, Dave Anderson, Jim Kelly, Mark Paolucci, Eddie Nardone, John Moran, Al Trotman and Gary Smith.

In the nightcap, the Quincy City Officials edged the News Media All Stars, 9-8, to tie their series at six games apiece.

Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill, Parks Department head Ray Cattaneo, and Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro starred for the winners while Mark Knowlton of the Patriot Ledger and Bob Bosworth of The Quincy Sun excelled for the Media Stars.

Other members of the City

A $200 CHECK for the Muscular Dystrophy Association was presented by Earl LaChance, second from right, of the Patriot Ledger, to Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun and chairman of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee, at the first annual Dick Koch Memorial Softball Doubleheader. Looking on are, from left, Peter Kenney, mayor's administrative secretary and manager of the City Officials team; and Bob Bosworth and Thomas Koch, co-chairmen for the benefit game, which raised about $1,500.

Officials squad included Brian Buckley of the Parks Department, Mike Shaheen of the Health Department, Arthur Foley, mayor's administrative assistant, Bob Brennan, director of data processing, Jay MacRitchie, city solicitor, Tom Koch, Dave Kinnecorn, traffic engineer, Kevin Shea.

Planning Department, coach Peter Kenney, mayor's administrative secretary, Bob Foy, auditor, Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien, Ward 5 Councillor Chuck Phelan, Frank Santoro, School Committee, and Richard Meade, Planning Director.

The News Media All Stars were coached by Henry Bosworth and the lineup included, John Nicholson, Paul Gagnon, Herb Fontaine and Ed Donahue of WJDA, Dave Hamilton, Seth Livingstone, Eric Schwarz, and Earl LaChance of the Patriot Ledger, Brian O'Neill, Steve Kavanagh and Ben Harrison of The Quincy Sun.

Jaehnig Upsets Heating, Moves To Title Showdown

The upstart Jaehnig Club will play Kane's Place for the championship of the Jaehnig Chiropractic Men's Basketball League after surviving their semifinal games.

The Jaehnig Club provided the upset of the year by defeating top-seeded J.B. Heating, 74-66.

Jaehnig's victory was keyed by a swarming defense which slowed down the high-powered Heating offense. Paul Leonard sparked the Jaehnig attack with 22 points, followed by Marty Connolly with 18, Mike Keeley 12, Mark Jaehnig 11 and Chuck Jaehnig nine. Fred Hamel scored 16, Willie Weeks 14, John Byers 13, Don Murphy 12 and Brian Levitt 11 for J.B. Heating.

Kane's Place defeated Miller A.C., 77-63, to move into the finals.

Kane's exploded for an early 15-2 lead and Miller, despite closing to within a point midway through the second half, ran out of gas down the stretch. Mark Millane had 25 points, Billy Dacey 21 and Dean Coletti 14 for Kane's. For Miller Bill Loughnane had 23, Bob McNamara 13, Mike Cohen 12 and Rick Stoltz 11.

Last year, the tournament proceeds were used to award three $500 scholarships to worthy students. The entry fee is $50 per person, and if someone wishes to sponsor a hole, they may do so by contacting the athletic office at 786-8782. Entry forms can be obtained by calling the same number.

The entry fee covers green fees, cart, dinner, and prizes. Entry forms should be returned by August 29, to Quincy Public Schools.

Athletic Department, 107 Woodward Ave., Quincy, MA 02169.

Anyone interested in entering as an individual or as a team can contact the athletic office at 786-8782, and forms will be mailed to them.

Holes are sponsored for $50 each. A sign will be placed with sponsor's name at each hole.

Plymouth State Wins QHS Morrell Twins

The Plymouth, N.H. State College girls' basketball team has hit the jackpot with the announcement that Quincy High's outstanding twins, Patti and Gayle Morrell will attend the school in the fall.

The twins, First Ladies' tri-captains this past season, led the team in scoring a year ago and this winter had brilliant seasons.

Patti, a first team Suburban League all-star, led the team in scoring, with a 14.8 game average. She scored a school record 41 points against Brockton, led the team in rebounding with 193, an 11.4 average, and was second in steals with two a game.

Gayle, a second team league all-star last year and a Patriot Ledger all-scholastic, was second in scoring this past season with a 14.6 game average, second in rebounding with 190, a 10.5 average, and fourth in steals with 1.7 a game.

Nantasket Beach Bike Race On Labor Day

The annual Nantasket Beach bike race will be held Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 5, rain or shine for the benefit of the St. Vincent DePaul Society.

The race, sponsored by Cohasset Cyclesports, will start in the parking lot at the rear of the former Paragon Park. The 26 kilometer course will go through Cohasset, Hingham and Hull. Riders must wear approved helmets and must have safety checks. There will be men's and women's divisions with masters over 40.

Entry fee is $10 and checks should be sent to Bike Race, Box 622, Allerton, MA 02045. Registration will take place the day of the race starting at 6:30 a.m.

Soviets Win, Tie In Pro-Am Action At Quincy Youth Arena

Some outstanding hockey was played at the Quincy Youth Arena last weekend and two games Saturday night provided some excellent U.S.-Russia relations.

Saturday the Soviet Junior and Select 16 National teams faced the New England Pro-Am Hockey League all-star squads.

It was the first time the Soviets have played in a non-international tournament in the U.S. or in their history.

Bob O'Connell, who, with his brother and co-director of the New England Pro-Am League, Mike, was largely responsible for the games, said, "This is one of the most exciting things that has happened in my life. I never thought I would have the chance to be involved in something like this. It's absolutely wonderful."

"I was a little apprehensive at first but I couldn't be happier. It was just a great experience for everyone. I'm hoping the Soviets will come again to the Boston area. It is a place where they can experience the American culture as opposed to Lake Placid, the next stop for the Soviets."

Before the games the Soviets visited Marina Bay, where they were greeted by Mayor Francis McCauley, who said, "It is really an historic occasion."

In the first game the Soviet Select 16 team defeated its N.E. Pro-Am counterparts, 4-2, despite being out-shot, 28-23.

The second game between the junior teams ended in a 3-3 tie, with the Russians outshooting the hosts, 23-17.

"You have to be pleased any time you play a national Soviet team to a tie with a regional one," said assistant coach Ralph Cox. "I don't think these boys will realize how special this game is until a few years from now."

"The kids were very disciplined," said junior all-star coach John Cunniff. "They didn't run around or act crazy. They just worked hard. This has been such a big success. Both youth groups got to mix a little and have a type of cultural exchange. They have a lot of respect for each other. The Soviets were pleased with the treatment given them and were, themselves, very gracious. It was nice of them to come."

"I have enjoyed myself very much while in New England," said Nikolai Sokolov, the team leader and head of amateur hockey in the Soviet Union. "The people are very hospitable and cooperative and have welcomed us very warmly. It is a good beginning and it is important that we keep the contacts we have made—it is for our mutual benefit."

"This is the first non-governmental event that the Soviets have taken part in," said Mike O'Connell. "That makes it unique. We are really the first recipient in sports of their new feeling of 'Glasnost.' There were no politics involved here, just sports. There was no animosity, just respect."

"I want to continue these relations and pursue the possibility of one day going to the Soviet Union. Right now, everything is moving in a positive direction."

Charities Pro-Am Tourney At Wollaston Sept. 5

Wollaston Golf Club in Milton on Labor Day, Sept. 5.

The field of touring pros includes Jeff Sluman, new winner of the PGA championship; Nick Price, runner-up to Steve Ballesteros in the recent British Open; Jim Benez, surprise winner of the Western Open; Brad Faxon, whose fine showings of late include an 11th place finish in the British Open; Mark O'Meara and D.A. Weir, who tied for third in the 1988 U.S. Open; Bruce Squisby, who set a Wollaston course record of 8 under par 64 in last year's Charities tournament; Mark McCumber, Joey Sindelar and David Frost, all of whom have won over $400,000 on the tour so far this year; Jim Hallet of Yarmouth, Billy Andrade of Rhode Island, Ken Green, Hale Irwin and Sam Randolph, current Bank of Boston champion.

Also from the Seniors PGA tour will be Miller Barber, Orville Moody and Bob Toski.

"The Charities" tournament is being played for the benefit of The Milton Hospital, Carney Hospital and the Col. Daniel Marr Boys and Girls Club of Dorchester.

On tournament day there will be a breakfast at 8:30 a.m. along with drawings of pairings. A shotgun start is scheduled for 10 a.m. Following the tournament the touring pros will be available for a press conference.

A golf clinic conducted by the touring pros will be held with a cocktail reception and prize awards rounding out the day.

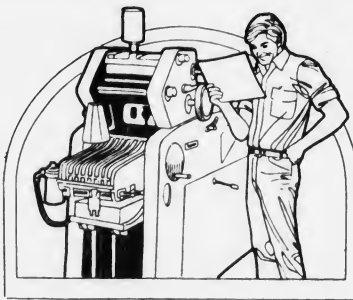

Additional information can be had by calling media coordinator Ken Fallon Jr. at 479-3560 or Paige Calvert at Confutures, Inc., at 439-7700.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Central Middle Girls Win City Championship

The Central Middle School girls' basketball team won the city championship with an 8-0 record, while the Central boys finished at 7-1 and are co-champions with the Atlantic boys.

Earl Metzler coached both the Central teams and Ted Stevenson coached the Atlantic teams.

The Central girls finished unbeaten with a 42-24 victory over Quincy Point, leading all the way.

Melanie Moffet led the scoring with 12 points and Co-Captains Kim Marsden and Holly McDonough had eight each. Christie Richmond and Merri Ford stood out on defense. Point, coached by Tom DiTullio, turned in a fine effort.

In their previous game the Central girls rolled over Broadmeadows, 55-17, with 13 girls scoring for Central.

Moffet had nine points and Marsden and McDonough each scored eight. Also playing well were Richmond, Erin Duffy, Alyssa Haldoupis, Regina Murphy and Carrie Frenette. Jennifer Kelly and Mary Chennette stood out for Broadmeadows.

The Central boys finished with an easy 68-40 win over Point, sparked by Capt. Christian Ciavarrro's 30 points. Central jumped out to a 25-7 lead and never looked back. Mike Giese, Mark Kelleher and Sergi Wassilau had eight points each and defensive standouts were Chris Olson, Mark Evans, John McNeil and Robert Fitzpatrick. Joe Crespi had 12 points and David Jolly 10 for Point.

Matt Dwyer played excellent ball at both ends of the court for Point. Point's sixth graders played an excellent game.

Central's Ciavarrro was presented a game ball for his efforts this year as he averaged 27 points a game.

Central defeated Broadmeadows, 56-32, with Ciavarrro scoring 32 points.

Central didn't pull away until late in the third quarter. Wassilau had 12 points and stood out at the power forward position and Mark Evans, Mike Staiti and Giese had fine games. Frank Leonares had eight points and rebounded well and Steven Laud played a fine floor game for BM.

Earlier Central had defeated Sterling, 54-34, led by Ciavarrro's 30 points, including 11 of 12 freethrows. Wassilau controlled the boards at both ends and scored 13 points and Mark Kelleher, Mike Kavanaugh, Chris Olsen and Robert Fitzpatrick played strong defense. Jason Anderson had 13 points for Sterling, Mike Malvesti played fine defense and David Cahill played well in the second half.

The Central boys' roster included Chris Dupil, Pat Shea, Fitzpatrick, Ciavarrro, Evans, Olsen, Tony Lichardi, Luke Sheets, Cavanaugh, Mike Staiti, Wassilau, Kelleher, Giese, McNeil, Mike Kenny and Bobby Johnson.

The girls' roster included Kim and Laura Marsden, Haldoupis, Duffy, Richmond, McDonough, Murphy, Maureen McCarthy, Merri Ford, Moffet, Cheryl Devin, Jennette Currie, Frenette, Heather Powell, Heather Rendle, Tracy Linehan, Tara Gaumier and Patty Meighan.

DeCristofaro Says Quincy Should Strengthen Dumping Laws

Ward Two Councillor Ted DeCristofaro said he is extremely concerned because of what has happened recently regarding the illegal dumping of medical waste. He said Quincy should strengthen its laws in this area of dumping.

Councillor DeCristofaro stated: "The company responsible for this illegal dumping should be dealt with in the most severe manner possible. They should be penalized for jeopardizing the health of our citizens and I strongly recommend a much larger fine be imposed than the penalty imposed for general illegal dumping and possibly the revocation of any licenses it may have."

Quincy Sculptor's Exhibit At South Shore Art Center

Constance Bergfors, a Quincy native, and Gordon Green of Boston will have a joint exhibit at the South Shore Art Center, 119 Ripley Rd., Cohasset, opening Sunday, Sept. 11 and continuing through Oct. 1.

A formal reception for the artists will be held Sunday, Sept. 11 from 2-4 p.m., overlapping the center's fall open house from 3-5 p.m.

Bergfors, now living in Maryland, is a wood sculptor, while Green is exhibiting oil landscapes.

Bergfors' art education began at Smith College, continued at the Corcoran School of Art in Washington, D.C., and at the Accademia di Belle Arte in Rome. Later she began a serious study of carving techniques in stone and then wood at the Glen Echo Park Sanborn Studio, and back again at Corcoran.

She returns to the South Shore for her first one-person exhibit in the Boston area. She has had other one-person exhibits in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. Her work is included in the public collections of the U.S. Government, Howard University, Quinon Industries, the American Embassy in Conakry, Guinea, and at two law firms in Washington, D.C. She was awarded the Mary Lay Thom Award for outstanding achievement in sculpture in 1983 and the Montgomery County Purchase Prize in 1987.

Green works in oils. His exhibit at the center is the first of three consecutive one-and two-person shows in the Boston area this fall - at Framingham State College in October, and Art Intentions Gallery in Hanover in November.

Visitors may view this exhibit Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Sunday, 12 noon to 4 p.m. Further information may be obtained by calling the South Shore Art Center, 383-9548.

Programs of the center are supported in part by a grant from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, a state agency.

Helen Dooner Receives Award For Curriculum Development

The Massachusetts Global Education Program, a project of the Winchester Massachusetts Public Schools, has named Helen C. Dooner, a teacher at the Point-Webster School, as recipient of a $500 award for curriculum development in global education.

Miss Dooner qualified for the award by attending a two-week institute last summer at Old Sturbridge Village entitled "World Regions: The Local Connection."

Part of the criteria for selection is based on the teacher's demonstrated ability to improve the global content of the curriculum.

The grants are made possible through the support of the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo.

Miss Dooner's curriculum project is entitled "Southeast Asian Cultural Insights and Educational Understandings."

WEEK OF: August 25

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're modest - at times to a fault. Self-improvement is a worthy course of action to take over the coming months. You are not only willing to help others, you're eager and able. Appreciation for long overdue achievements finally comes your way by late '88 or early '89.

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19

Relative is more helpful, even more generous. Watch tendency to act impulsively, especially in money matters. Health demands more time than your awarding it. Paperwork slows down your weekend.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20

You have better results than usual in convincing others of your point of view. This is a learning week that finds you benefiting from a recent negative experience.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20

Fashion is spotlighted, along with recreation and exercise. You may be enjoying some improvements in your lifestyle. In friendship, you can expect the unexpected through this period.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22

Travel may have more positive results than you thought. Family member may show an unexpected rebellious side. Allow ample time to absorb the many facts that come your way.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21

Your spirits brighten when you realize how very much in demand you are. Excellent week for starting a diet or other program that requires dedication and discipline.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22

Intellectual challenges are peppered through the week. This is a prime time for expanding educational horizons. Travel prospects are bright. Personal relationships move on a steadier course.

LEO - July 23 - August 22

Your winning personality, in combination with your competence, may lead to a promotion. New hobbies such as painting can be even more pleasurable than expected.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22

Secretive relative may decide to open up - and it's hard to subdue your true feelings. Adaptability is the keyword as week sees schedules rearranged and guests knocking at your door.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22

Information arriving at this time may not be utterly reliable. Ambitious streak surfaces, and the week marks the start of a period of achievement. Travel may include detours.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21

Good week for finding a perfect gift for a special friend. Friendship proves stimulating - but be prepared to do a lot of listening. Family health survey is a priority.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22

You may be called upon to mediate a touchy situation. Family announcement requires clarification before you pass the details along. Accent is on launching new projects.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20

An unpredictable week. On the one hand you're involved in bookkeeping or other everyday activities. On the other hand, you may be enjoying mildly exotic travel and unexpected reunions.

Keohane Funeral Homes Accepted As New Trust Members

The Keohane Funeral Homes located at 785 Hancock and 333 Hancock St., Quincy, and the Pyne-Keohane Funeral Home, 21 Emerald St., Hingham, has been accepted as a member of the New England Funeral Trust-Multibank Master Trust.

The New England Funeral Trust-Multibank Master Trust Program through South Shore Bank will assist funeral directors in making detailed funeral and financial arrangements on a "preneed" basis.

Edward J. Keohane stated, "Unlike some other prearranged funeral services presently being sold in the South Shore area, the prearranged funeral program of the Keohane and Pyne-Keohane Funeral Homes will place 100 percent of the funds received under the New England Funeral Trust program into the New England Funeral Trust-Multibank Master Trust, which is available locally through South Shore Bank, a Multibank Financial Corporation member bank.

"The New England Funeral Trust-Multibank Master Trust was designed in complete conformance with the regulations established for prepaid funeral arrangements by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Board of Registration of Funeral Directing and Embalming," he said.

The New England Funeral Trust-Multibank Master Trust enables funeral directors to conveniently invest their client's prepayments at the Multibank affiliate bank in their local area. Further, the fact that prepayments are invested in a legal trust arrangement protects prearrangement clients and assures them that their funeral arrangements will be carried out as planned.

Multibank keeps detailed records of each prearrangement client's investment, and produces all necessary tax forms as participating funeral homes may comply with legal reporting requirements.

"Our firm's participation in the New England Funeral Trust-Multibank Master Trust program not only confirms our continued commitment to the South Shore families we serve, but also our belief that individuals paying money in advance for prearranged funeral services deserve the peace of mind that a legal trust arrangement creates," Keohane said.

McCauley, Cerasoli Still Disagree On 4-Year Terms

Cerasoli, and several media representatives, including The Quincy Sun.

Cerasoli, who requested the media be present at his meeting with the mayor, said he "intends to maintain his position" on the two issues. The representative said he is personally against four year terms for mayor and city councillors and opposes the other petition for procedural reasons.

The state representative, who represents Quincy's Ward 2 as well as part of Weymouth, predicted the petitions will not pass the House.

"Both bills were given unfavorable reports by two (House) committees. They gave them adverse reports. That was before I even saw them," Cerasoli said after the meeting.

"No, I don't think they will pass the House and be put on the ballot," he added.

During his meeting with McCauley, Cerasoli said his opposition was primarily procedural.

"I feel uncomfortable as a legislator of being in the position to change a city's form of government

"I know (home rule petitions) is one of the ways to change a form of government but I feel uncomfortable with continually doing this through the legislature," Cerasoli said, referring to past home rule petitions that have passed the legislature, including one that increased School Committee member terms to four years.

"If this is going to go on the ballot," Cerasoli continued, "it is just an up or down vote. It's not fair," he added.

McCauley acknowledged Cerasoli's point. "To me, why do we have to go through the legislature? Why can't we just put it on the ballot directly?"

MacRitchie, who referred to the petitions as "finely tuning" the city's charter, said no petition can go directly on a ballot. Petitions must first go through a charter commission or the state legislature.

McCauley also responded to Cerasoli's point that the four-year term petition is strictly an "up or down vote."

"The bottom line is it can be voted on by the people. If they don't like it, it won't be accepted," the mayor said.

"If they don't want it, no one is putting it down their throats," he added.

But Cerasoli had a different bottom line.

"The bottom line is, I don't feel comfortable. I'd be willing to go out and get signatures needed for a charter commission.

"My feeling is that I don't want to put it on the ballot. I'd think you're not giving them a chance. It's just up or down," he said.

A charter commission, Cerasoli advocates, would allow any potential changes in the city's charter to be expressed by citizens.

To create a charter commission, a petition with 15 per cent or about 8,000 of the city's registered voters, must be collected.

Cerasoli said he would undertake and lead the petition drive "if the petitions became available."

He added that petitions could be printed for "a few hundred dollars."

The minimum number of signatures for the drive must be collected 60 days before the next city or state election.

Once the petition is collected, a question regarding the formation of the charter is put on the ballot. The question basically asks whether a commission should be established to explore possible changes in the government.

If the question passes with a simple majority, the commission is created and nine people are elected to serve on the commission. A potential charter commission member must collect 150 signatures to be on the ballot.

After that, the process of collecting and formulating public opinions begins as public hearings and debates are held.

After about one year of hearings and debates, questions to change aspects of the charter are formed. These questions would then be placed on another ballot for citizens to decide.

The entire process, which takes about two years, "gives people a better chance" to give input regarding changes in the city's form of government," Cerasoli said.

McCauley said he feels there is no need for the formation of a charter commission.

"I don't think we need a charter commission. I think it is a good charter and I don't think we have to do any large-scale overhaul," McCauley said.

In mentioning that several nearby cities have changed the terms of mayor from two to four years, McCauley said, "The mayor shouldn't have to run every other year. I think it is something whose time has come."

The mayor added that "this is a perfect opportunity" to get his petitions on the ballot because it is a Presidential election year with traditionally higher voter turnout.

If put on the ballot and approved by voters this year, the earliest the four-year term could be enacted is in 1991. "I'm not trying to perpetuate myself," McCauley said.

Despite Cerasoli's opposition to his petitions, McCauley was still upbeat and optimistic following the meeting.

"I have a feeling I didn't change many minds but it gave us a chance to talk about them."

Early Tax Payments Help

City In Black For 7th Year

By CHRIS MAHONEY

Quincy finished fiscal year 1988 in the black for the seventh consecutive year, thanks to taxpayer cooperation with Mayor Francis McCauley's request to pay all current and overdue taxes and other municipal bills by June 30.

In addition, McCauley announced Quincy has been certified a free cash balance of $9,143,600 which can be used for any municipal purpose with the approval of the City Council.

While he has no plans for all of the surplus revenue, McCauley said approximately $3,000,000 will be needed to cover a shortfall between fiscal year 1989 budget of $110,000,000 and estimated revenues for the period.

Other uses for the funds, he says, include capital outlay work and a Public Works program for fiscal year 1989.

McCauley called for taxpayers to pay outstanding real and personal property taxes as well as boat and automobile excise taxes so he could close the books this year in good shape.

He urged the taxpayers at the end of May. By June 30 tax title (delinquent), real estate tax balances outstanding on June 30 amounted to $992,519, which McCauley said is the lowest amount in seven years.

4 Year Mayoral Terms Coming Says McCauley

Mayor Francis McCauley believes Quincy will eventually have four year mayoral terms, which he says would be beneficial to running the city because a mayor wouldn't spend every other year campaigning.

It just may not happen very soon.

According to McCauley four year terms are the way many cities in the country are going.

"When I talk to mayors from around the country," he said, "they're astounded that anything gets done in two years."

His idea for four year terms came during a U.S. conference of Mayors. Most mayors serve for four years, and some Massachusetts cities are starting to follow suit, including Brockton, Lawrence, Newton, and Waltham.

If a mayor can be in office for four years, McCauley says, he or she can bank on three years of administrative work.

"When you get someone in office for the first time, they hardly get into the job before the term is up," he said.

"You've got to spend the second year effecting your campaign."

This can lead to "election year politics."

Important decisions may get stalled until a year after an election, said McCauley.

The City Council pushed the issue a step farther to putting it on the ballot when they voted five to four in favor of the home rule petition in April. Those voting for it said the people should decide. Those voting against it said there was no great public interest.

The petition has lately come under fire by Rep. Robert Cerasoli, and McCauley concedes that the chances of the petition do not look good. Cerasoli is against the bill for what he calls "procedural reasons."

"If the bill is defeated in legislation," McCauley said, "we'll have to start the whole process all over again."

24 Parcels Of Land Eyed For Open Space

Twenty-four parcels of private and city-owned land are being looked at for open space in a report filed by several officials and city volunteers.

Funding to buy the land is needed after a final draft of the report goes through.

City officials, including Mayor Francis McCauley, would like to see a good amount of Quincy land set aside to maintain a balance between open space and development.

A committee headed by Heather Sargeant, Susan Insley, and Thomas Koch surveyed the city. A report was issued which said steady development could make open space scarce in Quincy by the early 1990's.

According to McCauley, setting aside some open land would provide a "buffer" between open sites and steady building.

Such areas as the quarries, marshlands, and the old Quincy lumber yard on Southern Artery would be ideal. According to McCauley, the lumber yard would provide a perfect access to the town river.

But all of the plans have to wait until a final draft of the report comes through. Then, McCauley says, sites can be considered.

"Eventually something will be done," he said. Of course, a lot of the action will depend on money. "Because of Proposition 2½, I think we're going to look a lot more toward grants," he said.

"We have done well for what we've applied for, many times we get grants. But the state's got some problems too."

Other sites include the Ledges, wooded upland in South Quincy; 74 acres of marshland including Billings Creek, Squantum; the North Quincy commons, 93 acres of filled quarry land in West Quincy; and a 16 acre salt marsh in Germantown bordered by the Fore River and Rock Island Cove; the quarry site off Ricciuti Dr. in West Quincy; the peninsula site in North Quincy, part of the former Dennison Air Field.

The report was prepared in compliance with a state requirement for conservation programs from 1989 through 1993.

43 Streets, Sidewalks To Be Resurfaced

Mayor Francis McCauley announced plans for the resurfacing of all portions of 43 streets and sidewalk and repair and reconstruction of sidewalks in the city beginning this fall and going through 1989.

The Public Works Program calling for resurfacing of the sidewalks and streets will cost approximately $1,139,260. Of this amount, $714,223 will come from Chapter 90 funds, $260,000 from Community Development Block Grant Funds, and the remainder will come from city funds.

McCauley also said that he will ask the City Council to appropriate an additional $250,000 for repair and reconstruction and $247,600 for capital outlay items of equipment for various city departments.

These orders will be submitted to the City Council on Sept. 6, the beginning of the fall session.

Kerry Sees Congregate House As Model For Affordable Housing Bill

Sen. John Kerry recently visited Shared Living, a congregate house at 45 Newcomb St., which he plans to use as a model to win passage of a new section of an affordable housing bill.

Shared Living is a home for senior citizens who need social interaction but do not need the constant care of an institution or nursing home. It was purchased and renovated by the Protestant Social Services Bureau.

Congregate living allows older people to live with other people after they've suddenly been left alone through illness or death. Sometimes they move into conventional apartments. After a while people living in such an atmosphere have their own rooms, for example, and share kitchen and living rooms and financial responsibilities.

Over the last three years, twenty such facilities were studied. The study found it cost less to provide shelter and services to the elderly in congregates than in nursing homes.

Kerry wants to use this, with 45 Newcomb as an example, when he presents a portion of Sen. Alan Cranston's affordable housing bill into legislation.

According to Sen. Kerry's office, 45 Newcomb St. was chosen because the South Shore has one of the highest numbers of elderly people in the state. Shared living shows a cost effective way for elderly people to live together and promote well being.

SEN. JOHN KERRY, second from left, talks with Linda Palmer of the Protestant Social Services Bureau, right, at Shared Living. With them are Sen. Paul Harold, Richard Cutler of the Protestant Social Services Bureau, Mayor Francis McCauley, and Shared Living resident Doris Staepole.

EPA Harbor Impact Statement Available To Public

The "Final Supplemental Environmental Impact Statement (SEIS) for the Boston Harbor Wastewater Conveyance System" has just been released, and is available to the public.

The statement released by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency satisfies Federal Environmental review requirements and commitments associated with the 1985 statement on secondary treatment plan siting for Boston Harbor.

Based on a review of previous statements and new information received since April, 1988, the EPA's final recommendations are:

- Deep rock tunnels for the conveyance of the south system flows (from Nut Island to Deer Island) and treated effluent (from Deer Island to the outfall).

- A drilled riser diffuser, and
- An outfall located at least 6.6 miles east of Deer Island.
- A number of mitigating measures are also recommended to minimize potential adverse impacts.

A 30-day public review period began Aug. 12. After Sept. 11, all public comments will be reviewed and a Record of Decision will be released in the early fall.

The document is available for review at 17 selected buildings in the Greater Boston area.

In Quincy, it is available from Linda Beeler, Reserve Dept., at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., and from Patricia Ridlen, community coordinator, at the Houghs Neck Community Center, 1193 Sea St., during hours open to the public.

Further information may be obtained by calling David Tomey at the Boston EPA office in Boston, at 565-4420.

Dental Laboratory Technician Program At Quincy Junior

An opportunity to become a dental laboratory technician is one of the career options made possible by a program offered by Quincy Junior College.

Quincy Junior College is one of very few colleges in Massachusetts that offer this program which could lead to either a certificate or associate's degree in dental laboratory technician.

After this, the student could go to work directly for a dentist or commercial laboratory. It would be possible to do dental preparatory, crown and bridge and orthodontic work, and to manufacture dentures, and also to work with both good and porcelain fillings, as well as braces, bridges and other dental materials.

The starting salary in this field averages around $15,000 to $17,000, and there is great opportunity for advancement. A recent report indicated that the average earnings of dental lab technicians who have worked for 8-10 years in the field is $35,000 to $55,000. Also, the technician is usually qualified to open his own dental lab after five to six years' experience.

Right now there is a tremendous demand for trained dental lab technicians.

Richard Gifford, dental lab technology instructor at Quincy Junior College, indicates that he receives phone calls at least once a week from dentists and labs looking for technicians.

However, he isn't always able to help them as his previous graduates have already found jobs. Graduates from this past May are working for an average salary of $6 to $10 per hour.

The next class at Quincy Junior College begins Sept. 12, and it is possible to earn a dental lab technology certificate by June, 1989. There is also an associate's degree option in this program.

For more information about this program, interested persons may call the Quincy Junior College Admissions Office at 984-1700, or visit the college at 34 Coddington St., Quincy Center, between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday, or 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday.

WHAT IF YOU ARE DISABLED?

Most of us don't like to consider the possibility of becoming disabled as the result of an accident, injury, or illness. According to a 1982 study published by the Social Security Administration, approximately 6 percent of adult Americans were then classified as being disabled and unable to work.

If you're single, you should seriously consider disability coverage if there's no one else to support you. Even if you're married and your spouse works, he or she may have to cut down work hours to care for you. Like life insurance, disability is designed to protect against loss of income. Many employers include disability coverage in their company's benefits package. It's wise to check and see what, if any, coverage you have at work and to read the fine print. You may find it advisable to expand disability coverage with your own supplementary package.

First 'Telethon' Just For One Lonely Boy

The Jerry Lewis Telethon will raise millions of dollars again this Labor Day to help fight muscular dystrophy.

It will be the 22nd annual show (Ch. 5) that has become a bigger TV extravaganza each year and is watched by a steadily increasing audience in the millions.

My favorite show, though, wasn't really a telethon but it was the start of it all. The forerunner to today's telethons, with a cast of stars put together by Jerry Lewis just to make one little lonely boy happy.

It's quite a touching story and has been told before. But people still ask about it each year as Labor Day approaches.

If you've heard it before and don't mind, I'd like to tell it again. And, if you haven't heard it, it might give you an idea as to what Jerry Lewis is really like and how people can be so nice when the right occasion arises.

The story goes back 31 years ago, back to October, 1957, when I was a staff writer at The Boston Traveler.

We received a letter from Mrs. Doris Reynolds, a nurse at Lakeville Hospital asking us if we could help make a lonely little boy happy. He was lonely because no one came to visit him.

He was going to be nine on Oct. 8. Would The Traveler please help him to receive a few cards?

The late Frank Kelly of Wollaston, then a staff photographer, and I were sent to the hospital. We met a handsome youngster with one of the biggest smiles in the world. But not quite big enough to hide the heartache of thinking he was unwanted.

Dr. Kurt Jellinek, a real life Dr. Christian, filled us in on the tragic background. The boy's mother was dead and his father imprisoned, charged with her death.

And, we discovered, the youngster had incurable muscular dystrophy.

Because of the circumstances, we agreed not to use his full name. We referred to him as "Francis X." (Francis was his real first name) and as Little Boy Blue.

What did he want for his birthday?

"Four or six cards," he replied. "Funny cards."

Time takes its toll on muscular dystrophy victims. But all little boys want to grow up.

"When I grow up," said Francis, "I wanna be an airplane pilot. I wanna fly up to the sky."

Kelly took a photo of Francis seated in his wheel chair -- back to camera -- looking out the window for the visitors that never came.

The story and photo appeared on Page 1 of The Traveler Oct. 3 -- five days before his birthday. By weekend the Middleboro post office was snowed under with letters, cards, packages. Thirty extra people had to be hired to keep up with the avalanche.

The Traveler story had been picked up by the Associated Press and United Press and carried around the nation. Ham radio operators were reading it to one another around the world.

Before it was over, there would be 500,000 pieces of mail, $12,000 in coins and dollar bills and three rooms full of toys and other presents.

The toys, for months and months, were shared with other youngsters at a number of hospitals. The money was set up in a trust fund for Francis.

But the most touching part of all happened the night of Francis' ninth birthday. Jerry Lewis, who even then was national chairman for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, had read the story and quickly swung into action.

He wanted to give Francis something special. And he did. Lewis asked Gen. David Sarnoff, head of NBC, for a closed TV circuit from Burbank, Calif. to the little Massachusetts town of Lakeville, 3000 miles away. He got the go-ahead.

At the time, it was estimated it took some $350,000 and the services of some 9,000 persons -- technicians, engineers and others to complete the hookup.

This was all for one little lonely boy. Last year's telethon raised a record $39,021,723 and was seen by more than 107 million viewers in the U.S. and Canada.

But the sole purpose of the production 31 years ago was to make a lonely little boy happy on his birthday.

It didn't raise a penny.

The only thing it raised was hope in a little boy's heart. By telecast time the audience had grown, however. Joining Francis in front of TV receivers in the recreation hall of the hospital were other youngsters in wheel chairs, beds and on crutches. Nurses, doctors, parents and newsmen were there, too.

Suddenly the announcer was saying: "This program is an NBC closed circuit broadcast for Francis in Lakeville Sanatorium -- direct from Hollywood -- a special command performance!"

Francis smiled, giggled and slapped the side of his wheel chair as Jerry Lewis mugged, clowning, sang and spoke directly to him.

And for the next 75 minutes or so on camera stepped Eddie Cantor, Dinah Shore, Eddie Fisher, Hugh O'Brien,

HAPPY BIRTHDAY--Francis "X" with the aid of nurse Doris Reynolds cuts ninth birthday cake in 1957 as Dr. Kurt Jellinek and Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun who was then a Boston Traveler reporter look on. The mask was to shield Francis' identity because of tragic family background.

(Frank Kelly's photo)

A SERIOUS JERRY LEWIS re-reads Bosworth's story of Francis X. when the pair met in 1977--nearly 20 years later--as Lewis dedicated a Muscular Dystrophy Clinic at Children's Hospital, Boston. As result of the story, Lewis staged a star-studded closed circuit TV show for the lonely boy in 1957. It was the forerunner of today's Muscular Dystrophy Telethon.

(John Gihlous photo)

George Gobel, Pinky Lee, Jimmy Dodd and the Mouseketeers, the Skylarks, Mary Costa and others.

Each with a special personal message for Francis -- and all doing their thing free to make a little boy happy.

The adults in the audience managed to hold back the tears when Lewis and the Skylarks sang a parody to "There's No Business Like Show Business" entitled "There's No Francis Like Our Francis."

But the tears won out when Dinah Shore serenaded Francis with "You Made Me Love You," and he happily waved back.

Unfortunately there is no cure for muscular dystrophy. Francis died in November, 1966, a few weeks after his 18th birthday. Ironically that was the year of the first public Jerry Lewis Telethon that raised over $1 million to fight the cruel disease.

The mail never really stopped until sometime after Francis' death. He was remembered for 10 years with cards every birthday and Christmas.

And the night that Jerry Lewis put on his first Muscular Dystrophy telecast was for us, who were there, a night to remember.

Jerry was at his best. It was an Emmy performance -- from the heart.

To me, it was also TV's finest hour.

Dukakis Signs Tough Drug Bills

Two of the toughest anti-drug bills in the country, which were co-sponsored by Rep. Michael Morrissey, were signed last week by Governor Michael Dukakis.

The signing came in the wake of the July 13 shooting of two undercover state troopers who were tracking two Dedham residents accused of dealing drugs. The officers, Michael Grassia and Carol Harding, were in stable condition after treatment at Boston City Hospital.

Senate Bill 136 requires that the minimum prison term for trafficking 100 grams of cocaine be doubled to 10 years instead of the previous five years. It also lowers the amount of cocaine required for a three year prison term from 28 grams to 14.

Senate Bill 137 requires a one-year mandatory sentence for first offenders convicted of possession with intent to distribute cocaine. Second offenders now face a five year to 15 year mandatory sentence instead of the previous 10 years.

"We're telling people that even if they have just a little cocaine, it's still bad and they'll get a rough sentence," said Morrissey, who also called this one of the toughest examples of anti-drug legislation in the country.

Quincy's Yesterdays

80-Year-Olds Walking Race Called Off

A walking race between octogenarians Dr. Walter G. Kendall of Atlantic and John Ramsdell of Quincy to prove or disprove the value of strong drink — was called off by Mayor Charles A. Ross on grounds the event was becoming too commercialized.

It started when Dr. Kendall declared on his 80th birthday that he owed his long life to the fact that he rarely went to bed without a drink and Ramsdell, also passing his 80th year, attributed his good health to never having a drink in his life.

The ensuing challenge was billed as "Battling Wet vs. Dynamite Dry."

The elderly contestants were in heavy training for the walk from North Quincy to Quincy Square when it was discovered that a radio station was seeking broadcasting rights to the event and a photographer was trying to tie up exclusive picture rights.

"The situation has reached such a point that it has been removed from a dignified plane and in fairness to the contestants it seems advisable to postpone it indefinitely," said Mayor Ross as he stepped in.

"Both men are in excellent condition," he added.

INSURANCE RATES DROP

State Insurance Commissioner Merton L. Brown set the compulsory auto insurance rates for 1935 and owners of small and medium sized cars in Quincy were pleasantly surprised to find that their rates had gone up by only $1.

Under the new schedule, owners of Fords and Chevrolets paid $36, owners of medium-sized cars like Dodges and Hupmobiles also paid $36, and those who drove Cadillacs and Pierce Arrows paid $40, down $2 from 1934.

There was a dispute in the Legislature over whether the state should retain the present insurance law or adopt the so-called Connecticut plan under which motorists were not required to have insurance until they had an accident.

Marie's Kitchen

By MARIE J. D'OLIMPIO

Pork Rib Marinade If You're Running Out Of Ideas

Running out of ideas on what to cook outside? Here is a great marinade we se for pork ribs or pork strips compliments of our daughter Rita. Whenever these ribs are barbecued, there never seems to be enough, so plan accordingly!

PORK RIB MARINADE

2 Lbs of pork ribs
1/2 cup soy sauce
1/4 cup balsamic or wine vinegar
2 tsps dry mustard
3 cloves garlic
3 Tbsps brown sugar
a smidgen of tobacco (optional)
1/4 cup warm water

Cut the ribs before placing them in the marinade for at least one hour turning occasionally. Grill or broil, basting marinade over the ribs frequently. We have cooked these ahead of time and they can be reheated quickly. If you are having a crowd over the Labor Day weekend, and you are having several kinds of meat, at least the ribs will be done ahead and you won't spend so much time over the grill.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point; Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Spectacle Island Also Bad For Sludge Plant, Says Tardo

Putting a sludge treatment plant on Spectacle Island could be just as bad as putting it in Quincy, according to Denis Tardo, Republican candidate for state representa-tative in the Second Norfolk District.

"Telling the people of South Boston that they're getting the sludge because they have a vacant piece of property is just as wrong as the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority coming to Quincy and taking the shipyard," he said.

Tardo said Spectacle Island should not be seen as the final site option for a treatment plant until it is certain there will be no negative impact on Squantum and South Boston.

In taking this position, Tardo says he has separated himself from other candidates, including fellow Republican Richard Harris and Democrats Patricia Toland, Stephen Tobin, and Stephen Durkin.

State Representative

"We do not have representation at the State House"

Denis Tardo is the community leader who called for a special election when the former representative resigned.

"We cannot allow drugs to control the behavior of Society"

Denis Tardo recognizes the effect drugs have on people and believes we should enforce "Zero Tolerance" for drug dealers and criminals on drugs.

"We cannot allow the Old Colony to railroad us"

Denis Tardo believes the Old Colony Railroad would be a 24 hour transportation route for sludge and hazardous waste, and opposes it.

REMEMBER The City Councillor that FOUGHT and WORKED for YOU!

Quincy City Councillor George B. McDonald organized the largest mass protest meeting against Revaluation. (above meeting at Quincy Armory)

Councillor George McDonald distributes petitions signed by over 10,000 taxpayers calling on the state legislators to adopt the Classification Law, which is now in effect saving every Quincy homeowner and rent payer thousands of dollars.

GEORGE B. McDONALD

Norfolk County Commissioner
A Public Record of Achievement

- Quincy City Councillor-At-Large
- Norfolk County Commissioner
- Trustee Braintree County Hospital
- Trustee Walpole Agricultural School
- Director South Shore Cerebral Palsy
- Chairman Norfolk County Regional Solid Waste Committee
- Norfolk County Sheriff's Associates

... and that same Councillor, now your present Norfolk County Commissioner is still working for YOU by getting commitments of over $3,200,000 from the state for our overcrowded jails, lifting a tremendous financial burden off Quincy and Norfolk County taxpayers, plus receiving approval of $30,000,000 of state money to build a new county jail.

Mauriello, Eaves Reappointed To Cemetery Board

Mayor Francis McCauley announces the reappointments of Paul Mauriello, 36 Berlin St. and Earl S. Eaves, 282 Wilson Ave., to the Cemetery Board of Managers.

Both reappointments are effective the first Monday in September and will continue until the first Monday in September, 1991.

Mauriello has been employed by New England Telephone Company as an engineer for the past 19 years, and is the chairman of the company's "Quality of Life Committee." He is also the scoutmaster of Troop 21, Boy Scouts, president of the North Quincy High School Music Parents, and a member of the Lions Club of Quincy.

Eaves worked 42 years at John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance in the treasury department. Some of his memberships include Quincy Republican City Committee, Central Baptist Church in Quincy and Yankee Division Veteran's Association, past national treasurer of the 101st Infantry Veteran's Association.

The Cemetery Board of Managers oversees the management, general supervision and expenditure of all appropriations made for cemetery purposes and formulates rules and regulations governing the sale of lots and the establishment of perpetual care.

The board was approved by the City Council in 1958 and the members serve without compensation.

'Remembering The Lord' Covenant Congregational Topic

"Remembering The Lord" will be the sermon by Rev. Fred Lawson on Sunday at the 10 a.m. service at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts.

Richard Smith, minister of music, will play an organ prelude, offertory and postlude. Luisa Dano and Charlie Sylvester will sing a duet of Ackley's "Take Up Thy Cross."

A nursery is available for children age five and under. The attendant will be Alisa LaCoste.

Immediately following the service, a coffee hour, served by the Lawsons, will be held in Person Hall.

Upcoming activities in the church include Rally Day on Sunday, Sept. 11 to mark the beginning of Sunday school. There will be classes for all ages, nursery through adult. The Sunday school superintendent is Mrs. Linda Day.

The Naomi Society will hold its first meeting after the summer vacation on Monday, Sept. 12. Sewing kits for the Seamen's Mission will be assembled. Ladies are asked to bring needles, safety pins and buttons for the kits.

There will be a bake sale held in the kitchen at the Primary election, Thursday, Sept. 15. Baked goods should be brought to the church early that morning or the night before.

The Covenant Seniors will be traveling to Cromwell Ct. to visit Hilltop, the Covenant retirement village, on Tuesday, Sept. 20. Transportation will cost $10.

'Christ Is Everything' Sermon At Bethany

Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach a sermon entitled "Christ Is Everything" at the 10 a.m. Labor Day service on Sunday at the Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts.

Holy Communion will be celebrated, with Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, assisting in the liturgy.

The service will be broadcast live at 10 a.m. over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc. Irene Belcher will give the communion commentary during the broadcast.

Guest musicians, Caroline Calabro, flautist, and George Vallatini, violinist, will present selections for the prelude, offertory and postlude.

This will be the last Sunday for Bethany organist and choir director, Peter E. Krasinski, who will also serve as lay scripture reader on Sunday.

Mr. Krasinski, who has served as organist and choir director for the church for nearly six years, has accepted a similar position on the staff of the United Parish Church of Brookline.

A farewell reception to honor him will be held during the 11 a.m. Fellowship Hour in the Allen parlor. Members of the congregation and friends in the community are invited to attend.

Other church activities include the reopening of the Bethany Sunday Church School on Sunday, Sept. 18. Registration will begin at 9:15 a.m. with a celebration in the sanctuary following at 10 a.m.

For additional information, contact the church office at 479-7300.

Going To Providence

Rev. Steele Martin Leaving Christ Church

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

The Rev. Steele Martin, rector at Christ Church Episcopal, will leave the historic church on Sept. 25 after a final service there.

Rev. Martin has been rector of the 300-year-old church at 12 Quincy Ave. for 14 years.

He has also served as chaplain for the Quincy Fire Department during that time.

"It's like a funeral and a wedding all combined," Rev. Martin commented.

"When you leave a place where you worked and lived for 14 years, it's like a funeral. In going to some place new, meeting some new people and some friends, it's like a wedding."

Rev. STEELE MARTIN

Rev. Martin will be priest-in-charge of St. Stephen's Church in Providence, R.I. — "for at least two years," he says.

When Rev. Martin came to Christ Church, the parish had few reserves, was in debt, and the property needed major repairs. The church furnace did not work, the organ was "half dead," and there was a need for paint, storm windows and insulation.

Now the needed repairs have been made and new equipment acquired, and funds have improved.

There will be a special observance at the church, details for which have not been announced.

Also, Rev. Francis X. McCauley and the City Councilors are preparing a citation in recognition of Rev. Martin's years of service in Quincy.

9:30 A.M. Service At Squantum First Church

"Tuning In To God For Guidance" was the title of the service preached Sunday morning at the First Church of Squantum by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor.

The congregation sang "Be Thou My Vision," "If Thou But Suffer God To Guide Thee," and "Spirit of God, Descend Upon My Heart." Accompanying the congregation were Mary Ruth Scott on the organ and Janet Williamson on the piano.

Harry Holmes and Tore Wallin were the ushers. Hazel Mayne and May Lewis hosted the Fellowship Hour after the service.

In the afternoon, members and friends of the church traveled to the Museum of Science in Boston to see the "Rameses" exhibit.

The service this Sunday will begin at 9:30 a.m. A nursery is provided and visitors are welcome.

Regular Services To Resume At HN Congregational Sept. 11

The Houghs Neck Congregational Church beginning on Sunday, Sept. 11, will resume its regular schedule of services at 9 and 10:30 a.m. They will be conducted by the Rev. Dr.

Peter V. Corea and the Rev. M. Alicia Corea, associate ministers.

Sunday, Sept. 4, there will be one service of worship at 9:30 a.m.

Drastic Changes Needed In Auto Insurance System, Says Durkin

Stephen J. Durkin, candidate for state representative in the Second Norfolk District, recently urged the Senate to resume work on an adequate auto insurance bill.

In letters to House Speaker George Keverian and Senate President William Bulger, Durkin urged the legislature to reconvene and reconsider a motion overriding Gov. Dukakis' veto of $91 million in local aid and to get back to work on a "long-over-due auto insurance reform law."

"As you know," the letter said, "the auto insurance industry has recently proposed a 19.1 per cent increase in auto insurance premiums. Massachusetts drivers are understandably outraged at the escalating cost of insuring their automobile."

Durkin said the system needs to be drastically revamped and the legislature should quickly draft a responsible bill which would bring down auto insurance costs and which protects consumers and their legal rights.

Durkin also became the latest in a long line of city officials to ask the legislature to override Gov. Dukakis' veto of $91 million of state aid, which came from lottery revenues.

"As a member of the Quincy School Committee, I have a special appreciation of the importance of local aid money to local school systems throughout the state," he said. Quincy would stand to lose $1.9 million because of the veto.

"It is my understanding that all lottery revenues are, by statute, earmarked for distribution to cities and towns. Thus, Dukakis' characterization of the $91 million in lottery funds as surplus appears to be inaccurate," said the letter.

"The legislature has a responsibility to make certain that these lottery revenues are distributed in the manner intended and that municipalities, which depend on these funds, do not have to suffer simply because of overspending at the state level."

Bill Will Give QJC Easy Lease On New Building

A bill which would allow Quincy Junior College to lease the new school building on Saville Rd. from the Ricciardi's at below-market value is currently awaiting Gov. Michael Dukakis' signature.

The lease would ensure guaranteed classroom space and low tuition charge for the next 45 years in the school building, which, according to Sen. Paul Harold, was provided by the Ricciardi's after the old Quincy District Courthouse was torn down to make way for their President's Place.

The bill was sponsored by Harold, Rep. Robert Cerasoli, and Rep. Michael Morrissey, who says that having the school continue paying at below market rates would be advantageous to the city.

"The school's on a pay as you go basis," said Morrissey. "By allowing the school to pay at below market rate, the tuition can stay down. We don't know what the rate is, but we do know it will be below market."

Labor Day Festival Sunday At Marina Bay

The sixth annual Marina Bay Labor Day Festival will be held Sunday from 12 noon to 9:30 p.m.

The festival, which is free and open to the public, is sponsored by O'Connell Management Company, one of the developers of Marina Bay, and by the Mayor's Office.

The celebration will include food, music, carnival rides, clowns and dancing and entertainment for both young and old.

A fireworks display will close the festival late in the evening. Last year the event attracted over 3,000 people, and this year promises an even greater crowd. Early arrival is suggested.

Access to Marina Bay is from the Southeast Expressway (Route 93) to Quincy Shore Drive to Commander Shea Blvd. to O'Connell Drive; or East Squantum St. to Victory Rd.

A rain date has been set for Monday, Sept. 5.

For more information call 847-1800.

Charles Harrington Candidate For Governor's Councillor

Charles A. Harrington recently announced his candidacy for Governor's Councillor from the Fourth District, which includes Quincy.

He will be running as an independent candidate against eight-year incumbent, Attorney Peter Elley of Quincy.

As an independent, Harrington will bypass the September primary and his name will appear on the Nov. 8 ballot.

"I realize it is difficult to unseat an incumbent," said Harrington. "But if determination is what's needed, I will finish first. As an independent, my commitment is to the people, not any political party."

Harrington is employed by the Boston Globe. He is a 27-year member of the Boston Typographical Union and in 1969 was elected to the Union Executive Board.

He is editor and publisher of The Southie News and has been involved in such programs as Big Brother Association, the Head Start Program, and Meals on Wheels.

He is currently involved with Citizens for Life, Castle Island Association, and South Boston Resident's Group.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Labor Day is one of the youngest of our national holidays. It is an important day - not only for those in the ranks of labor, but for every citizen in this land. It took labor of all kinds to carve this nation out of a wilderness ... to cross treacherous rivers ... to carve roads through the trackless forests ... to clear lands and build towns.

Today many do not celebrate the day as it was originally dedicated for. There are, of course, the parades, but for many Labor Day marks the beginning of fall. By Labor Day, autumn's trappings are much in evidence. Pumpkins are ripening. School is starting. Nights are cooler. Football is re-asserting its claim to be the national game ... In the cities, people are shaking off their apathy of summer. Their step is brisker, their vision clearer, and they begin to realize there may be some point in working for a living after all!

We're glad the Knights of Labor invented the idea in the 1880's and Congress made it official in 1894. Today, maybe it isn't what they had in mind, but they gave us all a day on which to say a hearty "Welcome back" to Fall ... And as we say a welcome to Fall, let us stop and think about our nation that was molded out of people from all sorts of backgrounds - provided they were willing and ready to work together ...

23 Take Part In Germantown Bike Race

Peter Kolson, superintendent of Quincy Housing maintenance, Harborview Residents Committee and Support Services recently sponsored the first "Great Bicycle Race" in Germantown.

Twenty-three youngsters took part in the 2½-mile race, riding all types of bicycles.

The winners were Mark Topher, ages 7-9; Seth Mott, 10-11, and Kevin Monahan, 12-14.

All winners received gift certificates. Prizes and refreshments were made possible by the generosity of District Atty. William Delahunt's office.

Tobin Urges Legislature Not To Delay Return

Prompted by reports that the legislature might not go back into session for another eight weeks, State Representative candidate Arthur Stephen Tobin wrote a letter to House Speaker George Keverian urging the legislature to go back when planned, the day after Labor day.

"If the legislature were to take an additional eight week vacation," said Tobin, "the message would appear to be that the needs and concerns of the people are not that important. And that is the wrong message to send."

Among the issues Tobin said he'd like to see the legislature cover is the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority's granting of $787,000 in salary increases to staff employees.

"In times such as these," he said, "when human service agencies are forced to trim and slash worthwhile programs in order to meet budget constraints, the Committee on Post Audit and Oversight should be called upon to investigate what amounts to fiscal abuse by the M.W.R.A."

He said the legislature should be working to cut unnecessary expenditures without doing away with necessary program needs.

Tobin also cited the 19.1 per cent increase in auto insurance premiums Quincy citizens are facing.

"(Citizens of Quincy) need and deserve to have their elected representatives watch out for their interests," said the letter. "The people are disturbed by the constant, costly borrowing to fund the current state budget."

McDuff Calls For Tougher Drug Laws

John H. McDuff, Republican candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District, urges tougher drug laws to replace present means of punishment which he called "a joke."

A few of the changes he said he would propose would take away a prisoner's civil rights until his sentence is up; the construction of as many prisons as needed; and a mandatory five year jail term for a first conviction for selling drugs with 10 years for second offenders and life without parole for third offenders.

During a talk before a group of his supporters, McDuff cited a Justice Department study which says the cost of building a cell and keeping a prisoner in it is $15,000 to $25,000 per year, while the cost for courts, police work, victim and security costs and losses per criminal is $330,000 per year.

"It makes not only good common sense, but good economic sense to build the needed jails and use them," said McDuff.

"No doubt some civil libertarians and our weak-kneed legislators would find these proposals overly severe," he also said. "But we are in a war for the lives of the young people of America and the safety of our homes and streets. We cannot afford to coddle criminals any longer. It is time to get tough."

According to McDuff, getting tough means doing away with a prisoner's right to vote, run for office, marry and conjugal visits.

Anyone who kills another in a drug related crime or who sells drugs which cause someone's death should automatically face the death sentence, he said.

Special Anniversary Issue Sept. 28

We're Celebrating Our 20th Year!

The Quincy Sun will be 20 years old in September and we are celebrating with a special anniversary issue Sept. 28.

The top Quincy news stories and photos of the past two decades will be highlighted in this nostalgic special issue.

Come back to 1968 when some of your favorite political figures sported

crewcuts, the MBTA's Red Line was coming to Quincy, James McIntyre was mayor and senator, the average family income was $11,000, there were 8,000 workers at the General Dynamics Shipyard and the future was looking mighty bright. And you could still buy a pretty good house for $25,000.

Cattaneo: Quincy Should Have Only One Legion Team

Longtime coach and present manager and advisor Ray Cattaneo of the Morrisette Legion baseball team told more than 100 players, parents and friends at Monday night's annual baseball dinner that until Quincy is represented by only one team, the city cannot hope to have a contender for state and regional titles.

"We might be the only city to have three Legion teams and we are much too small a city for this," said Cattaneo. "Many cities much larger than Quincy have only one team. For instance, Cincinnati, which won the Legion World Series Sunday, has only one team."

"It was a little different when we won the state and regional titles in 1975 and played in the World Series in South Dakota. There were far more boys playing baseball then. Now boys have many more interests and don't want to play baseball. I don't see more than four or five boys from this year's Babe Ruth League who will be Legion players next year and we have three teams trying to sign them up.

"There are too few players in Quincy and they are too spread out to give any one team a state or regional champion."

The principal speaker was former Morrisette shortstop Paul Messina, who played on the 1975 World Series team.

Messina began his baseball career by playing on the Quincy Police Boys Club, Babe Ruth League city champions, in 1973. The following year he was cut by Morrisette and played on the Data Processing team of the Senior Babe Ruth League team, which won the state championship and did well in the New England tournament. He and present Morrisette coach Dave Perdios were teammates on the 1975 World Series team. Messina was the starting shortstop but suffered an eye injury and Perdios took over and Messina was unable to win his job back.

"I feel I helped Morrisette to the state title and that Dave helped us get into the World Series," Messina said. "Dave and I have been close friends ever since."

Post chaplain Ed Boland gave the invocation and Comdr. Paul Eldridge brought the greetings of the post.

Also at the head table were athletic officer Frank Osborne, scorer and statistician Richard 'Berger' Ryan and Tom Sullivan of the Quincy Sun.

Cattaneo introduced his former long time pitching coach Billy Corcoran and Norfolk County chairman Charlie Ward.

The players received jackets, team pictures and a package of gum from Osborne, who has supplied gum for the players for more than 30 years.

A letter was read from Jake Comer of Quincy, national commander of the American Legion, who is in Europe, congratulating the team for another successful season.

Sun Sports

Future Looks Bright For Morrisette

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team had another successful season as it finished second for the second year in a row in Zone 6, but for the second successive season lost in the first round of the zone playoffs.

Morrisette finished at 12-4 and finished a game behind Braintree in regular season play, but lost to Milton in straight games, 3-2 and 9-8, in the playoffs.

Four of Morrisette's six losses were by one run and in each game it led going into the last inning.

Coach Dave Perdios loses seven players from this season's team, including five starters, but the future looks bright with 11 returning players. Pitching should be a strong point in 1989.

Leaving will be Ed Flavin, who had a team-best .468 batting average and led the team in hits with 29 (at one point he had seven hits in a row and 12 for 15 in a five-34-game stretch), led in RBIs with 20 and triples with four. He also had a home run. He will attend Bentley College in the fall.

Dan Biagini will leave after three outstanding years at shortstop. The Quincy High Suburban League all-star is a top two-way player, excelling in the field and batting over .300 each of his three years. This year he batted .352, led the team in extra base hits with nine, led in doubles with six and walks with 12. He had two game-winning RBIs and will enter UMass-Amherst in the fall.

Pitcher Wayne Chambers will be leaving after two fine years. The southpaw, who starred for Quincy High's tournament team, had a 3-2-1 record, striking out 45. Also an outfielder, Wayne will enter Hartford University.

Two-year starting infielders Mike Mullaney and Ron Fletcher played key roles in Morrisette's success over the past two seasons. Mullaney attends Boston College and Fletcher College, Skidmore, N.Y., where he played the past spring.

Pitcher Dan Overby, who had a variety of arm and shoulder problems the past two years, never had a chance to reach his full potential. He made only two appearances this year, picking up a save. A healthy arm could have made a big difference for Morrisette.

Also leaving will be utility infielder Jim Ross, who played all infield positions and did some catching.

The returnees will be led by Rob McDonald, who will be back for an unprecedented fifth year. A starting catcher for three years, he also played first base and had two starts as a pitcher, going 1-1. Always a .300 hitter and among the leaders in RBIs, he batted .352 this year, was second in RBIs with 15, had three game-winning RBIs and had a home run.

Speedy Billy MacDougall will be back in center field, where he stood out defensively. He batted .339, led in runs scored with 21 and was second in hits with 21, 10 of which were infield hits.

Jeff Calvert was the season's surprise. A 16-year-old playing his first season, he started 15 games and played the outfield and second base and also caught three games. His .371 average was second on the team. He is a line drive hitter who seldom strikes out.

Two 16-year-old pitchers, who had fine seasons, will be back. Eric DeBoer was the ace of the staff and Kevin MacDougall was used often in the second half of the season.

DeBoer had a 4-2-1 record with a save and struck out 61 in 50 innings. His 11-inning scoreless tie with Braintree ace Ted Novio when he struck out 15 was one of the finest games in many years.

MacDougall was 2-1 and did well both as a starter and in relief. He can also play the outfield, is a good hitter and had a game winning RBI and a home run.

Also returning will be pitchers Tim Brillo and Rich Kiesel, who saw limited action but can be key contributors next year.

Catcher Brian Taylor had a good year with a .290 average and a game-winning RBI and he can also play first base.

Tony Anderlionis, an infielder, has two more years of eligibility as does outfielder Jimmy Glynn. Matt Donovan, a catcher who worked the bullpen, has another year of eligibility and should see more action next season.

Along with Perdios, Ray Cattaneo, former coach and now manager, will be back and also expected back are Frank Osborne, athletic officer and chief fund raiser, and Richard 'Berger' Ryan, scorer and statistician.

Kane's Wins Jaehnig Crown

Kane's Place won the championship of the Jaehnig Chiropractic Men's Summer Basketball League with a hard-fought 80-75 victory over the upset-minded Jaehnig Club.

Paul Forbes hit on seven straight free throws down the stretch and scored a team-high 20 points to lead Kane's. Billy Dacey had 19 points and Mark Millane and Dean Coletti 15 each.

Jaehnig rallied from a 13-point halftime deficit to take its only lead of the game with less than a minute to play on a Marty Connolly tip-in.

However, two steals could not increase the lead and two costly turnovers in the last minute ruined its upset chances. Connolly was high scorer with 20 points, Chuck Jaehnig had 16, Paul Leonard 14, Mike Keeley and Mark Jaehnig 12 apiece.

Kane's roster included Capt. Coletti, Millane, Dacey, Peter and Paul Forbes, Pat and John Bradley, P.J. Fay, Tom and John Henry.

The Jaehnig roster included Capt. Mark Jaehnig, Mike, Chuck and Don Jaehnig, Keeley, Connolly, Leonard, David Britt and Mark Dwyer.

Conway Wins 200-Meter Dash At Hershey's Nationals

Mekel Conway of Quincy won the 11-12 girls' 200-meter dash at the recent Hershey's National Track and Field Youth meet at Hershey, Pa.

Mekel, winner of the Region 6 title, finished in 26:49, to defeat Catherine Cummings of Little Rock, Ark.

Noreen O'Brien of Quincy placed sixth in the 11-12 girls' 400-meter dash with a time of 1:08.83. She also won the Region 6 championship in her event.

Regional teams consisting of 480 boys and girls from all 50 states received an all-expense paid trip to the national finals in Hershey. The regional winners were selected from more than 275,000 boys and girls who participated in the Hershey program throughout the country.

The grand marshal was Rafer Johnston, Olympic decathlon gold medalist in 1960 and charter member of the National Track and Field Hall of Fame. Eight other former Olympians were also on hand at the national finals.

Quincy Teams Help Raise $20,000 For Easter Seals

A dozen Quincy teams recently participated in the 11th annual Easter Seals softball marathon held at Braintree High School, helping to raise about $20,000.

All proceeds from the marathon fund local programs on the South Shore, said Debbie Ervin, one of the event's organizers.

Each team pledged a minimum of $200 to play and received trophies for participating. Teams were also awarded caps, t-shirts and jackets, depending on the amount of money raised through pledges, Ervin said. She said the marathons have been successful because "it gives people a chance to become involved."

Among the Quincy teams that participated were: Industrial Heat Treating, Signet, BFDS, Hibernia Savings Bank, the New Gazette, Edmund Fitzgerald, The Tent, Amelia's, Burger King, Common Market, Pizza Hut, Newcomb Farms, Pneumatic Scale, and Miller Reprographics.

About 60 teams played during the recent two-day marathon.

Joe Campbell, area supervisor for the Edmund Fitzgerald, The Tent, New Gazette and Amelia's, said about 40 employees managed to play despite the busy time of year for business. He said those four teams raised $1,189, with one female worker raising $150 on her own.

Services Easter Seals perform include rehabilitation, physical, speech and occupational therapy, swimming and camping programs as well as stroke support clubs and home health care.

23 Selected As Point Panther Cheerleaders

The Quincy Point Panthers cheerleaders recently held tryouts at Fore River Field and 23 girls ages 11-14 were selected to the varsity and junior varsity squads.

Candidates were chosen by a panel of judges, all former college cheerleaders, on the basis of voice, enthusiasm, motion technique, overall cheer and extras (jumps, partner stunts and gymnastics). Captains were chosen by majority vote.

The varsity squad includes Capt. Lynne Feeley, Co-Capt. Maureen Wood, Michelle Minichello, Maureen Mancuso, Jennifer Walsh, Karen Curran, Debbie Russell, Amy Murphy, Vicky Comeau, Jennifer Kelley, Kelley Dyer, Marie Parkki and Katie McCarthy.

The jayvee squad includes Capt. Cindy Cedrone, Co-Capt. Christine Curran, Kara Bagen, Christine Marrone, Michelle Gowdy, Christina Staffier, Samantha Perry, Julie Simon, Laurie Young and Darlene Brady.

The Panther cheerleaders are the defending Eastern Mass. Competition champions and were third in the Northeast (N.E. and N.Y.) regional tournament last season.

The Quincy Youth Football League will open its 38th season Sept. 10 and 11.

Quincy Legion Baseball Team Wraps Up Season At Dinner

The Quincy Legion baseball team held its annual breakup dinner at Alfredo's Restaurant.

Coaches Dick Laracy and Ed Spring thanked all the sponsors who made the successful season possible by taking an advertisement in the team program book and, in particular, thanked Derbes Brothers, major contributors.

The Quincy players who took part in the post-season semi-pro tournament, pitcher Rob Higgins, catcher Bill Mulken, second baseman Nick Dragone, first baseman Sean Gately and outfielders Jim Dennis and Peter Tufts, were congratulated for their excellent performances.

The players will receive jackets and sweaters from the coaches at a later date and they also will receive team pictures.

Those receiving third-year blue jackets are Higgins, Gately, Tufts, Dennis, Mulken and Joe Taylor.

Receiving second-year white sweaters are Tim Baker, Paul McLellan, Mike Toland, Mike Connors, Dragone and Jim Kearns.

First-year gray jackets will go to Chris Beatrice, Kevin Daley, Peter McLaughlin, Sean Mulken and Greg Clifford.

"We feel, with the players returning next season, we will have a very competitive team," said Laracy. "We also would like to thank the Quincy Sun for its continued fine coverage of Legion baseball."

'All About Dogs' Airs On Ch. 3 Sept. 7

The newest cable show of interest to dog owners, "All About Dogs" airs Wednesday, Sept. 7 on Cable Ch. 3 in Quincy.

Quincy viewers are being encouraged to take part with unusual or heroic stories about their canine pets as Susan and Stephen Toomey will tonight with their two dogs, Bonne, a blue merle collie and Jesse, a golden retriever. The Toomeys are from Randolph, where the show airs simultaneously with Quincy and Milton.

John D'Espoo, D.V.M. and owner of Dr. Wolf's Animal Medical Center, Dedham, will inform viewers about owners' becoming aware of a disease known as hip dysplasia as well as how to avoid purchasing dogs who may get this condition.

Marie Kenneally, expert dog behavior expert and dog obedience trainer from the Milton-Quincy area will chat with Mr. and Mrs. Toomey about how differently their two dogs behaved before being obedience trained at their own home, and not only about the pleasure these two canines now are, by comparison, but how their each owning "crates" i.e. "rooms of their own" give the couple much more time for themselves, as they enjoy their pets much more.

Quincy viewers will also learn how they, too, can participate in the show either by phoning in ideas or questions they want answered or by sending in heroic stories so that they too, may appear on the show.

"All About Dogs," which originates from the Milton Community Cable TV station, airs in Milton, Quincy and Randolph simultaneously twice each month on the first and third Wednesdays respectively.

WEEK OF: September 1

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Your motto is "to serve" - and you have strong charming and fine friend. Some people consider you a little too fussy. Your attention to detail pays off, you may make an important career move by early '89. Relationships improve once you become less finicky.

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19
Watch tendency to volunteer for more than you really care to take on. Friends respond to your gentle prodding. Relative is more willing to share family obligation.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20
Surprises are scattered through the week. An interview may include an unexpected question, a thrifty friend may become magnanimous, and an aloof co-worker may be utterly cordial.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20
Children respond more seriously to your suggestions than you expect. Home improvements are favored, but avoid cutting corners. Compromise is essential to relationships.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22
You're especially resilient at this time and more than compensate for a recent setback. Financial gains are possible - and budgeting is essential. Romance proceeds at a steady pace.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21
This week, opposites do indeed attract. As well, a former friend may be asked to negotiate a reconciliation. Professional skills are in demand after the weekend.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22
Week finds you branching out, and eager to start the next task before the previous one is completed. Charisma is strong, and helps win you support from a powerful source.

LEO - July 23 - August 22
You're known for your ability to concentrate, and this week puts you to the test. You also find yourself selecting the perfect gift for a favorite friend.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22
Week includes a mixture of glamorous events and mundane chores. You may meet a celebrity. Friend's sagging self-confidence is pumped up, thanks largely to your tireless efforts.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22
A long-term pursuit is within sight, and at the same time you start to map out strategy for another goal. Loved one is becoming much more assertive.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21
Home environment is a happy place, but there can be confusion at the job scene. Lost item may surface at this time. Work at improving communications with a loved one.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22
New acquisition may prove more valuable than you thought. Some work-related ideas may be ahead of their time. You make a meaningful contribution to the community.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20
A generally peaceful week - and a perfect opportunity for catching up on miscellaneous tasks. Being observant can pay off, especially in your professional setting. Romance scene brightens.

BORN THIS WEEK
September 1st, actress Yvonne De Carlo; 2nd, producer William Cowan; 3rd, actress Anne Jackson; 4th, actor Dick York; 5th, actress Raquel Welch; 6th, actress Jo Anne Worley; 7th, director Elia Kazan.

Deware Funeral Home New England Trust Member

Multibank Financial Corp., Dedham and the Massachusetts Funeral Directors Association announce the acceptance of Deware Funeral Home of 576 Hancock St. in Quincy as a member of the New England Funeral Trust-Multibank Master Trust.

The New England Funeral Trust-Multibank Master Trust Program through South Shore Bank will assist funeral directors in making detailed funeral and financial arrangements on a "preneed" basis.

D. Scott Deware of the Deware Funeral Home said: "Unlike some other prearranged funeral services presently being sold in the South Shore area, the prearranged funeral program of Deware Funeral Home will place 100 per cent of the funds received under the New England Funeral Trust program into the New England Funeral Trust-Multibank Master Trust, which is available locally through South Shore Bank, a Multibank Financial Corp. member bank.

The New England Funeral Trust-Multibank Master Trust was designed in complete conformance with the regulations established for prepaid funeral arrangements by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Board of Registration of Funeral Directing and Embalming."

The New England Funeral Trust-Multibank Master Trust enables funeral directors to conveniently invest their clients' prepayments at the Multibank affiliate bank in their local area. Further, the fact that prepayments are invested in a legal trust arrangement protects pre-arrangement clients and assures them that their funeral arrangements will be carried out as planned. Multibank keeps detailed records of each pre-arrangement client's investment, and produces all necessary tax forms so participating funeral homes may comply with legal reporting requirements.

Deware said: "Our firm's participation in the New England Funeral Trust-Multibank Master Trust program not only confirms our continued commitment to the South Shore families we serve, but also our belief that individuals paying money in advance for prearranged funeral services deserve the peace of mind that a legal trust arrangement creates."

INVITATION TO BID

Sealed Proposals for Sea Wall Repair at Edgewater Drive

Will be received at the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA until 10:00 A.M. prevailing time on Thursday, Sept. 22, 1988 at which time they will be publicly opened and read.

The Contractor to whom the Contract may be awarded will be required to appear at this office with the surety offered by him and execute the Contract within ten days from the date of the mailing of notice from the Commissioner to the bidder, according to the address given by him that the Contract is ready for signature and in case of his failure or neglect to do so, the Commissioner may, at his option, determine that the bidder had abandoned the Contract and thereupon the certified check or bid bond shall become the property of the City of Quincy.

The Contractor will be required to provide both a performance bond and payment labor and materials bond each for the full Contract price. A certified check or bid bond in the amount of 5% of the base bid shall accompany each bid.

Specifications may be obtained at the Department of Public Works upon deposit of $25.00 for each set which will be refunded provided they are returned in good condition, within 30 days of the bid opening. Bidders requesting specifications mailed to them shall add a separate check for Ten Dollars ($10.00) payable to the City of Quincy to cover the mailing and handling.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or to accept the bid deemed best for the City.

McCauley Seeks Brighter Lights Along Quincy Ave.

Mayor Francis McCauley has written the Massachusetts Electric Company requesting brighter lights be installed along a stretch of Quincy Ave., the scene of a fatal accident 10 days ago.

McCauley said Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro asked him to write a letter requesting brighter, sodium vapor lights be installed along a section of the busy street.

"We'll take care of the situation," McCauley said Tuesday.

Kellie Yorston, 22, of Weymouth, was killed Aug. 26 after the pickup truck she was driving lost control and was hit broadside by an MBTA bus.

Police said Yorston was driving between 50 and 60 mph in a 35 mph zone. The pickup struck a curb with its front tire, careened out of control and struck a car it was passing on the right, police said.

The pickup then swerved across the street into oncoming northbound traffic and was struck by the bus.

Four people, including the bus driver, two bus passengers and the driver of the car struck by Yorston's pickup, were treated at Quincy and South Shore Hospitals.

If the request is approved, Mass. Electric would pay for the light installation while the city would pay a slightly higher rate for their use, the mayor said.

There was no word on the possible number of lights or estimated installation cost.

$1.1 Million Street, Sidewalk Project Planned City-Wide

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The City Council, at its first meeting of the fall session Tuesday, Sept. 6, was expected to pass a $250,000 appropriation to pave the way for a $1.1 million street and sidewalk repair and reconstruction project throughout Quincy.

Councillor and Finance Committee Chairman Stephen McGrath said before the meeting Tuesday he expected the highway capital outlay to pass.

"This is obviously an important matter. We are always getting requests for all sorts of sidewalk and streets repairs," McGrath said.

"This is something we have been waiting for a long time," he added.

If approved, the $250,000 would help fund a $1.1 million public works project which includes resurfacing all portions of 43 streets and sidewalks as well as repairing and reconstructing sidewalks. The work, to begin this fall, will continue through next year.

The $250,000 appropriation is a transfer from the Urban Development Action Grant (U.D.A.G.) reserve account. Other project revenue sources include $714,223 in state roadway grants and $165,037 in city money.

Thirty-one other items, including 18 appropriations, were on the council agenda Tuesday night.

Among other items, McGrath said he "anticipated" money for two new highway trucks would be approved. They are: $16,800 for a three-quarter ton utility pickup and a similar pickup with a plow valued at $17,000 for ice and snow removal.

Sheets Seeks Tax Rebate For Flood Damaged Homes

Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets has requested that Quincy's City Solicitor Joseph "Jay" MacRitchie prepare a home rule petition for submission to the state legislature providing a rebate of taxes to cover damages done to homes during July's flooding.

The home rule petition would allow the City Council to create an ordinance determining a procedure for verification of losses and a schedule for rebating tax money.

The rebating would include money not compensated for by insurances or other provisions. Such losses would be verified by the owner to the satisfaction of the City of Quincy.

Sheets has asked that the petition be ready for the Sept. 19 council meeting.

"It is necessary for the state to pass special legislation before rebates can be issued for water damage," Sheets said.

The councillor is hopeful that the legislature would adopt the petition and rebates made possible.

According to Sheets, most areas are chronic flooding areas and the city and state have failed to rectify the situation for years.

More than 350 residences received extensive damage during the flood and many of these homes or dwellings have been subject to flooding in the past, Sheets said.

Fire Dept. Needs More Manpower Says DeCristofaro

The Fire Department may not have enough manpower to serve Quincy's needs, according to Ward 2 Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro.

According to DeCristofaro, the department recently responded to a Quincy Point fire with only two men on the pumper, one man less than safety standards require.

He called upon Mayor Francis McCauley to increase Quincy Fire Department staffing and that the determination must be made that nothing is more important to this city than public safety.

A careful examination of the Fire Department's staffing must be made.

43 Streets, Sidewalks Listed For Fall Work

With the City Council expected to give its approval of a $1.1 million public works project at its meeting Tuesday night, 43 sidewalks and streets will undergo resurfacing and reconstruction beginning this fall.

Finance Chairman Stephen McGrath said before Tuesday's meeting that a $250,000 appropriation needed to begin the project would be approved.

Streets already scheduled to be resurfaced are:

Thatcher St. (Chariton to Ellington.)
Dunbarton Rd. (Thatcher to Oxenbridge.)
Ellington Rd. (Hancock to Oxenbridge.)

Hospital Service Building To Be Demolished

The former Service Building of the Quincy City Hospital is due for demolition in late September, according to Associate Director of the hospital, Jeffrey Harsfield. The exact date of the demolition is unavailable at this time.

The Service Building is the first hospital building to be demolished as part of an ongoing project to construct an all-new, state-of-the-art facility. The entire $60-million project is set for completion in the fall of 1989.

Removal of asbestos from the aged Service Building, which is required to obtain a demolition permit from the city, is currently underway.

When the demolition takes place, a wrecking ball will be used to demolish the walls and a "clamshell" shovel to remove debris, which will be dampened regularly to minimize airborne dust. No explosives will be used in the demolition process.

15 Beaches 'Swimmable'

Quincy's 15 beaches are considered swimmable by the City of Quincy Health Department.

The results of the water quality samples taken on Aug. 30 and 31 are:

Avalon Beach: 170 fecal coliform.
Mound Beach: 130 fecal coliform.

Broady Beach: 65
Germantown Fire Station 20.

Sub Shop License To Be Revoked Unless Delinquent Taxes Paid

By CHRIS MAHONEY

The proprietor of the Sub Chef at 195 Newport Ave. has been given two weeks to reach an agreement on paying delinquent real and personal property taxes totalling $8,025 before the License Board suspends his common victualer license.

Assistant City Solicitor Donald Hanson sought revocation of Stephen Richmond's license in accordance with city ordinance 120, which allows the License Board to revoke the license of a taxpayer who fails to keep current personal and real estate taxes.

City Clerk John Gillis, License Board chairman, said he was hesitant to see the license revoked because any means of payment would then be stunted. He said the License Board has always been compassionate to businesses in that area.

According to City Treasurer Collector Dana Childs, efforts at a payment agreement were made, but Richmond supposedly made one payment on delinquent taxes dating back to the late '70s.

James Timmons, Richmond's attorney, said his client agrees to the outstanding tax debt but the exact amount is in dispute because the debt is so old.

He also said Richmond demonstrated an intent to pay the taxes and he is not the type of person the ordinance seeks to punish.

Also, he said since the matter is an issue in Quincy District Court, it wasn't valid to put it before the License Board.

Hansen, however, said a license to operate a business is a privilege and that all taxes should be paid when due.

Richmond currently owes taxes on Sub Chef and other properties, including Happy Chef and Quality Deli. Timmons says his client is willing to reach an agreement.

"The threat of having his license suspended is what led him to sign the agreement," said Timmons. "But he has intended to pay delinquent taxes. He's willing to sit down."

4 Schools To Participate In Drug Training Programs

Four Quincy schools will participate in a program on "Drug Free Schools and Communities," where 80 persons will be trained to respond to the growing problem of substance abuse.

The original proposal of the program was organized by director of athletics Martin Finnegan, who was made aware of the program through the Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association.

The financial value of the award is over $20,000. The award is made by the Northeast Regional Center for Drug Free Schools and is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education.

The training will be from Oct. 22-29. Prior to the training, Quincy Schools superintendent Dr. Robert Ricci and the principals from the four schools will accompany Finnegan to the training site in Sayville, N.Y. from Sept. 26 to 28.

The group will return to Quincy to prepare the full team for their training at a site in New York.

The schools included in the program are Quincy High School-Quincy Vo-Tech, North Quincy High School, Broad Meadows Middle School and Atlantic Middle School.

License Board Briefs

The License Board took the following action during Tuesday's meeting at City Hall.

- Granted a request from Quincy Motel Corp., doing business as Quincy Bay Inn—Aquarius Lounge Grill 29—to change the name of Grill 29 to Mug and Muffin.

- Granted a request from the Masonic Temple Association for 32 one-day all-alcoholic licenses.

- Granted a request from Jolly's Cafe for a change of address from 33 Cottage Ave. to 26 Cottage Ave. provided they comply with stipulations of the health and building codes and send a certified check for $25 to the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission.

- Granted a request from White Moore, Inc., doing business as Bob White's on Sea St., to change the name of Bob White's to Grumpy White's.

- Granted a request from La Paloma Foods, Inc., doing business as La Paloma Mexican, 183 Newport Ave., for a common victualer-all alcoholic license.

- Granted a request from Wendy's International, doing business as Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburger, 191 Newport Ave., to build an addition in front of the building.

- Granted a request for a common victualer license for the new establishment, The Breakfast Kitchen, 545 Washington St.

- Granted a request from Merit Oil Corp. for a self-service gasoline license at 238 Hancock St. and 2-16 Hunt St., provided stipulations of the fire, building, and health departments are met.

PROTECTING SPECIAL VALUABLES

It's a good idea to purchase special coverage for your valuables on your homeowners' or tenants' personal property policy.

Your policy will probably limit coverage of items like furs, jewelry, musical instruments, gold, silverware, camera equipment, oriental rugs, coin and stamp collections, firearms, boats, and computer equipment. To cover this type of personal property, you will need a special rider. Often the policy's protection can be extended to cover these items when they're damaged or lost from your home and away from home as well. If you use such an item, for example a camera or musical instrument, to earn your living, you must tell your agent and arrange special professional coverage, because your exposure to loss will be far greater than that of the average person. When you purchase your coverage, you will be covered by riders, and you will also need a purchase receipt or a professional appraisal to establish the value of each item.

Times Sure Have Changed

Once upon a time there were so few Democrats in Quincy they could hold a political rally in a telephone booth and still have room for a late arrival.

That was a standing joke back in the 1920's, 1930's and the 1940's.

Republicans dominated the city and Norfolk County holding just about every elective office. The Republicans were in and the Democrats were on the outside with their noses pressed against the office windows looking in and longing.

Times sure have changed.
Latest official enrollment figures from the office of City Clerk John Gillis show 45,498 registered voters in the city.

Of these, 29,160 are Democrats.
Republicans number only 6,509.
And, Independents 9,829.

It means Democrats outnumber Republicans by 22,651 and Independents by 19,331.

Combine the Republicans and Independents (16,338) and the Democrats still hold a whopping 12,822 numerical edge.

GILLIS

Things started changing in the 1950's according to Assistant City
Clerk Tom Burke.

In 1950 Republicans were still in control with 14,048 registered to 6,550 Democrats. (The latter figure is similar to the Republican figure today). There were 19,725
Independents back then.

Throughout the rest of that decade, Democrats gained strength and by 1960 were on the verge of taking control.

Republicans in 1960 numbered 13,665. But the Democrats were right on their heels: 12,160. There were 16,391 Independents.

By 1961, Democrats did take over with a registration of 14,824. Republicans slipped to 13,577 and the big decline was on.

John F. Kennedy's Senate and Presidential campaigns are considered major factors in the turnaround here.

And, there has been another big change.

Women, who used to be content to stay home, rock the cradle, bake pies and leave the politics to their husband, have come a long way.

They actually hold the political clout in Quincy.

There are 25,906 registered female voters -- 6,317 more than male voters.

An estimated 1700 new voters have registered since the July 31st figures. The exact breakdown for them is not yet official.

But it's not expected to change the Democrat-
Republican, female-male ratio much.

SENATOR PAUL HAROLD celebrated his 40th birthday at a surprise party at his home Sunday. It was arranged and set up while he was at Martha's Vineyard.

Two interesting notes:

Campaign buttons that read:
"Candidate For Higher Office -- Paul Harold."

And, the birthday cake had the Presidential seal on it.

HAROLD

Just a coincidence. He's not running for President.
Seems the person who ordered the campaign buttons was not the same one who ordered the cake.

JOHN WALSH, commander of the Robert I.
Nickerson Post in Squantum, is in Louisville, Ky. covering the American Legion National Convention for The Quincy Sun.

It will be the swan song for Quincy's John (Jake) Comer who will end his term as National Commander. He will be succeeded by H.F. "Sparky" Gierke of North Dakota.

President Reagan, Vice President George Bush and Gov. Michael Dukakis are scheduled to address the convention and meet with Comer and Gierke.

WALSH

THE RICHARD J. KOCH Memorial will be dedicated Sunday, Sept. 18 at 10:30 a.m. at the Park and Recreation Complex, 100 Southern Artery.
Rain date is Sept. 25.

Koch, who headed the Park,
Forestry and Cemetery Departments and was active in civic and charitable causes, died a year ago.

KOCH

ANYONE WHO KNEW Warren Corbett is saddened by his death the other day at age 80.

For 33 years he was one of the Quincy Police Department's ablest and most popular officers and those qualities were still there for 19 more years as a check security advisor at South Shore Bank.

In a special tribute, Dennis
Sweeney of the Joseph Sweeney
Funeral Home had the funeral procession pass the Quincy District Court where judges, lawyers, clerks and police officers lined up outside in respect. The procession then passed South Shore Bank.

Corbett and the late James Ford were one of the top cruising car teams in the Quincy Police Department's history.

They were serious about their business but managed to find the lighter side of things.

Like the time a West Quincy woman called headquarters and frantically reported she had a mouse trapped in the bathroom and would the police please come up and help her.

Corbett and Ford were dispatched. On the way, they picked up a stray cat.

Later, they turned in this report:
"Opened bathroom door. Threw cat in. Closed door."

Quincy's Yesterdays

Austin, Ash Clash Over City Dump

City Councilwoman Edna B. Austin and Health Commissioner Dr. Richard M. Ash clashed over the city dump, or more specifically what Dr. Ash felt was the lack of attention the facility received from the city.

"The trouble is," said Dr. Ash, "that no one cares about the dump problem unless they live near one - or unless there is an emergency. Then they want to know why we haven't done anything."

Retorted Mrs. Austin: "As a matter of fact, the City Council has spent more time in studying and investigating the dump problem during the past six years than it has on any other municipal problem except the hospital addition."

"It would be far more to the point if Dr. Ash would spend more time trying to educate the people not to mix garbage and other organic matter with their rubbish than uttering such implied criticism of the Council."

LOW TURNOUT EXPECTED

City Clerk Donald P. Crane forecast a 30 percent turnout among Quincy's 45,000 registered voters for the Sept. 18 state primary election as candidates for various nominations swarmed over Quincy.

Edward J. McCormack Jr., nephew of Rep. John McCormack (D-Boston) and president of the Boston City Council, attended a coffee hour at the home of Mrs. David J. Crowley in Houghs Neck on the trail of the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Meanwhile, the polling place in Ward 2, Precinct 1 was moved from the Washington School to the Fore River Clubhouse after School Supt. Paul Gossard complained that the voters were interfering with classes.

LARGEST TANKER FOR SHIPYARD

Bethlehem Fore River Shipyard was awarded a contract to build a 65,000 deadweight ton tanker for Greek shipping magnate Stavros Niarchos, the largest tanker ever contracted by an American shipyard.

Fore River was also reported to be in contention for a contract to build a 100,000 deadweight ton for Aristotle Onassis, the brother-in-law of Niarchos and his chief rival as a ship owner.

QUINCY-ISMS

Clam Warden Carmen Morreale and Ricco Gilberti of 95 Babcock St., Houghs Neck, dove fully clothed from launches near Quincy Yacht Club to rescue 10 and 11-year-old Roslindale girls who had waded beyond their depth ... Gossard, of 8 Elm Ave., Wollaston, son of the school superintendent, was off to Berkeley, Calif., for graduate study in physics at the University of California ... Rev. John W. Turpel was conducting a fall revival campaign at the Granite Church of the Nazarene, 388 Granite St. ... School Supt. Paul Gossard placed the school enrollment at 13,509 with an estimated 1,400 kindergarten youngsters still to come ... It was the highest since 1933 when 15,085 were enrolled.

EMT Course At Quincy Hospital

Quincy City Hospital will begin a new session of its Emergency Medical Technician "A" course Thursday, Sept. 22.

The comprehensive EMT-A course is designed to develop the skills needed to provide prompt and efficient emergency medical care. It will be highly beneficial to persons seeking employment or currently working in such areas as emergency services, industrial safety and security, rescue operations, hospitals, or other health-related endeavors.

Course content includes dealing with the emergency situation; respiration and resuscitation; bleeding; wounds; shock; soft-tissue injuries; injuries to the skull, brain, neck, spine, and extremities; and various other medical, emotional, and environmental emergencies.

The EMT-A course is comprised of 33 sessions, which will meet at Quincy City Hospital on Monday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. Classes and field work will prepare students for both the State and National Registry Certification Exams.

Fee for the course is $350, which includes all laboratory fees. A $50 deposit is payable with registration.

Quincy City Hospital sponsors the EMT-A course

three times each year. All instructors are state-certified. Class size is limited and pre-registration is required.

A registration form and brochure describing the course are available from the EMT office at (617) 773-6100, ext. 2092. The materials can also be obtained by writing the EMT Office, Quincy City Hospital, 114 Whitwell St., Quincy, Mass. 02169.

Special Anniversary Issue Sept. 28

We're Celebrating Our 20th Year!

The Quincy Sun will be 20 years old in September and we are celebrating with a special anniversary issue Sept. 28.

The top Quincy news stories and photos of the past two decades will be highlighted in this nostalgic special issue.

Come back to 1968 when some of your favorite political figures sported

crewcuts, the MBTA's Red Line was coming to Quincy, James McIntyre was mayor and senator, the average family income was $11,000, there were 8,000 workers at the General Dynamics Shipyard and the future was looking mighty bright. And you could still buy a pretty good house for $25,000.

New Church Year Starts At United First Parish

United First Parish Church (Unitarian), Church of the Presidents, begins the new church year this Sunday, with services at 10:30 a.m.

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will deliver the sermon, "Is There One Among Us?" He will consider the place and meaning of a community of liberal faith in the modern world.

Norman Corey, music director, will serve as organist. Visitors are welcome and are invited to attend the social hour following the service.

Members and friends of the congregation will celebrate the beginning of the new church year with an all-church breakfast at 9:30 a.m. By tradition, the men of the Board of Governors will prepare and serve the opening breakfast. Russell Savella, vice-chairman, will be in charge of the kitchen team.

The church school will also begin its program for the year Sunday with registration and classes. The school is led by Brenda Chin, director of religious education. Anita Savella is chairman of the Religious Education Committee.

The school offers classes and programs for children from pre-school through junior high. Child care for infants and toddlers is also provided. Newcomers are welcome.

The church is located in Quincy Sq. at 1306 Hancock St. Call 773-1290 for information.

Quincy Point Congregational School Rally And Brunch

Quincy Point Congregational Church will begin its fall program Sunday, Sept. 11.

Infants, children, young people and adults will gather in the sanctuary at 10 a.m. to worship together. Part way through the service, Glenn McGhee, church school superintendent, will welcome those who will be participating in this year's Church School and direct them to their classrooms where the teaching staff will greet them and lead them in the fall semester program.

The church school program is provided by the church for infants through ninth grade.

Sophomores, juniors and seniors in high school will gather in "The Group" which is an informal discussion group that focuses on the interests and concerns of the young people under the direction of Ted Pullano, a seminary student from Andover-Newton Theological School in Newton Center.

In recent months, the Christian Education Board examined the curriculum needs of the church and its children, studied several curricula, and selected the newly published materials called "Discipleship Alive!"

This Christian education resource has been created and distributed by eight Protestant denominations, including the American Baptist Churches in the U.S.A., the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), the Church of the Brethren, the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, the Friends General Conference, the Moravian Church North, the Moravian Church South, and the United Church of Christ of which the Quincy Point Congregational Church is a member congregation. The theme for the fall semester is titled "We Are God's People."

Parents may register their children and young people by bringing them to church Sundays at 10 a.m. and registering them with the church school superintendent, or by speaking with one of the pastors by calling 773-6424 Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

This Sunday, worship will start at 10 a.m. The morning sermon will focus upon the theme "Are You Hungry?" Dr. Herman Weiss, church organist and choir director, will play "Draw Us To Thee" by Walther and "The Church's One Foundation" by Bunies. The Chancel Choir will sing "Light the Good Light" by Williams.

The congregation will welcome four new part-time leaders and soloists who will supplement the Chancel Choir during the coming church year. They include Kimberley Blaney, soprano; Donna Baione, alto; Dennis Pratt, tenor; and Jeff Spasato, bass. The Chancel Choir rehearses each Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the church. Those who enjoy singing with a choir are cordially invited to join the choir any Thursday evening.

Following morning worship, all church members, friends and visitors are invited to enjoy the annual "Welcome Back Brunch" for which tickets are now on sale at the church office. Sponsored by the Diaconate, the Deacons will prepare and serve a brunch for $4.50 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12 years of age. Tickets should be purchased immediately.

Quincy Point Congregational Church is located at Washington St. and Southern Artery. Off-street parking is available. Child care is provided each Sunday for infants and young children so that their parents may attend services.

The pastors are the Rev. Fred and Carol Atwood Lyon. For more information about the church, call 773-6424, Monday through Friday.
